Lyke as to clyme vp a ſandye waye is to the fete of the aged, euen ſo is a wyfe full of wordes to a ſtyll quyete man. Loke not to narowly vpon the bewtye of a woman, leſt thou be prouoked in deſyre toward her. The wrath of a woman is diſhonoure and greate confuſyon. If a woman get the maſtrie, then is ſhe contrarye to her huſbande. A wycked wyfe maketh a ſorye herte, an heupe countenaunce, and a deed wounde. Of the woman came the begynnynge of ſynne, and thorowe her we all are deed. Gyue thy water no paſſage, no not a lytle, neyther gyue a wycked woman her wyll. If ſhe walke not after thy hande, ſhe ſhall confounde the in the ſyghte of thy enemyes. Cut her of then frome thy fleſſhe, that ſhe do not alwaye abuſe the.

¶ The prayſe of a good woman. Of the feare of the thynges, and of the fourth. Of the Jelouſy and dronken woman. Of two thynges that cauſe ſorowe, and of the thyrde whiche moueth wrath. It is harde to kinde a marchaunt without diſcrete, or a tauerner without ſynne in his tonge.

CAPI. XXVI.

HAppy is the man that hath a vertuous wyfe, for the nombre of his peres ſhall be double. An honeſt woman maketh her huſbande a ioyfull man, and ſhe ſhal fyll the peres of his lyfe in peace. A vertuous woman is a noble gyfte, whiche ſhall be gyuen for a good porcyon, vnto ſuch as feare God. Whether a man be ryche or poore, he maye haue euer a mery herte, and a cherefull countenaunce, there be thre thynges that my herte feareth, and my face is afraied of the fourth. Treaſon in a cytye, a ſedycyous people, and noyſom tonges, all theſe are heuyer then death. But whē one is gelous ouer his wyfe, it bringeth payne and ſorowe vnto the herte: and a woman that telleth oute all thynges, is a ſcourge of the tonge. When one hath an euyll wyfe, it is euen as when an vnlyke pare of oxen muſt drawe togyther, be that getteth her, getteth a ſcorpion. A dronken woman is a greate plage, for ſhe can not couer her owne ſhame. a b

The hordome of a woman maye be knowen in the pryde of her eyes, and eyelyddes. If thy doughter be not ſhamefaſt, holde her ſtraytlye, leeſt ſhe abuſe her ſelfe Eccleſ. xlii. d thorow ouermoch lyberte. Beware of all the dyſhonеſtye of her eyes, and maruеyle not yf ſhe do agaynſte the. Lyke one that goeth by the waye and is thirſtye, ſo ſhall ſhe open her mouth, and drynke of euery nexte water that the maye get. By euery hedge ſhall ſhe ſyt her downe, and open her quiuer to euery arowe. A loupnge wyfe reioyſeth her huſbande and fedeth his bones with her wyſdome. A woman of fewe wordes, is a gyfte of God, and to a well nurtoured mynde maye nothynge be compared.

An honeſt and manerly woman is a gyfte aboue other gyftes, and there is no weyghte to be compared, vnto a mynde that can rule it ſelfe. Lyke as the ſunne when it aryſeth, is an ornament in the hyghe heuē of the Lorde ſo is a vertuous wyfe the beautye of all her houſe. Lyke as the cleare lyght is vpon the holy candelſtycke, ſo is the beauty of the face vpon an honeſt body. Lyke as the golden pyllers are vpon the ſockettes of ſyluer, ſo are the fayre legges vpon a woman that hath a conſtant mynde. Perpetuall are the foundacions that be layed vpon a hole ſtony rocke, ſo are the comaundemētes of God vpon an holy woman. E

There be two thynges that greue my herte and in the thyrde is diſpleaſure come vpon me. When an experte man of warre ſuffreth ſcarcenes and pouerty. When men of vnderſtandynge and wyſdome are not ſet by: And when one departeth frome rightouſnes vnto ſynne. Who ſo doth ſuch, the Lorde hath prepared hym vnto the ſwerde. There be two maner of thynges, whiche me thynke to be harde and perilous. A marchaunte can not lyghtly kepe hym frome wronge, neither a tauerner hym ſelfe frome ſynne. D Marchaūtes.

¶ Of the poore that wolde be ryche. The probacion of the mā that feareth God. The vnconſtantnes of a foole. The ſecretes of a frende are not to be vttered. The wycked ymagyneth euel, whiche retourneth vpon hym ſelfe.

CAPI. XXVII.

BEcauſe of pouertye haue many one offēded: and he that ſeketh to be ryche, turneth aſyde. Lyke as a nayle in the wall ſtycketh faſte betwyxte two ſtones, euen ſo doth ſynne ſticke betwyxt the byer and ſeller. If he holde hym not dylygently in the feare of the Lorde, his houſe ſhall ſoone be ouerthrowen. Lyke as when one ſyfteth, the chyffynes remaineth in the ſiue: ſo, remayneth there ſome vncleane thynge in the thought of mā. The ouen proueth the potters veſſell ſo doth temptacyon of trouble trye ryghtous men. The tree of the felde is knowen by his frute, ſo is the thought of mans herte knowē by his wordes. A Prayſe no man exeepte thou haue herde him, for a man is knowen by his wordes. If thou folowe ſt ryghtouſnes, thou ſhalte get her,

her, & put her vpon the as a fayre garment. And thou shalt dwell with her, and she shall defende the for euer, and in the day of knowledge thou shalte fynde stedfastnesse. The byrdes resorte vnto theyr lyke, so dothe the truthe vnto them that be occupyed withall. The lyon wayteth for the the pray: so do the synnes luck vpon the workers of wyckednes. The talkyng of hym that feareth God, is no thyng but wysdome: as for a foole, he chaungeth as the Moone. If thou be amonges the vndiscrete, kepe thy worde to a conuenient tyme, but among suche as be wyse, speake on hardely. The talkynge of fooles is an abhominacion, and theyr sporte is voluptuousnesse and misnurtour. Moch swearyng maketh the heer to stand vp, and to stryue with such, stoppeth the eares.

C The stryfe of the proude is bloudshedding, and theyr blasphemynge is heuye to heare. Who so discouereth secretes, loseth his credence, and fyndeth no frende after his wyll. (Eccle.xvi.b xxii.d) Loue thy frende, and bynde thy selfe in faithfulnesse with him: but yf thou bewrayest his secretes, thou shalt not get him agayne: For lyke as the man is that destroyeth his ennemy, so is he also that deleth falsly in y frendship of his neyghbour.

D Lyke as one that letteth a byrde go out of his hande, can not take her agayne: Euen so thou, yf thou gyue ouer thy frende, thou canst not get him agayne: Yea thou canst not come by him, for he is to farre of. He is vnto the as a roo eskaped out of the snare, for his soule is wounded. As for woundes, they may be bounde vp agayne, and an euyll word may be reconcyled: but who so bewrayeth y secretes of a frend, here is no more hope to be had vnto him.

(Prouer.x.b) He that wynketh with the eyes, ymagyneth some euyll, and no man shall take hym from it. When thou art present, he shal hyghe commende and prayse thy wordes, but at the laste, he shall turne his tale, and sklaunder thy sayinge. Manye thynges haue I hated, but nothynge so euyll, for the Lorde him self also abhorreth such one.

E (Exod.xxi.b) Who so casteth a stone on hye, it shall fall vpon his owne heed: and he that smyteth w gyle, woundeth him selfe. Who so diggeth a pyt, shall fall therin: and he that layeth a snare, shall be taken in it him selfe. Who so gyueth a wycked noysome counsell, it shall come vpon hym selfe, and he shall not know from whence. The proud blaspheme and are scornefull, but vengeaunce lurketh for them as a lyon. They that reioyse at the fal of the ryghteous, shal be taken in the snare, anguysh of herte shall consume them before they dye. Anger and rygorousnesse are two abhominable thinges, and the vngodly hath them both vpon hym.

¶ We ought not to desyre vengeaunce, but to forgyue the offence. Of the vyces of the tonge, & of the daungers therof.

CAPI. XXVIII.

A (Vengeaunce. Deut.xxxii. Rom.xii. Math.vi.b.) HE that seketh vengeaunce, shall fynd vengeaunce of the Lorde, which shall surely kepe hym his synnes. Forgyue thy neyghboure the hurte that he hathe done the, and so shall thy synnes be forgyuen the also, when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred agaynste an other, howe dare he desyre forgyuenesse of God? He y sheweth no mercy to a man whiche is lyke hym selfe, howe dare he aske forgyuenes of synnes? If he that is but fleshe, beareth hatred and kepeth it, who wyll intreate for his synnes? Remembre the end, and let enimitye passe whiche seketh death and destruction, and abyde thou in the commaundementes. Remembre the commaundement, so shalt thou not be rygorous ouer thy neyghboure.

B Thynke vpon the couenaunt of the hyghest, and forgyue thy neyghboures ignoraunce. Beware of stryfe, and thou shalt make thy synnes fewer. (Eccle.xviii.) For an angrye man kyndleth varyaunce and the vngodly disquyeteth frendes and putteth discorde amonges them that be at peace. The more wod there is, the more vehemente is the fyre: and the myghtyer the men be, the greater is the wrath: & the longer the stryfe endureth the more it burneth (Prouer.xv.)

C An hastye brawlynge kyndleth a fyre, and an hasty stryfe sheddeth bloud. If thou blow the sparke: it shall burne: If thou spyt vpō it: it goeth forthe, and bothe these go oute of thy mouth. (Euyl tonge. Eccle.xxi.) The sclaunderer and dubble tonged is cursed, for many one that be frendes setteth he at varyaunce. The thyrd tong hath disquyeted many one, and dryue them frome one lande to an other. Stronge cytyes hath it broken downe, and ouerthrowen the houses of great men. The thyrde tong hath caste out many an honest woman, and robbed them of their laboures. Who so herkeneth vnto suche, shall neuer fynde rest neuer dwell safely. The stroke of the rodde maketh yedders, but the stroke of the tonge smyteth y bones in sundre. There be many that haue perysshed with the swerd, but many mo thorowe the tonge.

D Well is hym that is kepte frome an euell tonge, and commeth not in the anger therof whiche draweth not the yoke of such, and is not bounde in the bandes of it. For the yoke therof is of yron, and the band of it of stele. The death, therof is a very euyl death: hel were better for one, then suche a tonge. But the fyre of it maye not oppresse theym that feare God, and the flame therof maye not burne them. Such as forsake the Lorde, shal fall therin: and it shall burne theym, and no man shall be hable to quenche it. It shall fall vpon them as a lyon, and deuoure them as a Leoparde. Thou hedgest thy goodes w thornes: why doest thou not rather make dores and barres for thy mouth? Thou wayest thy golde and siluer: why doest thou not way thy wordes also vpō y balaunce? Beware that thou slyde not in thy tōg & so fal before thyne enemyes, that laye wayte for the.

How

¶ How we ought to lende oure money, and do almes. Of a faythfull man answeryng for his frende. Of lyberalytie and hospytalytie.

CAPI. XXIX.

A Who so wyll shewe mercy, let hym lende vnto his neyghbour: and he that is hable let hym kepe the commaundement. Lende vnto thy neyghboure in tyme of his nede, and paye thou thy neyghboure agayne in due season. Kepe thy worde, & deale faythfully with him, and thou shalte alway fynde the thynge that is necessarye for the. There haue ben many, that when a thynge was lent them, reckened it to be founde, and made them trauayle and laboure that had helped them. While they receyue any thyng, they kysse the handes of suche as gyue them, and for their neyghboures good they humble their voyce. But when they shoulde paye agayne, they kepe it backe, and gyue euyll wordes, & make manye excuses by reason of the tyme: and thoughe he be hable, yet gyueth he scarse the halfe agayne, and reckeneth the other to be founde. And yf he withholde not his money, yet hath he an ennemye of hym, and that vndeserued.

B He payeth hym with cursyng and rebuke & gyueth hym euyll wordes for his good dede. There be many one whiche are not gl d for to lende, not bycause of euyll, but they feare to lese the thynge that they lende. Yet haue thou pacience with the symple, and wholde not mercye frome hym. Helpe the poore for the commaundementes sake, and let hym not go empty from the by cause of his necessitie. Lese thy money for thy brother and neyghbours sake, and burye it not vnder a stone, where it rusteth and corrupteth. Gather thy treasure after the commaundemente of the hyest, and so shal it brynge the more profyte then golde. Laye vp the almes in the hande of the poore, and it shall kepe the from all euyll. A mans almes is a purse with hym, and shall kepe a mans fauour, as the apple of an eye: and afterwarde shall it aryse, and paye euery man his reward vpon his heed. It shal fyght for the agaynst thyne enemyes, better then the shylde of a gyaunte, or spere of the myghtye.

C A good honest man is surety for his neighbour, but a wicked person letteth hym come to shame. Forget not the frendeshyp of thy surtye, for he hathe gyuen his soule for the. The vngodly despiseth the good dede of his surtye, and the vnthankfull and ignoraunt leueth his surety in daunger. Some man promyseth for his neighbour: and when he hath lost his honesty, he shall forsake hym. Suretyshyp hath destroyed many a rych man, and remoued them as the waues in the see. Mighty people hath it dryuen awaye, and caused them to wandre in straunge countreyes. An vngodly man, transgressynge the commaundement of the Lorde, shall fall in to an euyll suretyshyp: and though he force hym self to get oute, yet shall he fall in to iudgement.

Helpe thy neyghbour out after thy power, & beware that thou thy selfe fall not in suche det. The chiefe thyng that kepeth in the life, is water and breed, clothyng and lodgynge to couer the shame. (Eccle.xxxix.e)

D Better is it to haue a poore lyuynge in a mans owne house, then delicate fare amonge the straunge. (Psal.xxxvi.d. i. Timo.vi.b. Hebr.xiii.a) Be it lytle or moche that thou hast, hold the content withal, and thou shalt not be blamed as a vacabounde: for a myserable lyfe is it to goo frome house to house: and where a man is frende, he dare not open his mouth. Though one be lodged, and haue meate and drynke, yet shall he be taken as vnworthye, and heare many bytter rough wordes, namely thus: Go thy waye thou straunger, and prepare a table for thy selfe, and fede me also of that thou haste. Awaye thou straunger (so that he regardeth his honoure no more) my brother commeth in to my house, and so he telleth hym the necessitie of his house: these thynges are heuye to a man that hathe vnderstandynge: namely the forbyddynge of the house, & that the lender casteth hym in the tethe.

¶ Of the correction of chyldren. Of the commodytye of health. Death is better then a sorowfull lyfe. Of hyd wysdome. Of the ioye and sorowe of the herte.

CAPI. XXX.

A (Nurtered chyldren. Proue.xiii.c and.xxiii.b) Who so loueth his chylde, holdeth hym styll vnder correctiō, that he may haue ioye of hym afterward, and y he grope not after his neyghbours dores. He that teacheth his sonne, shall haue ioye in hym, and nede not to be ashamed of hym amonges his acqueyntaunce. Who so enfourmeth and teacheth his sonne, greueth the ennemy: and before his frendes he maye haue ioye of hym. (Deut.vi.a) Though the father dye, yet is he as thoughe he were not deed: for he hath left one behind hym, that is lyke hym. In his lyfe he saw him and had ioye in hym, and was not sorye in his deathe, neyther was he ashamed before the ennemyes. For he lefte behynde hym an auenger agaynste his ennemyes, and a good doer vnto the frendes. For the lyfe of chyldren he shall bynde the woundes togyther, and his herte is greued at euery crye. An vntamed horse wyl be hard, & a wanton chylde wil be wylfull. Yf thou brynge vp thy sonne delicatly: he shall make the afrayde: and yf thou playe with hym, he shall brynge the to heuynesse. Laughe not with hym, leest thou wepe with him also, and leest thy tethe be set on edge at the last.

B (Eccle.vii.c) Gyue hym no lybertie in his youthe, and excuse not his folye. Bowe downe his necke whyle he is yonge, hyt hym vpon the sydes whyle he is yet but a chylde, leest he ware stubborne, and giue no more force of the, and so shalt thou haue heuinesse of soule. Teache thy chyld, and be diligent therin, lest it be thy thy shame. Better is the poore being hole & strong, then a man to be ryche & not to haue his helthe. Healthe and welfare is aboue all golde, and a hole bodye aboue all treasure. There is no ryches aboue a sound body, and no ioye aboue the ioye of the herte. Death is better then a wretched lyfe, or contynuall sycknesse. The good thynges that are put in a close mouth, are like as when meat is layd vpon the graue.

Daniel.xiiii.b What good dothe the offerynge vnto an ydoll? For he can neyther eate, taste, nor smel. Euen so he that is chased of the Lorde, and beareth the rewardes of iniquite. He seeth with his eyes, and groneth lyke a gelded man, that lyeth with a virgyn and sygheth. Gyue not ouer thy mynd in to heynesse, and vexe not thy self in thyne owne counsel. The ioye and therefulnesse of the hert, is the lyfe of man, and a mannes gladnesse is the prolongynge of his dayes. Loue thyne owne soule, and comforte thyne herte: as for sorowe and heynesse, dryue it farre from the, for heynesse hathe slayne manye a man, and bryngeth no profyte. Zeale and anger shorten the dayes of the life: carefulnesse and sorowe, bryngе age before the tyme. Unto a mery herte euery thynge hathe a good taste, that he eateth.

¶ We ought to gyue dilygent hede to honestye. Of them that take payne to gather ryches. The prayse of a ryche man without a faute. we ought to flye dronkennesse, and to folowe sobrenesse.

CAPI. XXXI.

A 1.Timot.vi.b Trauayle and carefulnesse for rychesse taketh awaye the slepe, and maketh the fleshe to consume. When one lyeth & taketh care, he waketh euer vp, lyke as great sycknes breaketh the slepe. The ryche hathe greate labour in gatherynge his ryches together, and then with the pleasure of his ryches, he taketh his rest, and is refreshed: but who so laboureth and prospereth not, he is poore: and though he leue of, yet is he a begger. He that loueth ryches, shall not be iustifyed: and who so followeth corrupcion, shal haue ynoughe therof. Many one are come in greate myshortune by the reason of golde, and haue founde theyr destruction before them. It is a tree of fallynge vnto them that offre it vp, and all suche as be foolyshe fall therin.

Blessed is the ryche which is found without blemyth, and hath not gone after golde, ne hoped in money and treasures. Where is there suche one, and we shall commend him, and cal him blessed, for great thynges dothe he amonges his people. Who so is tried, and founde perfect in suche thynges, shall be commended and praysed. Who myght offende, & hath not offended? who could do euil, & hath not done it? Therfore shal his good be stablished, & the hole congregacion shal declare his almesses. If thou syt at a great mans table, open not thy mouthe wyde vpon it, and make not manye wordes. Remembre that an euil eye is a shrewe.

What thynge created is worse then a wicked eye? therfore weepeth it before euery mans face: Laye not thyne hande vpon euerye thynge that thyne eye seeth, and stryue not with hym in the dysshe. Ponder by thy selfe what thy neyghbour wolde fayne haue, and be discrete in euerye poynte. Eate thy thyng that is set before the manerly, as it becommeth a man, and eate not to moche, leest thou be abhorred. Leaue thou of fyrste of all by-cause of nourtoure, leest thou be he whom no man maye satisfye, whiche maye tourne to thy decaye. When thou syttest amonges manye men, reache not thyne hande oute fyrste of all. O howe well contente is a wyse man with a lytle wyne? so that in slepe thou shalt not be sycke therof, nor fele anye payne. A swete holsome slepe shall suche one haue, and fele no inwarde greke. He ryseth vp bytimes in the morynge, and is well at ease in hym selfe. But an vnsaciable eater slepeth vnquietly, and hath ache and payne of the body. yf thou feleste that thou hast eate to moch, aryse go thy way, cast it of thy stomacke, and take thy rest.

My sonne, heare me, and despyse me not: and at the laste thou shalte fynde as I haue tolde the. In all thy workes be diligent and quycke, so shall there no sycknesse happen vnto the. Who so is lyberall in dealynge oute his meate, manye men shall bleesse hym, and prayse him with theyr lyppes: and the same is a sure token of his loue and faythfulnesse. But he that is vnfaythful in meate, the hole cytye shall complayne of hym: and that in a sure experyence of his infidelitie and wickednesse. Be not thou a wyne bybber, for wyne hath destroyed many a man. The fyre proueth the harde yron, euen so dothe wyne proue the hertes of the proude when they be dronken.

Wyne soberly dronken, quyckeneth the lyfe of man. yf thou drynkest it measurably thou shalt be temperate. What life is it, that maye contynue without wyne? Wyne was made frome the begynnynge, to make men glad, and not for dronkennesse. Wyne measurably dronken, is a reioysinge of the soule and bodye. But if it be dronken with excesse it maketh bytternesse and sorowe vnto the mynde. Dronkennesse fylleth the mynde of the foolish with shame and ruyne, minisheth the strengthe, and maketh woundes. Rebuke not thy neyghbour at the wyne, and despyse hym not in his myrth. Gyue hym no despytfull wordes, and presse not vpon hym with contrary sayinges.

¶ Of the discryption and prayse of the preacher, and of the hearer. Of the feare, fayth, and contidence of God.

CAPI. XXXII.

A If thou be made a ruler, extoll not thy selfe therin, but be thou as one of the people. Take diligent care for them, and loke well therto: and when thou haste doone all thy dutye, syt the downe, that thou mayste be merye with theym, and receyue a crowne of honour, talke wysely and honestly, for wysdome becommeth the ryght well. Hynder not musyck. Speke not where there is no audyence: and poure not forthe wysdome oute of tyme, at an importunitie. Lyke as the Carbuncle stone shyneth that is set in golde, so dothe a songe garnysshe the wyne feast: and as the Smaragde that is sette in golde so is the swetnesse of musycke by the myth of wyne.

B Thou yonge man, speake that becommeth the, and that is profytable, and yet scarce when thou art twyse asked. Comprehende moche with fewe wordes. In manye thynges be as one that is ignorannt, gyue eare, & hold thy tong withall. If thou be amonges men of hier auctoritie, desire not to compare thy selfe vnto them: and when an elder speketh, make not thou many wordes therin. Before the thonder goeth lyghtenynge, and before nurtoure and shamefastnesse goeth loue and fauour. Stand vp bytymes, and be not the last, but get the home sone, and there take thy pastyme, and doo what thou wylte: so that thou do no euyl, and defye no man. But for all thynges gyue thankes vnto hym that hath made the, and replenysshed the with his goodes.

C Who so feareth the Lorde, wyll receyue his doctryne: and they that get them to him bytymes, shall fynde grace. He that seketh ꝑ lawe, shal be fylled withall: as for him that is but fayned, he wyll be offended therat. They ꝑ feare the Lorde, shall fynde the iudgement, and theyr ryghtousnesse shal be kindled as a lyght. An vngodly man wyll not be reformed, but can helpe hym selfe with the example of other in his purpose. A man of vnderstanding despyseth no good counsel: but a wylde and proude body hath no feare. My sonne, do nothynge without aduysement, so shall it not repent the after the dede. Go not in the waye where thou mayst fall, ne where thou mayst stomble against the stone. Gyue not thy selfe in to a laborious slyppery way, and beware of thyne owne chyldren. In all thy workes put thy truste in God frome thy hole herte, for that is the kepyng of the commaūdementes. Who so bileueth Gods word taketh hede to the commaundementes: and he that putteth his truste in the Lorde, shall want nothynge.

¶ The delyuerannce of him that feareth God. The answere of the wyse. The lytel discressyon of a foole. Man is in the hande of God, as the earthen is in the hande of the potter. we oughte not to dispose oure selues, to become subiect to other.

CAPI. XXXIII.

There shall no euyll happen vnto hym A that feareth God, but when he is in temptacion, the Lord shal deliuer him. A wyse man hateth not the lawe, but an hypocryte is as a thyng in a ragyng water. A man of vnderstandyng gyueth credence vnto the lawe of God, and the lawe is faythfull vnto hym.

Be sure of the matter, then talke therof: Be fyrste well instructe, then mayste thou gyue answere. The herte of the foolysshe is lyke a carte whele, and his thoughtes ren about lyke the axel tree. Lyke as a wyld horse that neyeth vnder euery one that sitteth vpō hym, so is it with a scornefull frende. Why doth one daye excell an other, seynge all the dayes of the yere come of the sunne? The wysdom of ꝑ Lord hath so parted the asonder, and so hath he ordeyned the times and solemne feastes. Some of them hathe he chosen and halowed before other dayes. And all men are made of the ground, and out of the earth of Adam. Holy dayes.

In the multitude of science hath the Lord sundered them, and made theyr wayes of diuers facyons. Some of them hath he blessed, made moche of them, halowed theym, and claymed them to hym selfe. But some of them hath he cursed, broughte them lowe, and put them out of theyr estate. Lyke as the claye is in the potters hande, and all the ordynge therof at his pleasure: so are men also in the hande of him that made them, so that he may gyue them as it lyketh hym best. Agaynste euyll is good, and agaynste deathe is lyfe: so is the vngodly agaynst suche as feare God. Beholde thus all the workes of the hyghest, and there are euer ꝑ two agaynste two, and one set agaynste an other. I am awaked by last of all, as one that gathereth after in harueste. In the gyftes of God and in his blessynge I am increased, and haue fylled my wyne presse lyke a grape gatherer. Beholde how I haue not laboured onely for my selfe, but for all suche as loue nourtour and wysdome. Rom.ix. ꝑSome rede two agaynste one. Eccles.xxxiii.b

Heare me, O ye greate men of the people, and harken with your eares ye rulers of the congregacō. Gyue not thy sonne, and wife, thy brother and frend power ouer the, while thou lyuest: and gyue not awaye thy substaunce, and good to an other, leest it repent the, and thou be fayne to begge therfore thy selfe. As longe as thou lyuest and hast breth, let no man chaunge the: for better it is thy chyldren to praye the, then that thou shouldest be fayne to loke in theyr handes. In all thy workes be excellent, that thy honoure be neuer stayned. At the tyme when thou shalte ende thy dayes, and fynysshe thy lyfe, distribute thyne enherytaunce. The fodder, the whyp, and the burden belongeth vnto ꝑ asse: Meate, correction, and worke vnto the seruaunt. Seruauntes.

If thou set thy seruaunte to laboure, thou shalt fynd rest. But yf thou let him go ydle, he shal seke lybertie. The yoke and the whip bowe downe the necke, but tame thou thy euyll seruaunt with bondes and correction. Send hym to labour, that he go not ydle: for ydlenesse bryngeth moche euyll. Set hym to worke, for that belongeth vnto hym, and becommeth him well. Yf he be not obedyente, bynde his fete, but do not to moche vnto him in any wyse, and without discrecion do nothyng. Eccle.vii.c Yf thou haue a (faythfull) seruaunt, let hym be vnto the as thyne owne soule, for in bloud hast thou gotten hym. Yf thou haue a seruaunte, holde hym as thy selfe, for thou haste nede of hym as of thy selfe. Yf thou intreatest hym euil, and kepest him hard, and makest hym to be proude, and to ren awaye from the, thou canst not tel what waye thou shalt seke hym.

¶ Of dreames, dyuinacions, and enchauntmentes. We ought to confute vayne hope, and lyinge. The prayse of them that feare God. Of dyuers workes of men. God doth not alowe the workes of an vnfaythfull man.

CAPI. XXXIIII.

A Dreams. VNwyse people begile them selues with vayne and disceytfull hope, and foles trust in dremes. Who so regardeth dremes, is lyke hym that wil take holde of a shadowe, and folow after the wynde: Euen so is it with apperinges of dremes. Before the face is the lykenesse of a face. Who can be clensed of the vnclene? Or what truth can be spoken of a lyar? Sothsayinge, witchcraft, sorcerye and dremynge is but vanitie: lyke as when a woman trauayleth with chylde, and hath many fantasyes in her hert. Where as suche visions come not of God, sette not thyne hert vpon them: for dremes haue disceyued many a man, and they failed that put their trust therin.

The lawe shal be fulfylled without lyes, B & wysdom is sufficient to a faythful mouth. A wyse man that is well instruct, vnderstandeth moche, and he that hath good experiēce can talke of wysdom. He that hath no experience knoweth lytle, and he that erreth causeth moche wyckednesse.

When I was yet in erroure, I learned moch also: yea I was so lerned, that I could not expresse it all, and came oft in peryll of death therouer, tyll I was delyuered frome it. Nowe I se that they whiche feare God, haue the ryght spirite: for theyr hope standeth in hym that can help them. Who so feareth the Lorde, standeth in awe of no man, & is not afrayde, for the Lorde is his hope and comfort.

Blessed is the soule of hym that feareth ye C Lorde: In whome putteth he his trust? who is his strengthe? For the eyes of the Lorde haue respect vnto them that loue hym. He is their mighty protection and strong ground: A defence for the heate, a refuge for the hote none daye, a succoure for stomblynge, and an helpe for fallyng. He setteth vp the soule, and lyghteneth the eyes: He gyueth healthe, lyfe, and blessyng. He that gyueth an offring of vnryghtous good, his offerynge is refused: and the scornefull dealynges of the vnryghtous please not God. God hath no delyte in the offrynges of the vngodly, neither maye synne be reconcyled in the multitude of oblacions. Who so bryngeth an offeryng oute of the goodes of the poore, dothe euen as one that kylleth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

The breed of the nedeful is the lyfe of the poore: he that defraudeth hym therof, is a D man of bloode. Who so robbeth his neyghboure of his lyuynge, dothe as greate synne as thoughe he slewe hym to deathe. He that defraudeth the labourer of his hyre, is a bloudshedder. Deut.xxiiii Eccle.vii When one buyldeth an other breketh downe, what profyte haue they then but laboure? When one prayeth, and an other curseth, whose voyce wyll the Lorde heare? Numeri.xix Penaunce. He that wassheth hym selfe bycause of a deed bodye, and then toucheth the deed agayne, what dothe his wasshynge? So is it with a man that fasteth for his synnes, Prouer.xxvi ii.Petri.ii and dothe them agayne: who wyl heare his prayer? Or what dothe his fastynge helpe hym?

¶ It is well done to praye and to do sacrifyce. The prayer of the fatherlesse, and of the wyddowe: and of hym that humbleth hym selfe.

CAPI. XXXV.

WHo so kepeth the lawe, bringeth offringes ynough. A Iere.vii.c He that holdeth fast the cōmaundement, offreth the right helthoffring. He that is thankful, and recompēseth, Hebr.xiii Philip.iiii offreth fyne floure, Who so is mercyful and gyueth almes, that is the ryght thākoffring. God hath pleasure whē one departeth from synne, and forsake vnryghtousnesse, reconcileth vs with hym.

Thou shalte not appere empty before the Lorde, for all suche is doone bycause of the commaundement. The offryng of the ryghtous maketh the aulter fat, and a swete smel is it before the hyest. The offerynge of the ryghtous is acceptable vnto God, and shall neuer be forgotten. Gyue God his honoure with a cherefull eye, and kepe not backe the fyrstlynges of thy handes. In all thy gyftes shewe a mery countenaunce, and halowe thy tythes vnto God with gladnesse. Gyue vnto God, accordinge as he hath enryched and prospered the, and loke what thyne hande is hable, that gyue with a chereful eye, for ye Lord recompenseth, and gyueth the seuen times as moche agayne.

Gyue no vnrightous giftes, for suche wil he not receyue. B Beware of wrongous offringes, for the Lorde is a ryghtous iudge: and regardeth no mans person. He accepteth not the person of the poore, but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed. Iud.iiii Exo.xxii.b He despyseth not the desyre of the fatherlesse, nor the wydow, when she poureth oute her prayer before hym. Doth not God se the teares that renne downe the chekes of the widow? Or heareth he not the complaynt ouer such as make her to wepe? Who so serueth God after his pleasure shal be accepted, and his prayer recheth vnto the cloudes. The prayer of him ye humbleth him selfe, goeth thorow the cloudes til she come nye. She wyl not be comforted, ne go her waye, tyll the hyest God haue respect vnto her, gyue true sentence, and performe the iudgemente. And the Lorde wyll not be slacke in commyng, ne tary long, tyl he haue smytten in sunder the backes of the vnmercyfull, and auenged him self of the Heathen: tyl he haue taken awaye the multitude of the cruell, and broken the septer of the vnryghtous: tyll he gyue euery man after his workes, and rewarde theym as they haue deserued: tyll he haue delyuered his people, maynteyned theyr cause, and reioysed them in his mercye. O howe fayre a thynge is mercye in the tyme of an anguysshe and trouble? It is lyke a cloude of rayne that commeth in the tyme of a drouthe.

¶ A prayer to God in ye person of all faythfull men with the prayse of a good woman.

CAPI. XXXVI.

A HAue mercy vpō vs, o Lord, thou God of all thynges. Haue respect vnto vs, shew vs the lyght of thy mercyes, and send thy feare among the Heathen and straūgers, whiche seke not after ye: that they may knowe how that there is no God but thou, & that they may shew thy wōderous workes.) Lyft vp thyne hande ouer the outlandysshe Heathen, that they maye lerne to knowe thy might and power. Like as thou art halowed in vs before them, so bring to passe that thou mayst be magnifyed also in them before vs: that they may knowe the, lyke as we knowe the. For there is none other God, but onely thou, o Lorde. Renue the tokens, & chaunge the wonderous workes. Shewe thyne hande and thy ryghte arme gloryoaslye. Rayse vp thy indignacion, and poure out thy wrathe. Take awaye the aduersarye, and smyte the ennemye. Make the tyme shorte, remembre thy couenaunt, that thy wonderous workes maye be praysed. Let the wrathe of the fyre consume them that lyue so carelesse: and let them perysshe, that doo thy people hurte. Smite in sondre the heed of the princes, that be our ennemyes, and saye: there is none other but we.

B Gather all the trybes of Iacob togyther agayne, that they maye knowe, howe that there is none other God but only thou, that they may shew thy wonderous workes, and be thy people and heritage, lyke as from the begynnynge. O Lorde haue mercy vpon the people that hath thy name, and vpon Israel whome thou haste lykened to a fyrst borne sonne. O be mercyfull vnto Ierusalem the citye of thy Sanctuarye the city of thy rest. Fyll Syon with thy vnspeakeable vertues, and thy people with thy glory. Gyue witnes vnto thy creature, whome thou madest from the begynnyng, and rayse vp the prophecies that haue ben shewed in thy name. Rewarde them that wayte for the, that thy Prophetes maye be found faythfull. O Lorde heare the prayer of thy seruauntes accordynge to the blessynge of Aaron ouer thy people: that all they whiche dwell vpon the erth may know Num.vi.d that ye art the Lorde the eternal God, which is from euerlastyng.

C The bely deuoureth all meates, yet is one meat better then an other. Lyke as the tonge tasteth venyson, so doth an hert of vnderstādynge marke false wordes. i.Cor.ii.d A frowarde herte gyueth heuynes, but a man of experience lifteth him vp again. The woman receyueth euery man, yet is one daughter better then an other. A fayre wife reioyseth her husband, & a mā loueth nothyng better. Yf she be louing and vertuous withal, then is not her husbād lyke other men. He that hath gotten a vertuous woman, hath gottē a goodly possession: she is vnto him an helpe and piller wherupō he resteth. Where no hedge is, ther ye goodes are spoyled, and where no houswife is, there the frendles mourneth. Lyke as there is no credence gyuen to a robber that goeth from one city to an other: So is not the man bileued, that hath no nest, & must turne in where he may abyde in the night.

¶ How a man should know frendes and coūsellers, and searche the company of a holy man.

CAPI. XXXVII.

EUery frende sayth, I wil be frendly vnto hym also. But there is some frende, A Frendes. which is onely a frend in name. Remayneth there not heuinesse vnto deth, when a cōpanyon and frende, is turned to an ennemy? Eccle.vi.b O most wicked presumpcion: from whence art thou spronge vp, to couer the earth with falsehed and disceyt? There is some companion which in prosperitie reioyseth with his frende: but in the tyme of trauble he taketh parte agaynst him.

There is some companion that mourneth with is frende for the belye sake: but when trouble cōmeth, he taketh holde of the shylde. Forget not thy frend in thy mynde, & thynke vpon him in thy rychesse. Euerye counseller bryngeth forthe his counsell: Neuerthelesse there is some ye counsaileth but for his owne profyt. Beware of the counseller, and be aduised afore wherto thou wylt vse him, for he wyll counsel for hym selfe, Leest he cast the lot vpon the, and saye vnto the: Thy waye and purpose is good, & afterwarde he stande agaynste the, and loke what shall become of the.

Aske no counsell at hym that suspecteth the for an enemy, and hyde thy counsel from B Counsel. suche as hate the. Aske no counsell at a woman, cōcernyng the thinges that she longeth for; nor at a fearfull and faynt herted body in matters of warre: or at a marchaunte, how deare he wyl chepe thy wares towarde his: or at a byer, of sellynge: Or at an envyous man, of thankesgyuynge: Or at the vnmercyful, of louyng kyndnesse: Or at the slouthfull, of workynge: Or at an hyrelyng whiche hath no house, of profyte or wealth. (An ydle body wolde not gladly heare speke of moche labour.) Take no suche folkes to counsell, but be diligent to seke counsel at a vertuous man that feareth God, suche one as thou knowest to be a keper of thy cōmaundementes, whiche hath a mynde after thyne owne mynde, and is sorye for the when thou stomblest.

C And holde thy counsell fast in thyne hert: for there is no man more faythful to kepe it then thou thy self. For a mans mynd is somtyme more disposed to tel out, then .vii. watch men that syt aboue in an hye place lokynge about them. And aboue al this pray the hyest that he wyl lede thy way in faithfulnes and truthe. Before all thy workes aske counsell fyrst, & or euer thou doest any thyng, be well aduised. There be four thinges that declare a chaunged hert, wherout there spryngeth euil and good, deth and lyfe, and a master ful tong that bableth moche. Some man is apte and wel instruct in many thinges, & yet very vnprofytable vnto him self. Some mā there is that can gyue wyse and prudent counsell, and yet is he hated, and contynueth a begger: for that grace is not gyuen him of God to be accepted. An other is robbed of al wisdome, yet is he wyse vnto hym selfe, and the frute of vnderstandynge is faythfull in his mouth.

D A wyse man maketh his people wyse, and the frutes of his wisdome fayle not. A wyse man shall be plenteously blessed of God, and all they that se hym shall speke good of him. The lyfe of man standeth in the nombre of the dayes, but the dayes of Israell are innumerable. A wyse mā shal obteyn faythfulnes and credence amonge his people, & his name shal be perpetual. My sonne proue thy soule in thy lyfe, & yf thou se any euyll thing, gyue it not vnto her. For all thinges are not profitable for all men, neyther hath euery soule plesure in euery thing. Be not gredy ī euery eating, and be not to hasty vpon all meates. (i.Cor.vi.c and.x.c Eccle.xxxi.b) For excesse of meates bryngeth syknesse, and glotony commeth at the last to an vnmeasurable heate: thorow glotony haue many one perysshed: but he that dyeteth hym selfe temperatly, prolongeth his lyfe.

¶ A Phisicyon. In syknesse ought we to pray, and fynd a Phisicyon which healeth by prayer. The bewepyng of the deed. Sadnesse. Wysdome. Artificers or craftesmen.

CAPI. XXXVIII.

A (Phisicion.) HOnour the Phisicion: honour him bicause of necessitie. God hath created hi (for of the hyest commeth medicyne) and he shal receyue gyftes of the kyng. The wysdome of the Phisicion bryngeth hym to great worshyp, and in the syght of the great men of this worlde, he shall be honourablye taken. The Lorde hath created medicyne of the earthe, and he that is wyse wyll not abhorre it.

Was not thy bytter water made swete w a tree, that men myghte lerne to knowe the vertue therof. (Exodi.xv.a iiii.Regum.) The Lorde hathe gyuen men wysdome and vnderstanding, that he might be honoured in his wonderous workes. With suche dothe he heale men, and taketh awaye theyr paynes: Of suche dothe the Apotecary make a confection, yet can no man performe all his workes. For of the Lorde commeth prosperous wealthe ouer all the earthe.

My sonne, despyse not this in thy sycknesse, but praye vnto the Lorde, and he shall make the hole. B (Esa.xxxviii. ii.Paralip.) Leaue of from synne, and order thy handes aryghte: clense thyne herte frome all wyckednesse, gyue a swete sauoured offerynge, and the fyne floure for a token of a remembraunce: make the offerynge fatte, as one that gyueth the first frutes, and gyue rowme to the Phisicion. For the Lorde hathe created hym: let hym not goo frome the, for thou haste nede of hym. The houre maye come, that the sycke maye be helped thorowe theym, when they praye vnto the Lorde, that he maye recouer, and get healthe to lyue longer. He that synneth before his maker, shall fal in to the handes of the Phisicion.

My sonne, brynge forthe thy teares ouer the deed, and begyn to mourne as yf ỹ haddest suffred greate harme thy selfe: C (Eccle.xxii.c) and then couer his bodye after a conuenyente maner, and despyse not his buryall. Enforce thy self to wepe and prouoke thy self to mourne and make lamentacion expediētly, and that a daye or two, leest thou be euyll spoken of: and then comforte thy selfe bycause of the heuynesse. (Tob.iiii.a) For of heuynesse commeth deathe the heuynesse of the herte breaketh strength. (Prouer.xvii. and.xxv.d Eccle.xxx.c) Heuynesse and pouertie greueth the herte in temptacion and offence. Take no heuynesse to herte, dryue it awaye, and remembre the last thinges. Forget it not for there is no turning again. Thou shalt do him no good, but hurt thy self. Remēbre his iudgement, thyne also shall be lykewyse: vnto me yester daye, vnto the to daye. (ii.Regu.xii.) Let the remembraunce of the deed ceasse in his reste, and comforte thy selfe agayne ouer hym, seing his spirite is departed from him.

D The wysdome of the scrybe is at conuenient tyme of rest: and he that ceaseth from exercyse and laboure, shall be wyse. He that holdeth the plough, & hath pleasure in proddyng and dryuing the oxen, and goeth about with such workes, he can speake of oxen. He setteth his herte to make forowes, and is diligent to gyue the kyne fodder. So is euerye carpenter also and workmaster that laboureth bothe nyght and daye: he carueth, graueth and cutteth oute, and his desire is in sundrye sondrye connynge thynges, and his herte ymagineth, howe he maye connyngelye cast an ymage his dilygence also and watchynge perfourmeth the worke. The yronsmyth in lyke maner bydeth by his styhye, and dothe his dylygence to laboure the yron. The vapoure of the fyre brenneth his fleshe, and he must fyghte with the heate of the fornace. The noyse of the hammer soundeth euer in his eares, and his eyes loke styll vpon the thyng that he maketh. C He hath set his mynde there vpon, that he wyll make out his work, and therfore he watcheth, how he maye set it out, and brynge it to an ende.

So doth the potter syt by his worke, he turneth the whele about with his fete, he is diligent and carefull in all doynges, and his labour and work is without nombre. He fashyoneth the claye with his arme, and with his fete he tempereth it. His hert ymagyneth how he maye make it pleasaunt, and his dilygence is to clense the ouen. All these hope in theyr handes, and euery one thynketh to be connynge in his worke. Withoute these maye not the cyties be manteyned, inhabited ne occupyed: yet come they not hyghe in the congregacyon: they vnderstand not the couenaunt of the lawe: they can not declare equitie and iudgement: they can not fynde out ỹ darke sentences, but thorowe them shall the creature of the worlde be manteyned: theyr prayer concerneth only the work and laboure of connynge.

¶ A wyse man. The workes of God. Vnto the good, good thynges do profyt: but vnto the euyll euen good thynges are euyll.

A CAPI. XXXIX.

HE that applyeth his mynde to vnderstād the lawe of God, doth diligently seke out wysdome of them of the olde tyme, and exercyseth hym selfe in the Prophetes. He kepeth the sayinges of famous men, and preaseth to the vnderstandynge of darke sentences of wysdome. He seketh out the mysterye of secrete sayinges, and exercyseth him self therin continually. He doth seruyce amonge greate men, and appeareth before the prynce. He goeth in to a straunge countrye, and trauayleth thorow it: loke what good or euyll B is amōg men, he proueth it and seketh it out. He purposeth in his hert, to resorte early vnto the Lorde that made him, and to pray before the hyest God.

He openeth his mouth in prayer, and prayeth for his synnes. When ỹ great Lord wyl, he shall be fylled with the sprete of vnderstādyng, that he maye then poure out wyse sentences, and gyue thankes vnto the Lorde in his prayer. He shall ordre his deuyce, and lede his knowledge aryght, and gyue him vnderstandynge of secrete thynges. He shall shewe forth the science of his lernyng, and reioyce in the couenaunt of the lawe of the Lorde. The hole congregacyon shall commende his wysdome, & it shall neuer be put out. The remēbraunce of hym shal neuer be forgotten, and his name shall contynue frome one generacyon to an other. His wysdome shall be spoken of, and the hole congregacion shall openlye declare his prayse. Whyle he lyueth, he hath a greater name then a thousande besyde: and after his death, the same name remayneth C vnto hym. yet wyll I speake of mo men of vnderstandynge, for I am ful as the moone.

Herken vnto me (ye holy vertuous chyldren) brynge forth frute, as the rose that is planted by the brokes of the felde, and gyue ye a swete smell as Lybanus. Flourysh as ỹ rosegarden, synge a songe of prayse. O gyue thākes vnto God ouer al his workes. (Gene.i.d) Gyue glory and honoure vnto the Lorde, shew his prayse with your lyppes.

Yea euen with ỹ song of your lyppes, with harpes & playeng, and in geuing thankes vnto hym, say after this maner: All the workes of the Lorde are exceadynge good. and all D his commaundementes are mete and conuenyent in due season.

A mā nede not to say: what is that? what is (Gen.vii.d) that? for at tyme conuenyent they shall all be sought. At his commaundement the water was a wall, & at the worde of his mouth the waters stode styl. In his commaundemēt is euery thynge acceptable and reconcyled, & his healthe can not be mynyshed. The workes of all flesh are before hym & there is nothynge hyd from his eyes. He seeth frome euerlastynge to euerlastynge, and there is nothynge to wonderfull or hyghe vnto hym. A man nede not to saye what is this or that? For he hath made al thīges to do good vnto man. His blessynge shall renne ouer as the streame, and moysture the earth lyke a floude E of water. Lyke as he maketh the water for drouth, so shall his wrath fall vpon the hethen.

His wayes are playne and right vnto the iust, but the vngodly stomble at theym. For the good are good thinges created from the begynnynge, and euil thynges for the vngodly. All thynges necessarye for the lyfe of man are created from the begynnynge: water fire yron and salte, mele, wheat, and hony mylke and wyne, oyle and clothynge. All these thinges are created for the best to the faythful: But to the vngodly shall all these thynges be turned to the hurt and harme. There be spirites that are created for vengeaunce and in their rygorousnes haue they fastened their tormentes. In the tyme of the ende they shal poure out their strength, & pacyfye the wrath of hym that made them. Fyre, hayle, honger, F and death: all these thynges are created for vengeaunce,

The teeth of wylde noysome beastes, the scorpions, serpentes, and the swerde are created also for vengeaunce to the destruction of the vngodly They shal be glad to do his commaundementes: and whē nede is, they shall be ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come, they shall not ouerpasse the cōmaundement of the Lord.

Therfore haue I taken a good courage vnto

to me from the begynnynge, and thought to put these thynges in wrytynge, and to leaue them behynde me. All ỹ workes of the Lorde are good, and he gyueth euery one in due season, and when nede is, so that a man nede not to saye: this is worse then that. For in due season they are all pleasaunt and good: And therefore prayse the Lorde with vole herte and mouth, and gyue thankes vnto his name.

¶ Many mysteryes light in a mans lyfe. All thinges passe awaye, but affyrme and stable fayth remayneth. Of the blessyng of the rygh-teous, and prerogatyue of the feare of God.

CAPI. XL.

A Mysteryes of lyfe.

A Great trauayle is created for all men, and an heuy yocke vpon all mens chyldren, from the daye that they go out of theyr mothers wombe, tyll they be buryed in(the earth) the mother of all thynges: nemely, theyr thoughtes and ymaginacyons, feare of the herte, counsell, meditacyons, longynge and delyre, the daye of death: from the hyghest that sytteth vpon the glorious seate, vnto the lowest and most symple vpon the earth: from hym that is gloriously arayed and weareth a crowne, vntyll hym that is but homelye and symplye clothed. There is nothynge but wrath, zele, fearfulnesse, vnquyetnesse, and feare of death, rygorous angre and stryfe. And in the nyght when one shoulde rest and slepe vpon his bedde, the slepe chaungeth his vnderstanding and knowledge. Lykewise as nothynge is in his rest, in the slepe as well as in the daye of labour.

B He feareth and is disquyeted in the vysyon of his hert, as one that runneth out of a battayle: and in the tyme of health he awaketh, and marueyleth that the feare was nothyng. Such thynges happen vnto all flesshe, bothe man and beest: but seuentolde to the vngodly. Eccle.xxxix.c Gen.viii.d and.xix.a Moreouer death, bloudshedyng, stryfe and swerde, oppressyon, hunger, destruction and punyshmentes: these thynges are all created agaynst the vngodlye, and for theyr sakes came the floude also. All that is of the earth, shall turne to earth agayne: and all waters ebbe agayne in to the see. All bybes and vnrighteousnesse shall be put awaye, but fayth-fulnesse, ỹ truthe shall endure for euer. The substaunce and goodes of the vngodly shalbe dryed vp, and synke awaye as a water floude, and they shall make a sounde: lyke a greate thondre in the rayne.

L Lyke as the ryghteous reioyseth when he openeth his hande, so shal the transgressours be fayne, when theyr goodes vanysshe and consume away. The chyldren of the vngodly shal not obteyne many braunches: and the vnclene rotes vpon the hye rockes, shal be rored oute before the grasse by the water syde, and vpon the ryuer bankes. Eccle.xli.b

Frendlynesse ỹ lyberalytie in the increase and blessynge of God, is lyke a paradyse and garden of pleasure: such mercy also ỹ kyndnes endureth for euer. To labour ỹ to be content w that a man hath, is a swete pleasaunt lyfe: and that is to fynde a treasure about all treasures. To beget chyldren and to repayre the cytye, maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is more worth then they both. Wine and mynstrelsy reioyce the hert, but the loue of wysdome is aboue them both. 1. Timoth.vi. Philip.iiii.

Pypyng ỹ harpynge make a swete noyse, but a frendly tonge goeth beyond the both. D Thyne eye desyreth fauoure and beauty, but a grene sede tyme rather then they bothe. A frende and companyon come togither at opportunyte, but aboue them both is a wyfe that agreeth with her husband. One brother helpeth an other in the tyme of trouble, but almes shall delyuer more then they both. Golde and syluer fasten the fete, but a good counsell is more pleasaunt then they both. Temporall substaunce and strength lyft vp the mynde: but the feare of the Lorde more then they both.

The feare of the Lorde wanteth nothyng and neadeth no helpe. The feare of the Lorde is a pleasaunt garden of blessynge, and nothynge so beautyfull as it is. My sonne, lede not a beggers lyfe, for better it were to dye then to begge. Who so loketh to an other mans table, taketh no thought for his owne lyuynge how to vpholde his lyfe, for he feedeth hym selfe with other mens meat. But a wyse and wel nourtoured mā wyl beware therof. Beggyng is swete in ỹ mouth of the vnshamefaste, but in his bely there burneth a fyre.

¶ Of the remembraunce of death. Death is not to be feared. A curse vpon them that forsake the law of God. Good name and fame. An Exhortacion to gyue hede vnto wysdome. Of what thynges a mā ought to be ashamed.

CAPI. XLI.

O Death, how bytter is the remēbraūce of the, to a man that seketh rest and cōforte in his substaunce and ryches, vnto the man that hath nothynge to vexe him, and that hath prosperytye in al thynges, yea vnto hym that yet is hable to receyue meat? O deathe, howe acceptable and good is thy iudgement vnto the nedefull, and vnto hym whose strength fayleth, that is nowe in his age, and that in all thynges is full of care ỹ fearfulnes: vnto hym also in dysparye, and hath no hope ne pacience? Be not thou afraid of death: remembre them ỹ haue bene before the: ỹ that come after the, this is ỹ iudgmēt of the Lord ouer al flesh. And why wouldest thou be agaynst this pleasure of the byghest? Whether it be ten, an hundreth, or a thousād yeares: death asketh not how long one hath lyued. A Death. Gene.xlii. B

The chyldren of the vngodly are abhomynable chyldrē and so are they that kepe company with the vngodlye. The inheritaunce of vngodly chyldren shall come to nought, and their posterytye shall haue perpetuall Ecclesi. shame shame and confusion. The childrē complayne of an vngodly father: and why? for his sake they are rebuked and despysed. Wo be vnto you (O ye vngodly) which haue forsaken the lawe of the hyghest God: yf ye be borne, ye shall be borne to curysynge, yf ye dye, the curse shall be your porcyon.

All that is of the earth, shal turne to earth agayne: so go the vngodlye also oute of the curse in to destruction. The sorowe of men is in theyr body: but the name of the vngodly shall be put out, for it is nothynge worth. Laboure to get the a good name, for that shall contynue surer by the, then a thousande greate treasures of golde. A good lyfe hathe a nōbre of dayes, but a good name endureth euer.

My chyldren, kepe wysdome in peace, for wysdome that is hyde, and a treasure that is not sene, what profyte is in them both? A man that hydeth his foolyshnesse, is better then a man that hydeth his wysdome. Therfore be ye turned at my wordes: for it is not good, in all thinges and alwaye to be ashamed. True fayth must proue and measure it.

Be ashamed of hordome before father and mother: Be ashamed of lesyng before ỹ prince and men of auctoryte: Of synne, before the iudge and ruler: Of offence before the congregatiō and people: Of vnryghtousnesse, before a companyon and frende: Of theft, before the neyghbours. As for the truthe of God and his couenaunte, be not ashamed therof.

Be ashamed to lye with thyne elbowes vpon the bred: Be ashamed to loke vpon harlottes: Be ashamed to turne awaye thy face from thy frende: Be ashamed to take, and not to gyue: Be ashamed also to loke vpon an other mans wyfe, and to make many tryflynge wordes with her mayden, or to stande by her bed syde. Be ashamed to vpbrayde thy frende: when thou gyuest any thinge, cast him not in the teeth withall.

¶ Secretes maye not be opened. The lawe of God must be taught. A doughter. A woman. God knoweth all thynges, yea euen the secretes of the hert.

CAPI. XLII.

R Eserue not a thyng ỹwyse, and disclose not the wordes, that thou hast herde in secrete. Be shamefast and well manered in dede, so shall euery man fauour the. Of these thynges be not thou ashamed, and accept no persone to offende. Namely, of these thinges be not ashamed: Of the law of God, of the couenaunt, of iudgement: to bryng the vngodly frome his vngodlynesse vnto ryghtousnesse, and to make hym a good man: to deale faythfully w thy neybour ỹ companyō: to distribute ỹ heretage vnto ỹ frendes: to be dilygēt to kepe true measure ỹ weyght: to be cōtent, whether thou gettest moch or lyte: to deale truly with temporall goodes in bryngē and sellynge: to bringe vp chyldren with diligence: to correct an euyll seruaunt, to kepe that thyne is frome an euyll wyfe: to set a locke where many handes are: what thou delyuerest and gyuest out to be kept, to tell it and to waye it: to wryte vp all the out geuynge, and receyuynge: to enfourme the vnlerned and vnwyse: Of the aged, that are iudged of the yonge. Yf thou be diligent in these thynges, truly thou shalte be learned ỹ wise and accepted of all men.

The wughter maketh the father to watch secretely: and the carefulnes that he hath for her, taketh awaye his slepe: yea in the youth, lest she shulde ouergrow hym: And when she hath an husbande, lest she shulde be hated: lest she shulde be defyled or rauyshed in her virgynyty, or gotten with chylde in her fathers house: Or (when she commeth to the mā) lest she behaue her self not right or contynue vnfrutefull. If thy doughter be wāton, kepe her straytly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh the to scorne, ỹ the policye-tye to gyue the an euyll reporte, and so thou be fayne to beare thy shame of euerye man, and be confounded before all the people. Beholde not euerye bodyes beautye, and haue not moch dwellynge amonge women. For lyke as the worme and moth cometh oute of clothynge, so doth wyckednesse come of women. B A doughter. Eccle.xxvi.b Eccle.xxv.b Gen.iii.d

It is better to be with an euyll man, then with a frendlye wyfe ỹ putteth one to shame and rebuke. I wyll remembre the workes of the Lord, and declare the thyng that I haue sene. In the wordes of the Lord are his workes The Sunne ouerlooketh al thinges with his shyne, and all his workes are full of the clearenes therof. Hath not the Lord brought to passe, that his sayntes shulde tell out all his wonderous workes, which the Almyghtye Lord hath stablysshed? Al thinges endure in his glorye. L

He seketh out the grounde of the depe and the herte, and he knoweth all theire ymagynacion and wisdome. For the Lorde knoweth all science, and he loketh in to the token of the tyme. He declareth the thynges that are past and for to come, and discloseth thynges that are secrete. No thoughte maye escape hym, neither may any worde be hyd from hym. He hath garnysshed the hyghe excellent workes of his wysdome, and he is frō euerlastynge to euerlastynge. Vnto him may nothyng be added neither can he be minished he hath no nede also of any cōsayle. O how amyable are all his workes and as a sparke to loke vpon? They lyue all, and endure for euer: and when soeuer nede is, they are all obedyent vnto hym. They are al dubble, one agaynste an other: he hath made nothynge that hath faute or blemish: he hath stablished the goodes of euerychone: and who maye be satisfyed with his glorye, when he seeth it? Psal.xix.a

A The glory of the heigth, is the fayre and clere fyrmament, the bewtie of the heauen in his gloryous clerenesse. The sun when it appeareth, declareth the daye in the goynge oute of it, a meruelous worke of the hyghest. At noone it burneth the earthe, and who maye abyde for the heate therof? Who so kepeth an ouen when it is hote, thre tymes more doth the Sunne burne vpon the mountaynes, when it breatheth out the fyrie beames and shyneth: with the bryghtnesse of it, it blyndeth the eyes. Greate is the Lord that made it, and in his commaundement he causeth it to ren hastelye.

The Moone also is in all, and at conuenient season it sheweth the tymes, and is a token of the tyme. The token of the solemne feast is taken of the Moone, a light that mynissheth and increaseth agayne. The Moneth is called after the Moone, it groweth wonderously in her chaungynge.

Exod.xii.a

B The armye of heuen also is in the heygth, in the fyrmament of heauen it geueth a clere and gloryous shyne. This is the clerenesse of the starres, the bewtifull apparell of heuen, the apparell that the Lorde lyghteneth in ye heygth. In his holy worke they contynue in their ordre, and not one of them fayleth in his watche. Loke vpon the rayne bowe, and prayse him that made it: very bewtyfull is it in his shyne. He compasseth the heuen about with his clerenesse and glory, the handes of the hyghest haue bended it. Thorow his commaundement he maketh the snowe to fall, and the thondre of his iudgement to smyte hastly. Thorow his commaundemét the treasures are opened, and the cloudes flye as the foules. In his power hathe he strengthened the cloudes, and broken the hayle stones.

Gen.ix.d

The mou̅taynes melt at the syght of him, the wynde bloweth accordynge to his wyll. The sounde of his thondre beateth the earth so doth the storme of the northe: the whirle wynde also lyghteth downe as a fethered fowle, casteth oute and spredeth the snowe abrode: and as the gresshoppers that destroye all, so falleth it downe. The eye marueleth at the bewtye of the whytenesse therof, and the hert is afrayed at the rayne of it. He poureth oute the frost vpon the earth, lyke salte, and when it is frosen, it is as sharpe as ye pyk of a thystle.

C When the colde Northwynde bloweth, harde Crystall commeth of the water. He lyghteth downe vpon all the gatherynges togyther of water, and putteth on the waters as a brest plat. He deuoureth the mountaynes, and burneth the wyldernesses, and loke what is grene, he putteth it oute lyke fyre. The medicyne of all these is, when a cloude commeth hastely: and when a dewe commeth vpon the heate, it shall be refresshed agayne.

In his worde he stylleth the wynde. In his counsell he setteth the depe, and the Lorde Jesus planted it. They that sayle ouer the see, tell of his perels and harmes: and when we heare it with our eares, we maruell therat. For there be straunge wonderous workes dyuerse maner of nyce beastes, and whalefisshes. Thorow him are al thinges set in good ordre & perfourmed, and in his worde al thinges endure.

D I speake moch, but I can not suffycyently attayne vnto it, for he hym selfe onely is the perfection of all wordes. We shulde prayse the Lorde after al our power, for he is great in all his workes. The Lord is to be feared: yea very great is he, and is merueylous is he power. Prayse the Lorde, and magnifye him as moche as ye maye, yet doth he farre farre exceade all prayse. O magnyfye hym withal youre power, and laboure earnestlye, yet are ye in no wise hable sufficiently to prayse him. Who hath sene hym, that he myght tell vs? Who can magnyfye him so greatly as he is? For there are hyd yet greater thynges then these be: as for vs, we haue sene but few of his workes. For the Lorde hathe made all thynges, and giuen wisdom to such as feare God.

¶ The prayse of certeyn holy men, Henoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

CAPI. XLIIII.

A Let vs commend the noble famous men and the generacyon of oure fore elders & fathers. Many more gloryous actes hath the Lorde done, and shewed his greate power euer sens the begynnynge. The noble famous mé raygned in their kyngdomes, & bare excellent rule. In theyr wysdom and vnderstandynge, they folowed the counsell shewed in the prophecyes. They led the folke thorow the coūcel & wysdom of the Scrybes of the people. Wyse sentences are founde in their instruction: They sought the swetnesse and melody of Musicke, and brought forthe the pleasaunte songes in Scrypture. They were ryche also, and coulde comforte and pacyfye those that dwelt with them. All these were very noble and honourable mé in their generacions and were well reported of in their tymes.

Exodi.xviii

These haue lefte a name behynde them so that their prayse shall alwaye be spoken of. Afterwarde there were some, whose remébraunce is gone. They came to noughte and perisshed, as thoughe they hadde neuer bene: and became as thoughe they hadde neuer bene borne, yea and theyr chyldren also with them.

Gene.viii

B Neuertheles these are louynge men whose ryghtousnes shall neuer be forgotten, but cōtinue by their posterity. Their chyldré are an holy good heritage: their sede endured fast in the couenaunt. For their sakes shall their chyldré and sede contynue for euer, and their prayse shall neuer be put down. Their bodyes are buryed in peax, but their name lyueth for euermore. The people can speake of their wysdome, and the congregacion can talke of their prayse. Enoch walked ryght and acceptably before the Lorde: therfore was he trāslated for an example of a mendement to the generacions. Noe was a stedfast & rightous man: and in the tyme of wrath, he became a reconcylynge. Therfore was he lefte a remnaunt vnto the earth, when the floude came. An euerlastynge couenaunt was made with him, that al flesh should perysh nomore with the water.

C Abraham was a greate father of manye people, in glorye was there none lyke vnto hym. He kepte the lawe of the hyghest, and came in to a couenaunt with him. He set the couenaunt in his fleshe, and when he was tempted, he was founde faythfull. Therfore swore God vnto him with an othe, that he wolde blesse all people in his sede, that he wolde multiply and increase him as the dust of the earth, and to exalte his sede as the starres: yea and that his sede shoulde haue the possessyon and inherytaunce of the lande frō see to see, and from the ryuer vnto the borders of the lande.

With Isaac did he stablish the same couenaunt, for Abrahā his fathers sake. Yea that gracyous blessyng and health of all men, and couenaunt dyd he stablysshe with Isaac, and made it to rest vpon the heed of Jacob. He knewe hym, in that he prospered hym so well and rychely, and gaue hym an heretage, and sundered his porcyon by it selfe, and parted it among the twelue tribes. Mercyfull men brought he out of him, which founde fauour before all flesh.

¶ The prayse of Moses, Aaron, and Phinehes.

CAPI. XLV.

A Moses beloued of God and men, whose remembraunce is in hygh prayse: hym hath the Lorde made lyke in the glory of sayntes, and magnifyed him, so that ye enemyes stode in awe of hym, thorowe his wordes he dyd great wonders. He made him great in the syght of kynges, gaue him commaundement before his people, and shewed hym his gloryous power. He stablysshed him with faythfulnesse and mekenesse, and chose hym out of all men. For he herde his voyce, and led hym in the darke cloude, and there he gaue him the commaundementes, yea ye lawe of lyfe and wysdome, that he myght teache Jacob the couenaunt, and Israel his lawes.

B He chose Aarō his brother also out of the trybe of Leui, exalted him and made him such lyke. An euerlastyng couenaunt made he with him: and gaue him ye presthode in the people. He made hym gloryous in bewtyfull araye, and clothed hym with the garment of honoure. He put perfecte ioye vpon hym, and gyrded hym with strengthe. He decte hym with syde clothes, and a tunycle, with an ouerbody cote also and a girdle. Round about made he him belles of golde, and that many: that when he went in, ye sounde myght be herd, that they myght make a noyse in the Sanctuary, and gyue the people warnynge. The holye garment was wrought & brodred with golde, yelow sylke and purple. And in ye brestlap there was a goodly worke, wherin was fastened lyght and perfectnes.

C Vpon the same also there was a worke fastened, & set with costly precyous stones, all bound with gold: and this he brought in his ministracion. The stones were fastened for a remembraunce, after the. xij. trybes of Israel. Vpon his mitre there was a plate of pure golde, a grauen ymage of holynes, a famous and noble worcke, garnysshed, and pleasaunt to loke vpon. Before hym were there sene no such fayre ornaméntes, & these it behoued him alway to vse: There myght none other put them on, but only his chyldren and his childers children perpetually. Dayly perfourmed he his burntofferynges two tymes. Moses fylled his handes, & annoynted him with holy oyle.

Leuiti.viii.a

D This was nowe confyrmed hym with an euerlastynge couenaunt, and to his sede, as the dayes of heauen: namely that his chyldren shulde alway mynystre before hym, and perfourme the offyce of the presthode, and wysh the people good in his name. Before all men lyuynge chose he hym, that he shuld offre before the Lorde, and make odoures for a swete sauoure and remembraunce, that he shuld reconsyle the people of the Lord with hym agayne. He gaue hym auctorytye also in his commaundementes and in the couenaūt that he shulde teache Jacob the statutes and testymonyes, and to infourme Israel in his lawe.

Deute.xvii.c and xxi.a Mala.ii.a

E Therfore there stode vp certayne agaynst hym and had enuye at hym in the wyldernes: namely, they that were of Dathan, and Abirams syde, and the furyous congregacyon of Chore. This the Lorde sawe, and it displeased him, and in his wrothful indygnacyon were they consumed. A greate wondre did he vpon them, and consumed them with the fire. Besydes this he made Aaron yet more honourable and gloryous. He gaue hym an herytage, and departed the fyrste frutes vnto hym. Vnto hym specyallye he appoynted the bred for sustenaunce (for the prestes ate of the offrynges of the Lorde) this gaue he vnto hym and his sede. Other herytage or porcion he had none in the lād, with the people. For the Lord him self is his porcion and inheritaunce.

F The thirde noble and excellente man is Phinehes the sonne of Eleazer, whiche pleased the God of Israel, because he had the zele and feare of the Lorde. For when the people were turned backe, he put hym selfe forthe ryght soone, and that with a good wyll, to pacyfye the wrath of the Lorde towarde Israel. Therfore was there a couenaūt of peace made with hym, that he shulde be the pryncypal amonges the ryghtous and the people that he and his posterytye shuld haue the offyce of the presthode for euer. Lyke as there was made a couenaunte with Dauid of the trybe of Juda, that from among his sonnes only there shuld be a kynge: and that Aaron also and his sede shulde be the herytage, to gyue vs wysdome in oure herte, to iudge his

CAPI. XLVI.

A Joshu.xiii.e Num.xxvii.b Deu.xxxiii.b Josue.i.a

MAnly and stronge in battayle was Iesus the sonne of Naue, which in stede of Moses the prophete, was gyuen to be captayne of the people, which accordynge vnto his name, was a great sauioure vnto ꝑ electe of God, to punysshe the enemyes that rose vp agaynst Israel. that Israel myght obtayne their inheritaunce. O how greate, noble, and excellent was he, when he lyft vp his hande, and shewe out his swerde agaynst the cytyes? Who stode so manly before hym? For the Lorde hym selfe brought in the enemyes. Stode not the Sunne styll at his commaundement, and one daye was as long as two? He called vpon the byghest and most myghtye, when the enemyes pressed vpon hym on euery syde: and the Lorde herde hym with hayle stones. They smote the Heythen ryght people myghtely, and in fallyng downe they slewe all the aduersaryes, so that the Heathen knewe his hoost, and al his defence, that the Lorde hym selfe foughte agaynst them, for he lowed vpon the myghtye men of them.

Jos.

B In the tyme of Moses', also he had Caleb the sonne of Jephune, dyd a good worcke, which stode agaynst the enemyes, withholde the people frome syn, and stylled the wycked murmuryng. And of fyue hundreth thousande people of fote, they two were preserued, whe they were brought in to the heritage, namely, a lande that floweth with mylke and hony. The Lorde gaue strengthe also vnto Caleb, which remayned with hym vnto his age: Josue.xliii.e so that he wente vp in to the byghe places of the lande, and his sede conquered the same for an heritage: that all the chyldren of Israel myght se, how good a thyng it is, to be obedient vnto the Lorde. And the iudges or rulers (euery one after his name) whose herte went not a horynge, ne departed frome the Lorde, and that forsake not the Lorde vnfaythfully, whose remembraunce hathe a good reporte: Yea their bones florysshe out of their place, and their name shall neuer be chaunged.

C Samuel the prophet beloued of the Lord, ordeyned a kynge, and anoynted the princes ouer the people. In the lawe of the Lord ruled he, and iudged the congregacyon, and the Lorde had respect vnto Jacob. The prophete was founde diligent in his faythfulnesse: and in his faythfulnes was the faythfulnes of ꝑ vysyon knowen. He called vpon ꝑ Lorde the myghtie, when the enemyes pressed vpō him on euery syde, what tyme as he offred the sucklyng labes. And ꝑ Lord thondred frō heauen, and made his voyce to be herde with a greate noyse. He discomfyted the princes of Tyre, 1.Regu.xii.a all the rulers of the Philistynes. Before his last ende, he made protestacyon in the syght of the Lorde, and his anoynted, that he toke neither substaunce ne good of any man, no not so moch as a shoo: & no man myghte accuse hym. After this he tolde, that his ende was at hand, and shewed the the kynge also his ende and death: and frome the earth lyfte he vp his voyce in the prophecye, that the vngodly people shulde perysh.

¶ The prayse of Nathan, David, and Salomon

CAPI. XLVII.

A 1.Regum

AFterwarde in the tyme of kynge David, there rose vp a prophet called Nathan: For lyke as the fat is taken awaye frome the offeryng, so was David chosen out of the chyldren of Israel. He toke his pastyme with ꝑ lyons & with kydds, and with beares lyke as with lambes. Slewe he not a gyaunt when he was yet but ponge, and soke away the rebuke frō his people? what tyme as he toke the stone in his hande, and smote down proude Goliath with the slynge? For he called vpon the byghest Lorde, whiche gaue hym strength in his ryght hande, so that he ouerthrewe the myghtye gyaunte in the battayle, that he myght set vp the horne of his people agayne. Thus brought he him to worshyp aboue al princes, and made hym to haue a good reporte in the prayse of the Lorde, that he shulde were a crowne of glory. For he destroyed the ennemyes on euerye syde, roted out the the Philistines his aduersaryes, and brake their horne in sundre lyke as it is broken yet this daye. In all his worckes he prayseth the byghest and holyest, and ascrybed the honour vnto hym. With his hole hert dyd he prayse and loue hym that made hym. He set syngers also before the auter, and in their tune he made swete songes. He ordeyned to kepe the holy dayes worshipfully, and that the solemne festes shuld be honourably holden, with prayseyng the name of the Lorde, and with his songynge bytimes in the morninge in the Sanctuary.

1.Regum

The Lorde toke awaye hys synnes, and exalted his horne for euer. He gaue hym the couenaunte of the kyngdome, and the trone of worshyp in Israel. After him there rose vp the wyse sonne called Salomon, and for his sake he droue ꝑ enemyes awaye fat of. This Salomon raygned with peax in his time (for God gaue hym rest frome his enemyes on euery syde, that he myght buyld him an house in his name, and prepare the Sanctuary for euer) lyke as he was wel instruct in his youth and fylled with wysdome as and vnderstandinge, as it were with a water floude. He couered and fylled the hole lande with symylytudes and wyse prudente sentences.

His name went abrode in the Iles, because of his peax he was beloued. All landes meruepled at his songes, prouerbes, symylytudes, and at his peax, & at the name of the Lorde God, whiche is called the God of Israel. He gathered golde as tynne, and he had as

as moche syluer as leade. He was moued in vnordinate loue towarde women, and was ouercome in affection, he stayned his honour and worshyp: yea, his posteritie defyled he also, in bryngyng the wrath of ꝑ Lord vpon his chyldren, and sorowe after his ioye: so ꝑ his kyngdome was deuyded, and Ephraim became an vnfaythfull and an vnconstante kyngdom. Neuertheles God forsoke not his mercy, neyther was he vtterly destroyed because of his worckes, that he shulde leaue hym no posteritie.

As for the sede ꝑ came vpon him which he loued, he brought it not vtterly to noughte, but gaue yet a remuaunt vnto Jacob, and a rote vnto David oute of hym. Thus rested Salomon with his fathers, and oute of his sede he left behynde him a verye foolyshnesse of the people, and such one as had no vnderstandyng: namely Roboam, whiche turned away the people thorow his counsel, and Jeroboam the son of Nabat, which caused Israel to synne, and shewed Ephraim the way of vngodlynesse: In so moch that their synnes, and mildedes had the vpper hand so sore that at the last they were dryuen oute of the lande for the same: Yea he soughte oute and brought vp all the wyckednesse, tyl the vengeaunce came vpon them.

CAPI. XLVIII.

THen stode vp Eliah ꝑ prophet as a fire and his worde burnt lyke a torche. He brought an honger vpon them, and in his zele he made them fewe in nombre. For they myght not awaye with the commaundementes of the Lorde. Thorow the worde of the Lorde, he shut the heuen, and three tymes brought he the fire downe. Thus became Eliah honourable i his wōderous dedes. Who maye make his boaste to be lyke hym? One that was deed raysed he vp from death, and in the worde of the hyest he brought him out of the graue agayne. He cast downe kynges and destroyed them, and the honourable frō their seate. Upon the mount Syna he herde the punyshment, and vpon Horeb the iudgement of the vengeaunce. He prophecied recō pensyng vnto kinges, and ordeyned Prophetes after him. He was taken vp in the storme of fyre in a charet of horses of the Lorde. He was ordeyned in the reprouynges in time to pacifye the wrath, to turne the hertes of the fathers vnto the chyldren, and to set vp the tribes of Jacob agayne. Blessed were they that sawe the, and were garnyshed in loue: for we lyue in lyfe.

Eliah was couered in the storme, but Heliseus was fylled with his mouth. While he lyued, he was afrayde of no Prynce, & no man myght ouercome hym. There could no word discerne him, and after his deth his body prophecied. He did wonders in his life and i deth were his worckes maruelous. For all this, the people amended not, neither departed they from their synnes, till they were caryed away pryseners out of the land, and were scatred abrode in al countreys, so that of them there remayned but a very lytle people, and a Prince vnto the house of Dauid. How be it some of them dyd ryght, and some heaped vp vngodlynesse.

Ezechias made his cite strong, conueyed water in to it, digged thorow the stony rock with yron, and made vp a well by the water syde. In his time came Sennacherib vp, and sente Rabsakeh, lyfte vp his hande agaynst Syon, and defyed them with greate pryde. Then trembled their hertes and handes, so that they sorowed lyke a woman trauayling with chylde. So they called vpon the Lorde which is mercyful, and lyft vp their handes before him. Immediatly the Lorde herd the oute of the heuen, and delyuered them by the hand of Esay. He smote the host of the Assirians, and his aungell destroyed them. For Ezechias had done ꝑ thing ꝑ pleased the Lord, and remayned stedfastly in the waye of Dauid his father. Which Esaye was great and faithful in his visions. In his time the sunne went backwarde, and he lengthened the kynges lyfe. With a right spirite prophecied he, what shulde come to passe at the last: and to suche as were sorowful in Syon, he gaue consolacyon, wherwith they myghte comforte them selues for euermore. He shewed thinges that were for to come & secrete, or euer they came to passe.

¶ Of Josiah, Ezechias, David, Jeremy, Ezechiel, Zorobabel, Jesus, Nehemias, Enoch, & Joseph.

CAPI. XLIX.

A iiii.Re.xxii.a xxiii. ii.pa.xxxiiii.a

THe remembraunce of Josiah is lyke as when the Apotecary maketh many pryeious swete smellynge thynges togyther. His remembraunce shal be swete as hony in all mouthes, and as the playing of musyk by the wyne. He was appoynted to turne the people agayne, and to take awaye all abhominacions of the vngodly. He directed his herte vnto the Lorde, and in the tyme of the vngodlye he set vp the worshyp of God agayne. All kynges (excepte David, Ezechias and Josiah) commytted wyckednesse: for euen the kynges of Juda also forsoke the law of God. For they gaue their horne vnto other, their honoure and worshyp also vnto a straunge people.

B iiii.Re.xxv.b

Therfore was the elect cite of the Sanctuary brent with fyre, and the stretes therof laye desolate and waste: for they intreated Jeremy euyl, which neuertheles was a prophet ordeyned frō his mothers wombe, that he myght rote out, breke of, and destroy, and that he might buylde vp, and plante agayne. Ezechiel sawe the glorye of the Lorde in a vysion, whiche was shewed hym vpon the charet of the Cherubyns. For he thoughte

And the bones of the twelue Prophetes florysche from out of their place, for they gaue comforte and consolacion vnto Jacob, and deliuered thē faithfully. How shal we prayse Zorobabel, whiche was as a rynge in the ryght hande?

So was Jesus also the sonne of Josedec: these men in their tymes buylded the house, & set vp the Sanctuarye of the Lorde agayne, whiche was prepared for an euerlastynge worshyp. And Nehemiah is alwaye to be cōmended, which set vp for vs the walles that were broken downe, made the portes and barres agayne, & buylded oure houses of the new. But vpon the erth is there no man created lyke Enoch, for he was taken vp frō the earthe. And Joseph whiche was lorde of his brethren, and the vpholder of his people: his bones were couered and kepte. Seth and Sem were in great honour amonge the people: and so was Adam aboue all the beastes whan he was created.

Of Simon the sonne of Oniah.

CAPI. L.

A i.Macc.iii.

SYmon the sonne of Oniah the hye preest, whiche in his lyfe sette vp the house agayne, and in his dayes made faste the temple. The heygth of the temple was founded of hym, the double buyldyng and the hye walles of ỳ tēple. In his dayes the welles of water flowed oute, and were excedynge full as the see. He toke care for his people, and delyuered them frome destruction. He kept his cītye and made it stronge, that it shoulde not be besieged. He dwelte in honoure and worshyppe amonge his people, and enlarged the intraunce of the houle and the courte. He gyueth lyghte as the morynge sterre in the myddes of the cloudes, and as the Moone whan it is ful. He shyneth as the sunne in the temple of God, he is as bryght as the rayne-bow in the fayre cloudes, and florysheth as the floures and roses in the sprynge of the yere, and as lylyes by the ryuers of water: Lyke as the braunches vpon the mount Lybanus in the tyme of sommer: as a fyre and incense that is kyndled: Lyke as an hole ornament of pure golde, set with all maner of precious stones: and as an olyue tree that is frutefull, and as a Cypres tree whiche groweth vp on hygh.

When he put on the garment of honoure, and was clothed with all beautye: when he
B went to the holye aulter, to garnysche the couerynge of the Sanctuarye: when he toke the portcions out of the preestes hand, he him selfe stode by the harth of the aulter, and his brethren rounde aboute in ordre. As the braunches of Cedre tre vpon the mount Lybanus, so stode they rounde about hym. And as the braunches of the olyue tree, so stode all the sonnes of Aaron in their glorye. And that he myghte suffyciently perfourme his seruyce vpon the aulter, and garnysshe the offrynge of the hyest God, he stretched oute his hande, & toke of the drynke offerynge, and poured in of the wyne: so he poured vpon ỳ bottome of the aulter good smell vnto the hyghest prynce.

Then began the sonnes of Aaron to synge, and to blowe with trompettes, and to make a great noyse for a remembrāce and prayse vnto the Lorde. Then were ỳ people afrayd and fel downe to the earth vpon their faces, to worshyp the Lord their God, and to giue thankes to the almyghtye God. They songe goodly also with their voyces, so there was a pleasaunte noyse in the greate house of the Lord. And ỳ people in their prayer besought the Lorde the hyest that he wolde be mercyfull tyll the honour of the Lorde were performed. Thus ended they their ministracīō and seruise. Then went he downe and stretched out his handes ouer the hole multitude
C of the people of Israel, that they sholde gyue prayse and thankes out of their lyppes vnto the Lorde, and to reioyce in his name. He began yet ones also to praye, that he myghte openly shewe the thankesgyuynge before the hyest, namely thus: O gyue prayse and thankes (yea all) vnto the Lorde our God, which hathe euer doone noble and greate thynges: which he hath encreased our dayes from oure mothers wombe, and dealte with vs accordyng to his mercy: that he wyll gyue vs the ioyfulnesse of herte, and peax for our time in Israel. Whiche fayethfully kepeth his mercy for vs euer more, and alwaye delyuereth vs in due season.

There be two maner of people that I abD horre fro my herte: as for the thyrde, whom I hate, it is no people: They that lye vpon the mountayne of Samaria, the Philistines and the foolysshe people that dwelle in Sichimis.

I Jesus the sonne of Sirach Eleazarus of Jerusalem, haue tokened vp these informacions and documentes of wysdome and vnderstanding in this boke, and poured out the wysdom of my hert. Blessed is he that exercyseth him selfe therin: and who so taketh such to hert shal be wyse. If he do these thynges, he shall be strong in all. For the lyght of the Lorde ledeth him.

The prayer of Jesus the sonne of Syrach.

CAPI. LI.

I Thanke the, o Lord and kyng, and prayse the, o God my sauiour. I wyl yelde prayse
A vnto thy name, for thou arte my defender and helper, and hast preserued my bodye frō destructiō, from the snare of traytorous tonges, and from the lyppes that are occupyed with lyes. Thou hast ben my helper, frome such as stode vp against me, and hast deliuered me after the multitude of thy mercy, and for thy holy names sake: thou hast deliuered me from the roryng of them that prepared them selues to deuour me oute of the handes of suche as soughte after my lyfe: frome the multitude of them that troubled me, & went about to set fyre vpon me on euery syde, so that I am not brent in the myddest of ỳ fyre: from the depe of hel, from an vnclene tong, from lying wordes, from the wycked kyng, and frō an vnrighteous tong. My soule shall prayse the Lorde vnto deth, for my life drewe nye vnto hell.

B They compassed me round about on euery side, & there was no man to helpe me. I loked about me, yf there were any man that wolde succour me, but there was none: thē thought I vpon thy mercy, o Lorde, & vpon thy actes that thou haste done euer of olde: namely, that thou deliuerest such as put their trust in the, and riddest them out of the handes of the heathen. Thus lyfte I vp my prayer frō the erth, and prayed for deliueraunce from deth. I called vpon the Lord my father, ỳ he wold not leaue me without helpe in the daye of my trouble & in the tyme of the proud. I praised thy name cōtinually, yelding honour & thanckes vnto it, & so my prayer was herd. Thou sauedst me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the vnrighteous time. Therfore wil I acknowlege and prayse the, and magnifye the name of the Lorde.

C When I was yet but yong, or euer I wente astray, I desired wisdom openly in my prayer I came therfore before the temple, & soughte her vnto the last. Thē florished she vnto me as a grape that is sone rype. My hert reioyced in her, then went my fote the ryght way, yea frō youth vp, sought I after her: I bowed downe myne eare and receyued her. I found in me mothe wisdom, and prospered greatly in her. Therfore wil I ascribe the glory vnto him that giueth me wisdom: for I am addressed to do therafter. I wil be gelous to cleue vnto the thyng that is good, so shal I not be confounded. My soule hath wrestled w̄ her, and I haue ben diligēt to be occupied in her. I lift vp mine hādes on hye, thē was my soul lightened thorow wysdome, ỳ I knowleged my foolyshnesse. I ordred my soule after her, she and I were one hert from the beginning, and I found her in clennesse. And therfore shal I not be forsaken. D

My herte longed after her, & I gat a good treasure. Therfore hath the Lord bath giuen me a new tong, wherwith I wil prayse him. O come vnto me ye vnlerned, and dwell in ỳ house of wysdom: withdraw not your selues from her, but talke & common of these thinges, for your soules are very thirsty. I opened my mouth and spake: O come & bye wisdom without money, bow down your necke vnder her yoke, and your soule shall receyue wysdom. She is hard at hand, and is contēt to be founde. Beholde with youre eyes, how that I haue hadde but lytle labour, and yet haue found mothe rest. O receyue wisdome, and ye shall haue plentcousnesse of syluer & gold in possession. Let your mynd reioyce in his mercye, and be not ashamed of his prayse. Worke his worke betymes, and he shall gyue you youre rewarde in due tyme.

The ende of the boke of Jesus the sonne of Syrach, whiche is called in latyn Ecclesiasticus.

THE BOKE OF THE PROPHETE BARVCH.

THese are the wordes of the boke that Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maalia, the son of Sedechias the sonne of Sedei, the son of Helchia wrote at Babylon, in the fifth yere, the seuenth day of the moneth, what tyme the Caldees wan Jerusalem, and brent it.

CAPI. I.

¶ Baruch redeth the boke before the kynge and all the people, whiche sende it with money to Jerusalem.

A AND Baruch dyd reade the wordes of this boke that Jechonias the sonne of Joacin king of Juda myghte heare: and in the presence of all the people, that were come to heare the boke: yea and before all the noble kynges sonnes, before the lordes of the counsell and elders: and before the hole people, frō the lowest vnto the highest: before all them that dwelte at Babylon by the water of Sody. Whiche when they herde it, wepte, fasted, and prayed before the Lorde.

B They made a collection also of money, according to euerye mans power, and sent it to Jerusalem vnto Joacin the sonne of Helchiah the sonne of Salon Preest, with the other Preestes, and to all the people whiche were with him at Jerusalem, what tyme as they had gotten the ornamentes of the temple of the Lorde (that were taken away out of the temple) that they myght bringe them agayne in to the lande of Juda, the tenth day of the moneth Siban: namely, syluer vessels (whiche Sedechiah the sonne of Josiah king of Juda had made,) After that Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon had taken Jechoniah, with all his princes, lordes, & all the people, and led them captyue from Jerusalē vnto Babylon.

And they sayde: Beholde, we haue sente you money to bye you burnt offerynges and incense withall: make you vnleuended bred

C Deut.xiiii.c Jerem.xxix.b 1. Timo.ii. a

And offre for synne vpon the aulter of the Lorde oure God. And praye for the prosperitie of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon, and of Balthasar his sonne: that theyr dayes maye be vpon earthe, as the dayes of heuen: (that God also maye gyue vs strength and lyghten oure eyes: that we maye lyue vnder the defence of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon, and vnder the protection of Balthasar his sonne, that we maye longe do them seruyce, and fynde fauoure in theyr syght.

Praye for vs also vnto the Lorde oure God, for we haue synned agaynst the Lorde oure God, and vnto this daye is not his wrathe tourned yet awaye from vs. And se that ye rede this boke (whiche we haue sente vnto you) to be rehersed in the temple of the Lorde) vpon the hye dayes, and at a tyme conuenient.

D Thus shal ye say: The Lord our God is ryghtous, but we are worthy of confusyon and shame: lyke as it is come to passe this daye vnto all Juda, and to euerye one that dwelleth at Jerusalem: to oure kynges, Princes, preestes, Prophetes, and to oure fathers. We haue synned before the Lorde oure God, we haue not put our trust in him, nor gyuen hym credence, we haue not obeyed hym, we haue not harkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde our God, to walke in the commaundementes that he gaue vs. Sithens the daye that he brought oure fore fathers oute of the lande of Egypt vnto this present day we haue bene euer a mysbyleuynge, and an vnfaythful people vnto the Lorde our God: destroyinge oure selues vtterly, and thrynkynge backe, that we shoulde not heare his voyce.

Wherfore there are come vpon vs greate plages and dyuers curses, lyke as the Lorde E dyuyded by Moses his seruaunte: whiche brought oure fore fathers oute of the lande of Egypte, to gyue vs a lande that floweth with mylke and hony, lyke as it is to se this daye. Neuertheselle, we haue not harkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde oure God, ac- Leui.xvi. Deut.xxi. cordyng to all the wordes of the Prophetes whom he sent vnto vs, and vnto our rulers, but euery man folowed his owne minde and wicked ymaginacion: to offre vnto straūge goddes, to do euyll in the syght of the Lorde oure God.

¶ The Jewes confesse that they suffre iustlye for theyr synnes. The Lorde wyll & we obey vnto princes, although they be cupl. He promyseth that he wyll call agayne the people from captiuyte, and gyue them a newe and euerlastynge testament.

CAPI. II.

FOr which cause the Lorde our God hath F perfourmed his deuyce, wherof he certifyed vs and our heedes that ruled in Jerusalem: yea and oure kynges, our princes, with all Israel and Juda. And suche plages hathe the Lorde broughte vpon vs, as neuer came to passe vnder y heue, like as it is fulfilled in Jerusalem, according as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses: that a man shold eate the flesshe of his owne sonne, and the flesshe of his owne doughter. Moreouer he hath deliuered them in to the handes of al y kynges that are rounde aboute vs, to be confounded and desolate) and scatred them abrode in all landes and nacyons. Thus are we broughte benethe and not aboue, for we haue synned agaynst the Lorde oure God, and not ben obedient vnto his voyce: therfore the Lorde our God is ryghtous, and we with oure fathers (as reason is) are brought to open shame as it is to se this daye.

Daniel.ix.a

Deut.xxviii. 3. Reg.xxi. Thren.iiii.b

And as for these plages that are come vpō vs alredye, the Lorde had deuysed them for vs: yet wolde we not praye vnto the Lorde our God, that we myght euerye man tourne from his vngodly wayes. So the Lorde hath caused suche plages to come vpon vs, for he is rightous in all his workes, which he hath cōmanded vs, which we also haue not done nor harkened vnto his voyce for to walke in the commaūdementz of the Lord, that he had gyuen vnto vs.

And nowe, O Lorde God of Israel, thou that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypte with a myghtye hande, with tokens and wonders, with thy greate power and outstretched arme: and hast gotten thy selfe a name, as it is come to passe this daye. O Lorde oure God, we haue synned, we haue doone wyckedly, we haue behaued oure selues vngodlye in all thy ryghtousnelles.

Tourne thy wrathe frome vs (we beseche L the) for we are but a fewe lefte amonge the heathen, where thou hast scatred vs. Heare oure prayers, o Lorde, and oure peticions, bringe vs out of captiuitie, for thyne owne sake: get vs fauoure in the syghte of them, which haue led vs away, that al landes may know that thou art the Lorde our God, and that Israel and his generacion calleth vpon thy name.

O Lord, loke downe from thy holy house vpon vs: enclyne thyne eare, and heare vs. For the deed that be gone down to their graues, and whose soules are out of their bodies ascribe vnto ỹ Lord neither prayse nor righ toulnesse vnto the Lorde. O Lord, we poure oute oure prayers before the, and requyre D mercye in thy syght, o Lorde oure God: not for anye godlynesse of oure fore fathers, but bicause thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignacion vpon vs, according as thou dydest threaten vs by thy seruauntes the Prophetes, sayinge:

Thus sayth the Lord: Bow downe your shoulders & neckes, and serue the king of Babylon, so shall ye remayne styll in the land, ỹ I gaue vnto your fathers. Yf ye wyll not do this, nor heare the voyce of the Lorde youre God, to serue the kynge of Babylon, I shall destroy you in the cityes of Juda, within Jerusalem and without. I will also take from you the voice of myrth, and the voice of ioy, the voyce of the brydegrome and ỹ voyce of the bryde, and there shal no man dwell more in the land. But they wold not harken vnto L thy voyce, to doo the kyng of Babylon seruice: and therfore haste thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by thy seruauntes the prophetes: namely, that the bones of our kynges, and the bones of our fathers sholde be translated out of their place.

And lo now are they layde out in the heate of the sunne, and in the cold of the night, and deed in greate mysery, with hunger, with swerde, with pestilēce, & are clene cast forth. As for the temple wherin thy name was called vpon, thou hast laid it waste, as it is to se this day: and that for the wyckednes of the house of Israel & the house of Juda. O Lorde our God, thou hast intreated vs after al thy goodnesse, and according to all that great louing mercy of thyne, like as thou spakest by thy seruaunte Moses, in the daye when thou diddest commaunde him to wryte thy law before the childrē of Israel, saying: Yf ye wil Deu.iiii.d not harken vnto my voyce, then shall this great multitude be turned in to a very small people, for I wil scatre the abrode. Notwithstandyng I am sure that this folke wyll not F hear me: for it is an hardnecked people. But in the lande of their captiuitie, they shall remembre them selues, and lerne to know that I am the Lord their God, when I gyue them an herte to vnderstande, and eares to heare. Then shal they praise me in the land of their captiuitie, and thinke vpon my name. Then shal they turne them from their hard backes and frō their vngodlynesse: Then shal they remembre the thynges, that happened vnto their fore fathers, which synned against me. So wyll I bringe theym agayne in to the lande, whiche I promysed with an othe vnto theyr fathers: Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and they shall be lordes of it: yea I wyll encrease them, and not mynyshe them. And I wyll make an other couenaunte with them, Hebre.viii.c Zach.viii.b Apoca.xxi.b suche one as shall endure for euer: namelye, that I wil be their God, and they shall be my people: and I wil no more dryue my people the chyldren of Israel oute of the lande that I haue gyuen them.

¶ The prayseth wysdome vnto the people, shewyng that so great aduersaryes came vnto them, for the dispysyng therof. Of the incarnation of Christ.

CAPI. III.

AND now, o Lord almighty, thou God A of Israel: our soules that is in trouble and our spirite that is vexed crieth vnto the: heare vs, o Lorde, and haue pity vpō vs, for thou art a mercyfull God, be gracyous vnto vs, for we haue synned before the. Thou endurest for euer, shold we then vtterly perysh? O Lorde almighty, thou God of Israel: Heare now the prayer of the deed Israelites and of their childrē, which haue sinned before the, & not harkened vnto the voice of the Lord their God, for which cause these plages hang now vpon vs. O Lord, remembre not the wyckednelle of our fore fathers, but thynke vpon thy power and name nowe at this time: for thou art the Lord our God and the, o Lord wil we prayse. For thou hast put thy feare in our hertes, to the intent we sholde call vpon thy name, and prayse the in our captiuitie, & that we might turne frō the wickednelle of our fore fathers that synned before the.

With mournynge and weppynge did I let D you go from me, but with ioye and perpetual gladnesse shall the Lorde bringe you agayne vnto me. Lyke as the neyghbours of Sion sawe your captyuitye frõ God: Euen so shall they also se shortly your health in God, whiche shal come on you with great honour and euerlastyng worshyp.
O my children, suffre pacyently the wrath that shall come vpon you. For the ennemye hath persecuted the, but shortly thou shalt se
his destructyon, and shalt tred vpon his neck.
My derlynges haue gone rough wayes, for they are led awaye as a flocke that is scatred abrode with the enemyes. But be of good cõ-fort (O my chyldren) and crye vnto the Lord:
E For he that led you awaye, hath you yet in remembraunce: and like as ye haue bene minded to swarue from your God, so shal ye now endeuour selues ten tymes more, to turne a-gayne, and to seke him. For he ẏ hath brought these plages vpon you, shall brynge you euerlastynge ioye agayne with your healthe.
Take a good hert vnto the, O Jerusalem: for he which gaue the that name, exhorteth the so to do.
The wycked doers that now put the to trouble, shall perish: and such as haue reioy-sed at thy fall, shall be punysshed. The cytyes whom thy chyldren serue, and that haue ca-ryed awaye thy sonnes, shall be correcte. For lyke as they be nowe glad of thy decaye, so shall they mourne in theyr owne destruction.
The ioye of theyr multitude shall be taken awaye, and theyr chere shall be turned to so-rowe. For a fyre shall fall vpon them frome the euerlastynge God, longe to endure: and it shall be inhabited of deuylles for a greate season.

¶ Jerusalem is moued vnto gladnesse, for the returne of her people, and vnder the fygure therof, the churche.

CAPI. V.

A O Jerusalem loke about the toward the east, and beholde the ioye that cõmeth vnto the from God. For lo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast forsaken, and that were scatered abrode) come gathered togyther frõ
the East and West, reioysynge in the word of the holye one, vnto the honoure of God.
Put of thy mournynge clothes (O Jerusa lem) and thy sorowe, and decke the with the worshyp and honoure, that commeth vnto
the frome God, with euerlasting glory. God shal put the cloke of rightousnes vpon the,
and set a crowne of euerlastynge worshyp
vpon thyne heade: for vpon the wyll God declare his bryghtnes, that is vnder the heauen: yea an euerlastyng name shall be giuen
the of God, with peax of ryghtousnes, and the honoure of Gods feare. B Aryse O Jerusalem, stand vp on high: loke about the towarde the east, and beholde thy children gathered from the east, vnto the west whiche reioyse in the holye worde, hauynge God in remembraunce. They departed from the on fote, and were led awaye of theyr ene myes: but nowe shal the Lord bryng them caryed with honoure, as chyldren of the king dome. For God is purposed to brynge down all stoute mountaynes, yea and all hygh roc-kes to fyll the valleyes, and so to make thẽ euen with the groũde: that Israel maye be diligent to lyue vnto the honoure of God.
The woddes and all pleasaunt trees shal ouershadowe Israel, at the commaundement of God. For hyther shall God brynge Israel with ioyfull myrth, and in the lyghte of his maiestye: with the mercye and ryghtousnes that commeth of hym selfe.

CAPI. VI.

¶ A copye of the epistle that Jeremye sent vnto the Jewes, whiche were led awaye prysoners by the kynge of Babylon: wherin he certyfyeth them of the thynge that was cõmaunded hym of God.

Because of the synnes that ye haue done A agaynste God, ye shall be led away cap Jere.xxv.a.b.
tyue vnto Babylon euen of Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babylon. So when ye be come into Babilon, ye shal remayne there many yeres & for a lõg season: namely.vij.ge neracions: and after that wyll I bryng you awaye peaceably from thence. Now shall ye se in Babylon goddes of golde, of syluer, of wood, & of stone: borne vpõ mens shoulders to cast out a fearfulnes before the Hethen.
But loke that ye do not as the other: be not ye afrayd, and let not the feare of them ouer come you.
Therfore whẽ ye se the multytude of peo- B
ple worshyppynge them behynde and before saye ye in your hertes: O Lorde, it is thou, that oughtest only to be worshypped? Myne Deuter.vi.c aungel also shal be wyth you, and I my self wyll care for your soules. As for the tymbre of those goddes, the carpẽter hath polysshed them: yea gylted be they, & layed ouer with syluer. yet are they but vayne thynges, & can not speke. Lyke as a mãn that loueth peramours is trymlye decked, euen so are these made

made and hanged with golde. Crownes of golde haue their goddes vpon their heedes: so the prestes them selues take the golde and syluer from them, and put it to their owne vses: yea they gyue of the same vnto harlots, and trymme their hoores withall: agayne, they take it from the hoores, and decke their goddes therwith. Yet can not these goddes delyuer them selues frome rust and mothes. When they haue couered theym with clothynge of purple, they wype their faces for the dust of the temple, wherof there is moch among them. One hath a sceptre in his hand, as though he were iudge of the countrey: yet can he not slaye suche as offende hym. An other hathe a swearde or an axe in his hande, for all that, is he neyther able to defende hym selfe frome battayle, nor from murtherers.

Jeremye. x. a

By this ye maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes, therfore se that ye neither worshyp them, nor feare them. For lyke as a vessell that a man vseth, is nothynge worth whē it is broken, euen so is it with their goddes. When they be set vp in the temple, their eyes be full of dust, thorow the fete of those that come in. And lyke as the doores are shutte in, rounde about vpon hym that hath offended the kynge: Or as it were a deed body kepte beyde the graue: Euen so the prestes kepe the doores with barres and lockes, lest their Goddes be spoyled with robbers. They set vp candels before them (yea verily and that many) whereof they can not se one, but euen as blockes, so stande they in the temple. It is sayd: that the serpentes and wormes, whiche come of the earth, gnawe out their hertes, eatynge them and their clothes also, and yet they fele it not. Their faces are blacke, thorowe the smoke that is in the temple. The owles, swalowes, and byrdes flye vpon them, yea and the cattes runne ouer their heedes.

Settynge vp of candels before ydolles.

By this ye maye be sure, that they are not goddes, therfore feare them not. The golde that they haue, is to make them bewtyfull: and yet neuertheles, onles some body wype of their rust, they wyll gyue no shyne: and when they were cast in to a fourme, they felt it not. They are bought for money, and haue no breth of lyfe within them. They must be borne vpon mens shoulders, as those that haue no fete: whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothynge worth. Confounded be they then, that worshyp them. For yf they fall to the grounde, they can not ryse vp agayne of them selues. Yea though one helpe them vp and set them vpright, yet are they not able to stande alone: but must haue proppes set vnder them lyke deed men. As for ỳ thyng that is offred vnto them, their prestes sell it, and abuse it: yea ỳ prestes wyues take therof, but vnto ỳ syche & poore they gyue nothyng of it, the women with childe and the mēstruous laye handes of their offrynges. By this ye maye be sure, that they are no goddes, therfore be not ye afrayed of them. From whence commeth it then, that they be called goddes?

The women syt before the goddes of syluer, gold and wod, & the prestes syt in their temples, haueynge open clothes, whose heades and beerdes are shaue & haue nothynge vpon their heades: roreynge and cryeng vpon their goddes, as men do at the feast, when one is deed.

The prestes also take awaye the garmentes of the ymages, and decke their wyues & chyldren withal. Whether it be good or euel that any man do vnto them, they are not able to recōpence it: they can neyther set vp a kynge nor put him downe. In lyke maner they may neither gyue ryches, nor reward vpll. Thoughe a man make a bowe vnto them and kepe it not, they wyll not requyre it. They can not reskue a blynde man to his syght, ne helpe any at his nede. They can shewe no mercy to the wydow, nor doo good to the fatherles. Their goddes of wod stone, golde and syluer, are but euen as other stones, that be hewen of the mountayne.

Ecclesia

They that worshyp them shal be confounded. Howe shulde they then be taken for goddes? yea howe dare men call them goddes? And thoughe the Caldees worshypped them not, hearynge that they were but dom and coulde not speake: Yet they them selues offre vnto Bel, and wold fayne haue him to speake: as who saye, they coulde rele, that maye not moue. But when these men come to vnderstandyng, they shall forsake thē, for their goddes haue no feleynge.

A greate sort of women gyrde with cordes syt in the stretes, & burne olyue berryes. Now yf one of them be conueyed away and lye with any such as come by: she casteth her neyghboureese in the teeth, because she was not so worthelye reputed, nor her corde broken. What so euer is done for thē, it is but vayne & lost: Howe may it then be thought or sayd that they are goddes? Carpenters and goldsmythes make them, neyther be they anye other thynge, but euen what the workemen wyll make of them. Yea the goldsmythes the selues that make them, are of no longe contynuance: Howe shulde then the thynges that are made of them, be goddes? Vayne therfore are the thynges (yea verye shame is it) that they leaue behynd thē for their posterite. For as soone as there cōmeth any warre or plage vpon theym, the prestes ymagyn, where they maye hyde them selues with them. Howe can men thynke then they be goddes, whiche neither may defende them selues frome warre nor delyuer them frō myschefe? For seyng they be but of wod, of stone, of syluer and of golde: al people and kynges shal knowe here after, that they be but vayne thinges: yea it shal be openly declared, that they be no goddes: but euen the very workes of mens hādes, & that God hath nothig to do with thē. They can set no kynge in the lande nor gyue rayne vnto men. They can gyue no sentence of a matter, neither defende the lande frome wrong: For they are not able to do so moch as a crowe, that flyeth betwene heauen and earth.

When there happeneth a fyre in to the house of those goddes of wod, of syluer and of golde, the prestes wyll escape and saue thē selues, but the goddes burne as the balkes therin. They can not withstande any kynge or battayle: howe maye it then be thought or graunted, that they be goddes? Moreouer, these goddes of woode, of stone, of golde and syluer, maye neither defende them selues frō thynues ne robbers: yea the very wycked are stronger then they. These strype them out of their apparell, that they be clothed withall, these take their golde and syluer from them, and so get them away: yet can they not helpe them selues. Therfore it is moch better for a man to be a kynge, and to shewe his power, or els a profytable vessell in a house, wherin he that oweth it, myght haue pleasure: yea or to be a dore in a house, to kepe such thynges safe as be therin, then to be such a vayne god. The Sunne, the Moone, and all the starres when they gyue their shyne and lyght, are obedyent, and do men good: When the lyghtenynge glystreth, all is cleere: The wynde blowyth in euery countrey, and when God commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde aboute the hole worlde, they do as they are bydden: when the fyre is sent downe from aboue and commaunded, it burneth vp hylles & woddes.

But those goddes are not lyke one of these thynges, neither in bewtye nor in strengthe. Wherfore men shall not thynke nor say that they be goddes, seinge they can neither gyue sentence in iudgement, nor do men any good. Wherfore for asmoche as ye be now assured, that they be no goddes, se ye feare them not: for they can speake neither good ne euyll of kynges. They can shewe no tokens in heauen for the Heythen, neyther shyne as the Sunne, ne gyue light as the Moone. Yea the vnreasonable beastes are better then they, for they can get them vnder the shade, and do them selues good. So can ye be certifyed by no maner of meanes, that they be goddes: therfore feare them not. For lyke as a frayebogarde in a garden of cucumbers kepeth nothynge, euen so are their goddes of wod, of syluer & golde: and lyke as a whyterthorne in an orcharde, that euery byrde syt teth vpon: yea lyke as a deed body that is cast in ỳ darke: Euē so is it with those goddes of wod, syluer and golde. Ỳ the purple and scarlet whiche they haue vpō them, and soone fadeth away, ye maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes: yea they them selues shall be consumed at ỳ last, which shall be a great confusyon of the lande. Blessed is the godly man, that hath no ymages and worshippeth none, for he shall be far from reproue.

¶ The songe of the thre chyldren, whiche were put in to the hote brennynge ouen. The commen translacion, readeth this songe in the. iii. chap. of Daniel.

AND they walked in the middell of ỳ flame, prayeng God & magnyfying the Lord Azariah stode vp, & prayed on this maner. Euē in ỳ myddell of ỳ fyre opened he his mouth, & sayd: Blessed be thou (O Lorde God of oure fathers) ryght worthye to be prayed and honoured is that thy name, for euermore: for thou art ryghtous in all thy thynges that thou hast done to vs: yea faythful are all thy workes thy wayes are ryght, & thy iudgmentes true. In all thy thynges that thou hast brought vpon vs, and vpon the holye cytye of oure fathers (euen Jerusalem) thou hast executed true iudgement: yea accordynge to right and equytye hast thou brought these thinges vpō vs, because of oure synnes.

For why? we haue offended, and done wyckedly, departynge frome the: in all thynges haue we trespased, and not obeyed thy commaundementes, ne kept them, neither done as thou hast bidden vs, that we myght prospere. Wherfore all that thou hast brought vpon vs, and euerye thynge that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done thē in true iudgement: As in delyuerynge vs into the handes of our enemyes among vngodly and wicked abhominacions, and to an vnrightous kyng: yea the most frowarde vpon earth. And now we maye not open our mouthes, we are become a shame and reproue vnto thy seruauntes and to them that worshyp the. Yet for thy names sake (we beseche the) cast vs not oute for euer, breake not thy couenaunt, and take not away thy mercy from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, for thy seruaunt Isaacs sake and for thy holy Israels sake: to whom thou hast spoken, and promysed that thou wolest multyplye their sede as the starres of heuen, and as the sand that lyeth vpō the see shore. For we (O Lord) are become lesse then anye people, and be kept vnder at this daye in all the worlde, because of oure synnes: So that nowe we haue neither prynce duke, prophet, burntoffrynge, sacrifice, oblacyon, incense, ne Sanctuarye before the.

Neuertheles, in a contryte herte and an humble spirite lette vs be receyued that we maye obtayne thy mercye. And now we folow the with all oure herte we feare the, and seke thy face. Put vs not to shame, but trade with vs after thy louynge kyndnesse, & accordynge to the multytude of thy mercyes. Delyuer bs by thy myracles (O Lorde) and get thy name an honour: that all they which do thy seruauntes euyll, maye be confounded. Let them be ashamed thorow thy almyghtye power, and let their strengthe be broken: that that they maye knowe, how that thou only art the Lord God, and glorious thorowout all the worlde.

And the kynges seruauntes that put them in, ceassed not to make the ouen hote, with wylde fyre, dyse strawe, pytche and fagottes: so that the flame brast forth of the ouen vpon a forty and nyne cubytes, yea it toke awaye, and brent vp those Caldees that it gat holde vpon beside the ouen. But the Aungel of the Lorde came downe into the ouen to Asaria and his felowes, and smote the flame of the fyre out of the ouen, and made the myddell of the ouen, as it had ben a colde wynde blowyng, so that the fyre neither touched them, greued them, nor dyd them hurte. THE HISTORYE OF SVSANNA VVHICHE IS THE .XIII. CHAP. OF DANYEL AFTER THE LATYNE.

A THere dwelte a man in Babylō, called Joachim, that toke a wyfe whose name was Susanna, the doughter of Helchias, a verye fayre woman, and suche one as feared God. Her father and her mother also were godly people, & taught theyr doughter accordynge to the lawe of Moses. Joachim her husbande was a great ryche man, & had a fayre orcharde ioynyng vnto his house. And to hym resorted the Jewes comenly, because he was a man of reputacion amonges them. The same yere were made two iudges, suche as the Lorde spaketh of: All the wyckednesse of Babylon, commeth from the elders (that is) from the iudges, whiche seme to rule the people. These came ofte to Joachims house, and all suche as had any thynge to do in the lawe, came thyther vnto them.

B Nowe when the people came agayne at after noone, Susanna wente in to her husbandes orcharde, to walke. The elders seinge this, that she went in daylye, and walked: they were enamored vpon her, yea they were almost oute of theyr wyttes, and cast downe theyr eyes, that they should not se heauen, ne remembre that God is a righteous iudge. For they were both wounded with the loue of her, neither durst one shew an other his grefe. And for shame they durst not tell her, theyr inordinate lust, that they wolde fayne haue had to do wt her. Yet they layed wayte for her earnestly from daye to daye, that they might at the leest, haue a syght of her. And the one sayd to the other: Aryse, let vs go home, for it is dinner tyme. So they wēt theyr way frō her.

When they returned agayne, they came together, enquerynge out ỹ matter betwene them selues, yea the one tolde the other of his wicked lust. Then appoynted they a time when they myght take Susanna alone.

It happened also that they espyed out a C conuenyent tyme, when she wente for the to walke (as her maner was) and no body with her, but two maydens, and thought to wash her self in the garden, for it was an hote season: And there was not one person there, saue the two elders, that had hyd them selues, to beholde her. So she sayd to her maydens: go fet me oyle and sope, and shut the orcharde dore, that I maye wash me. And they dyd as she bad them, & shut the orchard dore, & went oute them selues at a backe dore, to fet the thynge that she had commaunded: but Susanna knewe not, that the elders laye there hyd within. Now whē ỹ maidens were gone forth, the two elders gat them vp: and ran vpon her, saying: now the orcharde dores are shut, that no man can se vs: we haue a lust vnto the, therfore consēt vnto vs, & lye with vs.

D If thou wylt not, we shall bringe a testymoniall agaynst the: that there was a yong felowe with the, and that thou hast sent away thy maydēs frō the for the same cause. Susanna syghed, and sayde: Alas, I am in trouble on euery side. Though I folow your mynde, it wyll be my death: and yf I consēt not vnto you, I can not escape your handes. Well, it is better for me, to fall in to youre hande without the dede doynge, then to syn in the syght of the Lorde: and with that, she cryed out with a loude voyce: the elders also cryed out agaynst her. Then ran there one to the orchard doze, and smote it open. Now when the seruauntes of the house herde the crye in the orcharde, they rushed in at ỹ backe doze, to se what the matter was. So whē the elders tolde them the seruauntes were great E lye ashamed, for why there was neuer suche a report made of Susanna. On ỹ morow after came the people to Joachim her husbande & the two elders came also, full of myschenous ymaginacions against Susanna, to bringe her vnto deth, and spake thus before the people: Send for Susanna the doughter of Helchias, Joachims wyfe. And immediatly they sent for her. So she came wt her father & mother, her chyldren & al her kinred. Now Susanna was a tender persō, & maruelous fayre of face. Therfore the wycked men cōmaunded to take of the clothes frō her face (for she was couered) ỹ at ỹ leest, they myght so be satisfyed in her beautye: Thē her frendes, yea & al they that knewe her, began to wepe.

These two elders stode vp in the myddest of the people, and layed their handes vpon the heade of Susanna: which wept & loked vp towarde heauen, for her herte had a sure Leuit.xxiiii.c trust in the Lorde. And the elders sayde: As we were walkynge in the orcharde alone, this woman came in with her two maydens whom she sent awaye frome her, and sparred the orcharde dores. With that a yong felow (whiche there was hid) came vnto her, & laye with her. As for vs, we stode: in a corner of ỹ orcharde. And when we saw this wyckednes we ran to her: and perceyued, that they had F medled togyther But we coulde not holde him, for he was stronger then we: thus he opened ỹ dore, & gat him away. Now whē we had take this womā, we asked her, what yōg felow this was: but she wolde not tell vs. This is the matter, & we be witnesses of the same. The commen sorte beleued theym, as those that were the elders & iudges of ỹ people, & so they condempned her to death. Susanna cryed out with a loud voyce, & sayd: O Hebru.xiii.a euerlastynge God, thou searcher of secretes, thou ỹ knowest all thynges afore they come to pas: thou wotest, ỹ they haue borne false wytnes against me: and behold, I must dye where as I neuer dyd any such thynges, as these men haue maliciously inuented agaynst me. And the Lorde herde her voyce. For why she was led forth to death, the Lorde raysed vp the spyrete of a yonge chylde, whose name was Daniel, whiche cryed wt a loude voyce:

Jam

G I am cleane frō this bloude. Then al the peo- (ii.Reg.i.c / Act.xx.d) ple turned thē towarde him, and sayd: What meane these wordes, ẏ thou hast spoken? Daniel stode in the middest of them, & sayd: Are ye such fooles, O ye children of Israel, ẏ ye can not discerne? Ye haue here condēned a doughter of Israel vnto death, & know not ẏ truthe wherfore: Go syt on iudgement agayne, for they haue spoken false wytnesse agaynst her.

Wherfore the people turned agayne in all ẏ haste. And the elders (that is the principall heedes) sayde vnto him: come syt downe here amonges vs, and shew vs this matter, seing God hath gyuen the as greate honour as an elder. And Daniel sayd vnto them. Put these (ii.Reg.iii.d) two asyde one from an other, and then shal I heare them. Whē they were put a sunder one from an other, he called one of them, and said vnto hym: O thou olde canckerde carle, that hast vsed thy wyckednesse so long: thyne vngracyous dedes, whiche thou hast done afore, are now come to lyght. For thou hast gyuen false iudgementes, thou hast oppressed the innocent, and letten the gyltye go free, where (Exodi xxiii.a / Prouer.xvii.c) as yet the Lorde sayth: The innocent and ryghteous se thou slaye not. Well than yf thou hast sene her, tell me vnder what tree sawest thou them talkyng togyther? He answered: Vnder a Molberry tree. And Daniel sayd: verye well, nowe thou lyest euen vpon thyne heed. Lo the messenger of the Lorde hathe receyued the sentence of hym, to cut the in two. Then put he hym asyde, and called for the other. and sayd vnto him: O thou sede of Canaan, but not of Iuda: Fayrnesse hath disceyued the, and lust hathe subuerted thyne herte. Thus dealte ye afore with the doughters of Israel, and they (for feare) consented vnto you: but the doughter of Iuda wolde not abyde youre wyckednesse. Nowe tell me thē vnder what tree dyddest thou take them, speakynge togyther? He answered: Vnder a Pomgranete tree. Then sayde Daniel vnto hym: Verye well, nowe thou lyest also euen vpon thyne heed. The messenger of the Lorde standeth waytynge with the swerde to cut the in two, and to slaye you bothe.

With that, all the hole multitude gaue a great shout, and praysed God, which alwaye delyuereth them that put theyr trust in him. And they came vpon the two elders (whom (Psalm.vii.a) Daniel had conuyct wᵗ theyr owne mouth: ẏ they had gyuen false wytnesse) & dealte with them, euen lykewyse as they wold haue done (Deute.xix.d / Prouer.xix.a) with their neyghboure: yea they dyd accordyng to ẏ law of Moses, & put them to death. Thus ẏ innocēt bloud was saued ẏ same day. Then Helchias and his wyfe praysed God, for theyr doughter Susanna, wᵗ Ioachim her husband and all the kynred: that there was no dishonestie found in her. Frō that day forth, was Daniel had in great reputacyon in the syght of the people.

A There was at Babilō an ymage, called Bel & there were spent vpon him euery daye twelue cakes fortye shepe, and vi. great pottes of wine. Hym dyd the kynge worshyp hym selfe, and went dayly to honoure him but Daniel worshypped his owne God. And the kynge sayde vnto him: Why doest not thou worship Bel? He answered: Because I maye not worshyp thynges made with handes, but the lyuynge God which made heuē and earth, & hath power vpon all flesh. (Deu.iiii. and.v.a / Exo.xx / Deute.v / Math.iiii) The kinge sayde vnto him: thinkest thou not that Bel is a lyuynge God? Or seyst thou not, how moch he eateth & drynketh euery daye? Daniel smyled and sayde: O kinge disceyue not thy selfe: this is but made of claye within, and of metall without, neither eateth he euer any thynge. Then the kyng was wroth (Eccl.xxx) and called for his prestes, & sayd vnto them: B If ye tel me not, who is this, that eateth vp these expences, ye shall dye: but yf ye can ascerteyne me, that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall dye, for he hath spoken blasphemy (Leuit.) agaynst Bel. And Daniel sayde vnto the king let it so be, euen as thou hast sayde. The prestes of Bel were.lxx. besyde their wyues and chyldren. And the kynge went with Daniel in to the tēple of Bel. So Bels prestes saide: Lo we wyll go oute and set thou the meate there (O kynge) and poure in the wyne: then shut the dore fast, & seale it with thyne owne sygnet: and to morowe when thou commest in, yf thou fyndest not, that Bel hath eaten vp all, we wyll suffre death: or els Daniel, that hath lyed vpō vs. The prestes thought thē selues sure ynough, for vnder the aulter they had made a preuy intraunce, and there went they in euer, & ate vp what there was. C

So when they were gone forth, the kynge set meates before Bel. Nowe Daniel had cōmaunded his seruauntes to brynge asshes & these he syfted thorowout all the temple, that the kynge myght se. Then went they out, and sparred the dore, sealynge it with ẏ kynges sygnet, and so departed. In the night came the prestes with their wyues and chyldren (as they were wont to do) and ate and dronke vp all. In the mornynge be tymes at the breake of the daye, the kynge arose, and Daniel wᵗ hym. And the kynge sayde: Daniel are the seales hole yet? He answered: Yea O kynge, they be hole. Now as soone as he had opened the dore, the kynge loked vnto the aulter, and cryed with a loude voyce: Greate art thou O Bel, and with the is no disceyte.

disceite. Then laughed Daniel, and held the kyng, that he shold not go in, and sayd: Beholde the pauement, marke well, whose foote steppes are these? The kyng sayd I se ẏ fote steppes of men, women and chyldren. Then D the king was angry, and toke the prestes, wᵗ theyr wyues and chyldren, and they shewed him the preuy dores, where they came in and ate vp such thinges as were vpon the aulter. For which cause the king slew them, and deliuered Bel in to Daniels power, which destroyed him and his temple.

And in that same place was a great dragō which they of Babilon worshipped. And the kyng sayd vnto Daniel: sayest thou, this is but a God of metal also? lo he lyueth, he eateth and drynketh, so that thou canst not say that he is no lyuyng God, therfore worshyp him. Daniel sayd to ẏ kyng: I wyl worship the Lord my God, he is the true liuing God: surely this is not the God of lyfe. But gyue me leue, o kyng, and I shall destroy this dragon without swerd or staffe. The kyng said I gyue the leue. Then Daniel toke pitch, fat and heery woll, and dyd sethe them togither and made lompes therof: this he put in the dragons mouthe, and so the dragon brast in sonder: and Daniel said: lo, here is he whō ye worshipped. When they of Babylon herd E that, they toke great spyte, and gathered thē togyther agaynste the kynge, sayinge: The king is become a Iewe also, he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slayn the dragon, and put the prestes to deth. So they came to the kynge, & sayd: let vs haue Daniel, or we wyll surely destroy the and thyne house. When the kyng saw, that they russhed in so sore vpon hym, & that necessitie constrayned him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them, whiche cast him in to the lyons den: where he was sixe dayes. In the den were seuen lyons, and there gyuen them euery day two bodyes, and two shepe, which then were not gyuen them, to thintent they myght deuoure Daniel.

F There was in Iury a Prophet called Abacuc, whiche had made potage, and broken breed in a depe platter, and was goyng in to the feld, to bryng it to the mowers. But the angel of the Lord said vnto Abacuc: go cary the meat that thou hast, in to Babylon, vnto Daniel which is in the lyons den. And Abacuc sayd: Lord, I neuer saw Babylon: and the den I know not. Then the aungel of the Lorde toke him by the top, and bare hym by (Ezech.viii.a) the heere of the heed, and (thorow a myghty wynde) set hym in Babylon vpon the denne. And Abacuc cryed, saying: O Daniel ẏ seruaunt of God, haue, take the breakefast that (iii.Reg.xvii.b) God hath sent the. And Daniel said, O God hast thou thought vpon me? wel, thou neuer faylest them that loue the. So Daniel arose, and ate: and the aungell of the Lorde set Abacuc in his owne place agayn forthwith.

Vpon the seuenth daye, the kyng went to bewepe Daniel: & when he came to the den, G he loked in: and beholde Daniel sate in the myddest of the lyons. Then cryed the kynge with a loude voyce, saying: Great art thou o Lorde God of Daniel: and he drewe hym (Iere.xxxvii.d / Hester.vii.b / Dani.vi.c) out of the den. Then those ẏ were the cause of his destruction he dyd caste in to the den, and they were straight deuoured before his face. After this wrote the kyng vnto all people, kynredes and tunges, that dwelte in all countreys, saying: peax be multiplied with you. My cōmaundement is, in all the dominion of my realme, that men feare and stand in awe of Danieis God, for he is the lyuyng (Dani.vi.c / Luke.i.e) God, whiche endureth euer: his kyngdome abydeth vncorrupte, and his power is euerlastynge. (Esaye.xliii.b / Osee.xiii.b / Daniel.iii.f) It is he that can delyuer and saue: he dothe wonders and maruelous workes in heuen and in earth, for he hath saued Daniel frō the power of the Lyons.

The prayer of Manasses kynge of Juda, when he was holden captyue in Babylon.

O Lorde almyghty, God of oure fathers: Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and of ꝑ ryghtous seed of thē: whiche hast made heuen & earth with al the furniture therof, which hast ordeyned the see by the word of thy commauudement: which hast shutte vp the depe, and hast sealed it for thy fearfull and laudable name, whiche all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy vertue, and for the anger of thy threatenyng, whiche is importable to synners. But the mercye of thy promyse is greate and vnsercheable: for thou art the Lord God most hygh aboue all the erth, longe sufferyng, and excedynge mercyfull, and repentaunte for the malyce of men. Thou Lorde after thy goodnesse hast promysed repentaunce of the remission of synnes: and thou ꝑ art the God of the ryghtous hast not put repentaunce to ꝑ ryghtous, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, vnto them that haue not synned agaynst the: But bycause I haue synned aboue the nombre of the sādes of the see, and that myne iniquities are multiplyed, I am humbled with manye bandes of yron, and there is in me no breathyng. I haue prouoked thyne anger, & haue done euyll before the, in commyttyng abhonacions and multiplying offences. And now I bow the knees of my hert, requyrying goodnesse of the, o Lorde. I haue synned Lorde, I haue synned, and knowe myne iniquitie. I desyre the by prayer, o Lorde forgyue me: forgyue me, and destroye me not with myne iniquities, neither do thou alwayes remembre myne euils to punish them, but saue me (whiche am vnworthy) after thy great mercye, & I wyll prayse the euerlastyngly, all the dayes of my lyfe, for all the vertue of heauen prayseth the, and vnto the belongeth glorye worlde without ende.
Amen.

THE FYRST BOKE OF THE MACHABEES.

After the death of Alexander kynge of Macedonia, Antiochus taketh the kyngdome. Many of the chyldren of Israel make tournaunte with the Gentyles. Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Jerusalem. Jerusalem beynge burnt maketh lawes of her owne, and forbydeth to kepe Gods lawes. Antiochus setteth vp an Idol ouer the altare of God.

CAPI. I.

After that Alexāder ¶ the son of Philip, king of Macedonia wente forth of the land of Cethim, and slew Darius kyng of ꝑ Persiās and Medes: It happened ꝑ he toke greate warres in hand, wan very many stronge cities, and slewe many kynges of the earth: goyng thorow to the endes of the worlde, and getteyng many spoyles of ꝑ people: In so moch ꝑ the worlde stode in greate awe of hym, and therfore was proude in his herte. Now when he had gathered a myghty hoste, and subdued the landes and the people with theyr pynces, so that they became tributaryes vnto hym: he fell sycke. And when he perceyued, that he muste nedes dye, he called for his noble estates (whiche hadde bene brought vp with hym of chyldren) & parted his kyngdome amonges them, whyle he was yet alyue. So Alexander raygned. xij. yere, and then dyed.

After his deth fell the kyngdome vnto his pynces, & they obteyned it euerye one in his rowme, and caused thē selues to be crowned as kinges: and so did their childr̄ after thē many yeres, and moch wickednes increased in the world. Out of these came the vngracious rote, noble Antiochus, the son of Antiochus ꝑ king (which had bē a pledge at Rome) and he raygned in the. Cxxxvij. yeare of the raigne of the Grekes.

In those dayes wente there oute of Israel wycked men, whiche moued moche people with theyr counsell, sayinge: Let vs go and make a couenaunt with the heathen that are round about vs, for sithens we departed frō them, we haue hadde moche sorowe. So this deuyce pleased them well, and certeyn of the people toke vpon them to go vnto the kyng, which gaue them lycence to do after the ordinaūce of the heathen. Then set they vp an open scole (at Jerusalem) of the lawes of the heathen, and were no more circumcised, but forsoke the holy testamēt, & ioyned them selues to the heathen, and were clene sold to wickednesse.

So when Antiochus began to be myghtye in his kyngdome, he wente aboute to obteyn the land of Egypt also, that he myghte haue the domynion of two realmes. Upon this entred he in to Egypte with a stronge hoste, with charettes, elephantes, horsemen, and a great nombre of shyppes, and began to war agaynst Ptolomy the kynge of Egypt. But Ptolomy was afrayd of him, and fled: and many of his people were wounded to death. Thus Antiochus wan many strong cities, & toke awaye greate good oute of the lande of Egypte.

And after that Antiochus had smytten Egypt, he turned agayne in the. Cxliij. yere, & went towarde Israel, and came vp to Jerusalem with a mighty people, and entred proudly in to the Sanctuary, and toke awaye the golden aulter, the candelstycke, & all the ornamentes therof, the table of ꝑ shewbred, the pouring vessel, the chargers, the golden spoones, the vale, the crownes & golden apparell of the temple, and brake downe all. He toke also the syluer and gold, the precious iewels and the secrete treasures that he found. And when he hadde taken awaye all, he caused a greate murther of men, and so fulfylled his malicious pride, and departed in to his own lande.

Thus arose great heuynesse and misery in all ꝑ land of Israel. The princes and elders of the people mourned, the yong men and the mayden were defyled, and the fayre beautye of women was chaunged: the bryde grome and the bryde toke them to mournynge: the lande and those that dwelte therin was moued, for all the house of Jacob was brought to nought.

After two yeres the kynges sente his chiefe treasurer vnto the cytyes of Juda, whiche came to Jerusalem with a greate multitude of people, speakynge peaceable wordes vnto theym, but all was disceyte: for when they had gyuen him credence, he fel sodeynly vpō the citye, and smote it sore, & destroyed moch people of Israell. And when he had spoyled the citye, he set fyre on it, castynge downe houses and walles on euery syde. The women and theyr chyldren toke they captyue, and ledde awaye theyr catel. Then buylded they the castell of Dauid with a greate and thycke wall, and with myghty towres, and made it a stronge holde for them. Beside all this, they set wycked people, & vngodly men to kepe it, stored it with weapons and vitayles, gathered the goodes of Jerusalem, and layd them vp there: thus became it a theuish castell.

And this was done to laye wayte for ꝑ people that went in to the Sanctuarye, and for the cruell destruccion of Israel. Thus they shed innocent blond on euery syde of the sanctuary, and defiled it: In so moche that the cityzins were fayne to departe, and the city became an habitacion of straungers, beinge desolate of her owne seed, for her owne natiues were fayne to leaue her. Her Sanctuary was clene wasted, her holy dayes were turned in to mournyng, her Sabothes were had in derision, & her honour brought to nought. Loke how great her glory was afore, so great was her confusion, and her ioye turned in to sorowe.

Antiochus also the kyng sent out a cōmission vnto all his kyngdome, that all the people sholde be one. Then they lefte euery man his lawe, and all the heathen agreed to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus: Yea, many of the Israelytes consented therunto, offred vnto ydols, & defilinge the Saboth. So the kynge Antiochus sent his messengers with his commyssyon vnto Jerusalem, and to all the cityes of Juda, that they sholde folowe the lawes of the heathen, and forbade eyther burntoffryng, meatoffryng or peaceoffryynge to be made in the temple of God, and that there sholde no Saboth ne hye feast daye be kepte: but commaunded ꝑ the Sanctuary, and the holy people of Israel sholde be defyled.

He commaunded also there shold be set vp other aulters, temples and ydols: to offre vp swynes flesh and other vnclene beastes, that men sholde leue theyr chyldren vncircumcised, to defyle theyr soules with all maner of vnclennesse and abhominacions, ꝑ they might so forget the law, and chaūge al the holy ordinaunces of God: and ꝑ who so euer wold not do accordynge to the commaundemente of kyng Antiochus, shold suffre deth: In lyke maner commaunded he thorowe oute all his realme, and set rulers ouer the people, for to compell them to do these thynges, commaundynge the cityes of Juda to do sacrifyce vnto ydolles.

Then went the people vnto the heathen by heapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lord, and cōmitted moch euil in the land: yea and chased out the secrete Israelites, which had hyd thē selues in corners and priuy places. The xv. daye of the moneth Casleu, in the. Cxlv. yere, set kyng Antiochus an abhominable ydoll of desolacion vpon the aulter of God, & they buylded aulters thorow out all the cytyes of Juda on euery syde, before the doores of the houses, and in the stretes, where they brent incese and did sacrifice. And the bokes of the law of God, they brent them in ꝑ fyre, and rent them in peces. What so euer he was that had a boke of the testament of the Lord founde by hym: yea who so euer endeuoured hym selfe to kepe the lawe of the Lorde, the kynges cōmaundement was, that they shold put hym to death. And thorow his auctorite they executed these thynges euerye moneth, vpon the people of Israel that were found in the cityes.

The fyne and twenty daye of the moneth what tyme as they did sacrifice vpon the alter (which stode in the stede of the aulter of ꝑ Lord) accordyng to the commaundement of kyng Antiochus, they put certeyn women to death, which hadde caused theyr chyldren to be circumcised: Not only that, but they hanged vp the chyldr̄ by the neckes thorow out all theyr houses, and slewe the circumcisers of them.

yet were ther many of the people of Israel whiche determined in them selues, that they wold not eat vnclene thinge, but chose rather to suffre deth, thē to be defiled with vnclene meates. So bicause they wolde not breke the blessed law of God, they were cruelly slayn. And this great tyranny encreased verye sore vpon the people of Israel.

¶ The mournyng of Mathathiah and his sonnes, for the destruction of the holy cyte. They refuse to do sacrifyce vnto Idols. The zele of Mathathiah for the lawe of God. They are slayne and wyll not fyght agaynst bycause of the Sabboth daye. Mathathiah dyinge commaundeth his sonnes to fyght by the worde of God, after the exemple of the fathers.

CAPI. II.

A IN those dayes there did stand vp one Mathathiah the sonne of Symeon the preeste (out of the kinred of Joaris) from Jerusalem, and dwelt vpon the mount of Modin, & had .v. sonnes: Jhon called Gaddis Symon called Thali: Judas otherwyse called Machabeus: Eleazer, otherwyse called Abarō: and Jonathas, whose surname was Apphus. These sawe the evyl that was done amonge the people of Juda and Jerusalem. And Mathathiah sayd: Wo is me, alas ỳ euer I was borne, to se this misery of my people, and the pitious destructiō of the holy city, and thus to syt so stil, it being deliuered in to the handes of the ennemies. Her Sanctuary is come in to the power of straungers, her temple is as it were a man ỳ hath lost his good name. Her precious ornamentes are caryed awaye captyue, her olde mē are slayne in the stretes and her yong men are fallē thorow ỳ swerd of the ennemyes.

1.Mach.i.b

What people is it that hath not some possession in her kyngdome? Or who hathe not gotten some of her spoyles? All her glorye is taken awaye. She was a quene, and nowe she is become an handmayde. Beholde oure Sanctuarye, oure beautie and honoure is wasted awaye, and defyled by the Gentyles. What helpeth it vs thē to lyue? And Mathathiah rent his clothes and his sōnes, and put sackecloth vpon them, and mourned very sore.

B Then came the men thyther whiche were sent of kyng Antiochus to compell suche as were fled in to the cityе of Modin, for to do sacrifice and to burne incense vnto ydols, & to forsake the lawe of God. So many of the people of Israel cōsented and enclined vnto them, but Mathathiah & his sonnes remayned stedfast. Then spake the commissioners of king Antiochus, and said vnto Mathathiah: thou art a nobleman of high reputacion and great in this city, hauing fayre children and brethren. Come thou therfore fyrst, and and fulfill the kynges commaundement, like as all the Heathen haue done, yea & the mē of Juda, and such as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalt ỳ and thy children be in the kynges fauour, and enriched with gold, silver, & great rewardes.

Mathathiah answered and spake with a loude voyce: Though all nacions obeye the kynge Antiochus, and fall awaye euery man frō keping the law of their fathers: though they consente to his commaundementes, yet wyl I & my sonnes and my brethren, not fall from the law of our fathers. God forbid we shold, that were not good for vs, ỳ we sholde forsake the law and ordinaūces of God, and to agre vnto the commaundement of kynge Antiochus. Therfore we wil do no suche sacrifice, neither breake ỳ statutes of our law, to go an other waye. And when he had spokē these wordes, there came one of the Jewes, which openly in the sighte of all, dyd sacrifice vnto the ydols vpon the aulter in the cityе of Modyn, accordyng to the kinges commaundement.

Whē Mathathiah saw this, it greued him at the hert, so that his raynes spake withall, and his wrath kindled for very zele of ỳ law. With that he gaue a skyp forthe, and kylled the Jewe beside the aulter: yea and slew the kynges commissioner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroyed the aulter at the same time, such a zele had he vnto the law of God, lyke as Phinehes dyd vnto Zambry ỳ sonne of Salomi. And Mathathiah cryed w a loud voyce thorow the city, saying: Who so is feruent in the law, & wil kepe the couenaunt, let him folow me. So he & his sonnes fled in to the mountaynes, and lefte all that euer they had in the city. Many other godly men also departed in to the wildernes with theyr children, theyr wyues and their catel, and remayned there, the tyrāny increased so sore vpon them.

D Nowe when the kynges seruauntes and the hoste, whiche was at Jerusalem in the cityе of Dauid herde that certayne men had broken the kynges commaundement, and were gone theyr waye to the wyldernesse in to secrete places, and that there were many departed after them: they folowed vpō them to fyghte agaynste them in the Saboth daye, and sayd: Wyl ye yet rebell? Get you hence, and do the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, and ye shall lyue. They answered: we wyll not goo forthe, neyther wyll we doo the kynges commaundement, to defyle the Saboth daye. Then began they to fyght agaynst them, neuertheless they gaue them none other answere, neyther caste they one stone at them, nor made fast their priuy places, but sayd: We wyl dye all in our innocency, heuen and erth shal testify with vs, that ye put vs to death wrongously. Thus they fought against them vpon the Saboth, and slewe both men and catell, their wyues and theyr children, to the nombre of a thousande people.

Iosephus

E When Mathathiah and his frendes herde this, they mourned for them right sore, and sayd one to an other: Yf we ỳ be ỳ we al do as our brethrē haue done, and fight not for our liues and for our lawes agaynst ỳ heathen: then shall they the soner roote vs out of the erth. So they concluded amonges them selues at the same tyme, saying: What so euer he be that commeth to make battayle with vs is vpon the Sabboth daye, we wyll fyght against him, and not dye al, as our brethren, ỳ were murthered so heynously. Vpō this came the Synagoge of ỳ Jewes vnto thē, stronge men of Israel, all such as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecution, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In so moch that they gathered an host of men, and slewe the wycked doers in theyr gelousy, and the vngodly mē in their wrath. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mathathias and his frendes went aboute, and destroyed the aulters, and circumcised the chyldren, that had not yet receyued circumcision: as manye as they founde within the coostes of Israell: and folowed myghtylye vpon the chyldren of pryde, and this acte prospered in theyr handes: In so moche that they kepte the lawe agaynste the power of the Gentyles and the kynges, and gaue not ouer theyr domynyon vnto wycked doers.

F

After this, when the tyme drewe on fast, ỳ Mathathias shold dye, he said vnto his sonnes: Now is pryde and persecucion increased: now is the tyme of destruction & wrathful displeasure: wherfore (o my sōnes) be ye feruent in the law, & leopard your lyues for the testamēt of the fathers: call to remembraunce what actes our fathers dyd in their tyme, so shall ye receyue great honoure, and an euerlastyng name.

ii.Mach.ii

Remembre Abraham, was not he founde faithful in temptacion, and it was reckened vnto him for rightousnes? Joseph in time of his trouble, kepte the commaundement, and was made a lorde of Egypte. Phinehes our father was so feruēt for the honour of God, that he obteyned the couenaunt of an euerlastyng preesthode. Josue for fulfyllynge the worde of God, was made the capitayne of Israel. Caleb bare recorde before the congregacion, and receyued an heritage. Dauid also in his mercyfull kyndnesse, obteyned ỳ trone of an euerlastynge kyngdome. Eliah beinge gelous and feruent in the law, was taken vp into heuen. Hananias Azarias and Misael, remayned stedfast in fayth, and were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner Daniel being vngilty, was saued from the mouth of the lyons.

And thus ye maye consydre thorowout all ages sithens the world began, that who so euer put their trust i God were not ouercom. Feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man, for his glory is but dong & wormes: to daye is he set vp, and to morowe is he gone: for he is turned in to erth, and his memorial is come to nought. Wherfore, o my sonnes, take good hertes vnto you, & quyte your selues like men in the law: for yē ye do the thinges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lord your God, ye shal obteyn great honour therin.

And behold, I know that your brother Symon is a man of wisdom, se that ye giue care vnto him alway, he shalbe a father vnto you

As for Judas Machabeus, he hath euer bene mighty and stronge, from his youth vp: let him be your capiteyn, & ordre the batell of ỳ people: thus shal ye bring vnto you al those that fauour the law, & se ye auenge ỳ wrong of your people, and recompence the heathen agayne, and apply your selues hole to the cō maundemēt of the law. So he gaue them his blessing, and was layde by his fathers: and died in the .C.xlvi. yere at Modin, where his sōnes buried him in his fathers sepulcre, and all Israell made greate lamentacion for hym.

¶ Judas is made ruler ouer the Jewes. He kylleth Appolonius and Seron the prynce of Syria. The confydence of Judas toward God. Judas determyneth to fyght agaynst Lisias, whom Antiochus had made captayne ouer his hoost. The prayer of the abstrayners.

CAPI. III.

A Judas. Iosephus cap. viii. xi. xii. Justin.

THen stode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers stede, and all his brethren helped him: and so dyd al they that helde with his father, & fought with cherefulnesse for Israel. So Judas gat his people great honour: he put on a brestplate as a giaunt, and arayed hym self with his harnesse, and defended the hoost with his swerde. In his actes he was lyke a lyon, & as a lyons whelp rorynge at his pray. He was an enemy to the wicked, and hunted them out, and brent vp those that vexed his people: so that his enemies fled for feare of him, and all the workers of vngodlynesse were put to trouble, suche lucke and prosperitie was in his hand. This greued diuers kinges, but Jacob was greatly reioyced thorow his actes, and he gat him self a great name for euer.

Psalme.c.b ii.Mach.viii

He went thorow the cities of Juda, destroying the vngodly out of them, turning away the wrath from Israel, and receyuyng suche as were oppressed: & the fame of him went vn to the vttermost parte of the erth. Then Apollonius (a prince of Siria) gathered a mighty great hoste of the heathen, and out of Samaria, to fyght agaynst Israel, which when Judas perceyued, he went forth to mete him, fought with him, slewe him, and a great multitude with him: the remnaunte fled, and he toke their substaunce. Judas also toke Apollonius owne swerde, and foughte with it all his lyfe longe.

Apollonius.

Now when Seron (an other prince of Siria) herde saye, that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacion and churche of the faythful, he said: I wil get me a name and a prayse thorow out the realme, for I wyll go fyghte with Judas, and theym that are with hym, as manye as haue defyed the kynges commaundement. So he made hym redye, and there went with hym a greate myghtye hoste of the vngodlye to stande by hym, and to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethoron, Judas went forth agaynst them with a small com-

pony. And when his people saw such a great hoste before theym, they sayde vnto Judas: How are we able (beinge so fewe) to fyght against so great a multitude and so stronge? seing we be so wery, and haue fasted all this daye.

But Judas sayde: It is a small mater for many to be ouercome with few: yea there is no difference to the God of heuen, to deliuer by a great multitude or by a smal company: for the victory of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the hoste, but the strengthe commeth from heuen. Beholde, they come a- gaynst vs with a presumptuous and proude multitude, to destroye vs, oure wyues and oure chyldren, and to robbe vs. But we wyl fyght for our lyues, and for oure lawes, and the Lorde hym selfe shall destroye them before our face: therfore be not ye afrayde of them.

As sone as he had spoken these wordes, he lept sodeynly vpon them. Thus was Seron smytten, and his hoste put to flyght, and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethoron vnto the playn feld, where there were slayne eyght hundred men of them, and the residue fled in to the land of the Philistines. Then all the heathen on euery syde were afrayde for Judas and his brethren: so that the rumour of him came vnto the kinges eares, for all the Gentyles couldе tell of the warres of Judas.

So when kyng Antiochus herde these tydinges, he was angry in his mynde: wherfore he sent forth and gathered an host of his hole realme, very strong armyes, and opened his treasury and gaue his host a yeres wages in hande, commaundynge them to be redye at all tymes.

Neuertheles when he sawe that there was not money ynoughe in his treasuryes, & that thorow the discorde and persecucion, which he made in the lande (to put downe the lawes that hadde ben of olde tymes) his customes and trybutes of the lande were mynyshed: he feared that he was not hable for to beare the costes and charges any longer, nor to haue suche gyftes, to gyue so lyberally as he dyd afore, more then the kinges that were before him.

Wherfore he was heuy in his mynde, and thought to go in to Persides for to take tributes of ỳ lande, & so to gather moch money. So he left Lysias (a noble man of the kinges bloud) to ouerse the kinges businesses, from the water Euphrates, vnto ỳ borders of Egypt, and to kepe wel his son Antiochus, tyl he came agayne.

Moreouer he gaue hym halfe of his hoste, and Elephantes, committed vnto him euery thyng of his mynde, concerning thos which dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem, that he shulde sende out an armye agaynst them, to destroy and to rote out the power of Israel, and the remnaunte of Jerusalem: to put oute their memorial from that place, & set straungers for to inhabyte all their quarters, and to parte their lande amonges them. Thus the kyng toke the other part of the host, and departed from Andioch (a citye of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the hundred and .xlvij. yere, and went thorowe the hygh countreys.

And Lysias chose vnto him Ptolomy the sonne of Dorimus, Nicanor, and Gorgias myghty men, and the kinges frendes. These he sent with .xl. thousande footemen, and .vij. thousande horsemen, for to go in to the land of Juda, and to destroy it, as the kyng commaunded. So they went forth with all their power, & came to Emmaus in to the playne felde. When the marchauntes herde the rumour of them, they and their seruantes toke very moch siluer and gold, for to bie the chil dren of Israel to be their bondemen. There came vnto them also yet mo men of warre out of euery syde, oute of Syria, and frome the Palestines.

Now when Judas and his brethren sawe ỳ that trouble increased, & that the hoste drew nye vnto the borders, considering the kynges wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namelye, that they shulde vtterlye waste and destroye them. They sayde one to an other. Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people, let vs fight for our folke, and for our Sanctuarye. Then the congregacion were soone redye gathered to fyght, to praye, and to make supplicacion vnto God for mercy & grace.

As for Jerusalem, it laye voyde, and was as it hadde ben a wyldernesse. There went no man in nor out at it, and the Sanctuarye was troden downe. The aleauntes kept the castle there was the habitacion of the heathen. The myrth of Jacob was taken away, the pype and the harpe was gone frō among them.

The Israelytes gathered them together, and came to Malpha before Jerusalē: For in Malpha was the place where they prayed afore tyme. So they fasted that daye, and put sackeclothes vpon them, caste asshes vpon their heades, rente their clothes, and layde forthe the bokes of the lawe (whereonte the heathen soughte the lykenesse of their ymages (and broughte the Preestes ornamentes the firstlinges and the tithes. They set there also the abstayners (whiche hadde fulfylled their dayes) before God, and cryed with a loude voyce towarde heuen, sayinge: What shall we doo with these? and whyther shall we carye them awaye? For the Sanctuarye is troden downe and defyled, thy preestes are come to heuynesse dishonoure: and behold the heathen are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagin agaynst vs. How may we stand before them, excepte thou, o God, be oure helpe?

They blewe oute the trompet also with a loude voyce. Then Judas ordeyned Capytaynes ouer the people: ouer thousādes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyftyes, and ouer ten. But as for suche as buylded them houses, maryed wyues, planted them vynyardes, and thole that were fearful: he commaunded them euery man to go home, accordynge to the lawe. So the hoost remoued, and pytched vpon the southsyde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Arme your selues, be stronge (O my chyldren) make you readye agaynst to morow in the morning, that ye may fyght with these people, whiche are agreed together to destroye vs and oure sanctuarye. Better is it for vs to dye in battayle, then to se our people and our sanctuary in such a myserable case. Neuertheles, as the wyll is in heuen, so be it.

¶ Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias, whiche lyeth in wayte. He putteth Gorgias and his hoost to flyght. Lisias inuadeth Jewrye, but Judas dryueth him out. Judas purifyeth the temple, and dedycateth the altare.

CAPI. IIII.

Then toke Gorgias fyue thousande men of fote, and a thousande of ỳ best horsemen: and remoued by nyght, to come nye where the Jewes hoost laye, and to slaye them sodenly. Now the men that kepte the castell, were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the chyef and principal of the kynges hoost at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In ỳ meane season came Gorgias by nyght in to Judas tentes: and when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the mountaynes, & thought they had bene fled away because of hym. But when it was daye, Judas shewed hym selfe in the felde with thre thousande men onlye, whiche hath neither harnesse ne swerdes to their mynde.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the Heythen were myghtye and well harnessed, and their horsmen about them, and all these well experte in feates of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men that were with him: Feare not ye the multitude of them, be not afrayed of their byolente runnynge: remembre howe oure fathers were delyuered in the reed see, when Pharao threatened them with a great hoost. Euen so let vs also crye now towarde heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vpō vs, and remēbre the couenaūte of our fathers, yea and destroye this hoost before oure face this daye: And all the Heythen shall knowe that it is God him selfe, which deliuereth and sauueth Israel.

Then the Heythen lyft vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were commynge agaynst them, they went out of their tentes into the battayle: and they that were with Judas, blewe vp the trompettes. So they buckled together, and the Heythen were discomfyted, and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hynmost of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Azaremoth, and in to the feldes of Idumea, towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoost, and sayd vnto the people: Be not gredy of the spoyles, we haue yet a battayle to fyghte: for Gorgias and his hoost are here by vs in the mountaynes, but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes, and ouercome them: then may ye safely take the spoyles.

As Judas was speakynge these wordes, there appeared one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his partye were fled, and the tentes brente vp (for by the smoke they myght vnderstand what was done) they perceyuynge this, were very sore afrayde: and when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in the felde ready to stryke battayle, they fled euerychone in to the lande of the heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gat moch golde and syluer, precious stones, purple, and greate ryches. Thus they went home and songe a Psalme of thankesgeuynge and prayse God in heauen for he is gracyous, and his mercye endureth for euer: And so Israel had a great victorye in that daye.

Nowe all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euery thyng as it happened. Wherfore Lysias was sore afrayed and greued in his mynde, bycause Israel had not gotten suche myshortune as he wolde they shulde neither as the kynge commaunded. The next yere folowynge, gathered Lysias thre score thousande chosen men, of fote, & fyue thousande horsmen to fyght agaynste them.

So they came in to Jewrye, and pitched their tentes at Bethoron, where Judas came agaynste them with ten thousande men. And when he sawe so greate myghtye an hoost, he made his prayers and sayde: Blessed be thou (O sauyoure of Israel) whiche brakest destroye the byolent power of the graunte, in the hand of thy seruaunt Dauid, and gauest the hoost of the heathen into the hand of Jonathas (the sonne of Saul) and of his weapō bearer.

Put this hoost now into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in their multytude of horsmen. Make them afrayed, and dicomfort the boldnes of their strength, that they maye be moued thorowe their destruction. Cast them downe thorowe the swearde of thy louers, then shall all they that knowe thy name, prayse the with thankesgyuynge.

So they stroke the battayle, & there were slayne of Lysias hoost, fyue thousande men. Then Lysias seyng the discomfetynge of his men, and the manlynes of the Jewes, howe they were ready, either to lyue or to dye lyke men: he went vnto Antioch and chose oute men of warre: that when they were gathered together, they myght come agayne in to Jewry. Then sayde Judas and his brethren: beholde oure enemyes are discomfeted: Let vs nowe go vp, to clense and repayre the Sanctuarye.

Upon this all the hoste gathered them together, and went vp vnto mounte Syon. Nowe when they sawe the Sanctuary layd waste waste, the altare defyled, the dores brent vp, the shrubbes growyng in the courtes, lyke as in a wod, or vpon mountaynes, yea and that the prestes Celles were broken downe: They rent theyr clothes, made great lamentacyon, cast asshes vpon theyr heedes, fell downe flat to the grounde, made a great noyse with the trompettes, and cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyght agaynst those which were in the castel, tyll they had clensed the Sanctuary. So he chose prestes that were vndefiled, such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they clensed the Sanctuary, and bare out the defyled stones, in to an vncleane place. And for so moche as the altare of burntoffrynges was vnhalowed, he toke aduysement, what he myght do with all: so he thought it was best to destroye it (lest it shoulde happen to do them any shame) for the Heythen had defyled it, and therfore they brake it downe. As for the stones they layed them vp vpon the mountayne, by the house in a conuenyent place: til there came a prophete to shewe, what should be done with them.

F So they toke hole stones accordyng to the lawe, and buylded a newe altare, such one as was before, & made vp the Sanctuary within and withoute, and halowed the courtes. They made newe ornamentes, and brought the candelsticke, the altare of incense, and the table in to the temple. The incẽse layed they vpon the altare, and lyghted the lãpes which were vpon the candelstycke, that they myght burne in the temple. They set the shewbreed vpon the table, and hanged vp the vale, and set vp the temple as it was afore. And vpon the .xxv. daye of the nynth moneth, which is called the moneth of Casleu, in the .C.xlviii. yere: they rose vp bytymes in the mornynge for to do sacrifyce (accordyng to the law) vpõ the newe burntoffryng altare, that they had made: after the tyme and seasõ that the Heithen had defiled it. The same daye was it set vp agayne, with songes, pypes, harpes, and cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon theyr faces, G worshippyng and thankyng the God of heuẽ which had gyuen them the victorye. So they kept the dedicacyon of the altare .viii. dayes, offrynge burnt sacrifyces and thankofferynges with gladnesse. They decte the temple also wt crownes and shyldes of golde, and halowed ye portes & celles, and hanged dores vpon them. Thus there was very great gladnes among ye people, because ye blasphemye of the Heithẽ was put away. So Judas & his brethrẽ wt the hole cõgregacyon of Israel, ordined that the tyme of the dedycacyon of ye altare sholde be kepte in his season, frome yeare to yeare, by the space of eyght dayes, from the twenty & fyfth day of the moneth Casleu: yea and that with myrth and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mount Syon, with hygh walles and stronge towres round about: lest the Gentyles shuld come and treade it downe, as they dyd afore. Therfore Judas set men of war in it, to kepe it: and made it strong, for to defende Bethsura: that the people myght haue a refuge against the Edomites.

IT happened also that when the Heathen A rounde aboute herde, howe that the aulter and the Sãctuary were set vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased theym verye sore wherfore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was amonges them: In so moch that they began to slaye and to persecute certayne of the people. Then Judas fought agaynste the chyldren of Esau in Idumea, and agaynst those which were at Arabathane (for they dwelt round aboute the Israelites) where he slewe and spoyled a great multytude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malyce and vnfaythfulnes of the chyldrẽ of Bean, how they were a snare and stoppe vnto the people, an howe they layed wayte for them in the hygh waye wherfore he shut them vp in to towres, and came vnto them, condemned them, and brent vp their towres with all that were in them.

After warde went he agaynste the chyldrẽ of Ammon, wherof he founde a myghtye power, and a greate multytude of people, with Timothy their captayne. So he stroke many battayles with them, whiche were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them, he wan Gazer the citye, with the townes belõgyng therto, and so turned agayne into Jewry. The Heathen also in Galaad gathered them togyther, agaynste the Israelytes that were in their quarters to slay them: but they fled to the castel of Datheman, and sent letters vnto Judas and his brethren, sayinge: The heathen are gathered agaynste vs on e- B uery syde, to destroye vs, and now they make them for to come, and laye sege to the castell wherunto we are fled, and Timothy is the captayne of theyr hoste, come therfore and delyuer vs out of their handes: for there is a greate multytude of vs slayne al readye. Yea and our brethren that were at Tubin, are slayne and destroyed (well nygh a thousande men) and their wyues, theyr chyldren & theyr goodes haue the ennemyes ledde awaye captyue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readynge, beholde, there came other messengers frome Galile, with rent clothes, whiche tolde euen the same tydynges, and sayde, that they of Ptolomaus, of Tirus and of Sidon were gathered agaynste them, and that all Galylee was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israel. When Judas and the people herde this, they came togyther (a greate congregacyon) to deuyse, what they myght do for their brethren, that were in trouble and besieged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayd vnto Symon his brother: chose the out certayne men, and go delyuer thy brethren in Galilee: As for me and my brother Jonathas, we wyl go in to Galaaditim. So he lefte Josephus the sonne of Zacharye, and Azarias to be Captaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnaunt of the hoost in Jewrye, and commaunded them, sayinge: Take the ouersyght of this people, & se that ye make no warre agaynst the Heythen, vntyll the tyme that we come agayne. And vnto Symon he gaue thre thousande men, for to go into Galilee, but Judas him selfe had eyght thousande in Galaaditim.

C Then wente Symon in to Galilee, and stroke dyuers batayles with the Heithẽ: who he discomfyted, and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomais. And there were slayne of the Heithen almost thre thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, and caryed awaye the Israelytes, that were in Galilee and Arbatis, with theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, and brought them in to Jewry with greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathas, went ouer Jordane, and trauayled thre dayes iourney in the wyldernesse: Where the Nebuthees met them, and receyued them louyngly, and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaaditim, and how that many of them were besieged in Barasa, Bosor, Alimis, Casphor, Mageth & Carnaim (al these are strong walled & myghtye greate cytyes) and that they were kept in other cyties of Galaad also: and tomorow they are apoynted to brynge their host vnto these cyties, to take them and to wynne them in one daye.

So Judas and his hoost turned in all the haste in the wyldernesse towarde Bosor, and wan the cytye, slewe all the males with the swearde, toke all theyr goodes, and set fyre vpon the cytye. And in the nyght they toke theyr iourneye from thence, and came to the castell. And bytymes in the mornynge when they loked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people, bearynge laders & other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayle began, and that the noyse therof wente vp and range in to the heauẽ, and that there was so great a cry in the cytie: He sayd vnto his host: fyght this day for your brethren. And so came behinde their enemyes in thre companies, and blew the trompettes, and cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timothis hoost perceyued that Machabeus was there, they fledde from hym, and the other slewe them downe ryght sore: so that there were kylled of them that same day, almost eyght thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, layed siege vnto it and wan it, slew al the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpõ it. From thence D went he & toke Casbon, Mageth. Bosor, and the other cyties in Galaad.

After this gathered Tymothy another hooste, which pitched their tentes before Raphon beyond, the water. Judas sente to spye the host, and they brought hym word agayne sayinge: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto hym, & the hoost is very great: yea they haue hyred the Arabians to helpe them, and haue pitched tentes beyonde the water, and are redy to come and fyght agaynste the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothy sayde vnto the captaynes of his hoost: when Judas and his host come nygh the ryuer: yf he go ouer fyrste, we shall not be hable to withstande hym: for why, he wyll be to stronge for vs. But yf he dare not come ouer so that he pitch his tente beyonde the water: then wyll we go ouer, for we shall be stronge ynough agaynste hym. Now as soone as Judas came to the ryuer he appoynted certayne scrybes of the people, and commaunded them, sayinge: se that ye leue none behind vpõ this syde of ye ryuer, but let euerye man come to the battayle. So he went fyrst ouer vnto them and his people after hym.

And all the heathen were discomfeted before hym, and let their weapons fal, and ran in to the tẽple that was at Carnaim. Which cytye Judas wan, and brent the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued and myght not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered al the Israelites that were in Galaaditim, frõ the leest vnto the most, with their wiues and their chyldren (a very greate host) for to come in to the lande of Israel.

Carnaim.

So they came vnto Ephron, whiche was E a myghtye, greate and stronge cytye and laye in their waye. For they coulde not goo by it, neither of the ryght hande ne of the left, but must go thorowe it. Neuertheles they that were in the cyty, wold not let thẽ go thorow but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them wt peaceable wordes, sayinge: Let vs passe thorow youre lande, ye we maye go in to oure owne countrey: there shall no bodye do ye harme, we wyll but only go thorow. But they wold not let thẽ in.

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamacion to be made thorow out the host, that euery man shulde kepe his ordre: and so they dyd their best lyke valyaunt men.

And Judas besieged the cyty all that daye and all that nyghte, and so wan it: where they slewe as manye as were males, and destroyed the cytye and spoyled it, and wente thorowe all the cytye ouer them that were slayne. Then went they ouer Jordan into the playne felde before Bethsan. And Judas helped those frowarde that came behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacion al the way thorow tyll they were come in to theyr land of Juda. Thus they went vp vnto ye mounte Sion, where they offred wt myrth and thankesgeuyng: because there were none of them slayne, but came home agayne peaceably.

theyr brother in Galilee before Ptolomays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary, and Azarias the captaynes, hearynge of the actes that were done, and the battayles that were foughten, sayd: Let vp get vs a name also, and go fyght agaynst the Heythen that are roūde about vs.

Presumptuous glories

F So they gaue theyr hoost a commaundement, and wente towarde Jamnyah. Then came Gorgyas and his men out of the cytie, to fyght agaynst them: Josephus also and Asarias were chased vnto the borders of Jewry and there were slayne that daye of ẏ people of Israel two. M. men: so that there was a great mysery amonges the people, and all bicause they were not obedyēt vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shoulde quyte them selues manfullye. Neuerthelesse, they came not of the sede of these men, by whom Israel was helped. But the men that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the syght of all Israell and all Heythen, where so euer theyr name was herde vpon, and the people came vnto them, byddynge them welcome.

After this wente Judas forthe with his brethren, and fought agaynst the chyldren of Esau, in the land that lieth toward the south where he wanne the cytie of Hebron, and the townes that lie besyde it: and as for the walles and towres rounde about it, he brēt them vp. Then remoued he to go in to the lande of the Philistines, and went thorow Samaria. ☞ At the same tyme were there manye prestes slayne in ẏ battayle, which wylfully and without aduysement went out for to fyght to get them honour. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philistines lande, he brake downe their altares, brēt the ymages of their Idols, spoyled the cyties, and came agayne in to the land of Juda.

Josephus cap. xiii. libr. xii. Antiq.

NOw when kynge Antyochus trauayled thorow the hygh countryes, he herde ẏ Elymas in Persia was a noble and plenteous cytie in syluer and gold, and that there was in it a very ryche temple: where as were clothes, cote armoures, and shyldes of golde, whiche Alexander the sonne of Philip kynge of Macedonia had left behynde him. Wherfore he wente aboute to take the cytie and to spoyle it, but he was not able: for the cytezins were warned of it, & fought with hym. And so he fled and departed with great heuynesse, and came agayne in to Babylon. Moreouer there came one whiche brought him tydynges to Persyde, that his hoostes whiche were in ẏ lande of Juda, were dryuen away, and how that Lisias went forthe fyrst with a great power, and was dryuen awaye of the Jewes: howe that they had won the vyctory, and gotten greate goodes out of the hoostes ẏ peryshed: how they had broken down the abhomynacion, which he set vp vpon the aultare at Jerusalem, and fenced the Sanctuary with hyghe walles, like as it was afore yea and Bethsura his cytye also.

B So it chaunced, that when the kynge had herde these wordes, he was afrayde and greued very sore. Wherfore he layde hym down vpon his bed, and fell sycke for very sorowe: and all because it hadde not happened as he had deuysed. And there contynued he longe, for his grefe was euer more and more, so ẏ he sawe he must nedes dye. Therfore he sente for his frendes: and sayd vnto them, the slepe is gone frome myne eyes for the verye sorow and vexacion of herte that I haue. For whē I consydre in my mynde the great aduersytye that I am come vnto, & the floudes of heuynes which I am come i, where as afore tyme I was so mery and so greatly set by (by reasō of my power) Agayne, consydrynge the euyll that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whēce I toke al the ryches of golde and syluer that were in it, and sent to fetch awaye the inhabytauntes of Jewrye without anye reason why: I knowe, that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And beholde, I must dye with great sorow in a straūge land. Then called he for one Philip a frende of his whom he made ruler of all his realme, and gaue hym the crowne, his robe and his ryng: that he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and brynge hym vp, tyll he myghte raygne him self. So the kyng Antiochus dyed there, in the. cxlix. yere. Whē Lisias knew that the kynge was deed, he ordeyned Antiochus his sonne (whom he had brought vp) to raygne in his fathers stede, and called him Eupator. Nowe they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes rounde about the Sanctuarye, and sought euer ayl to do them harme, for the strengthenynge of the heathen.

C Josephus ca. xiiii. lib. xii. Antiq.

Wherfore Judas thought to destroye thē, and called all the people togyther, that they myght laye siege vnto them. So they came togyther in the. Cl. yere, and besieged them, layinge forth their ordynaunce and instrumētes of warre. Then certayne of them that were besieged went forth (vnto whome some vngodly men of Israel ioyned theym selues also) and went vnto the kyng sayinge: How longe wyll it be, or thou punysh and auenge our brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruyce to walke in his statutes and to obeye his commaundementes. Therfore oure people fell frome vs, & wherso euer they founde anye of vs, they slew thē and they haue not only medled with vs, but with all oure countreyes: and beholde, this daye are they besegynge the castell at Jerusalem, and haue made vp the stronge holde in Bethsura: And yf thou doest not preuente them ryghte soone, they wyll do more then these, and thou shalt not be hable to ouercome them.

ii. Mach. xiii.

When

D When the kynge herde this, he was very angrye, and called all his frēdes, the captaynes of his fotemen and of all his horsmen togyther. He hyred men of warre also out of other realmes, and out of the Iles of the see, which came vnto hym. And the nombre of his hoost was an hundreth thousande fotemen, & xx. thousande horsmen, and. xxxii. Elephantes well exercysed in battayle. These came thorow Idumea vnto Bethsura, and besieged it a longe season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynst it. But the Jewes came oute and brent them, and fought lyke men. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem, and remoued ẏ hoost toward Bethzacaran ouer agaynst the kynges armye.

So the kynge arose before the daye, and brought the power of his hoost in to ẏ waye th Bethzacaran, where the hoostes made thē to the battayle, blowynge the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyght,

E they shewed them the sap of red grapes, and molberyes. And deuyded the Elephauntes amonge the hoost: so that by euery Elephaūt there stode a thousande men well harnessed, and helmettes of stele vpō theyr heedes: Yea vnto euery one of the Elephantes also, were ordeyned fyue hundreth horsmen of the best, whiche wayted of the Elephaunte, goynge where so euer he wente, and departed not frō him. Euery elephaūt was couered wt a strong tower of wod, wherevpon were thyrtye and two valeaunt men, with weapons to fyght, and within it was a man of Inde to rule the beast.

As for the remnaunt of the horsmen, he set them vpon bothe the sydes in two partes with trompettes, to prouoke the hooste, and to styre vp suche as were slowe in the armye. And whē the sunne shone vpon their shyldes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agayne at them, and were as bryght as the cresettes of fyre. The kynges hoost also was deuyded, one parte vpō the hye mountaynes, the other lowe beneth: so they wente on takynge good hede, and keppynge theyr ordre. And all they that dwelt in the lande, were afrayed at the noyse of theyr hoost, when the multitude went forth, and when the weapēs smote togyther, for the hoost was both great and myghtye. Judas also and his hoost entred in to the battayle, and slew. vi. C. men of the kynges armye. Nowe when Eleasar the son of Saura dyd se one of the Elephauntes deckt with the kynges badge, and was a more goodlye beast then the other: he thoughte the kynge shoulde be vpon him, and ieoparde him self to delyuer his people, and to get him a perpetuall name.

Wherfore he ran with a corage vnto the Elephaunt in the myddest of the hoost, smytyng them downe of both the sydes, and slew many aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephauntes fete, and gat hym vnder hym, and slewe him: then fell the Elephaunte downe vpon him, and there he dyed. Judas also and his men seinge the power of the kynge, and the myghtye vyolence of his hoost, departed from them. And the kynges armye wente vp agaynst them towarde Jerusalem, & pytched their tentes in Jewrye besyde mount Sion. Moreouer, the kynge toke truce with them that were in Bethsura. F

But when they came out of the cytye (because they had no vytayles within, and the lande laye vntylled) the kynge toke Bethsura, and set men to kepe it, and turned his hoost to the place of the Sanctuary, and layd siege to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordynaunce: handbowes, fyre dartes, rackettes to cast stones, scorpyons to shout arowes, and slynges. The Jewes also made ordynaunce agaynste theyrs, and foughte a lōg season.

i. Mach. xiii. g vi. d ii. Mach. xi. e xiii. a

But in the cytye there were no vyttayles, for it was the seuenth yere of the warres, & those heathen that remayned in Jewrye had eaten vp all their store. And in the Sanctuarye were fewe men lefte for the hungre came so vpon them, that they were scatered abrode euery man to his owne place.

So when Lisias hearde that Philyppe (whom Antiochus the kynge whyle he was yet lyuynge, had ordeyned to brynge vp Antiochus his sonne, that he myght be kynge) was come agayne out of Persia & Medea wt the kynges hoost and thought to optayne ẏ kyngdome: he gat hym to the kyng in al the haste, and to the captaynes of the hoost, and G sayde we decrease daylye, and our vytayles are but small: Agayne, the place that we laye siege vnto is very stronge, and it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre with these men & take truce with them, and with all their people and graūte them to lyue after their lawe as they dyd afore. For they be greued & do all these thynges agaynste vs, because we haue despysed their lawe. So the kynge and the prynces were content, and sent vnto them to make peax, and they receyued it. Now when the kynge & the prynces had made an oth vnto them they came oute of ẏ castell, and the kynge went vp to mount Syon. But whē he saw that the place was wel fenced, he brake the oth that he had made, & commaunded to destroye the wal rounde aboute. Then departed he in al the haste, & returned vnto Antioch, where he foūd Philip hauynge dominion of the city. So he fought agaynste him and toke the cytye agayne into his handes.

CAPI. VII.

IN the. Cli. yere came Demetrius the son of Seleucus frome the cytye of Rome with a small companye of men, vnto a cytye of the see cooste, and there he bare rule. And it chaunced, that when he came to Antioch the cytie of his progenitours, his hoost toke Antiochus & Lisias, to brynge thē vnto him. But whē it was tolde him, he sayd: let me not se their faces. So þ hoost put them to death: Nowe when Demetrius was set vpon the trone of his kyngdome, there came vnto him wycked and vngodly men of Israel: whose captayne was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene made hye preest: These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kynge, sayinge: Judas & his brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dryuen vs out of our owne lande. Wherfore sende now some man (to whom thou gyuest credence) that he may go & se all the destruction, which he hath done vnto vs and to the kynges lande, and let him be punisshed with al his frendes and fauourers.

B Then the kynge chose Bachides a frend of his, which was a man of great power in the realme (beyonde the great water) & faythfull vnto the kynge: and sent him to se the destruction that Judas had done. And as for that wycked Alcimus, he made him hye preest, and cōmaūded him to be auenged of the childrē of Israel. So they stode vp, and came wt a great hoost in to the lande of Juda, sendynge messengers to Judas & his brethrē, and speaking vnto them with peaceable wordes: but vnder disceyte. Therfore Judas and his people beleued not their sayinge, for they sawe þ they were come with a great hoost.

Alcimus high preste.

After this came the scrybes togyther vnto Alcimus & Bachides, trustynge the best vnto them. And fyrst þ Assidans requyred peace of them, sayng: Alcimus the prest is come of the sede of Aarō, how can he disceyue vs? So they gaue thē louyng wordes, and swore vnto thē, and sayde: we wyll do you no harme, neyther your frendes: and they beleued them. But the very same day toke they .lx. men of them, and C slew them accordyng to the wordes that are wrytē: They haue cast þ flesh of thy saynctes, and shed their bloud rounde about Jerusalem, and there was no man that wold bury them. So there came a great feare & drede among þ people, sayinge: there is neyther truthe nor ryghteousnesse in them, for they haue broken the appoyntment and othe that they made. And Bachides remoued his hoost frome Jerusalem, and pitched his tente at Bethzechar where he sent forthe, and toke many of them that had forsaken him: He slewe many of the people also, and cast them in to a greate pyt. Then commytted he the land vnto Alcimus, and left men of war with him to helpe hym, and Bachides him self went vnto the kynge. And thus Alcimus defended his hye presthode, and all suche as vexed Israel, resorted vnto him: In so moch that they obtayned the land of Juda, and dyd moche euyll vnto the Israelytes.

Now when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yea more then the Heythen them selues) vnto þ Israelytes: he went forthe rounde about all the borders of Jewry, & punysshed those vnfaithful renagates, so that they came nomore out in the countrey. So when Alcimus saw, that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhande, and that he was not hable to abyde them: he went agayne to the kynge, & sayde all the worst of them that he coulde. Then the kyng sent Nicanor, one of his chief prynces (which bare euyll wyll vnto Israel) and commaunded hym that he shulde vtterly destroye the people.

So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a D great hoost, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (but vnder disceit) sayinge: there shal be no warre betwyxt me and you: I wyll come with a few men, to se how ye do, with frendshyp. Upō this he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one an other peaceablye: but the ennemyes were appoynted to take Judas by vyolence: Neuerthelesse it was tolde Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder dysceyte: wherfore he gat hym away frō him, & wold se his face nomore. Whē Nicanor perceyued that his councel was bewrayed, he went out to fyghte agaynste Judas besyde Capharsalama: where there were slayne of Nicanors hoste .v. M. men: the resydue fled vnto the castel of Dauid.

ii. Mach.

After this came Nicanor vp vnto mounte Syon: and the prestes with the elders of þ people went forth to salute hym peaceablye and to shewe him the burntsacryfyces that were offred for the kynge. But he laughed them to scorn, mocked them, defyled theyr offrynges, and spake dyspdaynedly yea & swore in his wroth, sayinge: If Judas and his host C be not delyuered nowe in to my handes, as soone as euer I come agayne (and fare well) I shall burne vp this house. With that went he out in a greate angre. Then the prestes came in, and stode before the aulter of the temple, weppynge and sayinge: For so moche as thou, O Lord, hast chosen this house, that thy name myght be called vpon therin and þ it shulde be an house of prayer and petycyon vnto thy people: Be auenged of this man & his host, & let them be slayne with the swerd: remembre the blasphemyes of them, and suffre them not to contynue any longer.

ii. Mach. ii. Para. iii. Reg. Esaye lvi. Math. xxi.

When Nicanor was gone from Jerusalē he pitched his tent at Bethoron, and there an host met hym out of Siria. And Judas came to Adarsa with thre .M. men and made his prayer vnto God, sayinge: O Lord, because the messengers of kynge Sēnacherib blasphemed the, the angell went forth, and slew an .C.lxxxv. thousande of them: Euen so destroy thou this host before vs to day þ other people maye knowe howe þ he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuary: & punish hym, accordynge to his malycyousnes.

Esay. xxxvii. ii. Mach. viii. and .xv. iiii. Reg. xix.

And so the hostes stroke the felde, the .xiii. day of the moneth Adar: and Nicanors host was discomfyted and he hym self was fyrste slayne in the battayle. When Nicanors men of warre sawe that he was kylled, they cast away theyr weapons & fled: but the Jewes folowed vpō thē an hole dayes iourney, frō Adazer vnto Gazara, blowynge with the trōpets, & makynge tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of al the townes there about & blew out their hornes vpon them, & turned agaynst them: thus were all slayne, and not one of them left.

Nicanor. ii. Mach. xv.

Then they toke their substance for a pray and smote of Nicanors heed & his right hād (which he helde vp so proudly) and brought it with them, and hāged it vp afore Jerusalē Wherfore the people were excedingly reioysed, and passed ouer that daye in great gladnesse. And Judas ordeyned that the same day (namely þ .xiii. day of þ moneth Adar) shold be kept in myrth euery yere. Thus the lande of Juda was in rest a litle whyle.

¶ Judas consyderyng the power and godly policie of the Romaynes, maketh peace with them. The rescrypt of the Romaynes sent vnto the Jewes.

CAPI. VIII.

A Judas herd also þ fame of the Romayns that they were mighty & valeauntt men, and agreable to all thynges that are requyred of theym, and make peace with all men whiche come vnto them, and howe they were doughty men of strength. Besides that it was told him of their battayls and noble actes which they dyd in Galacia, how they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thiges they had done in Spayn, how they with their wisdom and sobre behauiour, they had won þ mynes of syluer and gold that are there, and obteyned all the land, with other places far from them, howe they had discomfeted and slayne downe the kynges that came vpon them, frō the vttermost part of the earth, & how other people gaue them tribute euerye yere. Howe they had slayne and ouercome Philip & Perses kynge of Cethim, and other moo in battayle, whiche had brought theyr ordinaunce agaynst them: how they discomfeted greate Antiochus kyng of Asia, þ wold nedes fight with thē, hauyng an .C.xx. Elephantes, with horsemen, charettes, and a very great hoste: how they toke him selfe alyue, and ordeyned him (wich such as shold raygne after him) to paye them a greate tribute, yea and to fynde them good suretyes and pledge: besydes all this, howe they had taken frome him India, Media and Lidia (his best lādes) and gyuen them to kyng Eumenus.

B Agayne, how they perceyuyng þ the Grekes were commyng to vex thē: sent agaynst them a capiteyn of an host, which gaue them battayle, slew many of them, led away theyr wyues and chyldren captyue, spoyled them, toke possession of their land, destroyed theyr stronge holdes, and subdued them to be their bondmen vnto this day. Moreouer how that as for other kyngdomes & Iles, which somtyme withstode them, they destroyed them, & brought them vnder their dominiō: but helped euer their own frendes and those þ were confederate with them, and conquered kingdomes bothe far & nye: and that who so euer herd of their renowme, was afrayd of them: for whom they wolde helpe to their kingdomes, those raigned: and whome it lyked not thē to raygne, they put him downe. And how they were com to great preeminence: hauing no kyng among them, neyther any man clothed in purple, to be magnified ther thorow, but had ordeyned them selues a parlyament, wherin there sat thre .C. and .xx. Senatours dayly vpon the counsell, to dispatche euer the busynesse of the people, and to kepe good ordre: And howe that euerye yere they chose a Mayre, to haue the gouernaunce of all theyr lande: to whom euery man was obedient, & that there was neyther euyl wil ne discenciō among them.

Then Judas chose Eupolemus the son of Jhon, the son of Jacob, and Jason the son of C Eleazar, & sent them vnto Rome for to make frendship and a bond of loue wt thē, that they might take frō them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes sawe þ the Grekes wolde subdue the kingdom of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very great iourney) & came in to the parliament, & said: Judas Machabeus with his brethrē and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bōde of frendship and peax with you, and ye to note vs as your louers and frendes. And the matter plesed the Romains right wel, wherfore it was written vp: of the which the Romains made a writing in tables of latyn, and sent it to Jerusalem, that they might haue by them a memorial of the same peax & bond of frendship after this maner: God saue the Romains, & the people of the Jewes, both by se & by land, and kepe the swerde and enemy from thē for euermore. Yf there come fyrst any war vpon the Romains, or any of their frēdes, thorow out al their dominion, the people of þ Jewes shal helpe them (as the time requireth) & that with all their hertes. Also they shall neyther gyue nor send vnto theyr enemyes vitayles, weapons, money, ne shyppes: but fulfyl this charge at the Romayns pleasure, & take nothyng from them therfore. Agayn, yf the people of the Jewes happen first to haue warre, the Romayns shall stande by theym with a good wyll, accordynge as the tyme wyl suffre. Neyther shall they gyue vnto the Jewes ennemyes, vytayles, weapons, money, nor shyppes. Thus are the Romayns content to do, and shal fulfyl their charge without any disceyte.

Accordynge to these articles, the Romaynes made the bonde with the Jewes. Nowe after these artycles, sayde they, yf anye of the partyes wyll put to them, or take anye thynge from them: they shall do it with the consent of both: and what so euer they adde vnto them or take from them, it shall stande faste. And as touchynge the euyll that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wrytten vnto hym, sayinge: Wherfore layest thou thy heuye yoke vpon the Jewes oure frendes and louers? Yf they make anye complaynte of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyghte with the by see and by lande. D

¶ After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth his armye agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathas is put in the stede of his brother. The strife betwene Jonathas and Bachides. Alcimus is taken with the palsye and dyeth. Bachides returneth agayne vnto the kynge. He commeth vpon Jonathas by the counsel of certayne wicked persons, and is ouercome. The truce of Jonathas & Bachides.

CAPI. IX.

a I.Ma.vii.f Iose.ca.x.xii. libro.xii.

IN the meane season, when Demetrius herd ỳ Nicanor and his host was slayne in the felde, he proceded further, to sende Bachides and Alcimus agayne in to Jury, ꝛ those that were in the ryght wing of his host wt ehem. So they went forth by the way that ledeth vnto Galgala, and pitched their tentes before Mesaloth, which is in Arbellis, ꝛ wan the city, ꝛ slew moch people. In the first moneth of the. Clii. yere, they brought theyr hoste to Jerusalem, and rose vp and came to Berea, with. xx. thousand fotemen, and two thousande horsemen.

Now Judas had pitched his tent at Laisa with thre. M. chosen men. And whē they saw the multitude of the other armye, that it was so greate, they were sore afrayde, and many conueyed them selues out of the hoste. In so moche that there abode no moo of theym but eyght hundred men. When Judas saw ỳ his host fayled him, and ỳ he must nedes fight, it brake his hert, that he had no time to gather thē togither: wherfore ỳ mā was in extreme trouble. Neuertheles he said vnto them that remayned wt him: Vp, let vs go against our enemies, paduēture we shal be able to fight with them. But they wold haue stopped him saying: we shal be able, therfore let vs now saue our liues, ꝛ turne agayn to our brethren and then wil we fyght agaynst them, for we are here but fewe.

B And Judas sayde: God forbyd, that we sholde fle from them. Wherfore yf our time be come, let vs die manfully for our brethrē, and let vs not stayne our honour. Then the host remoued oute of the tentes, and stode agaynst them. The horsemen were diuided in two partes: the slynge casters, and the archers wente before the hoste, and all the myghty men were formest in the feld. Bachides him self was in the right wing of the batel, and the host drew nye in two partes, and blewe the trompettes. They of Judas syde blewe the trompettes also, ꝛ the earth shoke at the noyse of the hostes, and they stroke a felde from the morow tyll nyght. And when Judas saw that Bachides hoste was strongest of the ryghte syde, he toke with hym all the hardy men, and brake the right winge of their ordre, and folowed vpō them vnto the mount Azot.

Now when they whiche were of the lefte wynge sawe that the ryght syde was discomfeted, they persecuted Judas and them that were with him. Then was there a sore batel for manye were slayne and wounded of bothe the parties: Judas also hym self was hyled, and the remnaūt fled. So Jonathas and Symon toke Judas their brother, and buryed him in his fathers sepulcre, in the citye of Modin. And al ỳ people of Israel made great lamentacion for him, and mourned long saying: Alas that this worthy holde be slayne which delyuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges perteyning to the battayles of Judas, the noble actes that he did, and of his worthynesse: they are not written, for they were very many.

And after the deth of Judas, wycked men ¢ came vp in all the costes of Israel, and there arose al such as worke vngodlynes. In those dayes was there a great derth in the land, ꝛ all the countrey gaue ouer them selues and theirs vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wicked men, ꝛ made them lordes in the land. These sought out, and made serch for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachides: which auenged him self vpon them, & great despite. And there came so greate trouble in Israel, as was not seen the time that no prophet was sene there.

Then came all Judas frendes togyther, ꝛ said vnto Jonathas: For so moch as thy brother Judas is deed, there is none lyke hym to go forth against our ennemies, agaynst Bachides, and such as are aduersaries vnto our people. Wherfore this daye we chose the for him, to be our prince ꝛ capiteyn, to ordre our battel. And Jonathas toke the gouernaunce vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stede of his brother Judas. When Bachides gat knowlege therof, he sought for to slee him: But Jonathas and Simō his brother percey uing that, fled in to ỳ wildernes of Thecua with all their company, and pitched their tētes by the water pole of Asphar.

Which whē Bachides vnderstode, he cam ouer Jordan with all his host vpon the Saboth daye. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Jhon (a capiteyn of the people) to praye his frendes the Nabuthites, that they wolde lend thē their ordinaūce, for they had moche. So the chyldren of Jambry came out of Madaba, and toke Jhon, and al that he had, and went their way withall. Then came worde vnto Jonathas and Symon his brother, that the childrē of Jambry made a great mariage and brought the bride from Madaba wt great pompe: for she was doughter to one of ỳ noblest princes of Canaan. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother, ꝛ went vp, ꝛ hid them selues vnder the shadow of the mountayne.

So they lyft vp their eyes, and loked, and beholde there was moche ado, and great repayre, for the bridegrome came forthe, ꝛ his frendes and his brethrē met them with tymbanies, instrumentes of mulycke, and many weapons. Then Jonnathas and they ỳ were with him, rose oute of their lurkinge places agaynst them, and slew many of them. As for the remnaunt, they fled in to the mountayns and they toke all theyr substaunce. Thus the mariage was turned to mournynge, and the noyse of their melody in to lamentacion.

And so when they had auenged the bloude of theyr brother, they tourned agayne vnto Jordane.

Bachides hearing this, came vnto the very border of Jordan with a greate power vpon & the Saboth daye. And Jonathas sayd to his cōpany: let vs get vp, and fight against our enemies: for it standeth not with vs to daye as in times past. Behold, our enemies are in our way, the water of Jordane vpon the one syde of vs, with bankes, fennes and woddes of the other side, so that there is no place for vs to depart vnto. Wherfore cry now vnto heuen, that ye may be delyuered from the power of your enemies. So they stroke the batel. And Jonathas stretched out his hande to smyte Bachides, but he fled backward. Thē Jonathas and they that were with him lepte in to Jordan, and swymmed ouer Jordan vnto hym, ꝛ there were slayne of Bachides side that daye, a. M. men.

Therfore Bachides with his host turned again to Jerusalē, and buylt vp the castels & strong holdes ỳ were i Jury, Jericho, Emaus Bethoron, Bethel, Thamnata, Phara & Topo, with hye walles, with portes, and with lockes, and set mē to kepe them, ỳ they might vse their malice vpon Israell. He walled vp Bethsurah, Gazarah, and the castel at Jerusalē also, ꝛ prouided thē with men & vitailes. He toke also the chyefest mens sonnes in the countrey for pledges, ꝛ put them in the castel at Jerusalem to be kepte.

Afterward in the. Clii. yere in the second moneth, Alcimus commaūded that the walles of the inmost sanctuary shold be destroyed, and the buildinges of the Prophetes also. And when he began to destroy them, the thinges that he went about were hyndred, for he was smytten with a palsey, ꝛ his mouth shut so ỳ he coulde no more speke, ne commaunde any of his house concernynge his busynesse. Thus dyed Alcimus in great miserye at the same tyme, and when Bachides saw that Alcimus was deed, he turned again to the king and so the land was in rest two yeres. Then all the vngodly men held a counsel, saying: Beholde, Jonathas and his companye are at ease, and dwell without care. Wherfore let vs bring Bachides hither, ꝛ he shall take thē all in one nyght.

So they went ꝛ gaue Bachides this counsell, which arose to come with a great host, ꝛ sent letters priuily to his adherentes whiche were in Jurye, to take Jonathas ꝛ those that were with him: but they might not, for the other had gotten knowlege of theyr deuice. And Jonathas toke. l. mē of ỳ countrey (whiche were ỳ ryng leaders of them) ꝛ slew thē. Then Jonathas and Symon, wt their compayny departed vnto the city Bethbessen, which lieth in the wylderuesse, and repayred the decayt therof, and made it stronge. When Bachides knew this, he gathered all his hoste, ꝛ sent worde to them that were of Jury. Thē came he ꝛ layd siege to Bethbessen, ꝛ fought agaynste it a longe season, and made instrumentes of war. Now Jonathas left his brother Symon in the city, and went forth hym self in the countrey, and came with a certein nombre, and slew Odares and his brethren, and the chyldren of Phaleron in their tētes: so that he began to be strong, and to increase in power.

As for Symon ꝛ his company, they wente out of the city, and brent vp the instrumētes of warre, and fought against Bachides, and discomfeted hym. And Bachides was sore vexed bicause his counsel and trauayle was in vayn. Wherfore he was wroth at the wicked men (that gaue him counsel to come in to their land) and slew many of them. Thē purposed he with his company to go away in to his owne countrey: wherof when Jonathas had knowlege, he sēt embassadours vnto him for to make peax with him, and that he shold deliuer him his prisoners agayn. To ỳ whiche Bachides consented gladly, and dyd according to his desire, yea ꝛ make an oth that he shold neuer do him harme all the dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto him all the prisoners that he had takē out of the land of Juda, and then turned and went his waye in to his owne land, neither proceded he any further to com vnto ỳ borders of Juda. Thus Israel had no more war. And Jonathas dwelte at Wachmas, and began there to gouern the people, and destroyed the vngodly men oute of Israel.

¶ Demetrius desyreth to haue peace with Jonathas. Alexander moueth war agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The frendship of Ptolomeus and Alexander.

CAPI. X.

A Alexander. Joseph. capi. i. in. libr. xiii.

IN the. Clx. yere, came Alexander, the son of noble Antiochꝰ, and toke Ptolomais, whose citizins receiued him, and there he raygned. When Demetrius herde therof, he gathered an exceding great hoste, and went forth agaynst hym to fyght. Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathas with lovynge wordes, and prayed hym greatlye. For he saide: we will fyrste make peax with him, before he byud him self with Alexander against vs, els he shal remembre the euil that we haue done agaynst him, his brother ꝛ his people, and so he gaue Jonathas leue to gather an hoste, to make weapons, and to be cōfederate with hym, and commaunded the pledges that were in the castell to be deliuered vnto hym.

Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem, ꝛ red the letters, in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the castel. And ther fore were they sore afrayde, bycause they herde that the kynge had gyuen hym lycence to gather an hoste. Thus were the pledges delyuered vnto Jonathas, whiche delyuered them to their elders. Jonathas also dwelt at B Jerusalem, and began to buylde vp and to repayre the citie, commaundyng the workemen to wall it, and the mounte Syon round about with free stone, to be a stronge holde, and so they did. As for the heathen ꝑ were in ꝑ caues which Bachides had made vp, they fled, so that euery man lefte the place, & went in to his own countrey. Only at Bethsura remayned certeyn of the Jewes, which had forsaken the law & commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was their refuge.

Now whē king Alexander herd of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas, & when it was tolde hym of the battels and noble actes, which he & his brethren had done, and of the greate trauayles ꝑ they had take, he said: where shal we fynd such a man? wel, we wil make him our frend, and be confederate with him. Vpō this he wrote a letter vnto him, with these wordes: kyng Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. We haue herd of the, that thou art a valeaūt man, and mete to be our frend: wherfore this day we ordeyn the to be the hye preest of thy people, and to be called the kynges frend. (Vpō this, he sent hym a purple clothynge, and a crowne of golde) that thou mayste consyder what is for our profyte, and kepe frendshyp towarde vs.

B So in the seuenty moneth of the. Clx. yere vpō the solemne feast day of the tabernacles Jonathas put the holye rayment vpon hym. Then gathered he an hoste, and made many weapons. Which when Demetrius herd, he was maruelous sory, & said: Alas, what haue we done, that Alexander hathe preuented vs in gettynge the frendshyp of the Jewes, for his owne defence? Yet wil I wryte louingly vnto them also, yea & promise them dignities and rewardes, that they may be of my syde. Wherupon he wrote vnto thē these wordes: King Demetrius sendeth greting vnto ꝑ people of ꝑ Jewes. Where as ye haue kept your couenaunt toward vs, and continued in our frendshyp, not enclining to our enempes we were glad, when we herd therof. Wherfore remayne stil and be faythfull vnto vs: and we shal recompence you for the thinges, that ye haue done on youre partye: we shall release you of many charges, & gyue you rewardes. And now I discharge you and all the Jewes from tributes, I forgiue you the customes of salt, and lease you of the crowne tares, of ꝑ thirde parte of sede, and halfe of the frute of trees, which is mine own duty. These I leue for you, from this daye forthe: so that they shall not be taken of the land of Juda, nor of the thre cities which are added therunto out of Samaria and Galilee, frome this daye forth for euermore. Jerusalem also with all thynges belongyng therto, shall be holy and fre: yea the tithes and tributes shal perteyn vnto it. As for the power of the castel which is at Jerusalem, I remit and giue vnto ꝑ hye preest, that ye maye set in it such men, as he shall chose to kepe it. I freely delyuer all the Jewes that are prysoners throwe oute all my realme: so that euery one of them shal be fre frome payinge anye trybute, yea euen of their cattell.

All the solemne feastes, Sabothes, newemoones, the dayes appoynted, the thre dayes before & after the feast, shal be fre for al the Jewes in my realme, so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thyng, or to moue any businesse against any of them, in any maner of cause. There shall. xxx. M. also of the Jewes be written vp in the kynges host, and haue their wages payde, as all other men of warre of the kynges hold haue, and of them shal be ordeyned certeyn to kepe the kynges strong holdes: yea and some of them shal be set ouer the kynges busines, ꝑ they may faithfully dele with ꝑ same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of their owne, & walke in their owne lawes, as the kynge hath commaunded in the land of Juda.

And the thre cities that are fallen vnto Jury from the countrey of Samaria and Galilee, shall be taken as Jury, and be vnder one: neither be subiect to any straunge lorde, but to the hye preest. As for Ptolomais & the land perteynynge therto, I gyue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expences of the holy thiges. Moreouer I wil gyue euery yere. xv. thousande sicles of syluer out of the kinges cheker (which perteyneth vnto me) to the worke of the temple: yea and loke what remayneth (whiche they that had oure maters in hād in tymes past haue not payde) that same shall they giue vnto theym also. And beside al this, the kyue thousand sicles whiche they toke yerely of the rentes of the Sanctuary, shall belonge vnto the preestes ꝑ do seruyce.

Item, who so euer they be that fle vnto the temple at Jerusalem, or within the lyberties therof, where as they are fallen in to the kinges daunger for any maner of businesse, they shal be pardoned, and all ꝑ goodes that they haue in my realme, shal be fre. For the buylding also and repayring of the worke of the Sanctuary, expenses shall be gyuen out of ꝑ kynges checker: Yea and for the makyng of the walles rounde about Jerusalem, for the bylding downe of the olde, & for the settinge vp of the stronge holdes in Jury, shall the costes and charges be gyuen oute of the kynges checker.

But when Jonathas and the people herde these wordes, they gaue no credēce vnto thē, neither discreyued them: for they remembred the great wyckednesse that he had done vnto Israell, and how sore he hadde vexed them. Wherfore they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a prynce that had delte frendly with them, and so they stode by hym alway. Then gathered kyng Alexander a great hoste, and brought his armye against Demetrius. So the two kinges stroke battayle togither, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander followed after and fell vpon them. A mighty sore felde was it, contynuyng tyl the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente embassadours vnto Ptolomy the kyng of Egypt with these wordes, saying: for so moch as I am come again to my realme, and am sette in the trone of my progenytours, and haue gotten the dominion minion ouer cōmen Demetrius, conquered the lande, & stryken a felde with hym, so that we haue discomfeted both him and his host, and syt in the trone of his kyngdom: Let vs now make frendshyp togyther, gyue me thy doughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in lawe, and gyue the rewardes, and her greate dignytye. Ptolomy the kynge gaue answere, sayinge: happye be the daye wherin thou art come agayne to the land of thy progenitours, and set in the trone of their kyngdome. And now wil I fulfyll thy wrytyng: but mete me at Ptolomais, that we maye se one an other, and ꝑ I may mary my doughter vnto the accordyng to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt with his doughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais in the. Clxii. yere, where kyng Alexander met hym, and he gaue Alexander his doughter Cleopatra, and maried them at Ptolomais wt great worshyp, lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he sholde come and mete hym. So he went honourably vnto Ptolomais, and there he met the two kynges, and gaue them great presentes of golde and syluer, & found fauour ī their sight. And there came togither against Jonathas certeyn wycked men, and vngracious persons of Israel, makyng complayntes of him, but the king regarded them not. As for Jonathas the kyng commaunded to take of his garmentes, and to clothe hym in purple: and so they dyd. Then the kynge appoynted him to syt by hym, and sayd vnto his princes: Go with hym in to the myddest of the citye, and make a proclamacion, that no man complayne agaynst him of any matter, and that no mā trouble him, for any maner of cause.

So it happened that whē his accusers saw the worshyp which was proclaymed of hym and that he was clothed in purple, they fled euerychone. And ꝑ king made moche of him, wrote him amonge his chiefe frendes, made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion. Thus Jonathas went agayne to Jerusalem, with peace and gladnesse. In the. Clxv. yere cam Demetrius the son of Demetrius from Creta in to his fathers lande, wherof when Alexander herde tell, he was ryght sory, and returned vnto Antioche. And Demetrius chose Appolonius, whiche had ꝑ gouernaūce of Celosiria, to be his capteyn.

So he gathered a great hoste, and came vn to Jamnia, and sende worde vnto Jonathas the hye preeste, sayinge: Darest thou withstande vs thy selfe alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scorne and shamed, bycause thou prouedst thy strength against vs in the mountaynes. Nowe therfore yf thou trustest in thyne owne strengthe, come downe to vs in to the playne felde, and there let vs prone our strength togither: thou shalt fynd, that I haue valeaunt men of warre with me, and shalt knowe whome I am, and the other that stande by me,

Which saye that your fote is not hable to stande before oure face, for thy fathers haue ben twise chased in to their owne land. And nowe, howe wilte thou be hable to abyde so greate an host of horsmen and fotemen in the feld, where as is neither rock, stone ne place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas herde the wordes of Appolonius, he was moued in his mynde, wherfore he chose. x. thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Symon his brother mette hym, for to help him: and they pitched their tentes at Joppa, but the city kept hym forth, for Joppa was an hold of Appolonius. Thē Jonathas layde siege to it, and they ꝑ were in the citye for very feare let hym in: and so Jonathas wan Joppa. Appolonius hearyng of this, toke thre thousande horsemen, with a great hoste of fote, and went as though he wolde goo to Azotus, and came immediatly in to the playne felde: bycause he had so many horsemen, and put his trust in them. So Jonathas folowed vpon hym to Azotus, and there they stroke the battayle. Now had Appolonius left a thousande horsemen behynde thē priuily in the tentes. And whē Jonathas knewe that suche wayte was layde behynde them, they went rounde about the ennemyes host, and shot dartes at the people frome the morynng to ꝑ euenyng. As for Jonathas people, they kepte their order as he had commaūded them, and the enemyes horses were euer labourynge.

Then brought Symon forth his host, and set them agaynst the fotemen. For the horsemen were wery alredye. So he discomfited them, and they fled. And they that were scatred in the feld, gat them to Azotus, and cam in to the temple of Dagon their ydol, ꝑ they myght there saue their liues. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus, and al the cities round about it, and toke their goddes, and brent vp the temple of Dagō with all them that were fled in to it.

Thus were slayne and brent wel nye eight thousande men. So Jonathas remoued the hoste from thence, and brought them to Ascalon, where the men of the city came forth, and met him with great worshyp. After this went Jonathas and his hoste agayne to Jerusalem, with greate substaunce of good. And when kyng Alexander herde these thinges, he thought to doo Jonathas more worshyp, and sent hym a coler of gold, as the vse is to be gyuen vnto suche as are of the kynges nexte bloude. He gaue hym also the citye of Accaron, with the landes belongyng ther to, in possession,

AND the kynge of Egypte gathered an host (lyke the sand that lyeth vpon the see shore) and many shyppes: and went about thorow discevte to obteyne the kyngdome of Alexander, and to ioyne it vnto his owne realme. Vpon this he toke his iourney in to Siria, and was letten in to the cityes, and men came forth to mete him: for kynge Alexander had commaunded them so to do, bycause he was his father in lawe. Nowe when Ptolomy entred in to any city, he left men of warre to kepe it, and this he dyd thorow out all the cityes. And when he came to Azotus, they shewed hym the temple of Dagon and Azotus that was brent vp, with the other thinges which were destroyed, the ded bodyes cast abrode, and the graues that they had made by the way syde, for suche as were slayne in the felde: And tolde the kynge that Jonathas had doone all these thynges, to the intent they myghte get him euyll wyll. But the kyng: sayde not a worde therto. And Jonathas met the kynge with greate honour at Joppa, where they saluted one an other, and toke their rest. So when Jonathas had gone with the kyng, vnto the water that is called Eleutherus, he turned agayne to Jerusalem.

Now Ptolomy had gotten the dominion of the cityes vnto Seleucia vpon the see coste, ymaginyng wycked counsels agaynst Alexander, and sente embassadours vnto Demetrius, sayinge: Come, lette vs make a bonde bitwyxte vs, so shall I gyue the my doughter that Alexander hath, & thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my doughter, for he goeth about to slaye me. And thus he sclaundred Alexander, bycause he wolde haue hadde his realme.

Thus he toke his doughter from him, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander so that his malyce was openly knowen. And Ptolomy came to Antioch, where he set two crownes vpon his own heed: the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the mean season was kyng Alexander in Cilicia, for they þ dwelt in those places, had rebelled against him. But when Alexander herd of this, he came to warr agaynste him. So kynge Ptolomy brought forth his hoste, and met him with a myghtye power, and chased him away. Then fled Alexander into Araby, there to be defended, & kyng Ptolomys honour increased. And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders heed, & sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the third day after dyed kyng Ptolomy hym selfe, and they whom he had set in the stronge holdes, were slayne of those that were within the cityes. And Demetrius reigned in þ hundred. lxvij. yere.

Alexander is slayne.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry to lay siege vnto the castell which was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynste it. Then went there certeyn vngodly persõs (which hated their owne people) vnto kyng Demetrius, and told him that Jonathas besieged the castell. So when he herd it, he was angry, & immediatly came vnto Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathas that he sholde not laye siege to the castell, but come and speake with hym in all the haste. Neuertheles whẽ Jonathas herde this, he commaunded to beliege it. He chose also certeyn of the elders & preestes of Israell, and put hym selfe in the peryll: and toke with hym golde, syluer, clothynge, and dyuers presentes: and wente to Ptolomais vnto the kynge, and founde hym gracyous.

And though certayne vngodly men of his owne people made complayntes vpõ him, yet the kyng intreated him, lyke as his predecessours had done before, and promoted him in the sight of al his frendes, confirmed him in the hye preesthod, with al þ worshyp þ he had afore, & made him his chief frend. Jonathas also desired the kyng that he wolde make Jury free, with the thre head cityes in Samaria and the landes perteynge therto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promyse him thre. C. talentes. Whervnto the kyng consented and gaue Jonathas writing of the same, cõteyning these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth greting vnto his brother Jonathas, and to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a copy of the lettre whiche we dyd wryte vnto our elder Lasthenus, concernynge you, that ye sholde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth gretynge vnto Lasthenus his elder. For the fayethfulnesse þ oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the louynge kyndnesse whiche they beare towarde vs: we are determyned to do them good. Wherfore we ordeyne all the costes of Jewrye with thre cityes, Lyda and Ramatha, whiche are added vnto Jury from Samaria, and all þ landes pertayning thervnto, to be freely separated for suche as do sacrifice in Jerusalem: bothe concerning the paymentes whiche the kynge toke yerely afore tyme, and the frutes also of the earthe and trees. As for other tythes and trybutes þ belonged vnto vs, we discharge them therof from this tyme forthe. In lyke maner we graunt vnto them all the customes of salte & crowne tarcs which were brought vnto vs. And this fredom shall they haue firme and stedfast, from this tyme forth for euermore. Therfore se that ye make a copy of these our letters, and delyuer it vnto Jonathas: that it may be kept vpon the holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this, when Demetrius the kyng saw that his lande was in rest, and that no resistaunce was made hym: he sent awaye all his hoste euery man to his owne place, excepte an armye of straungers, whome he brought from the yles of the heathen, wherfore al his fathers hoste had euill wil at him. 1. Mach. xiii.

Now was there one Tryphon, that had ben of Alexanders parte afore, whiche when he sawe that all the hoste murmured agaynste Demetrius, he wẽt to Emalcuel the Arabiã (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and lay fore vpon hym to deliuer hym this yonge Antiochus: that he myghte raygne in his fathers stede. He tolde him also what greate euyll Demetrius had done, and his men of warre loued him not: and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kynge Demetrius, to dryue them out whiche were in the castell at Jerusalem & in the other refuges, for they dyd Israel great harme. So Demetrius sent worde vnto Jonathas, saying: I wil not only do these thinges for the and thy people, but at tyme conuenyent I wyll do bothe the and thy people great worshyp. But now thou shalt do me a pleasure, yf thou wylt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne armye is gone fro me. So Jonathas sent him thre. M. strõg men vnto Antyoche, and they came vnto the kynge, wherfore the kynge was very glad at their commynge. But they that were of the cytie (euen an. C xx. thousande men) gathered them together, and wold haue slayne þ kyng, whiche fled in to his courte: and the cytezyns kepte the stretes of the cytie, and beganne to fyght.

Then þ kyng called for the Jewes helpe, which came vnto him al together, and went abrode thorow the cytie, and slewe the same daye an. C. M. men: set fyre vpõ the cytie, gat many spoyles in that daye, and deliuered the kynge. So when the cytezyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their wyl of the cytie, and they them selues disponyted of their purpose they made their supplication vnto the kynge, sayinge: Graunte vs peace, and let the Jewes cease from troublynge vs and the cytie, and vpõ this they cast awaye their weapens. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes gat greate worshyp in the sight of the kynge, and in the sight of al that were i his realme, and were spoken of thorow out þ kyngdome: and so they came agayne to Jerusalẽ with greate goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius sat in the trone of his kyngdome, and had peace in his lande. Neuertheles he dyssembled in all that euer he spake, and withdrew him self from Jonathas, neither rewarded him accordyng to the benefytes whiche he had done for hym, but troubled him very sore. After this came Tryphon agayne with yonge Antiochus, whiche raigned and was crowned kyng. Then there gathered vnto him all the men of war, whõ Demetrius had put awaye: these fought against Demetrius, which fled and turned his back. So Tryphon toke the Elephantes, and wan Antioche. And yonge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas, saying: I confyrme the in the preesthode, and make the ruler of foure countreyes, that thou mayst be a frend of the kinges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drynke in golde to be clothed in purple, and to were a coler of golde. He made his brother Symon also captayne, from the coostes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke his iourneye, and wente thorow the cytyes beyonde the water of Jordane, and all the men of warre of Syrya gathered thẽ vnto hym for to help hym. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the cytye receyued hym honourably: and from thence wente he vnto Gaza, but they wold not let hym in: wherfore he layde siege vnto it buenynge vp and spoylyng þ places that were about the cyty.

And the cytezyns of Gaza submytted thẽ selues vnto the Jonathas, which made peace with thẽ, but toke of their sonnes to pledge sent them to Jerusalem, and went thorowe the countrey vnto Damascus. Nowe when Jonathas herde þ Demetrius prynces were come in to Cades (which is in Galilee) with a greate host, purposynge to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme: he came agaynste them, and left Symon his brother in the lande: whiche came to Bethsura, and layde siege to it a longe season, and dyscomfyted thẽ. So they delyred to haue peax with hym whiche he graũted them and afterward put them out from thence toke the cyty, & set men to kepe it. And Jonathas with his hoost came to the water of Genesar, & bytymes in the mornynge gat them to the playne felde of Azor.

And beholde, the hostes of the heithen met them in the felde, & layed watch for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathas came agaynst them þ other (which were layd to watch) rose out of their places, & fought, & they that were of Jonathas syde, fled euerye mã: & there was not one of them left, except Mathathias the son of Absalomus, and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captayne of the hoost. Then Jonathas rent his clothes, layd earth vpon his heade, made his prayer, and turned agayne to them in þ felde: where they fought together, and he put them to flyght. Nowe when his owne men that were fled, saw this: they turned agayne vnto him, and helped hym to folowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tẽtes at Cades. So there were slayne of þ heythen the same day. xij. M. mẽ, & Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem, ¶ Jonathas sendeth embassadours to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renue their couenaunte of frendshyp. Jonathas putteth to flyght the prynces of Demetrius. Tryphon taketh Jonathas by disceyte.

CAPI. XII.

JOnathas seinge that the tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sente thẽ vnto Rome for to stablysche and to renue the frendshyp with them. He sent letters also vnto Sparta, and to other places in lyke maner. So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the counsell, and sayde: Jonathas the hygh preste and the people of the Jewes sẽt vs vnto you, for to renue the olde frendshyp and bond of loue. Upon this the Romaynes gaue them fre passportes, that men shuld lede them home into the lãd of Juda peaceably. And this is þ copy of þ letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians. 1. Mac. xii. a

Jonathas the hyghe preest with the elders, preestes, and the other people of the Jewes, sende greetyng vnto the Spartyans their brethren. There were letters sent long ago vnto Onias the hye preest, from Arius, whiche the̅ raygned among you: that ye are our brethren, as the wrytynge made therupon specifieth. And Onias entreated the embassadoure that was sent honorably, and receyued the letters: wherin there was mencyon made of the bonde of loue and frendshyp. But as for vs, we nede no such wrytynges: for why, we haue the holy bokes of scripture in our handes to our comforte. Neuertheles, we had rather sende vnto you, for the renuyng of the brotherhode and frendshyp: lest we shoulde be straunge vnto you, for it is longe, sythens the tyme that ye sent wordes vnto vs. Wherfore in the sacrifices that we offre, and other ceremonyes vpon the hye solemne dayes and other, we alway remembre you without ceasynge (lyke as reason is, and as it becommeth vs to thynke vpon oure brethren) yea and are right glad of your prosperous honour.

And though we haue had greate troubles and warres, so that the kynges about vs haue foughten agaynst vs: yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of our louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are delyuered, and our enemyes subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renue the olde bonde of frendshyp and loue with them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, to salute you, and to delyuer you oure letters, concernynge the renouacyon of oure brotherhode. And nowe ye shall do right well, to gyue vs an answere therevnto.

And this is the copye of the wrytynge, which Arius the kynge of Sparta sent vnto Onias: Arius kynge of the Spartians sendeth greetyng vnto Onias the hye preest. It is fou̅d in wrytynge, that the Spartians and Jewes are brethren, and come out of the generacyon of Abraham. And nowe for so moche as this is come to oure knowledge, ye shall do well, to wryte vnto vs of youre prosperitye. As for vs, we haue wryten oure mynde vnto you: Our catell and goodes are yours, and yours ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas herde, that Demetrius prynces were come forthe to fyght agaynste him, with a greater hoost then afore, he went from Jerusalem, and met them in the lande of Hemath, for he gaue the̅ not space to come in to his owne countrey. And he sent spyes vnto their tentes, whiche came agayne and colde him, that they were appoynted to come vpon him in the nyght seasō. Wherfore whē the sunne was gone downe, Jonathas commaunded his men to watch al the night and to be redye with weapons for to fyght: and set watchmen rounde about the hoost. But when the aduersaryes herde that Jonathas was readye with his men to the battayle, they feared, and were afrayde in their hertes and kyndled fyres in their tētes blake vp, and gat them away. Neuertheles Jonathas and his companye, knewe it not tyll the morynge, for they sawe the fyres burnynge.

Then Jonathas followeth vpon them, but he myght not ouertake them, for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed vnto the Arabiās (which were called Zabadei) slew them, and toke their goodes. He proceded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went thorowe all that countrey. But Simon his brother toke his iourney and came to Ascalon and to the next stronge holdes: departynge vnto Joppa, and wan it. For he herde that they wolde stande of Demetrius partye: wherfore he sent men of warre in the cytye, to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne, and called the elders of the people togyther: and deuysed with them for to buylde vp the stronge holdes in Jewry, & the walles of Jerusalē, to set vp an hye wal betwyxt ꝑ castell & the city, for to seperate it from the citye, that it myght be alone, and that men shulde neyther bye nor sell in it.

Vpon this they came togither for to build vp the cytye: and for as moch as the wall vpō the brooke of the west syde (called Caphethetah) was fallen down, they repayred it. And Symon set vp Adiadah in Sephelah, & made it stronge setteyng portes and lockes vpon it.

E Now when Tryphon purposed to raygne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slaye the kyng Antiochus: he was afrayed ꝑ Jonathas wolde not suffre him, but fyght against him. Wherfore he went about to take Jonathas & to kil hym. 1. Machab. 13. Iosephus. li. xiii.

So he departed, and came vnto Bethsan. Then went Jonathas forth against hym to the battayle with fourty thousande chosen men and came vnto Bethsan also. But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathas came with so greate an hoost to destroy hym, he was afrayed: and therfore he receyued hym honourably commended hym vnto all his frendes, & gaue hym rewardes, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedyent vnto him, as to hym selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathas: why hast thou caused this people to take suche trauayle, seynge there is no warre betwyxte vs? Therfore sende them home agayne and, chose certayne men to wayt vpon the, and come thou with me to Ptolomais: for I wyll gyue it with the other stronge holdes, men of warre and their officers.

F As for me, I must departe, this is only the cause of my commynge. Jonathas beleued hym, and dyd as he sayde, puttynge awaye his hoost, whiche went in to the lande of Juda. He kepte but .iij.M. by hym, wherof he sent .ii.M. in to Galilee, and one thousande went with hym selfe.

Now as soone as Jonathas entred in to Ptolomais, the cytezyns sparred the gates of the cytie, and toke him, and slew all them with the swerde, ꝑ came in with hym. Then sent Tryphon an hoost of fotemen and horsemen in to Galilee, and in to the great playne felde, to destroy all Jonathas company. But when they knew that Jonathas was taken, and al they slayne that waited vpō him: they toke counsell togyther, and came forthe redy to ꝑ battayle. So when they whiche folowed vpon them, saw that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned backe agayne. As for the other, they went in to the lande of Juda peaceably, and bewayled Jonathas, and the̅ that were with hym syght sore. And Israel made greate lamentacō. Then all the heathen that were round about them, thought to destroy them. For they sayde: now haue they no capitayne, nor any man to helpe them. Therfore let vs ouercome them, and rote out their name frō amonge men.

But when Tryphon knewe that Simon stode vp in stede of his brother Jonathas, & that he wolde warre agaynst hym: he sente messengers vnto hym, saying: Where as we haue kept Jonathas thy brother, it is for money that he is a wyng in the kynges accompt concernynge the busynes that he had in hāde. Wherfore sende now an .C. talentes of syluer & his two sonnes for suertye, that when he is letten forth he shall not forsake vs: & we shall sende him agayne. Neuertheles Symon knewe, that he dyssembled in his wordes yet commaunded he the money and chyldren to be delyuered vnto hym: lest he shuld be the greater ennempe agaynste the people of Israel, and saye: because he sent hym not the money and the chyldren, therfore is Jonathas deed.

So Symon sent him the chyldren and an hundreth talentes, but he dyssembled, and wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterward came Tryphon in to the lande, to destroye it, & went rounde aboute by the waye that ledeth vnto Ador. But where so euer they went thyther went Simon and his hoost also. Now they ꝑ were in ꝑ castel sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make hast to come by ꝑ wyldernes and to sende the vyttayles: And Tryphon made ready al his horsmen to come that same nyght. Neuertheles it was a very greate snowe, so that he came not in Galaadithim. And when he drewe nyghe Baschama, he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there and then turned for to goo home in to his owne lande. Jonathas & his sonnes are slayne.

Then sent Symon for to fet his brothers deed cozle, and buryed it in Modin his fathers cytye. So all Israel bewayled hym in greate lamentacyon, and mourned for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulcre of his father and his brethren a buyldynge hygh to loke vnto of fre stone behynde and before: and set vp seuen pyllers one agaynst an other, for his father, his mother & foure brethren, and set great pylers rounde about, with armes vpon them for a perpetual memory, and carued thynges besyde the armes: that they myghte be sene of me̅ sayling in the see. This sepulcre whiche he made at Modin standeth yet vnto this daye.

D Now as Tryphon went forth to walke with ꝑ ponge kynge Antiochus, he slewe him treasonably, and raygned in his stede, crowned hym selfe kyng of Asia, and dyd moch euell in the lande. Symon also buylt vp the castels in Jewry, makynge them strong with hyghe towres, greate walles, portes and lockes, & layd vp vyttayles in the strong holdes. And Symon chose certayne men and sent them to kynge Demetrius: to desyre hym, that he wolde discharge the land from all bondage, for Tryphon had spoyled it very sore. Where vpon Demetrius the kynge answered hym, and wrote vnto hym after this maner. Tryphon. Iosep. capi. xiii. libro. xiii.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth greetynge vnto Symon the hyghe preest his frend with the elders & people of the Jewes. The golde crowne and precyous stone that ye sent vnto vs,

CAPI. XIII.

NOw when Symon herde that Tryphō gathered a great hoost, to come in to ꝑ lande of Juda, and to destroye it: and sawe that the people was in greate fearfulnesse and care: He came vp to Jerusalem, and gathered the people togyther, and gaue them exhortacyon, saynge: Ye know what greate battayles I and my brethren and my fathers house haue strycken for the law and the Sāctuary, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: therow occasyon wherof, al my brethrē are slayne for Israels sake, & I am lefte alone. And now let not me spare myne owne lyfe in any maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethren: but wyll auenge my people and the Sanctuary, our chyldren and our wyues: for all the Heathen are gathered togyther to destroye vs of very malyce.

At these wordes, the hertes of the people were kyndled togither, so that they cryed with a loude voyce, saynge: Thou shalte be oure capitayne in stede of Judas and Jonathas thy brethren, ordre thou oure battayle, and whatsoeuer thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of war makynge haste to fynysh all the walles of Jerusalem, which he made stronge rounde about.

B Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Absolomus with a fresh hoost vnto Joppa, whiche droue them out that were in the castell, and remayned there him selfe. Tryphon also remoued from Ptolomais with a great army, to come in to the lande of Juda, & Jonathas with him inwarde. And Symon pytched his tentes at Addus, before the playne felde.

vs, haue we receyued: and are ready to make a stedfaste peace with you, yea and to wryte vnto oure officers, for to release you, concernynge the thynges wherin we made you free: and the appoyntmente that we make with you, shall be fyrme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylded, shall be youre owne. As for any ouer syghte or faute committed vnto this daye, we forgyue it, and the crowne tax that ye ought vs also. And where as was anye other tribute in Jerusalem, it shall nowe be no tribute: and loke who are mete amonge you to be in our courte, let the be wrytten vp, that there maye be peace betwyxte vs.

Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken ¶ frō Israel, in the hundreth thre score and ten yere. And the people of the Jewes began to wryte in theyr letters and actes on this ma-1.Mac.xiiii.d ner. In the fyrst yere of Symon the hye priest, and prynce of the Jewes.

In those dayes went Symon vnto Gaza, and besieged it round about, where he set vp ordinaunce of warre. And wan a towne which he toke. So they that gat in to the towne leapte in the cytie, whiche was in a greate feare: In so moche that the people of the cytie rente theyr clothes, and clymed vp vpon the walles with theyr wyues and chyldren, beseechynge Symon to be at one with them: saynge.

¶ O rewarde vs not after oure wyckednesse, but be gracious vnto vs, and we shall do the seruyce. Then Symon for very pytye, wolde fyght no more agaynste them, but put them out of the cytie, and caused the houses (wherin the Images were) to be cleused: and so entred the cytie with Psalmes of prayse, gyuynge thankes vnto the Lorde. So when he had cast all abhominacyons oute of the cytie, he set such men in it as kepte the law of God and made the cytie stronge, and buylded a dwellynge place for hym selfe.

Now when they in the castell of Jerusalem were kepte so straytlye, that they coulde not come forth ne in to the countrey, & might neither bye ne sell: they were verye hungrye, and many of them famyshed to death: In so moche that they besought Symō to be at one with them, whiche he graunted them. So he put them out from thence, and cleused the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the .xxiii. day of the seconde moneth in the hundreth. lxxi. yeare, they entred into it with thankes gyuynge and braunches of palme trees, with harpes, crowdes, cimbales, and lutes singing Psalmes, and songes of prayse vnto God, for that the great enemy of Israel was ouercome.

And Symon ordeyned that the same daye shoulde be kepte euerye yere in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyl of the temple that was beside the castell, where he dwelte him selfe with his company. Symon also perceyuinge that John his sonne was a myghtye man of armes, made him captayne of all the hostes, and caused him to dwell at Gaza.

¶ Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. Symon reynge captayne there is a great quyetnes in Israel. The couenaunt of frendship with the Romaynes & with the people of Sparta is renued.

CAPI. XIIII.

IN the. Clxii. yere gathered kynge Demetrius his hoost, and departed vnto Media to get hym helpe for to fyght agaynst Triphon. Now when Arsaces the kyng of Persia & Media herd, that Demetrius was entred within his borders: he sent one of his prynces to take hym alyue, and to brynge hym vnto hym. So he wente and slewe Demetrius hoost, toke hym selfe, brought him to Arsaces whiche kepte hym in warde. And all the land of Juda was in rest, so long as Symon lyued for he sought the welth of his people, therfore were they glad to haue hym for theyr ruler and to do hym worshyp alwaye. A Demetrius is taken.

Symon wan the cytye of Joppa also for an hauen towne, and made it an intraunce in to the Iles of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people, and conquered them more lande: he gathered vp many of theyr people that were prysoners he had the dompnion of Gaza, Bethsura and the castell, which he cleused from fylthynes, and there was no man that resysted hym: So that euerye man tylled his grounde in peace, the lande of Juda and the trees gaue theyr frute and increace. The elders sat all in iudgement, and toke them counsayle for the welthe of the lande: the yonge men put on worshyp and harnes vpon them. He prouyded vyttayles for the cities, & made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of his worshyp was spoke of vnto the ende of the worlde. For he made peace thorow oute the lande, and Israel was full of myrth and ioye. B

Euery man sat vnder his vyne & fygtrees and there was no man to fray them awaye. There was none in the land to fight against them, for then the kinges were ouercome. He helped those that were in aduersytye amonges his people he was dylygēt to se the law kept: as for such as were vngodly & wycked he toke thē away. He set vp the Sanctuarye and increased the holy vessels of the temple. 1.Mach.xiii.d.and.xiiii.

Whē the Romaynes and Spartans had gotten word that Jonathas was dede, they were eyght sory. But when they herde that Symon his brother was made hygh prieste in his stede, and howe he had won the lande agayne with the cytyes in it: they wrote vnto hym in tables of latyne, to renue the frendship and bonde of loue, which they had made afore with Judas and Jonathas his brethrē. Whiche wrytynges were red before the congregacyon at Jerusalem. C

And this is the coppe of the letres, that the Spartans sent: The Senatours and cytyzyns of Sparta sende gretinge vnto Symō & the greate prieste & the elders, preestes, & other people of the Jewes their brethren: Whē your embassadoures that were sent vnto our people, certifyed vs of your worshyp, honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of theyr cōmyng, and haue written the errande which they spake before the counsell of the people: namelye, that Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, the Jewes embassadours are come vnto vs, for to renue the olde frendshyp with vs. Vpon this the people consented, that the men should be honorably intreated, and that the copy of theyr errande shoulde be wrytten in the specyal bokes of the people, for a perpetuall memorye vnto the Sparcians: yea and that we should sende a copy of the same vnto Symon the greet preest.

After this dyd Symon sende Numenius vnto Rome, with a golden shylde of a thousande pounde weight to confyrme the frendshyp with them: which when the Romaynes vnderstode, they sayd: what thankes shall we recompence agayne vnto Symō and his chylde? For he hath stablysched his brethren, and ouercome the enemyes of Israel. Wherfore they graunted him to be free. And al this wrote the Jewes in tables of latyne, and nayled it vnto the pyllers vpon the mount Syon. The copy of the wrytynge is this. D

The .xviii. daye of the moneth Elul in the Clxii. yere, in the thyrde yere of Symon the hye preest, in the great congreacyō of the preestes, rulers of the people, and elders of the countrey at Asarame, were these wordes openly declared.

For so moch as there was moch warre in our lande, therfore Symon the sonne of Mathathiah (come of the chyldren of Jareb) and his brethren, put them selues in peryll, and resysted the enemyes of their people: that theyr Sanctuarye and lawe myght be maynteyned, and dyd theyr people great worshyp. Jonathas in lyke maner, after that he had gouerned his people and bene their hye preest: dyed, and lyeth buryed beside his elders. E

After that wold theyr enemyes haue trodden theyr holy thynges vnder fote, destroyed theyr lande, and vtterlye wasted theyr Sanctuarye. Then Symon withstode them, and fought for his people, spēt moch of his owne money, weapened the valeaunte men of his people, gaue them wages, made stronge the cytes of Juda, with Bethsurah, that lyeth vpon the borders of Jewrye (where the ordynaunce of theyr enemyes laye somtyme) and set Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, which lyeth vpō the see, and Gaza that bordreth vpon Azotus (where the enemyes dwelte afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: & what so euer was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaryes, that layed he therin. Nowe when the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, and what worshyp he purposed to do for them, his godlye behauioure, and faythfulnesse whiche he kepte vnto them, and howe he sought by all wayes the wealthe of his people, because he dyd all this, therfore they chose hym to be theyr prynce and hye preest. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym, so that the Heathen were taken out of theyr lande and they F

also whiche were in the cytye of Dauid at Jerusalem in the castell (where they went oute and defyled all thynges that were aboute the Santuary) and dyd greate harme vnto clenlynes, and Symon put men of the Jewes in it for the defence of the lande and the cytye, & set vp the walles of Jerusalem.

And kynge Demetrius confyrmed hym in his hye preesthode, made hym his frende, and dyd hym greate worshyp. For he herde that the Romaynes called the Jewes their frendes louers & brethren: how honourably they receyued Symons embassadoures: how the Jewes and preestes consented that he shulde be their prynce & hygh preest perpetuallye (tyll God rayse vp the true prophet) and that he shulde be their captayne, to care for the Sanctuary, and to set officers vpon the worckes therof, ouer the land, ouer the wepons, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouysion for the holy thynges and to be obeyed of euerye man, & all the wrytynges of the lande to be made in his name: that he shulde be clothed in purple and golde, & that it shulde be lawful for none of the people nor preestes to breke anye of these thynges, to withstand his worckes, ne to call any congregacyon in the land without hym: that he shulde be clothed in purple, & weare a collar of gold. And yf there were any whiche disobeyed or brake this ordynaunce that he shulde be punyshed. G

So all the people consented to alowe Symon, and to do accordynge to these wordes. Symon also him selfe toke it vpon hym, and was content to be the hye preest, the captayne and prynce of the Jewes and preestes, and to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wrytynge in tables of latyn, and fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to laye vp a copy of the same in the treasury, that Simon and his posterytye myght haue it.

¶ Antiochus maketh a couenaunte of frendshyppe with Symon, and Triphon is persecuted. The Romaynes wryte letres vnto kynges and nacions in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusynge the helpe that Symon sente hym, breaketh his couenaunte.

CAPI. XV.

MOroner, kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letres frome the Iles of the see, vnto Symon the hygh preest and prynce of the Jewes, and to all the people, conteynynge these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth gretynge vnto Simon the hygh preest and to the people of the Jewes. For so moch as certayne wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of our progenytours, I am purposed to chalenge the realm againe and to restore it to the olde estate. H

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hoost and made shyppes of warre: that I maye go thorow the the countrey, & be auenged of the whiche haue destroyed oure lande, and wasted

ced many cyties in my realme. And therfore now I make the fre also from all the tributes, wherof all kynges my progenytours haue dyscharged the, and frome theyr customes (wherfrom they haue released the) what so euer they be: Yea I gyue the leue to coyne moneye of thyne owne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem, I wyll that it be holye and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence whiche thou hast buylded and kepest in thyne handes, shall be thyne. Where as any
B thynge is or shall be owyng unto the kynge. I forgyue it the, frome this tyme forthe for euermore. And when we haue obtayned oure kyngdome, we shall do the, thy people, and the temple greate worshyp, so that youre honoure shall be knowen thorow out the hole worlde.

In the.Clxxiiii. yere went Antiochus in to his fathers lande, and all the men of warre came togyther unto hym, so that fewe were left with Tryphon. So the kynge Antiochus folowed upon hym, but he fled unto Dora, which lyeth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was myschefe commyng unto hym, and that his hoost had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus unto Dora with an hundreth and twentye thousande men of armes upon fote, and eyght thousande horsmen. So he compassed the cytie rounde aboute, and the shyppes came by the see. Thus they vexed the cytie by lande and by water, in so mech that they suffred no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came Numenius (and 1.Mac.xiiii.d they that had bene with hym) from the cytie of Rome, hauynge letters wrytten unto the kynges and prouyncies, wherin were conteined these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of
C Rome sendeth greetynge unto Ptolomye the kynge. The embassadours of the Jewes, our frendes beynge sent from Symon the hyghe prest and from the people of the Jewes, came unto us, for to renue the olde frendshyp, and bonde of loue, and brought a shylde of golde weyinge a thousande pounde, whiche were content to receyue of them. Wherfore we thoughte it good to wryte unto the kynges and prouyncies, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynst them, theyr cyties ne countryes neither to mayntaine theyr enemyes agaynst them. If there be any wycked persons therfore fled frome theyr countrey unto you, delyuer them unto Symon the hye prest, that he may punish them accordyng to their owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romaynes also unto Demetrius the kynge, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces, and to all regions: as Samsanes, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mido, Sydon, Caria, Samos, Phamphilia, Licia, Alicarnassum, and to the Rhodes, to Faselis Coo, Syde, Arado, Gortina, Gnidum, to Cipres and to Cyren. And of euerye lettre they sent a copy to Symon the hygh preest and to D the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge broughte his hooste unto Dora the seconde tyme, to take it: where he made dyuers ordinaunce of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he shoulde not come forth. Then sent Symon Antiochus two thousand chosen men to help hym with gold, sylver and other precious gere: Neuerthelesse he wolde not receyue theym but brake all the couenaunte whiche he made with Symon afore, & withdrewe hym self from him.

He sente Athenobius also a frende of his unto Symon, for to reason with hym saying: Ye withholde fro me Joppa & Gaza (with ye castel that is at Jerusalem) which are cytyes of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroy and done greate euyll in the lande, hauynge the domynacyon in manye other places of my kyngedome. Wherfore delyuer now the E
cytyes whiche ye haue taken with the trybutes of the places that ye haue rule upon withoute the borders of Jewrye: Or elles gyue me.v.hundreth talentes of sylver, yea and for the harme that ye haue done in the cytyes and for the trybutes of the same, other v.C.talentes. If no, we shal come and fyght agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe the greate worshyp and honoure of Symon in gold, sylver, and so greate plenty of ornamentes: he marueyled, and tolde Symon as the kynge commaunded hym. Then answered Symon and sayde unto hym: As for us, we haue neither Judith.
taken other mens lande, ne withholden them, but onely oure fathers herytage, whiche our enemies had unrighteously in possessyon a certayne tyme.

This herytage, of our father haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as ye complaynest concernynge Joppa and Gaza, they dyd greate harme to oure people and in our lande yet wyll we gyue an hundreth talentes for them.

Neuerthelesse Athenobius answered hym F
not one word, but turned agayne wrothfully unto the kynge, and tolde hym all these wordes, and the greate dygnytye of Symon with all that he had sene, and the kyng was very angrye. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by shyp unto Orthosaida. Then the kynge made Cendebeus captayne of the see coste & gaue hym an hoost of fotemen and horsemen commaundyng hym to remoue ye host towarde Jewrye, and to buylde up the cyty of Cedron, to make up the portes, and to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the king him self, he folowed upon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came unto Jamnia, and began to vexe the people to treade downe Jewrye, to take the people prysoners, to slay them and to builde up Cedron: where he set horsemen & other men of warre, that they myght come forth & go thorow the stretes of Jewry, lyke as the kynge had commaunded hym.

¶ Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hooste is put to flyghte of the sonnes of Symon Ptolomeus the sonne of Abobus kylled Simon and his.ii. sonnes at a bancket. John kylleth them that leyein wayte for his lyfe.

CAP I.

CAPI. XVI.

A Then came Jhon up from Gaza, & tolde Symon his father what Cendebeus had done amonge their people. Upon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes, Judas and Jhon, and said unto them: I & my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer fro our youth up unto this daye, foughten agaynste the ennemyes of Israell, and God gaue us good fortune to delyuer Israell ofte tymes. And now for so moche as I am olde, be ye in stede of me and my brother, to goo forth and fyght for our people, and the help of God be with you. So he chose twenty.M.fyghtyng men of the countrey, with horsemen also which went forth agaynst Cendebeus and rested at Modyn.

In the mornyng they arose and went in to the playn feld: and beholde, a mighty great host came agaynst them, both of fotemen and horsemen. Now was there a water broke bitwixt them, and Jhon remoued the hoste towarde them. And when he saw that ye people was afrayd to go ouer ye water broke he went ouer fyrst him selfe: and the men seinge this folowed him.

B Then Jhon set his horsemen & fotemen in order the one by the other, for their enemyes horsemen were verye many. But when they blew up with the prestes trompets, Cendebeus fled with his hoste, wherof many were slayn and the remnaunte gat them to their stronge hold. Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at the same time. And Jhon folowed styl upon the ennemies, til he came to Cedron which he builded. The enemies fled also unto ye towres that was in the feldes of Azotus, and those dyd Jhon burne up. Thus there were slayn two thousand men of them, & Jhon turned agayn peaceably to Jury.

And in the feld of Jericho was Ptolomy ye
C son of Abolus made capiteyn, which bicause he had abundance of sylver and golde (for he had maryed the doughter of Symon the hye prest) waxed proude in his mynde, & thought to conquere the land, ymagining falsehed agaynst Symon and his sonnes, to destroy them. Now as Symon was going about thorowe the cities that were in the countrey of Jury, and caring for them, he came down to Jericho with Mathathiah & Judas his sonnes, in the Clxxvii. yere, in ye.xi. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomy the son of Abobus receyued them (but with disceyt) in to a strong house of his called Doch, which he had builded, wher he made them a banket.

So when Simon & his sonnes were merye and had dronken well, Ptolomy stode up with his men (whom he had hyd there) & toke their weapons, entred in to ye banket house, & slew Symon with his two sonnes, and certeyn of his Symon is seruauntes. Suche great unfaythfulnes dyd slayne.
Ptolomy in Israel, & recompensed euyll for good. Then wrote this Ptolomy the same unto king Antiochus, requiryng him yt he shold send him an host to helpe him, and so shold he deliuer him the land, with the cities and tributes of the same. He sent other men also unto Gaza, for to take Jhon: and wrote unto the capitaynes to come to hym, and he sholde gyue them sylver, golde, and rewades. And to Jerusalem he sent other to take it and the Sanctuary.

Then ran there one before, & told Jhon in D
Gaza, yt his father & his brethren were slayn, and how that Ptolomy had sent to sle him also. When Jhon herde this, he was sore abashed, & layde handes of them that were come to destroye him, and slew them: for he knew that they went about to kil him.

As for other thinges concerning Jhon: of his warres, of his noble actes (wherin he behaued him selfe manfully) of the buylding of walles which he made, and other of his dedes: they are wrytten in the cronicles of his presthode, fro the tyme forth yt he was made hye preest after his father.

THE II. BOOKE OF THE MACHABEES.

¶ An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalē sent vnto them which dwelt at Egypt, wherin they exhorte them to gyue thankes for the deathe of Antiochus: Of the fyre that was hyd in the pyt. The prayer of Nehemias.

CAPI. I.

A THe brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem, & in the lād of Jurye, wish vnto those brethrē of the Jewes ẏ are thorow out Egipt: good fortune helth and peace.

God ẏ Lord be gracious vnto you, & thynke vpon his couenaūt ẏ he made wͭ Abrahā, Isaac & Jacob his faithful seruantes, and gyue you al such an herte, that ye may loue & serue him: yea & performe his wil with an hole hert & a willing minde: he open your hertes in his law, and in his cōmaundementes, sende you peace: heare youre prayers, be at one with you, & neuer forsake you i time of trouble. This is here our prayer for you.

What time as Demetrius raigned in the Clxix. yere, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violēce ẏ came vnto vs. In those yeres after that Jason departed oute of the holy lande and kyngdome, they brent vp the portes, & shed innocent bloude. Then made we oure prayer vnto the Lorde, and were herd: we offred and lighted the candels, settyng forth cakes and breed, and now com ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth Casleu.

In the Clxxxviij. yere the people that was B at Jerusalem and in Jurye, the counsell and Judas him selfe, sent this holsome salutaciō vnto Aristobolus kynge Ptolomys master, which came of the generacion of the annointed prestes, and to the Jewes that were in Egypte: In so moche as God hathe delyuered vs frome greate peryls, we thanke hym highly, in that we resisted so myghty a king. And why? he brought men out of Persis by heapes to fyght agaynst vs and the holy cytye. For as he was in Persis (namely the capitayne with the great hoste) he perysshed in the temple of Naneas, being disceyued thorow the deuice of Naneas prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelte, there Antiochus and his frēdes came thyther to receyue moche moneye for a dowrye. So when Naneas preestes hadde layde forthe the money, he entred with a small companye in to the compasse of the temple, and so they shut the temple.

Now whē Antiochus entred by opening ẏ C priuy entraunce of the temple, the prestes stoned the capitayn to deth, hewed thē in peces that were with him, smote of theyr heedes, and threwe them out in all thynges. God be praysed, which hath deliuered the wicked in to our handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe ẏ purificacion of the tēple vpon the xxv. daye of the moneth Casleu, we thought necessarye to certifyyou therof, ẏ ye also might kepe the tabernacles feast day, and the day of the fire which was giuen vs when Nehemiah offred after ẏ he had set vp the temple and the aulter. For what tyme as our fathers were led away vnto Pesis, ẏ prestes which thē sought the honour of God, toke the fyre pryuely frō the aulter, & hyd it in a valey, where as was a depe drye pyt, and therin they kepte it, bycause the place was vnknowen to euery mā. Now after many yeres whē it pleased God that Nehemiah sholde be sent from the kyng of Persia, he sente the chylders chyldren of those prestes (which had hyd the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs they founde no fyre, but thycke water. Then commaunded he them to drawe it vp, and to brynge it hym, & the offerynges with all. Nowe when the sacrifices were layde on and ordred, the preest Nehemiah commaunded to sprynckle them and the wod with the water. Whē this was done, and ẏ tyme come that the sunne shone whiche afore was hyd in the cloude: there was a great fyre kyndled. In so moche that euery man merueyled. Nowe all the preestes prayed whyle the sacrifyce was a makynge. Jonathas prayed fyrste, and the other gaue answere. Leui. vi. 2. Ma. vi. D

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lorde God, maker of all thinges, ẏ fearful and strong, thou ryghtous and mercyfull, thou that art only a gracious kynge, onely lyberal, onely iust, almighty and euerlastyng, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, thou that hast chosē the fathers and halowed them: receyuyng the offerynge for the hole people of Israel, preserue thyne own porciō, and halow it. Gather those togither that are scatred abrode from vs: deliuer thē that are vnder the Heathens bondage, loke vpon them which are despised and abhorred, that the Heathen may know and se, how that thou art our God: Punish thē that oppresse, and proudlye put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place, like as Moses hath spoken. Deute.

And the prestes song Psalmes of thankesgyuynge, so longe as the sacrifice endured. E

Now when the sacrifice was brent, Nehemiah cōmaunded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water. Whiche whē it was done, there was kyndled a flame of them also: but it was consumed thorowe the lyghte that shyned frome the aulter. So when this mater was knowen, it was tolde the kynge of Persia, that in the place where the preestes which were led awaye, had hyd fyre, there appered water in stede of fire, and that Nehemias & his company had purified the sacrifices withall. Then the kyng consyderynge and ponderynge the mater dylygently, made him a temple to proue the thing ẏ was done. And when he found it so in dede, he gaue the prestes many gyftes, and dyuers rewardes, yea he toke thē with his own hand and gaue them. And Nehemias called ẏ same place Nephthar, which is as moch is say, as a clensyng: but many men cal it Nephi.

¶ How Jeremye hyd the tabernacle, the Arcke, and the aultar in the hyll. Of the fyue bokes of Jason conteyned in one.

CAPI. II.

A IT is found also in the writinges of Jeremy the peophet, that he commaunded thē which were caryed away to take fyre, as it is sayd afore. He commaunded them also, that they sholde not forget the law and commaundementes of the Lorde, and that they shold not erre in their myndes, when they se ymages of syluer and golde with their ornamentes. These and suche other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, ẏ they shold not let the law of God go out of theyr hertes.

It is wrytten also, how the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle and the arke with them: and he went forth vnto ẏ mountayne, where Moses clymed vp, and sawe the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came there, he foūde an open caue, wherin he layd the tabernacle, the arke, and the aulter of incense, & so stopped the hole. There came certayne men togyther also folowynge hym, to marcke the place, but they coulde not fynde it. Whiche B when Jeremye perceyued, he reproued them sayinge: As for that place it shall be vnknowen, vntyl the time that God gather his peple togyther agayne, and receyue them vnto mercy. Then shal God shew them these thinges, and the maiestie of the Lord shal appere and the cloud also, lyke as it was shewed vnto Moses, and lyke as when Salomon desyred that the place might be sanctified, and it was shewed hym.

For he being a wyse man, handled honourably and wysely offryng vnto God in ẏ halowing of the temple when it was finisshed. And like as whē Moses prayed vnto ẏ Lord the fyre came downe from heuen and consumed the burnt offring: Euen so prayed Salomon also, and the fyre came downe frome heuen, and consumed the burntofferyng. And Moses said: bicause the synoffring was not eaten, therfore it is consumed. In like maner Salomon kept the dedicacion, or halowing, eyght dayes.

In the annotacions and writinges of ẏ Jeremye were these thynges put also: & how he made a lybrary, and how he gathered out of all countreys the bokes of the prophetes, of Dauid, the epistles of the kinges, & of the presentes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he lerned by experience of war, & suche thinges as hath hapened vnto vs, he gathered thē al togyther, and so we haue thē by vs. Yf ye now desyre to haue the same, sende some bodye to fetche them vnto you. Where as ye then are about to celebrate the purificacion, we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shal do well yf ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also that the God (which deliuered his people, & gaue them al the heritage, kyngdome preesthode & Sanctuary that he promised thē in the law) shal shortly haue mercy vpō vs, & gather vs togither frō vnder the heuen in to his holye place: for he hath saued vs frō great perils, and hath clensed the place. Deute. xxx. a

As cōcernyng Judas Machabeus and his brethren, the purificacion of the great tēple, D the dedicaciō of the aulter: yea & of the warres ẏ concerne noble Antiochus and Eupator his son, of the shyninges that came down from heuen vpon those, which manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but few, yet defended they the hole land, droue away the enemies hoste, recouered agayne the temple ẏ was spoken of thorow oute all the worlde, deliuered the city, doing their best ẏ the law of the Lorde which was put downe might wͭ all tranquillitie be restored agayne vnto the Lorde that was so mercyfull vnto them. As touchyng Jason also of Cyren, we haue vndertaken compendiously to bryng in to one boke, the thinges that were comprehēded of him in fyue. For we considerynge the multitude of the bokes, & how hard it sholde be for them that wolde medle with stories & actes (and that bicause of so dyuers maters) haue vndertaken so to cōprehend the stories that such as are disposed to rede, might haue pleasure and pastyme therin: and that they which are diligēt in such thinges, might the better thynke vpon them: yea & that who so euer rede them, might haue profit therby. I. Macha. vi.

Neuertheles, we our selues ẏ haue medled E with this matter for the shortenynge of it, haue taken no small labour, but great dylygence, watchinges & trauayle. Lyke as they that make a feast wolde fayne do other men pleasure: Euen so we also, for many mens sakes, are very well content to take the labour, where as we may shortly comprehend the thynges that other men haue truly writen.

For he that buyldeth an house anew, must prouyde for many thynges to the hole buylding: but he ẏ paynteth it afterward, seketh but only what is comly, mete, and cōuenient to garnysh it withall. Euen so do we also in lyke maner. And why? he that begynneth to wryte a story for the fyrst, must with his vnderstandynge gather the mater togyther, set his wordes in ordre, and diligently seke out of euery parte: But he that afterwarde wil shorten it, vseth fewe wordes, and toucheth not the mater at the largest. Let this be sufficient for a prologe, nowe wyll we begyn to shew the mater: for it is but a folysh thynge to make a long prologe, and to be shorte in ẏ storye it selfe.

¶ Of the honour done vnto the temple by the kynges of the Gentyles. Symon vttereth what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sent to take them away. He is stryckē of God, and healed at the prayer of Onias.

CAPI. III.

What tyme as the holy city was inhabited in al peax and welth, and when the lawes were yet verye well kepte. (For so was it ordeyned by Onias the hye prest, & other godly men that were enemies to wyckednesse.) It came therto that euen the kynges and prynces theym selues dyd the place great worshyp, and garnisshed the temple w great gyftes: In so moche þ Seleucus kyng of Asia, of his own rentes bare all the costes belongynge to the seruyce of the offerynges. Then Symon of the tryb̄e of Benjamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worke some mischiefe in the cityе: but the hye preest reysted hym.

Neuertheles whē he might not ouercome Onias, he gat him to Appolonius the son of Thesta, which then was chiefe lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) and told him that the treasury in Jerusalem was ful of innumerable money, & how that the commons goodes, which belōged not vnto the offrynges, were exceedynge great also: yea, and how it were possible that all these myght come vnder the kynges power.

Now when Appolonius hadde shewed the kyng of the money, as it was tolde him: the kīng called for Heliodorus his steward, and sent hym with a commaundement, to bryng hym the same money. Immediatly Heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder a colour, as though he wolde goo thorow Celosyria and Phenices to visyt the cityes, but his purpose was to fulfyl the kynges pleasure. So whē he came to Jerusalem, and was louyngly receyued of the hye preest in to the city, he tolde what was determyned concerninge the money, and shewed the cause of his commynge: he asked also if it were so in dede. Then the hye preest tolde hym that there was such money layd vp for the vpholdyng of wydowes and fatherlesse chyldren, and how that a certayne of it belōged vnto Hyrcanus Tobias a noble man: and that of al the money (whiche that wycked Symon hadde bewrayed) there were foure hundred talentes of syluer, and two hundred of golde: yea, and that it were vnpossible for thole mens meaninge to be disceyued, that had layde vp their money in the place and temple, which is had in worshyp thorowe the hole worlde, for the maynetenaunce and honoure of the same. Whervnto Heliodorus answered, that þ king had commaunded him in any wyse to bryng hym the money.

So at the daye appoynted, Heliodorus entred in to the tēple to order this mater. But there was no small feare thorowout the hole city. The preestes fel downe before the auter in their vestimentes, and called vnto heuen vpon hym, whiche had made a lawe concernyng stuffe gyuen to kepe, that they shold be safely preserued for suche as commyt the vnto kepynge. Then who so had loked the hye preest in the face, it wold haue greued his herte: For his countenaunce and the chaungynge of his coloure, declared the inwarde sorow of his mynde. The man was al in heynesse, and his body in feare: wherby they that loked vpon him, might perceyue þ greefe of his herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the common prayer, bycause the place was lyke to come in to confusion. The women came togyther thorow the stretes with heery clothes about their breestes.

The virgyns also that were kepte in, ran to Onias, some to the walles, other some loked oute of the wyndowes: yea, they all helde vp their handes towarde heuen, and prayed. A myserable thynge was it to loke vpon the common people, and the hye preest beinge in suche trouble. But they besoughte almyghty God, that the goodes which were commytted vnto them, myght be kepte hole for those that had delyuered them vnto their kepynge. Neuertheles the thynge that Heliodorus was determined to do, that performed he in the same place, he hym selfe personally beinge aboute the treasurye with his men of warre. But the spirite of almightye God shewed hym self openly, so that al they whiche presumed to obeye Heliodorus, fell thorow the power of God in to a great fear fulnesse and drede. For there appeared vnto them an horse, with a terrible man sytynge vpon him, dect in goodly aray, and the horse smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete. Now he that sate vpon the horse hadde harnesse of golde vpon hym.

Moreouer there appered two fayre & brauе lyke yong men in goodly aray, which stode by him, scourged hym of bothe the sydes, and gaue hym many stripes wout ceasing. With that fel Heliodorus sodeynly vnto þ groūd. So they toke him vp, being compassed about with great darknes, and bare him out vpō a beare. Thus he þ came with so many rūners and men of warre in to the sayde treasurye was borne out, where as no man myght help hym: and so the power of God was manyfest and knowen. He laye styll domme also by the power of God, destitute of all hope & lyfe. And they praysed the Lorde that he had shewed his power vpon his place and temple whiche a lytle afore was full of feare & trouble: and that thorowe the reuelacion of the almyghty Lord, it was fylled with ioy and gladnesse.

The certeyn of Heliodorus frēdes prayed Onias, that in all haste he wolde call vpon God, to graunt hym his lyfe, which was gyuynge vp the ghost. So the hye preest considered the mater, and lest the kyng sholde suspecte that the Jewes had doone Heliodorus some euyll, he offred an healthoffrynge for hym. Now when the hye preest had obteyned his peticion, the same yonge men in the same clothynge appeared and stode beside Heliodorus, saying: Thanke Onias the hie preest, for, for his sake hath the Lorde graunted the thy life: therfore seing that God hath scourged the, giue him prayse and thankes, & shew euery man his myght and power. And when they had spoken these wordes, they appeared no more.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God, made great vowes vnto him which had graunted him his lyfe, thanked Onias, toke his host, & went agayne to the kynge. Then testified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had sene with his eyes. And when the kyng asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet ones agayne to Jerusalem, he said: yf thou hast any enemy or aduersarye vnto thy realme, send him thither, and thou shalt haue him punished, yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place, no doubt, there is a special power and working of God. For he þ dwelleth in heuen, visiteth and defendeth that place: & al that come to wit harme, he punissheth and and plageth the. This is now the mater concernyng Heliodorus, and the kepynge of the treasury at Jerusalem.

¶ Symon reporteth euyll of Onias. Jason desyreth the office of the hye preest, corrupteth the kyng with rewardes. The wycked intent of Jason.

CAPI. IIII.

This Symon now, of whom we spake afore, being a bewrayer of the money, & of his owne naturall countrey, reported the worst of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and as thoughe he had ben a brynger vp of euyl. Thus was he not ashamed to cal him an enemy of þ realme that was so faythful an ouerseer and defender of the citye and of his people: yea, and so feruent in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon increased so far, that thorow his frēdes there were certeyn mālaughters commyted: Onias consydered the perill þ might come thorow this strife, and how that Appolonius (namely the chiefe lorde in Celosiria and Phenices) was al set vpon tyranny, & Simons malice encreased the same: he gat him to the kyng, not as an accuser of the citezins, but as one that by him self intēded the commō welth of the hole multitude. For he saw it was not possible to liue i peax, neither Simon to leaue of frō his folishnesse except the kinge did loke therto. But after þ deth of Seleucus, when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kyngdome: Jason þ brother of Onias laboured to be hye preest: For he came vnto the kynge, and promysed hym thre hundred and .lx. talentes of syluer, and of the other rentes .lxxx. talentes. Besides this, he promysed hym yet an .C. and .l. if he myght haue the scole of the chyldren, and that he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when the kyng had graunted and he had gotten the superiorytie, he began imediatly to draw his kinsmē to the custom of the heathen, put downe the thynges that the Jewes had set vp of loue, by John the father of Eupolemius, which was sent embasadour vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frēdshyp & loue. He put downe al the Jewes and Lybertyes of the Jewes, and set vp the wycked statutes. He durste make a tyghtyng scole vnder the castel, & set fayre yong men to learne the maners of hoores and bryddelles.

This was now the begynnyng of the heathenish and straunge conuersacion, brought in thorow the vngracious and vnherd wyckednes of Jason, which shold not be called a preest but an vngodly person. In so moche þ the preestes were nowe no more occupied aboute the seruice of þ aulter, but despised the temple, regarded not the offringes: yea gaue their diligence to lerne to fyghte, to wrastle to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone: not settyng by the honour of the fathers, but liked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue perlously, & were redy to folow their statutes: yea their lust was in all thinges to be lyke them, whiche afore were their enemis and destroyers. How be it to do wickedly against the law of God, shal not escape vnpunished: but of this we shal speke hereafter.

What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were played at Tyrus (the king him self being present) this vngracious Jason sent wicked men, bearynge from them of Jerusalem, which now were called Antiochians, thre. C. drachmes of syluer for an offring to Hercules. These had they that caryed them desired vnder suche a facion, as though they shoulde not haue be offred, but bestowed to other vses. Neuertheles he that sent them, sent the to the intent that they sholde be offred vnto Hercules. But bicause of those that were present, they were gyuen as to the makynge of shyppes. And Appolonius the son of Menestheus was sent in to Egypte, bycause of the noble men of kynge Ptolomy Philometor. Nowe when Antiochus perceyued that he was put out from medlynge in the realme, he sought his own profyt, departed from thence, came to Joppa, and then to Jerusalem: where he was honourably receyued of Jason, and the city, and was brought in with torche light & with great prayse, and so he turned his hoste vnto Phenices.

After thre yere Jason sent Menelaus, the forsaid Simōs brother, to beare the money vnto the kyng, and to bryng hym aunswere of other necessarye maters. But he (when he was praysed of the kyng for magnifying of his power) tourned the preesthode vnto hym selfe, laying vp thre hundred talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten commaundementes frō the king, he came hauyng nothing that becommeth a preest, but bearing the stomacke of a cruel tyraunt, & the wrath of a wylde brute beest. Then Jason, whiche had disceyued his owne brother, seinge that he hym selfe was begyled also, was fayne to flee in to the lande of the Ammonites, and Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for the money that he had promised vnto the kyng, he dyd nothing therin, when Sostratus ỹ ruler of the castell required it of him. For Sostratus was the man that gathered the customes: wherfore they were both called before the king: Thus was Menelaus put oute of the prestlhod, & Lysimachus his brother cam in his stede. Sostratus also was made lorde of the Cyprians.

It happened in the meane season, that the Tharsians and Mallocians made insurrection, bycause they were gyuen for a present vnto kynge Antiochus concubyne. Then came the kynge in all the haste to stylle them agayne, and to pacifye the mater, leauynge Andronicꝰ ther to be his deputie as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposing that he had gotten a ryghte conuenient tyme, stole certayne vessellies of golde oute of the temple, and gaue them to Andronicus for a present: and some he sold at Tyrus, and in the cities therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a surety, he reproued hym, but he kepte him in a Sanctuary beside Daphnis that lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat hym to Andronicus, and prayed him ỹ he wolde slee Onias. So when he came to Onias, he counseyled him craftely to come out of the Sanctuary, gyuyng him his hande with an othe (how be it he suspecte hym) and then he slewe Onias, without any regarde of rightousnesse. For the whiche cause not onely the Jewes, but other nacions also toke indignacio, and were displeased for the vnryghtous deathe of so godly a man.

Onias is slayne.

G And when the kyng was come again from Cilicia, the Jewes and certein of the Grekes went vnto him, complayning for the vnrighteous deth of Onias. Yea Antiochus him self was sory in his mynde for Onias, so that it pitied him, and he wept, remembryng his sobrenesse & manerly behauiour. Wherfore he was so kyndled in his mynde, that he cõmaũded Andronicus to be stripped out of his purclothyng, and so to be led thorow out all the city: yea and the vngracious man to be slain in the same place where he cõmitted his wickednesse vpõ Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued. Now when Lysimachus had wne many wicked dedes in the temple, thorow the counsell of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrode: the multitude gathered thẽ togither agaynst Lysimachus, for he hadde caried oute nowe moche golde.

So when the people arose and were full of displeasure, Lysimachus armed thre. M. vnthryftes to defend hym, a certeyn tyraunt beinge their capitayne, whiche was growen both in age and wodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus, some gat stones, some good strong clubbes, & some caste asshes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of thẽ wounded, some being slayne, and al the other chased away. But as for the wycked church robber him self, they kylled hym besyde the treasury. Of these maters therfore there was kept a court against Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Tirus, they made a complaint vnto him of Menelaus concernyage this bulynesse, and the ambassadours were there. But Menelaus went & promised Ptolomy to giue him moch money, yf he wold perswade ỹ king. So Ptolomy wẽt to the king in to a court (where as he was set to coole hym) & brought him oute of that mynde. In so moche that he discharged Menelaus frõ the accusacions, that not withstandyng was cause of al mischif: and those pore men, which if they had told their cause: yea before the Scithians they sholde haue ben iudged innocent, them he condemned to deth.

Thus were they sone punished, which folowed vpõ the mater for the city, for the people, and for the holy vessell. Wherfore they of Tyrus toke indignacion, and buryed thẽ honourably. And so thorow the couetousnes of them ỹ were in power, Menelaus remayned styll in auctoritie, increasyng in malyce to the hurt of the citezyns.

¶ Of the sygnes and tokens sene in Jerusalem Of the ende and offence of Jason. The pursute of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes. The spoylynge of the temple.

CAPI. V.

AT the same time Antiochus made him A redye to goo agayne in to Egypte.
Then were there sene at Jerusalem forty dayes long, horsemen runnyng to and fro in the ayre, which had rayment of golde and speres. There were sene also hole hostes of men, weaponed, and horses runnynge in an order, how they came togyther, how they held forth their shyldes, how they harnelled men drewe out their swerdes and cast their dartes.

The shine of the goldẽ wepons was sene, and of al maner of armure. Wherfore euery man prayed that those tokens myght tourne to good. Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had ben deed: Jason toke a. M. men, and came sodenly vpon the city. The citezins ran vnto the walles, at the last was the citye taken, & Menelaus fled in to the castel.

As for Jason he spared not his owne citB zyns in the slaughter, neither consydered he what great euyll it were to destroye the prosperitie of his own kynsmen, but did as one that had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of his frendes. For all this gate he not the superiorytie, but at the laste receyued confusion for his malyce, and fled agayne lyke a vacabounde, in to the land of the Ammonites. (1. Mach.

Finally, for a reward of their wickednesse he was accused before Aretha the kynge of ỹ Arabians: In so moche that he was fayne to flie from citye to citye, beynge delyyled of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abomynable persone. And at the last (as an open enemye of his owne naturall cõtrie and of the citezyns) he was dryuen in to Egypt.

Thus he that afore put many out of their owne natyue land, perished from home him self. He went to Lacedemon, thynkyng there to haue gotten succoure by reason of kynred. And he that afore had caste many one oute vnburied, was thrown out him self, no man mournynge for hym, ne puttynge hym in his graue: so that he neither enioyed the burial of a straũger, neither was he partaker of his fathers sepulcre.

C Now when this was done, the kynge suspect that the Jewes wolde haue fallen from hym: wherfore he came in a great displeasure out of Egypt, and toke the cytie by violence. He commaunded his men of warre also, that they sholde kyl & not spare, but slaye whome such as withstode them, or clymed vp vpõ the houses.

Thus was there a great slaughter of yong men, olde men, women, children and virgyns. In the dayes were there slayne. lxxx. M. forty thousand put in prison, and no lesse solde. Yet was he not content with this, but durst go in to the moost holy tẽple (Menelaus that traytour to the lawes and to his owne naturall countrey, beynge his gyde) and with his wycked handes toke the vessell, which other kynges and cyties had gyuen thyther for the garnysshyng and honoure of the place: them toke he in his handes vnworthely, and defyled them.

D So mad was Antiochus, that he consydered not, howe that God was a lytell wroth for the synnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which, such confusiõ came vpõ that place. And why? yf it had not happened thẽ to haue bene lapped in many synnes (this Antiochus as soone as he had come) had sodeynlye bene punished, and shot oute for his presumption, lyke as Helyodorus was, whom Seleucus the kynge sent to robbe the treasury. Neuertheles, God hath not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it enioye the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of almyghtye God, so when the greate God is reconcyled, it shall be set vp in hyghe worshyp agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a. M. and E bviii. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat him to Antioche in all the haste, thynkynge in his pryde, that he myght make mẽ sayle vpon the drye land, and to go vpon the see, such an hye mynde had he. He left deputyes there to vexe the peole: At Jerusalẽ left he Philip a Phrygian, in maners more cruel then him self that set him there: At Garysim he left Andronicus and Menelaus, which were more greuous to the cytezyns thẽ other. Now as he was thus set in malyce agaynst ỹ Jewes, he sent Apollonis an hated prynce, with. xxii. M. cõmaundynge him to slaye al those that were of perfect age, and to sel the women, maidens, and chyldren. When he came now to Jerusalem, he layned peax, and kepte hym styl vntyl the Sabboth daye. And then he cõmaunded his men to take them to their weapons (for the Jewes kepte holy daye) and so he slewe all them that were gone forth to the open play, runnynge here and there thorowe the cytye with his men weaponed, and murthered a great nombre. But Judas Machabeus whiche was the tenth, fled into the wyldernesse, led his lyfe there with his companye among the wylde beastes and vpon the mountaynes dwelling there, and eatynge grasse, leest they shold be partakers of the fylthynes.

¶ The Jewes are compelled to leaue the lawe of God. The temple is defyled. The readers are monyshed that they shall not abhorre the aduersytye wherwith the Lorde afflicteth them. The greuous payne of Eleazarus.

CAPI. VI.

NOt longe after this, sente the kynge A messenger of Antioche, for to compel ỹ Jewes to alter the ordynaunces of the fathers and the lawe of God, to defyle the temple that was at Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Olimpius: and that they shulde be in Gazarim, as those whiche dwell at the place of Juppter the herberous. This wycked sedicion of the vngodlye was heuy vpon all the people: for the temple was full of voluptuousnes, bibbynge and boullyng of the heathen, of rybaudes and harlots togyther. The women wente in to the holye place, and bare in that was not lawful. The alter also was ful of vnlauful thinges, whiche the lawe forbyddeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbothes were not kept, the other solẽne feastes of the land were not regarded. To be playne, there durste no man be acknowen ỹ he was a Jewe. In the daye of the kynges byrth they were compelled perforce to offre: & when the feaste of Bachus was kept, they were constrayned to were garlandes of yuye and soto go about for the honoure of Bachus.

B Moreouer thorow ỹ councel of Ptolomy, there went out a cõmaundement in ỹ nere cytyes of ỹ heathen ỹ they shuld intreat ỹ Jewes in lyke maner: namely to cõpel them for to do sacrifyce after ỹ lawes of ỹ Gentiles & who so wold not, to put thẽ to deth. A piteous thig was it to se. There were. iij. womẽ accused to haue circũcised their sonnes, whome when they had led round about the city (the babes hãging at their brestes) they cast them down headlynges ouer the walles. Some ỹ were crept in to the tenny & had kept the Sabboth, were accused vnto Philip, & brẽt in the fyre: because ỹ for the feare of God they kept the cõmaundemẽt so stykly & wold not offend thẽ selues. Now I beseech al those which rede this boke ỹ they refuse it not for these falles of aduersytye: & iudge ỹ thinges (ỹ are happened) for no destruction, but for a chastenynge of our people. And why? Whẽ God suffreth not sinners long to folow their owne minde, C but shortly punyssheth them, it is a token of Prouerb.iii.b his greate louynge kyndnesse. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, that he suffreth not vs longe to synne vnpunisshed lyke other nacyons, that when the daye of iudgement commeth, he maye punysshe them in the fulnesse of theyr synnes. If we syn, he correcteth vs, but he neuer withdraweth his mercy frõ vs: and though he punysshe with aduersytie, yet wyl he neuer forsake his people. But let this that we haue spoken nowe with few wordes, be for a warnynge and exhortacion of the Heathẽ. Now wyl we come Eleazar to the declarynge of the matter. Eleazar one of the principall Scrybes, an aged man and of a welfauoured cõtenaunce, was cõstrayned to gape wt open mouth, and to eate swy-Leuiti.xi.a nes flesh. But he desyryng rather to dye glorious lye then to lyue with shame, offred hym selfe wyllynglye to the martyrdome. Nowe when he sawe that he must nedes go to it, he toke it pacyently: for he was at a poynt with him selfe, that he wold consent to no vnlawfull thing for any pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by being moued with pytie (but not a-D ryght) for the olde frendship of the man, toke him asyde priuely, and prayed him ẏ he wolde let such flesh be brought him as were lawful to eate, and then to make a countenaunce as though he had eaten of the flesh of the sacrifyce lyke as the kynge commaunded, for so he might be deliuered from death: and so for the olde frendshyp of the man, they shewed hym this kyndnesse. But he beganne to consydre his discrete and honorable age, his noble and worshypfull stocke, and howe that from his youth vp he had bene of an honest and good conuersacyon: yea and how constantly he had kept the ordynaunces and lawes cõmaunded by God, wherfore he gaue thẽ this answere, and sayde: Yet had I rather fyrst be layed in i.Tessa.v.c my graue. For it becõmeth not myne age (sayd he) in any wyse to dissemble, wherby manye yonge persons myghte thynke, that Eleazar beinge .lxxxx. yere olde, were gone to a straũge lyfe: and so thorow myne ypocrisy (for a lytle tyme of a transitory lyfe) they myght be disceyued: by this meanes also shoulde I defyle myne age, and make it abhomynable. For though I were now delyuered from the tormentes of men, yet shoulde I not escape the hand of almighty God, neither aliue ne ded.

E Wherfore I wyll dye manfully, and do as it becommeth myne age: Wherby I maye peraduenture leaue an example of stedfastnesse for suche as be yong, yf I with a redy mynde and manfullye dye an honest deathe, for the most worthy and holy lawes.

When he had sayd these wordes, immediatlye he was drawen to the tormente. Nowe they that led him and were mylde a litle afore began to take displeasure bicause of the wordes that he sayd: for they thought he had spoken them of an hye mynde. But whẽ he was in his martyrdom, he mourned & sayd: Thou O Lorde, whiche hast the holye knowledge, knowest openly: that where as I myghte be delyuered from death, I suffre these sore paynes of my body: but in my mynde I am well content to suffre them, because I feare the. Thus this man dyed, leuynge the memoryall of his death for an example not onelye vnto yong men, but vnto all the people, to be stedfast and manly.

¶ The punyshment of the .vii. brethren & of theyr mother.

CAPI. VII.

A It happened also that there were seuen bre-
Genesis thren (with their mother) taken & cõpelled Leuiti.xi. by the kynge agaynst the law to eate swynes fleshe: namely with scourges & lethren whyppes. And one of them which was the chiefe, sayde: What sekest thou, and what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs, we are ready rather to suffre death, then to offende the lawes of God & the fathers. Then was the kynge angry, and bad heate caudrons & brasen pottes. Whiche when they were made hote, immedyatly he commaunded the tong of hym that spake fyrste to be cut out, to pull the skyn ouer his heade to pare of the edges of his hãdes and fete: yea & that in the sight of his mother and the other of his brethren. Now when he was cleane marred, he comaũded a fyre to be made, & so (whyle there was any breath in hym) to be fryed in the cauldrõ. In the which when he had bene longe payned, the other brethren with theyr mother exhorted hym to dye manfullye, sayinge: The Deut.xxxii. Lorde God shall regarde the truth, and comforte vs, lyke as Moses testyfyeth and declareth in his songe, sayinge: and he wyll haue
B compassion on his seruauntes.

So when the fyrste was deed after this maner, they brought the seconde to haue him in derision, pulled the skynne with the heer ouer his heed, and asked hym, yf he wold eat swynes flesh, or he were payned in the other membres also thorow out his bodye. But he answered boldly, and sayde: I wyll not do it. And so was he tormented lyke as the fyrst & when he was euen at the gyuynge vp the ghost he sayde: Thou moost vngracyous person puttest vs now to death, but the kyng of the worlde shall rayse vs vp (which dye for his lawes) in the resurrection of euerlastynge lyfe.

After hym, was the thyrde had in derysyon: and when he was requyred, he put oute his tonge, and th at ryghte soone, holdynge forth his handes manfullye, and spake with a stedfast fayth: These haue I of heuen, but now for the lawe of God I despyse theym, for my trust is, that I shall receyue theym of him again. In so moch ẏ the king & they whi-
C che were wt him, marueled at ẏ yõg mãs boldnes, that he nothyng regarded the paynes.

John.v. Now when he was deed also, they vexed the fourth with tormẽtes in lyke maner. So when he was nowe at his death, he sayd: It is better that we beynge put to death of men haue our hope and trust in God, for he shall rayse vs vp agayne. As for ẏ, thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyfth, they tormented him. Then loked he vnto the kyng, and sayd: thou hast power among men, for thou arte a mortall man also thy selfe, to do what thou wilt, but thynk not, that God hath forsakẽ our generacyon. Abyde the, tary styll a whyle, and thou shalt se the great power of God, how he wyll punish the and thy sede. After him they brought the syxth, which beyng at the poynt of death, sayd: Be not disceyued (O kynge) for this we suffre for oure owne sakes, bycause we haue offended oure God, and therfore meruelous thinges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou, whiche takest in hande to stryue agaynst God, that
D thou shalt escape vnpunysshed.

This excellent mother (worthye to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one daye, and suffred it pacyently, bycause of the hope that she had in God: yea she exhorted euery one of them in especyal, and that boldly and stedfastly with parfyte wysdome, wakynge vp her wyuysshe thought with a manlye stomacke, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell how ye came in my wõbe, for I neither gaue you breth ne soule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the membres of your bodyes togyther, but the maker of the worlde, whiche fasshyoned the byrth of man, and began all thynges. Euen he also of his owne mercy shall gyue you breth and lyfe agayne, lyke as ye nowe regarde not youre owne selues for his sake.

Now thought Antiochus that she had despysed him, therfore he let her go with her reproues, and began to exhorte the yongest son (which yet was left) not only with wordes, but swore vnto hym with an oothe, that he should make hym a ryche and welthye man yf he wolde forsake the lawes of his fathers: yea and that he shold gyue hym: what soeuer were necessary for him. But when the yonge
E man wold not be moued for al these thinges, he called his mother, and cõuseled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And whẽ he had exhorted her with many wordes, she promised him that she wolde speake vnto her son. So she turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyraũt to scorne: and spake wt a bolde voyce: O my sonne, haue pytie vpon me that bare the .ix. monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, norisshed the and brought the vp vnto this age.

I beseche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earth and all that is therin, and cõsydre, that God made them and mans generacyon of nought: so shalt thou not feare this hangman, but suffre death stedfastlye, lyke as thy brethrẽ haue done: that I maye receyue the agayn in the same mercy with thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speaking these wordes the yong mã sayd: Whom loke ye for? Wherfore do ye tary? I wyll not obeye the kynges cõmaundement, but the law that God gaue vs by Moses. As for the that ymagynest
F all myschefe agaynst the Jewes, thou shalte not escape the hande of God, for we suffre these thynges, because of our synnes.

And though God be angry with vs a lytle whyle (for our chastenynge and reformacyon) yet shall he be at one agayne with his seruauntes. But thou, O shameful and most abhomynable person. Pryde not thy selfe thorow vayne hope, in beynge so malycyous vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgemente of the God whiche is almyghtye and seeth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffred a lytle payne are now vnder the couenaunt of euerlasting lyfe: but thorowe the iudgemente of God, thou shalte be punysshed ryghtouslye for thy pryde.

As for me, lyke as my brethren haue done, I offre my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers, callyngẽ vpon God, that he wyll soone be mercyfull vnto our people yea and with payne and punysshment to make the graunt, that he only is God. In me now ii.Macha.vi.e and in my brethren the wrath of almyghtye God is at an ende, whiche ryghtouslye is fallen vpon all our people.

Then the kynge beynge kyndled in angre was more cruel vpon hym then vpon all the other, and toke indignacion, that he was so lyghtly regarded. So this yonge man dyed vndefiled, and put his trust styl in the Lorde. Laste of al after the sonnes, was the mother put to death also. Let this now be ynough spoken cõcernyng the offrynges, and extreme cruelnes.

¶ Judas gathereth togyther his host. Nycanor is sente agaynste Judas. Judas exhorteth his souldyers to constauntnes. Nicanor is ouercome. The Jewes gyue thankes after they haue put their ennemyes to flyght, deuydinge the spoyles vnto the fatherles and vnto the wydowes. Nicanor flyeth vnto Antiochus.

CAPI. VIII.

Then Judas Machabeus and they that A were wt him, went priuelye in to the townes called their kynsfolkes and frendes togyther, toke vnto them al such as contynued yet in the fayth and law of ẏ Jewes & brought forth .vi. thousande men.

So they called vpon the Lorde, that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people: whiche was troden downe of euery man: to be gracyous vnto the temple, that was defyled of the vngodlye to haue compassyon vpon the destruction of the cytye whiche was shortlye lyke to be layde waste: to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym: to remembre the moste vnryghtous deathes of yonge innocent chyldrẽ the blasphemyes also done vnto his name, and to punysh them.

Nowe when Machabeus hadde gathered i.Macha.ii.e this multytude togyther, he was to myghty for the heathen, for the wrath of the Lorde was turned into mercye, he fell vpon ẏ townes and cityes at vnwares, brente them toke the mooste commodious places, and slewe many of the ennemyes. But specyally he made such chases by nyght in so moche that his his manlinesse was spoken of euery where.

So when Philip saw that the man increa- [B] sed by lytell and lytell, and that the matter prospered with hym for the moost parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomy (which was a captayne in Celosyria and Phenices) to helpe hym in the kynges busynesse. Then sent he Nicanor Patrocly (a specyall frende of his) in all the haste, and gaue him the common sorte of the Heathen no lesse then .xx.M. harnessed men, to rote out the hole generacyõ of the Jewes, hauyng to helpe him one Gorgias a man of warre, whiche in matters concernynge battayles had greate experience. Nycanor ordeyned also the trybute (which the Romaynes shuld haue had) to be gyuen vnto yͤ kyng, out of the captiuytie of the Jewes, namely, ij.M. talẽtes. And immediatly he sent to the cyties of the see coost, requyryng them for to bye Jewes to be theyr saruauntes and bonde men, promysyng to sell them .lxxxx. for one talente, but he consydered not the wrath of almyghtye God, that was come vpon him.

When Judas knew of this, he tolde the [C] Jewes that were with him of Nicanors cõmyng. Nowe were there some of them fearefull, not trustynge vnto the ryghteousnesse of God and fled theyr waye.

But the other that remayned, came togyther and besought the Lord, to delyuer them from that wycked Nicanor, which had solde them or euer he come nye them: and thoughe he wolde not do it for theyr sakes, yet for the couenaunt that he made with theyr fathers, and bycause they called vpon his holye and gloryous name. And so Machabeus called his men togyther, namely aboute syxe thousande, exhortyng them not to agree vnto their enemyes, neither to be afrayed for the multitude of their aduersaryes comming agaynst them vnryghteouslye [Deute.xx.a / ij.Para.xx.c]: but to fyghte manlye, consyderynge the reprofe that they had done vnto the holy place without cause, how they had despysed and oppressed the cytie, yea and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. For they sayde he, trust in theyr weapons and boldenesse, but oure confydence is in the almyghtye Lorde, which in the twynklyng of an eye maye bothe destroye them that come agaynst vs, and al the world. [Jerem.xvij.b / Psalm.xx.b]

He exhorted them also to call to remembraunce, the helpe that God shewed vnto theyr fathers: as when there perished an hun- [D] dreth foure score and fyue thousande of Sennacheribs people [iiij.Reg.xix.g / Esay xxxvij.f / j.Mach.vij.c]: And of yͤ batayle that they had in Babylõ agaynst the Galacyans: how that al the Macedonyans that came to helpe them, stode in feare: and how they beyng but only syxe .M. slewe an hundreth and twenty thousand, thorow the helpe that was gyuen them from heauen, wherby they also had receyued many benefytes.

Thorow these wordes, the men toke good hertes vnto them, ready to dye for the lawe and the countrey. So he set vpon euery company a capitayne, one of his owne brethren: Symon, Joseph and Jonathas: gyuyng eche fyftene hũdreth men. He caused Esdras also to reade the holy boke vnto them, & to gyue them a token of the helpe of God.

Then he hym self being captayne in yͤ fore front of the battayle [j.Mac.iiij], buckled with Nicanor. And God was their helpe, in so moche that they slew aboue .ix.M. men, & compelled the more part of Nicanors host to flee, they were [E] so wounded and feble. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye theym, & folowed vpon them on euery syde. But whẽ the tyme came vpon them they returned, for it was the Sabboth, and therfore they folowed nomore vpon them. So they toke their weapons and spoyles and kept the Sabboth gyuynge thankes vnto the Lorde which had delyuered them that daye, and shewed them his mercye. [Numeri.xxxj.b / j.Reg.xxx.c / Deute.xx.b] After the Sabboth they destrybuted the spoyles to the sycke, to the fatherlesse and to wydowes, and the resydue had they thẽ selues with theirs. When this was done and they al had made a general prayer: they besought the mercyfull Lorde to be at one with his seruauntes.

Of those also that were with Timotheus and Bachides, which fought agaynste them they slew .xx.M. wanne hygh and strong holdes, and deuyded moo spoyles [Numeri.xxxj.b / Deute.xx.b / j.Regũ.xxx.c]: euer gyuyng an equal porcyon vnto yͤ sycke, to yͤ fatherles to wydowes and to aged persons. And whẽ [F] they had dylygently gathered their weapõs togyther, they layde them all in conueniente places & the remnaunt of yͤ spoyles brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe Phylarches that wicked personne, which was with Tymotheus, and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuynge at Jerusalem for the victory, they brent those that had set fyre on yͤ portes of yͤ temple: namely Calisthenes, whiche was fled in to an house and so they gat a worthye rewarde for their wyckednes. As for that mooste vngracyous Nicanor [Nicanor fle[illegible]eth.], whiche had broughte a thousande marchauntes, to by the Jewes, he was thorowe the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom he regarded not: in so moche that he put of his gloryous rayment fled by see and came alone to Antioch, with greate shame and dyshonoure, which he gat thorow the destruction of his hoost. Thus he that promysed the Romaynes to pay them their trybute, when he toke Jerusalem: began now to say playnely, that God was the defender of the Jewes, and therfore not possyble to wounde them because they folowed the lawes whiche God had made.

¶ Antiochus wyllyng to spoyle Persepolis is dryuen to flyght. As he persecuteth the Jewes, he is stryken of the Lorde. The fayned repentaunce of Antiochus. He dyeth.

CAPI. IX.

AT the same tyme came Antiochus agayne with dyshonour out of Persis. [A / j.Mac.vj] For when he came to Persepolis, and vndertoke to rob the temple & to subdue the cytye, the people ran togyther and defended them selues, in so moch that he and his were fayne to fle with shame. And so after yͤ flyght, it happened, that Antiochus came agayne wt dyshonour. But whẽ he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Nycanor and Tymotheus. Nowe as he was auauncyng him self in his wrath, he thought he was hable to auenge the iniury that was done to them vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make ready his charret, hastyng on his iourney withoute ceasynge, the iudgement of God prouokynge hym, bycause he had spoken so proudly, that he wold come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But yͤ Lorde God of Israel, that seith al thynges, smote him wt an inuysyble plage, which no man coulde heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon hym an horryble payne of his bowels, & a sore grefe of the tharmes. And that was but ryght: for he had martyred other mens bowels with dyuers and straũge tormentes, howe be it, he wolde in no wyse cease from his malyce. Yea he was yet the prouder and more malicyous agaynst the Jewes: But whyle he was commaundynge to make haste in the matter, it happened that he fell downe vyolentlye frome the charret, so that it broosed his body, and dyd him great payne.

And so he that thought he myght commaunde the floudes of the see (so proude was he beyonde the condicyon of man) and to wey the hyghe mountaynes in a payre of scales, was now brought downe to the ground, and caryed vpon an horslytter, knowledgynge the manyfest power of God vpon hym: so that the wycked body of his was full of wormes, which in his payne fell quyck out of his flesh: In so moche that his hoost was greued with the smell and stynke of hym. Thus he that a lytle afore thoughte he myght reache to the starres of heauen, hym myght no man nowe abyde ne beare, for the vehemence of styncke.

Therfore he beynge brought frõ his great [C] pryde, began for to come to the knowledge of hym self: for the punyshment of God warned hym, and his payne increased euer more and more. And when he him self myght not abyde his owne stynke, he sayd these wordes: It is reason to be obedyent vnto God, and that a man desyre not to be lyke vnto hym. This wycked person prayed also vnto the Lorde, of whome he shoulde haue obtayned no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so hastely, to brynge it downe to the grounde, and to make it a graue for deed men: now he desireth to delyuer it free.

And as touchyng the Jewes whom he had iudged not worthye to be buryed, but wolde haue caste theym oute to be deuoured of the foules and wild beastes, saying: that he wold haue destroyed bothe olde and yonge: Now he promyseth, to make them lyke the cytezins of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, nowe he maketh promyse to garnysh it with greate gyftes, to increase the holy ornamentes, and of his owne rentes to beare the costes, and charges belongyng to the offrynges: yea and that he wold also become a Jewe hym selfe, to go thorow euery place of the worlde and to preach the power of God. [D]

But when his paynes wolde not ceasse, (for the ryghtous iudgement of God was come vpon hym) out of a verye despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a letre of intercession conteynynge these wordes: The kynge and prynce Antiochus wyssheth vnto yͤ verteous cytesyns of the Jewes, moche health & good prosperytye.

If ye and youre chyldren fare well, and yf all thinges go after your mynde: we giue greate thankes. In my sickenesse also do I remembre you louyngly: for as I came oute of Persia, and was taken with sore dysease: I thought it necessary to care for the comen wealth. Neither dispayre I in my selfe, but haue a good hope to escape this syckenes.

But consyderynge that my father led an [E] hooste somtyme in the hygher places, and shewed who shulde raygne after hym, that (yf there happened any cõtrouersy, or any hard thynge were declared) they in the lãd myght knowe theyr chiefe lorde, that there shuld be no insurrection: Agayne, when I pondre by my self, how that all the myghtye men and neyghbouures rounde about, are laying wait and loke but for oportunytye to do harme: I haue ordeyned that my sonne Antiochus shal raygne after me whom I oft cõmended to many of you, when I was in the hygher kyngdomes, and haue wrytten vnto hym as it foloweth herafter. Therfore I praye you and requyre you, to remembre the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally and in especyall. For I hope that he shal be of sobre and louynge behauyour, and if he folow my deuyce, he shall be indyfferent vnto you.

Thus that murtherer and blasphemer of God was sore smytten [Daniel.viij.e]: and like as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a myserable death in a straunge countrey vpon a mountayne. And his bodye dyd Phylyp (that wente with hym) carye awaye: which fearinge the sonne of Antiochus, wente in to Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

¶ Judas Machabeus taketh the cyty and the temple. He begynneth to shewe the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fyght agaynste the Idumeans, Tymotheus inuadeth Jewrye, with whome Judas ioyneth battayle fyue men appeare in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes. Tymothy is slayne.

CAPI. X.

MAchabeus now and his company (thorowe the helpe of the Lorde) wan the temple and the cytye agayne [A / j.Mach.iiij.e], destroyed the aulters and chapelles that the Heathen hadde buylded thorowe the streates: clensed the temple [Exo.xx.d], made an other aulter of brycke stone & after ij. yeres they offered sacryfyces, set set forth the incense, the lyghtes and the shewbred. When that was done, they fell downe flat vpō the grounde, and besought the Lord that they might come nomore in to such trouble: but yf they synned any more agaynst hym, he hym selfe to chasten them with mercy, and not to come in the handes of those aleaunites and blasphemous men.

Now vpon the same daye that the straungers polluted the temple, it happened that on the verye same daye it was clensed agayne: namely, the two and twenty day of the moneth called Casleu. They kepte eyght dayes in gladnesse, lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles: remembryng that not longe afore, they helde the feaste of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in dennes lyke beastes. And to the same token they bare grene bowes, braunches and palmes before hym that had gyuen them good fortune to clense his place. They agreed also together, and made a statute, that euery yere those dayes shoulde be solemnly kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

Now Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed, it is sufficiently tolde. Now wyll we speake of Nicanor the son of that wicked Antiochus, how it happened with hym: and so with fewe wordes to comprehende the aduersytie that chaunsed in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngdome, he made one Lysias (which had bene capitayne of the host in Phenices and Siria) ruler ouer the matters of ỹ realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron, being a ruler for the Jewes, and specyally, to syt in iudgement for such wrong as was done vnto them, vndertoke to deale peaceably with them. For the which cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traytour (because he had lefte Cypres, that Philometor had committed vnto hym: and bycause he departed frome noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto (he poysoned hym selfe, and dyed.

Nowe when Gorgias was gouernoure of the same places, he toke straungers and vnder toke ofte tymes to warre with the Jewes. Moreouer the Idumeans that helde ỹ strong holdes, receyued those that were dryue from Jerusalem, and toke in hande to warre also. But they that were with Machabeus, besought and prayed vnto the Lorde, that he wolde be theyr helper: and so they fell in to ỹ stronge holde of the Idumeans, and wanne many places by strengthe: Suche as came agaynst them they slew, and kylled no lesse (of all togyther) then twenty thousande. Neuertheselle some, no lesse then nyne thousande, were fled in to two stronge towers, bayinge all maner of ordynaunce to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauynge Symon, Josephus, Zacheus and those that were with them (which were very many) wēt to besiege them, and to fyght where nede was. Nowe they that were with Symon beyng led with couetousnesse, were intreated for money, thorow certayne of those that lay in the towres: toke. lxx. M. Drachmas, and let some of the escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened, he called the captaynes of the people togyther accusynge those persones, that they had solde the brethren for money, and let their enemyes go. So he slew those traytoures, and immedyatlye wente in hād with the. ij. towers. And when they had ordred them selues manly with theyr weapons & handes, they slewe in the two castels mo then twenty. M.

Now Tymotheus whom the Jewes had ouercome afore, gathered a multytude of straunge people, brought an hoste also of horsemen of the Asians, to wynne Jewry by strength. But when he drewe nyghe, Machabeus & they that were with hym fel to theyr prayer, sprynckled asshes vpon their heades, beinge gyrded with heery cloth about theyr loynes, fel downe before the aulter and besought the Lorde that he wolde be mercifull to them, but an enemye vnto theyr enemyes, and to take parte agaynste theyr aduersaryes accordynge as it is promysed in the lawe. So after the prayer they went on further from ỹ cytye: and when they came nye the enemyes they prepared them selues agaynst them.

And bytymes in the mornyng at ỹ breake of the day, both the hostes buckled togyther. The one parte hadde the Lorde for theyr refuge which is ỹ gruer of prosperyty stregth and victory. The other had a manly stomack which is a captayne of warre.

The battayle now beyng greate there appeared vnto the enemyes frome heauen .v. men vpon horsbackes wyth bydels of golde ledynge the Jewes, & two of them baynge Machabeus betwyxte them that kepte him safe on euery syde with theyr weapons but shot dartes and lyghtenynges vpon the enemyes: where thorow they were confounded with blyndnes and so sore afrayed, that they fell downe. There were slayne of fotemen twenty thousand and fyue hundreth, and .vi. hundreth horsmen. As for Tymotheus hym selfe, he fled vnto Gazar a very stronge holde wherin Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus and his company layd syege to it chearfully .iiij. dayes.

Now they that were within trusynge to the strength of the place, cursed and banned excedyngly, and made greate crakynge with wycked wordes. Neuertheles vpon the fifth day in the mornyng .xx. yong men of Machabeus company being set on fyre in theyr myndes because of the blasphemy: came manfully vnto the wall, & with bolde stomackes they and their companyons clymed vp vpon the towres, vndertakynge to set fyre vpon the portes & to burne those blasphemous persons quick. Two dayes were they destroying ỹ castell whiche when they founde Timotheus (that was crepte in to a corner) they kylled him, & slewe Cereas his brother in lyke maner with Appollophanes. When this was done they songe Psalmes, with prayses and thankesgyuynges vnto the Lorde, whiche had done so greate thynges for Israel, and gruen them the victorye.

Lisias goeth about to ouercom the Jewes. Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Jewes. The letter of Lisias to the Jewes. The letter of kyng Antiochus vnto Lisias. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romaynes to the Jewes

CAPI. XI.

NOt long after this Lysias the kynges stewarde and a kynsman of his, which had the gouernaūce of his maters, toke sore displeasure, for the thinges that had happened: & when he had gathered. lxxx. M men of sote with all the hole of the horsemen, he came agaynst the Jewes thynking to wynne the city to make it an habitacion for the hea thē, and the temple wolde he haue to be an house of lucre, lyke as the other goddes houses of the heathen are, and to sell the prestes office euery yere: Not consyderynge the power of God, but was wylde in his mynde, trustynge in the multitude of footemen, in thousandes of horsemē, and in his four score Elephantes.

So he came in to Jury and then to Bethsura (a castel of defence lying in a narow place fyue furlonges from Jerusalem) and wan it. Nowe when Machabeus and his companye knew ỹ the stronge holdes were taken, they fell to their prayers with weyryng and teares before the Lorde, and al ỹ people in lyke maner besought him, & he wolde send a good aungell to deliuer Israell. Machabeus hym selfe was the fyrst that made him redy to the batell, exhortinge the other that were with hym, to ieoparde them selues, & to helpe their brethren. And whē they were goyng forth of Jerusalem togither with a redy and willing mynd, there appered before them vpon horsbacke a man in whyte clothynge, with harneld of golde, shakyng his spere. Then they prayed the Lorde all to gyther, whiche had shewed them mercye, and were comforted in theyr myndes, in so moche that they were redy, not only to fyght with men, but with the most cruel beastes: yea, and to run thorowe walles of yron.

Thus they went on willyngly hauyng an helper from heuen, and the Lorde mercyfull vnto them. They fel mightily vpon their enemies like lyons, brought down. xi. M. fote men, sixtene. C. horsemen put all the other to flight, many of them being wounded, & some gat awaye naked. Yea Lysias him selfe was fayne to fle shamefully, and so to escape. Nethelesse the man was not without vnderstanding, but considered by him self that his power was minished, and pondred how the Jewes, being defended by the help of almighty God were not hable to be ouercom: wherfore he sent them worde, and promysed that he wolde consent to all thynges which were reasonable, and to make the kyng their frēd. to the whiche prayer of Lysias, Machabeus agreed, seknge in all thynges the common welth: and what so euer Machabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Jewes, the king graunted it. For there were letters wrytten vnto the Jewes frome Lysias conteynynge these wordes.

Lysias sendeth gretynge to the people of the Jewes. Jhon and Absalon whiche were sent from you, delyuered me wrytinges, and requyred me to fulfyl the thynges, concernynge theyr errande. Therfore loke what myght be graunted, I certyfyed the kynge therof: and what to euer was conuenyent: I agreed therto: If ye now wyl be fayethfull in the matters, I shall endeuer my selfe hereafter also to do you good. As concernynge other thynges by euery artycle therof: I haue commytted them to your messengers, and to those whom I sent vnto you, to comen with you of the same, fare ye well: In the hundred and. xlviii. yere, the. xxiiii. daye of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

Nowe the kynges letter conteyned these wordes: kynge Antiochus sendeth gretynge vnto his brother Lisias. For so moch as our father is nowe deed, oure wyll is, that they whiche are in our realme, lyue without any insurrection, and euery man to be dyligente in his owne matters. We vnderstande also, that the Jewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto the custome of ỹ Gentyles, but stykly to kepe theyr owne statutes: for the which cause they requyre of vs also, to let them remayne still by theyr owne lawes.

Wherfore our mynde is, that this people shalbe in rest: we haue concluded and determined also, to restore them theyr temple agayne: that they maye lyue accordyng to the vse and custome of theyr fore fathers: Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore, yf thou sende vnto them and agree with them: that when they are certified of our mynde, they may be of good chere, and loke to their own welth.

And this was the lettre that ỹ kyng wrote vnto the Jewes: kynge Antiochus sendeth gretyng vnto the counsell and the other people of the Jewes. If ye fare wel, we haue our desyre: as for vs, we are in good health: Menelaus came and told vs, how that your desyre was to come downe to youre people, which are with vs.

Wherfore those that wyll come, we gyue them free lybertie, vnto the thyrtye daye of the moneth of Apryll, that they maye vse the meates of the Jewes and theyr owne lawes, lyke as afore: and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme, for thynges done in ignorāunce. Menelaus whome we haue sent vnto you, shall commen with you at large, fare ye well. In the hundred forty and eyght yere, the fyftene daye of the moneth of Apryll.

The Romaynes also sēt a lettre, conteynyng these wordes: Quintus Menius & Titus Manilius embassadours of ỹ Romayns, send gretyng vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lisias ỹ kynges kynsman hathe graunted you, we graunt you the same also. But as concernyng the thinges which he referred vnto the king, send hyther some with spede: & ponder the mater diligently among your selues, that we may cast ꝯ best to youre profyte, for we must depart now vnto Antioche, and therfore wrote shortly agayne, ꝯ we maye knowe your mynde: Farewell. In the hundred. xlviii. yere, the fyftene daye of the moneth Apryl.

¶ Tymotheus troubleth the Jewes. The wycked dede of the Jepptes agaynst the Jewes. Judas is auenged of them. He lifteth fyre on the gate of Jamnia. The pursute of the Jewes agaynst Tymothy. Tymothye is taken and let go vnhurt. Judas pursueth Gorgias. Judas offryng sacrifyce for the deed sheweth the hope of the resurrection.

CAPI. XII.

a When these couenauntes were made, Lysias went vnto the king, and the Jewes tylled theyr grounde. But Timotheus Appolonius the sonne of Gemei, Jerome and Demophon the proude, Nicanor the capitein of Cypers, and they that laye in those places wold not let ꝯ lyue in rest & pear. They of Joppa also did euē such a shamful dede: they prayed the Jewes that dwelt amonges them to go with their wiues and childre in to the shyppes which they had prepared, and did w them, as though they had ought them no euil will. For so moche then as there was goone forth a generall proclamacion throwe the city bycause of pear, they consented therto, & suspect nothynge: but when they were gone forth in to the depe, they drowned no lesse ꝯ two. C. of them.

When Judas knew of this cruelty shewed vnto his people, he cōmaunded thole ꝯ were with him to make them redy, exhortyng ꝯ to call vpon God the rightous iudge: went forthe againste thole murtherers of his brethrē, set fyre in the haue by night, brent vp ꝯ shyppes, and thole that escaped from ꝯ fyre, b he slew w the swerde. And when he had done this, he departed as though he wold come agayne, and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had goten worde that the Jamnites were minded to do in lyke maner vnto ꝯ Jewes which dwelt among them, he came vpō the Jamnites by night, & set fyre in the hauen with the shyppes, so that the light of the fyre was sene at Jerusalem vpon a two. C. and xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone frō thence, ix. furlonges in their iourney towarde Timotheus fyue. M. men of fote, and fiue. C. horsemen of the Arabians fought w him. So whē the battayle was ernest, and prospered with Judas thorow the helpe of God: the residue of the Arabians being ouercome, besoughte Judas to be at one with them, and promysed to gyue hym certeyn pastures, and to do him good in other thynges. Judas thinkyng that they sholde in dede be profitable concernning many thynges, promysed them peax: whervpon they shoke handes, and so they departed to their tentes. Judas went also vnto a cite, which was very fast kepte with bridges fensed round about with walles and dyuers kyndes of people dwellynge therin, called Casphin.

They that were within, put such trust in c the strength of the walles, and in their store of vitayles, that they were the slacker i their doinges, cursing and reuilyng Judas w blasphemies, and spekyng such wordes as it becō meth not. But Machabeus calling vpon the great prince of the worlde (which without Josue. vi. any batelrammes or ordinaunce of war, did cast downe the walles of Jericho in the time of Josue) fel manfully vpon the walles, toke the city, and (thorow the helpe of the Lorde) made an exceding gret slaughter: in so moch that a lake of two furlonges brode, whiche laye therby, semed to flowe with the blonde of the slayne.

Then departed they from thence. vii. C. & fifty furlonges, and came to Caraca vnto ꝯ Jewes that are called Tubianei. But as for Timotheus, they coulde not get hym there: for (not one matter dispatched) he was departed from thence, and had lefte certayne men in a very strong hold. But Dositheus & Sosipater, which were capiteyns with Machabeus, slew thole that Timotheus had lefte in the house of defence, euen. x. M. mē. And Machabeus prepared him with the syre. M. men that were about him, set them in order by cōpanyes, and went forthe agaynst Timotheus, which had with hym an hundred and. xx. M. men of fote, two thousande and fyue. C. horsemen.

Whē Timotheus had knowlege of Judas d commyng, he sent the women, chyldren & the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnio. (for it could not be won, and was harde to come vnto, the wayes of ꝯ same places were so narow) and when Judas companye came firste in sight, the enemies were smitte w fear thorow the presence of God, whiche seeth all thynges: In so moche that they fleinge one here, an other ther, were rather discomfeted of their own people, and wounded with the strokes of their owne swerdes. Judas also Judith. i. Mach. xvi. ii. Para. was very ernest in folowing vpon them, punyshyng thole vngodly, and slewe. xxx. M. men of them. Timotheus also him selfe fell in to the hādes of Dositheus and Sosipater whom he besought with many prayers, to let hym go with his syde: bycause he had many of the Jewes fathers and brethren in Ephron which, yf they put hym to deth, might be disappoynted. So when he had promised forth fully to deliuer them agayne according to ꝯ condicion made, they let him go thout harme for the helth of the brethrē. And when Judas had slayne. xxv. thousande, he went frō Carnion.

Now after ꝯ he had chased away & slayne e his ennemyes, he remoued the hoste towarde Ephron a stronge city, wherin dwelt many ryche dyuers people of the Heathen, and the strong yong men kepte the walles, defendyng them mightily. In this city was moch ordinaunce and prouision of dartes. But when Judas & his company had called vpō almighty God, which with his power breaketh the strength of the ennemyes, they wan the city and slewe xxv. M. of them ꝯ were within. From thence went they to the city of the Scithias, which lieth sixe hundred furlonges from Jerusalē. But when the Jewes which were in the city testifyed, that the cityzens dealte louyngly with them: yea and intreated thē kyndly in the tyme of their aduersitie, Judas & his company gaue them thankes, deliryng them to be frendly styl vnto them: and so they came to Jerusalem the hye feest of the wekes being at hande. And after the feast they went forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea, with thre thousand men of fote, and four. C horsemen. Whiche when they met togyther, it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slayne. f And Dolitheus one of ꝯ Bachenors, a mighty horseman toke holde of Gorgias, & wold haue taken hym quycke. But an horseman of Thracia fell vpon hym, & smote of his arme so ꝯ Gorgias escaped and fled in to Mozesa. When they now that were of Gorgias syde, had foughten longe and were werye, Judas called vpon the Lorde that he wold be their helper, and capitayne of the felde: and with that he began with a manly voice to take vp a songe of prayse, and a crye: In so moche that he made the ennemyes afraide, and Gorgias men of warre toke theyr flyght. So Judas gathered his hoste, and came in to the city of Odolla. And whē the seuenth day came vpon them, they clensed them selues (as the custome was) and kepte the Sabboth in the same place. And vpon the daye folowynge Judas and his company came to take vp the bodyes of them that were slayne, and to burye them in the fathers graues. Nowe vnder the cootes of certayne Jewes whiche were slayne they founde iewels that they had taken out of the temple & frome the Idolles of the Jamniters, whiche thynge is forbydden the Jewes by the lawe. Then euery man saw that this was the cause wherfore they were slayne.

And so euerye man gaue thankes vnto the Lorde for his rightous iudgement, whiche had opened the thynge that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto theyr prayers, and besought God, that the faute which was made myght be put out of remembraunce. Besides that, Judas exhorted the people earnestly to kepe them selues frō suche syn: for so moche as they saw before their eyes, that these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certen, in so moch that he brought togyther two. M. drachmas of syluer, which he sent vnto Jerusalem, ꝯ there might a sacrifice be offered for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd wel and right, for he had some consideracion and pondryng of the lyfe that is after this time. For yf he had not thought that they which were slayne did yet lyue, it had ben superfluous and vayne, to make any vow or sacrifyce for them that were dead. But for so moche as he saw that they whiche dye in the fauoure and dyfete of God, are in good rest and ioye, he thought it to be good and honourable for a reconcylynge, to do the same for those whiche were slayne, that the offence myght be forgyuen.

¶ The commynge of Eupator in to Jewrye. The death of Menelaus. Machabeus goyng to fyght agaynst Eupator, moueth his souldiars vnto prayer. He kylleth. xviii. thousande men in the tentes of Antiochus. Rhodocus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus retayneth frēdship with ꝯ Jewes.

CAPI. XIII.

In the. Cxlix. yere gat Judas knowlege, a that Antiochus Eupator was commyng with a great power in to Jury, and Lysias the stewarde & ruler of his matters with hym, haurynge an hundred and ten thousande men of fote, fyue thousande horsemen. xxii. i. Mach. vi. d ii. Mach. xiii. d Elephauntes, and thre hundred charettes. Menelaus also ioyned hym selfe with them, (but with great disceyte) and spake fayre to the kynge, not for anye good of the countrey but bycause he thoughte to haue bene made some greate man of auctorite. But the king of kynges moued Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodlye person, and Lysias informed the kynge, that this Menelaus was the cause of all myschefe: so that the kyng commaunded to take hym, and (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto deth in the same place. Menelaus is put to death.

There was also in the same place a towre of fyftye cubytes hyghe, heaped with asshes: but aboue it was so made, that men myghte loke downe on euerye syde. Where in to the kynge commaunded that shamefull persone to be cast among the asshes, as one that was cause of all vngracyousnesse. And reason it b was that the vnthryfte shoulde dye suche a i. Macha. x. death, and not to be buryed: for he had done moch myschief vnto ꝯ aulter of God (whose fyre and asshes were holye) therfore was it right, that he him selfe also shold be destroied with asshes.

But the kyng was wod in his minde, and came to shewe him selfe more cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was: which when Judas perceyued, he commaunded the people to cal vpon the Lord night & day, that he wold now helpe them also, lyke as he had done alwaye: for they were afrayd to be put from their law, from their naturall countrey, and from the holye temple: and not to suffre the people (which a lytle whyle afore began to reuer) to be subdued agayn of the blasphemous nacions.

So when they had done this togither, & be- c sought the Lord for mercy w weppynge and fasting thre dayes long, flat vpon ꝯ ground: Judas exhorted them to make theym selues redy. But he and the elders togither deuised to go forth first with their people, afore the kyng brought his host in to Iurye, and afore he besieged the city, and so to commit the mater vnto God.

Wherfore he ascribed ỳ power of al thinges vnto God the maker of the world, exhorteyng his people to fyght manfully (yea euen vnto deth) for the lawes, the temple, the city, their owne natyue countrey, and to defende the citezins, and set his hoste before Modin.

c. Mach.vi.c He gaue them also ỳ were with him a token of the victory of God, chosing out the mālyest yong men, went by nyght in to the kinges pauilion, slew of the host, xiiii. M. men, and the greatest elephantes, with those that sat vpō them.

d Thus when they hadde brought a greate feare and rumour amonge the tentes of their enemyes, and all thynges went prosperously with them, they departed in the breake

xi. Mac.xi.a of the daye, God beyng their helper and defender. Now when the kynge perceyued the manlynesse of the Iewes, he wente about to take the stronge places by crafte, and remoued his host vnto Bethsura, whiche was a well kepte house of defence of the Iewes: but they were chased awaye, hurte and discomfited.

And Judas sente vnto them that were in it, suche thynges as were necessarye. In the Iewes hoste also there was one Rhodocus, which tolde the enemyes their secretes: but they sought him out, and when they had gotten him, they put hym in prysō. After this did the kyng commē with them that were in Bethsura, toke truce with them, departed, & stroke a battayle with Judas, whiche ouercame hym.

e But when he vnderstode, that Phillip (whome he hadde lefte to be ouerseer of his bulynesses at Antioche) began to rebell agaynst him, he was astonyed in his minde, so that he yelded him self to the Iewes, & made them an oth to do what so euer was thought ryght.

Now when he was reconciled with them, he offred, made moch of the tēple, gaue great giftes vnto it, enbraced Machabeus making him capiteyn & gouernour from Ptolomais vnto the Gerrenes.

Neuertheles, when he came to Ptolomays, the people of the citye were not content with that bonde of frendshyp: for they were afrayde that he wolde breke the couenaunt. Then wente Lysias vp in to the seat and enfourmed the people, shewed them the cause why, and pacifyed theym. So he came agayne to Antioche. This is nowe the mater concernynge the kynges iourneye, and his returne.

¶ By the mocyon of the Lorde, Demetrius sendeth Nicanor to kyll the Iewes. Nicanor maketh a compact with the Iewes, which he yet breaketh thorow ỳ mocyon of the kyng. Nicanor commaūdeth Razia to be taken. The boldnesse of Razia.

CAPI. XIIII.

After thre yeres was Judas informed how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and shyppes, thorow the hauen of Tripolis, to take certayne commodyous places and countreys, agaynste Antiochus and his capytayne Lysias. Nowe Alcimus (whiche had ben hye preest, and wilfully defyled him selfe in the tyme of the myxtynge) seyng that by no meanes he coulde be helped, nor haue any more intraūce to the aulter: he came to kynge Demetrius in the hundred and one & fyfty yere, presentyng vnto hym a crowne of golde, a palme and an olyue tree: which, as men thought, belonged to the temple, and that daye he helde his tonge. But when he had gotten oportunitie for his madnesse, Demetrius called hym to counsell, and asked hym what thynges or counselles the Iewes leaned vnto? he aunswered: the Iewes that be called Assidei, whose capitayne is Judas Machabeus, maynteyne warres, make insurrections, and wyll not lette the realme be in peace.

For I, beyng deprsyued of my fathers honour (I meane the hye preesthode) am come hyther, partly byeause I was faythfull vnto the kynge, and partly byeause I soughte the profyte of the cytezyns. And why? all oure people thorowe the wyckednesse of them are not a lytle troubled. Wherfore I beseche the O kynge consydre all these thynges diligently, and then make some prouysyon for the lande and the people, accordynge to the kyndnesse that thou haste offred vnto them. For as longe as Judas hathe the vpperhande, it is not possyble that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupnge euyll wyll at Judas, sette the kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynste him. Whiche immediatly sent Nicanor (ruler of the elephauntes) a capitayne, in to Iurye: commaundynge him to take Judas him selfe alyue, but to slee theym that were with hym, and to make Alcimus hye preeste of the temple.

Then the heathen which fled oute of Iurye from Judas, came to Nicynor by flockes, thynkynge the harme and decaye of the Iewes to be their welfare. Now whē the Iewes herde of Nicanors commynge, and the gathering togither of the heathe, they sprinkled them selues with earthe, and besought him whiche made them his people, and euer defended his owne porcion with euident tokens that he wolde preserue theym styll. So at the commaundement of the capiteyn, they remoued from thence, and came to a towne called Dedalsan. And Simon Judas brother fell in hande with Nicanor, but thorow the sodayne commynge of the ennemyes, he was afrayde.

ii. Mach.

Neuertheles Nicanor hearynge the manlynesse of them that were with Judas, and ỳ holde stomackes that they had to fyghte for their their naturall countrey, durst not proue the matter with bloudsheddynge. Wherfore he sent Posidonius, Theodocius and Mathias before, to gyue and take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysement therebpon, and the capitayne shewed it vnto the multitude: they were agreed in one mynde to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to syt vpon these matters quyetly among them selues, the tokes also were brought and set forthe. Nevertheles Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in conuenyente places, leest there shoulde sodeynly aryse any euyl thorow the enemyes. And so they cōmoned reasonably togyther..

Nicanor, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, ordred hym selfe not vnreasonnably, but sent away ỳ people that were gathered togyther. He loued Judas euer with his herte, and fauoured him. He prayed him also to take a wife and to brynge forth chyldren. So he maryed, lyued in rest, and they led a cōmen lyfe. But Alcimus perceyuynge the loue that was betwyxte them, and how they were agreed togyther, came to Demetrius, and tolde hym that Nicanor had taken straunge matters in hande, and ordeyned Judas (an enemye of the realme) to be the kynges successour. Thē the kynge was sore displeased, and thorowe the wycked occusacyons which Alcimus made of Nicanor, he was so prouoked, that he wrote vnto Nicanor, saying: that he was very angry for the frendshyp and agreemēt, which he had made with Machabeus. Neuertheles he cōmaunded him in al the haste, that he sholde take Machabeus prisoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

Which letters when Nicanor had sene, he was at his wyttes ende, and sore greued that he shold breake the thynges wherin they had agreed: specyalye, saynge Machabeus was the man that neuer dyd hym harme. But byeause he myght not withstande the kynge, he sought oportunitie to fulfyl his commaūdement. Notwithstandynge when Machabeus saw that Nicanor began to be churlysh vnto hym, and that he intreated him more roughly then he was wonte, he perceyued that suche vnkyndnesse came not of good, and therfore he gathered a few of his men, and withdrew him selfe frō Nicanor. Which when he knewe that Machabeus had manfullye preuented him, he came in to the greate and moost holy temple: and commaunded the preestes (whiche were doyng their vsuall offeynges) to deliuer him the man. And when they sware that they coulde not tell where the man was whome he sought, he stretched out his hāde, and made an othe, saynge: If ye wyll not delyuer me Judas captyue, I shall remoue this temple of God in to ỳ playne feld, I shal breake owne the aultare, and consecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After these wordes he departed.

Then the preestes lyfte vp their hands towarde heauen, and besought hym that was euer ỳ defender of their people, saynge: Thou O Lorde of all, which hast nede of no thyng, woldest that ỳ temple of thy habytacō sholde be amonges vs. Therfore now O moost holy Lorde, kepe this house euer vndefyled whilately was clensed. Nowe was there accused vnto Nicanor, one Razis an Alderman of Jerusalem, a louer of the hole cytye, and a man of good reporte: whiche for the kyndenesse that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Iewes. This man oft tymes when the Iewes were mynded to kepe themselues vndefyled, defended & delyuered them beynge content stedfastly to spende his body and his lyfe for his people.

So Nicanor wyllynge to declare the hate that he bare to the Jewes sent fyue hūdreth men to take hym: for he thought, yf he gat hym, he shulde brynge the Jewes in great decaye. Now when the people began to rushe in at his house, to breake the dores, and to set fyre on it: he beynge nowe taken wold haue defended hym self with his swerde: chosing rather to dye manfully, then to yeld hym self to those wycked doers: & because of his noble stock, he had rather haue ben put to extreme cruelteye. Notwithstandynge what tyme as he myssed of his stroke for haste, & the multytude fel in vyolētly betwyxte ỳ dores: he ranne boldly to the wall, & cast hym self down manfully amonge the heape of thē, whiche gaue soone place to his fal, so that he fel vpon his bely. Neuertheles whyle ther was yet brethe within him, he was kyndled in his mynde / and whyle his bloude gusshed out exceedynglye) for he was very sore wounded (he ranne thorow the myddest of the people, and gat him vp to the toppe of a rocke. So when his bloude was nowe gone he toke out his owne bowels with both his handes & threwe them vpō the people callyng vpon the Lorde of lyfe and spyrytte, to reward him this agayne and so he dyed.

CAPI. XV.

Nowe when Nycanor knewe that Judas was in the countrye of Samaria, he thought with al his power to fyght a felde with hym vpon a Sabboth day. Neuertheles the Jewes that were compelled to goo with hym, sayde: O doo not so cruelye and vnkyndelye, but halowe the Sabboth daye, and worshyppe hym that seeth all thynges. For all this, yet sayde the vngracyous, personne: Is there a myghtye one in heuen, that cōmaunded the Sabboth daye to be kepte. And when they sayde: yea, the lyuynge God, the myghtye Lorde in heauen commaunded the seuenth daye to be kept. He sayde: And I am myghty vpon erth to cōmaunde them for to arme them selues and to perfourme the kynges busynesse. Notwithstandyng he myght not haue his purpose.

B Nicanor had occupied with greate pryde to ouercome Judas, and to bringe awaye the victory. But Machabeus had euer a fast constaunce and a parfecte hope in God that he wold helpe him, and exhorted his people, not to be afrayed at the cõmyng of the Heathen: but alwaye to remembre the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, yea & to be sure now also, ✠ almyghtye God wold gyue them the victorye. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes, putting them in remembraunce of the battayles, that they had stryckẽ afore, and made them to be of a good corage.

So when they? hertes were pluckt vp, he shewed them also the deceytfulnesse of the Heathen, and how they wolde kepe no couenaunt nor othe. Thus he weaponed thẽ not with the armoure of shylde & speare, but with holsome wordes and exhortatiõs. He shewed them a dreame also, wherthorowe he made them all glad, whiche was this: he thought that he sawe Onias (which had ben hye prest a vertuous and louynge man, sad and of honest conuersacyon, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in godlynesse from a childe) holdyng vp his handes towarde heauen, and prayeng for his helpe. After this there appeared vnto him an other man, which was aged, honorable and glorious. And Onias sayde: Judas dreame.

L This is a louer of the brethrẽ, and of the people of Israell. This is he that prayeth moche for the people, and for all the holy cytte: Jeremy the prophete of God. He thought also ✠ Jeremye helde out his ryght hande, and gaue him (namely vnto Judas) a swerde of golde, sayinge: Take this holy swerde, a gyfte from God, wherwith thou shalt smyte wowne the enemyes of the people of Israel.

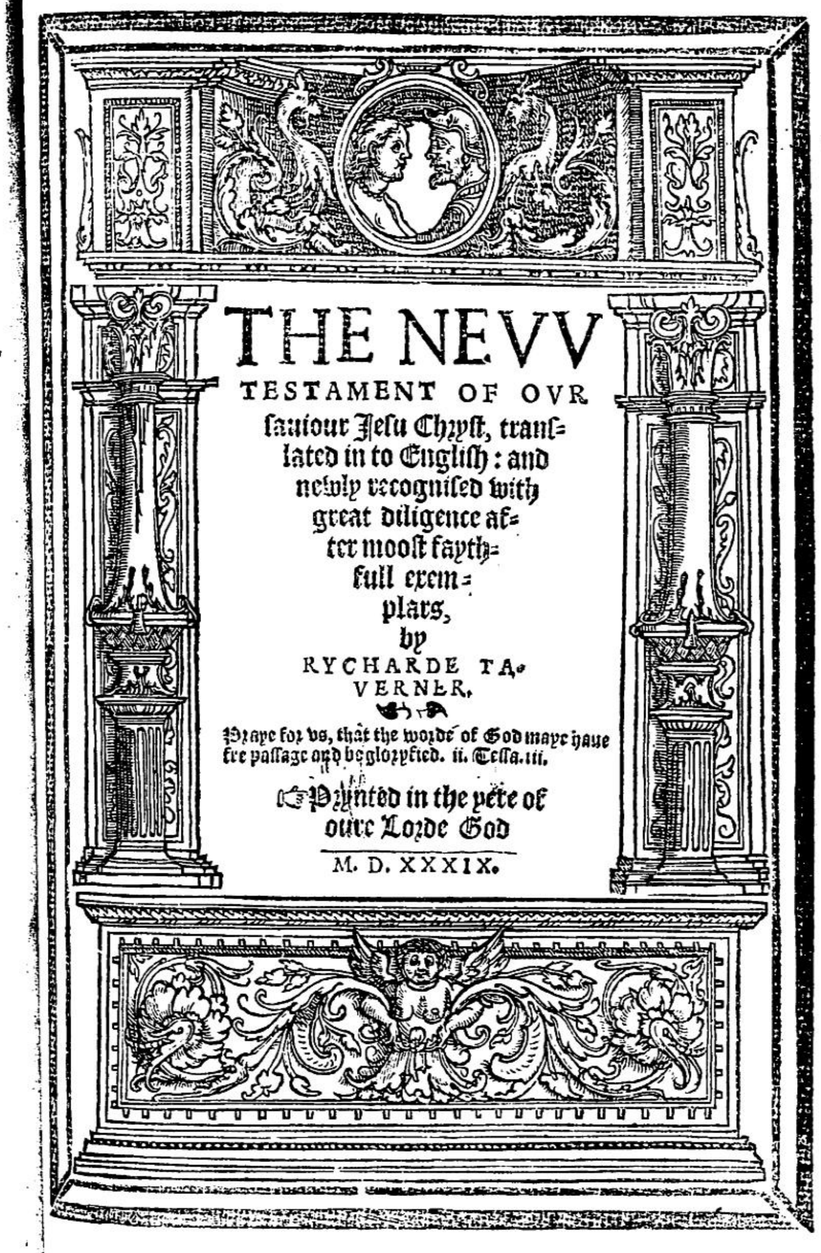
And so they were well comforted thorowe the wordes of Judas, and toke corage vnto them, so that the yong men were determined in their myndes to fight, and byde styffe at it: In so moch that in the chynges whiche they toke in hande, their boldnesse shewed ✠ same, because the holy cytte and the temple were in perill: for the which they toke more care thẽ for their wyues, children, brethren, and kynsfolkes. Agayne, they that were in the cytte, were moost carefull for those which were to fight. Now whẽ they were al in a hope ✠ the iudgement of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes drew nye, the hoost bryngẽ set in a rape, the Elephauntes and horsemen euery one stãdyng in his place: Machabeus cõsydered the commynge of the multytude, the dynaunce of dyuerse weapõs, the cruelnesse D of the beastes, and held vp his handes toward heauen callynge vpon the Lorde that doth wonder whiche gyueth not the victorye after the multytude of weapons and power of the hoost (but to them that please hym) ac cordynge to his owne wyll. Therfore in his prayer he sayde these wordes. ii. Mac. xiii. Judith. viii.

O Lorde, thou that dyddest sende thyne iiii. Reg. xix. Angel in the tyme of Ezechias kynge of Ju- Esay. xxxvii. da, and the hoost of Senacherib fleweft an ii. Mach. viii. C. lxxxv. M. sende nowe also thy good angel ii. Mac. xv. before vs, O Lorde of heuens, in the fearfulnes and drede of thy myghty arme, that they whiche come agaynst thy holy people to blaspheme them may be afrayde. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Nicanor & they that were with hym, drew nye w̃ shawmes and songes: but Judas & his company with prayer and callynge vpon God. With their hãdes they smote, but with their hertes they prated vnto the Lord & slew no lesse thẽ xxxv. M. men: For thorow the present help of God they were gloryously comforted.

Now when they left of, and were turning agayne with ioye, they vnderstode that Nicanor hym selfe was slayne with the other.

Then they gaue a greate shoute and a cry Nicanor is prayenge the almyghty Lord with a lowde slayne. voyce. And Judas (which was euer ready to spende his body and lyfe for his cytezyns) cõmaunded to smyte of Nicanors heade, with his arme and hande, & to be brought to Jerusalẽ. When he came there, he called al the people, & the prestes at the aulter with those that were in the castel, and shewed them Nicanors heed, & his wycked hãd, which he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tonge also of that vngodly Nicanor to be cut in lytle peces, & to be cast to the fowles, & the cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

So euery man gaue thankes vnto ✠ Lord saying: blessed be he, that hath kept his place vndefyled. And Nicanors heade, he hanged vpon the hyghe castell for a playne token of the help of God. And so they agreed togithre to kepe that daye holy, namely the. xiii. daye of the moneth Adar, whiche in the Syrians language is called the next daye before Mardocheus day, thus was Nicanor slayne, and from that tyme forth ✠ Jewes had the cityе in possessiõ.



And here I wyl now make an ende.

✣ Ye haue herde how it is sayd: thou shalt loue thyne neyghbour, ✳ and hate thyne enemy. But I saye vnto you, loue your enemyes. Bleste them that curse you. Do good to them that hate you. Praye for them whiche do you wronge, and pursue you, that ye maye be the children of youre father that is in heauen: for he maketh his sunne to aryse on the euyll, and on the good, and sendeth his rayne on the iust and vniuste. For yf ye loue them, whiche loue you: what rewarde shall ye haue? Do not the Publicans the same? And yf ye imbrace youre brethren onely: what synguler thynge do ye? Do not the Publicās ikewyse? ye shall therfore be perfecte, as your father whiche is in heauen, is perfecte.

CAPI. VI. ✣

TAke hede to youre almes, that ye doo it not in the syght of men, to the intent ye wolde be sene of them. Or els ye get no rewarde of your father in heauen. When so euer therfore thou geuest thyne almes / thou shalt not make a trompet to be blowen before the, as the hypocrites do, in assemblies and in the streates, for to be praysed of men. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their meade. But when thou doest thyne almes / let not thy lyft hande knowe / what thy ryghte hande dothe, that thyne almes maye be secrete: and thy father whiche seyth in secret, shall rewarde the openly. ✣

And when thou prayest, thou shalte not be as the hypocrytes are. For they loue to stande and pray in the synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, because they wolde be sene of men. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But when thou prayest, entre into thy chaumber, and shut thy dore to the, and praye thy father whiche is in secrete: and thy father which seyth in secret, shall rewarde the openly.

And when ye praye, bable not moche, as ✣ hethen do: for they thynke they shalbe herde, for their moche bablynge. Be ye not lyke them therfore. For your father knoweth wherof ye haue nede, before ye aske of hym. After this maner therfore praye ye.

And forgeue vs oure dettes, euen as we forgeue oure detters. And leade vs not into temptation: but deliuer vs from euyll. For thyne is the kingdome and the power, and the glory for euer. Amen. For yf ye shall forgyue other men their trespaces, youre heuenly father shall also forgeue you. But if ye will not forgyue men their trespaces, no more shall youre father forgyue you youre trespaces.

✣ Moreouer when ye faste, ✳ be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces, that they myghte be sene of men howe they faste. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoynte thyne heed, and washe thy face, that it appere not vnto men how that thou fastest: but vnto thy father whiche is in secrete: & thy father whiche seyth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

Hourde not vp treasures vnto you on the erth where rust and mouthes corrupte, and where theues breake thorough and steale. But hourde ye treasures vp in heauen where neyther rust nor mouthes corrupte, & where theues breake not vp, nor yet steale. For where your treasure is, there will your hert be also. ✣

The syght of the body is the eye. Wherfore yf thyn eye be syngle, al thy body shalbe lightsome. But yf thyne eye be wycked, all thy body shalbe full of darckenesse. Wherfore yf the lyght that is in the, be darckenes: how great is that darckenes.

✣ No man can serue two maisters. For either he shall hate the one and loue the other: or els leane to the one and despyse the other: ye can not serue God and Mammon. Therfore I saye vnto you, be not carefull for youre lyfe what ye shall eate, or what ye shal drinke, nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the lyfe more worth then meat, and the body more of value then rayment? Beholde the foules of the ayer: for they sowe not, neyther reepe, nor cary into the barnes: and your heuenly father feedeth them. Are ye not moche better then they?

Whiche of you (by takynge thought) can put one cubit vnto his stature? And why care ye then for rayment? Consydre the lylies of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not neyther spynne. And yet I tell you, that Salomon in all his royaltie was not arayed lyke vnto one of these. Wherfore yf God so clothe the grasse, which is to daye in the felde, and to morowe shalbe caste into the fournayce / shall he not moche more do the same vnto you, O ye of lytle faith?

Therfore take no thoughte, sayenge: what shal we eate, or what shal we drinke, or wherwith shall we be clothed? After all these thinges seke the hethen. For your heuenly father knoweth that ye haue nede of al these thinges. But seke ye first the kyngdome of heauen and the ryghtwysnes therof, and all these thinges shalbe vnto you. ✣

¶ The parable of the seed, of the tares, of the mustarde seed, of the leuen, of the treasure hyd in the felde, of the the perles, and of the net.

Marck.iiii. Luke.viii.

The same day went Jesus oute of the house, and sat by the see syde, and moch people resorted vnto hym, so greatlye that he went, and sat in a shyp, & al the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thinges to them in parables, saying: Behold the sower went forth to sowe. And as he sowed, some fell by the wayes syde, & the foules came and deuoured them vp. Some fell vpõ stony ground where they had not moch erth and anone they sprange vp, because they had no depth of erth: and when ✠ sunne was vp, they caught heate, and for lacke of rotynge, wythered awaye. Some fell among thornes and the thornes sprange vp and choked the. Parte fell in good grounde, & brought forth good frute: some an hundreth fold, some sixtye folde some thyrtye fold. Whosoeuer hath eares to heare let hym heare.

And the disciples came and sayde to hym: Why speakest thou to them in parables? He answered and sayde vnto them, vnto you is it gyuen to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauen, but to them it is not gyuen. For whosoeuer hath, to hym shall be gyuen: and he shall haue aboundaunce. But whosoeuer hath not: from him shal be taken away euen that he hath. Therfore speake I to the in parables: for though they se, they se not, and hearynge they heare not: neither vnderstande. And in them is fulfylled the prophecye of Esay, whiche sayth: with the eares ye shall heare and shall not vnderstande, and with the eyes ye shall se, & shall not perceyue. For this peoples hertes are waxed grosse, & theyr eares are dull of hearynge, and theyr eyes haue they closed, lest they shuld se with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and shulde vnderstande with their hertes, & shuld cueme that I myghte heale them.

But blessed are youre eyes, for they se: and your eares, for they heare. Verely I saye vnto you, that many prophetes, and perfect mẽ haue desyred to se those thynges which ye se, & haue not sene the: & to heare those thinges which ye heare, & haue not herd them. Heare ye therfore the parable of the sower. Whoso euer heareth the worde of the kyngdome & vnderstandeth it not, there commeth the wicked & catcheth away ✠ which was sowen in his hert. And this is he which was sowen by the way syde. But he that was sowen the

the stony greunde, is he whiche heareth the wozd of God, and anone with ioye receyueth
it, yet hath he no rote in him selfe, and therfore dureth but a season: for as soone as trybulacyon or persecucyon ariseth because of the worde, forthwith he is offended. He that was sowen amonge thornes, is he that heareth the worde of God: but the care of this worlde, and the disceytfulnesse of ryches choke the worde, and so is he made vnfrutefull. He whiche is sowen in the good grounde, is he that heareth the wozde and vnderstandeth it:
which also beareth frute and bryngeth forth,
some an hundred folde, some sixtye folde, and some thyrtye folde.

D And other parable he propounned vnto the,
sayinge: ✣ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke
vnto a mā which sowed good seed in his feld.
But whyle the men slepte, there came his ennemye and sowed tares amonge the wheate, & wēt his way. Whē the blade was sprōg vp and had brought forthe frute, then appeared the tares also. Then came the seruauntes to the housholder, and sayde vnto him: Syr, so-wedest not thou good seed in thy greunde, frō whence then hath it tares? He sayd to them:
the enemye hath done this. Thē the seruauntes sayde vnto hym: wylt thou then that we go and wede them out? But he sayd: nay, lest whyle ye go about to wede out the tares, ye plucke vp also with them the wheate by the rotes: let bothe growe together tyll haruest come, and in tyme of haruest, I wil say to the reapers, gather ye fyrste the tares, and bynde them in sheaues to be brente: but gather the wheate in to my barne. ✣

Marck.iiii.d ✣ An other parable he put forth vnto them saying: The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a mustarde seed that a man taketh and soweth in his felde, which is the leest of all sedes. But when it is growen, it is the greatest a monge herbes, and it is a tree, so that the byr-des of the ayer come and buyld in the braunches of it.

E An other symylitude sayd he to them. The kingdom of heauen is lyke vnto leuen which a woman taketh and hydeth in thre pecks of mele, tyll all be leuended.

Marck.iiii.e All these thynges spake Jesus vnto the people by similitudes, and without similitudes spake he not thyng to them, to fulfyl that Psal.lxxviii.a was spoken by the Prophete, sayinge: ✣ I wyll open my mouth in parables, and wyll speake forth thynges which haue bene kepte secrete, from the begynnyng of the worlde. ✣

✣ Then sent Jesus the people awaye, and came home. And his disciples came vnto him, saying: declare vnto vs the parable of the ta-res of the felde. Then answered he, and sayd vnto them: He that soweth the good seed is the sonne of man. And the felde is the worlde.
And the chyldren of the kyngdome, they are the good seed. And the tares are the chyldren of the wycked. And the enemye that soweth them, is the deuyll. The harueste is the ende of the worlde. And the reapers be the Angels.
Tares are re-pounded. For euen as the tares are gathered and brent in the fyre: so shall it be in the ende of this worlde. ✣ The sonne of man shall send forth Synecdo.
his Angels, and they shall gather out of his F kyngdome all greefes, and them whiche doo wickednes, and shall cast them in to a furnes of fyre. There shalbe wayling and gnasshyng of teth. ✣ Then shal the ryghtous men shine Sapien.
as bryght as the sonne in the kyngdome of their father. Whosoeuer hath eares to heare let hym heare. ✣

✣ Agayne the kyngdom of heauen is lyke vnto treasure hydde in the felde, whiche a man fyndeth and hydeth: and for ioye therof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and byeth that felde.

Agayne the kyngdome of heuen is lyke to a marchaunt that seketh fayre perles, which when he had founde one precyous peele, wēt
and solde all that he had, and bought it.

Agayne the kyngdom of heuen is lyke vnto a net cast in to the see, that gathereth of all kyndes of fyshes: which when it is ful, men draw to land, and syt & gather the good in to vessels, and cast the bad away. So shall G it be at ỹ end of the worlde. The angels shal come out and seuer the bad from the good, & shall caste them in to a furnes of fyre: there shall be waylynge and gnasshynge of teeth.

Jesus sayde vnto them. Vnderstand ye all these thynges? They sayd: yea Lorde. Then sayde he vnto them. Therfore euery Scribe whiche is taught vnto the kyngdom of heauen is lyke an housholder, whiche bryngeth forth of his treasur, thinges both newe and olde. ✣

And it came to passe when Jesus had ended these symylytudes, he departed thence and came into his own countrey, and taught them in their synagoges: in so moch that they were astonyed and sayd: whence commeth al this wysdoome and power vnto hym? Is not this the Carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Marye? and his brethren be called James & Joses and Symon and Judas?
And are not his systers al here wt vs? Whēce hath he all these thynges. And they were offended by hym. Then Jesus sayde to them, a Prophete is not without honour, saue in his owne countrey, and amonge his owne kyn.
And he did not many myracles there, because of their vnbelefe.

¶ Johñ is taken and beheeded. Christ feedeth fyue thousande men with .v. loues and two fyshes, and appeareth by nyght vnto his disciples vpon the see.

CAPI. XIIII.

AT that tyme Herode the Tetrarcha H
hearde of the fame of Jesu and sayde vnto his seruauntes: this is Johñ the Baptist. He is rysen agayne from death and therfore are suche myracles wrought by hym.
For Herode had taken Johñ, and bound him and put him in prysion for Herodias sake, his brother Philips wyfe. For Johñ sayde vnto hym it is not lawfull for the to haue her.
And when he wolde haue put hym to death,
he feared the people because they helde hym
as a Prophete.

But when Herodes byrth daye was come,
the doughter of Herodias daunced before them, and pleased Herode. Wherfore he promysed with an othe, that he wolde gyue her what so euer she wolde aske. And she beynge informed of her mother before, sayde: gyue me here Johñ Baptystes heed in a platter.
And the kynge was sory. Neuertheles because of his othes, and them also whiche sate at the table, he commaunded it to be gyuen her, and sent and beheeded Johñ in the pryson, and his heed was brought in a platter, and gyuen to the damsell, and she brought it to her mother.
And his disceples came and toke vp his bodye
and buryed it, and went and tolde Jesus.

When Jesus herde that, he departed thence by shyp in to a wyldernes place out of the waye.
And when the people had herde therof, they folowed hym a fote out of theyr cytyes. And Jesus went forth and sawe moche people, and his hert dyd melte vpon them, and he healed of them those that were sycke. Now when euen was come, his disciples came to hym sayinge: this is a deserte place, and the daye is spente, let the people departe, that they maye go in to the townes and bye them vytayles.
But Jesus sayd to them: They haue no nede to go awaye. Gyue ye them to eate. Then sayde they vnto hym: we haue here but fyue loues and two fyshes. And he sayde: bynge them hyther. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the gralle, and toke the .v. lo-ues and the two fyshes, & loked vp to heuen and ✣ blessed, and brake and gaue the loues
to his disceples, and the disceples gaue them to the people. And they dyd all eate and were sufficed. And they gathered vp of the gobets that remayned .xij. baskets full. And they that ate, were in nombre aboute fyue thousande men beside women and chyldren.

✣ And streyght waye Jesus made his disciples entre in to a shyp, and to go ouer before hym, whyle he sent the people awaye. And as sone as he had sent the people awaye, he went vp in to a mount apart alone to pray. And when nyght was come, he was there him self alone.
And the shyppe was nowe in the myddes of the see, and was tost with wawes, for it was a contrary wynde. ✣ And in the fourth watche of the nyghte Jesus came vnto them walk-ynge on the see. And when his disceples sawe hym walkynge on the see, they were troubled, sayinge: it is some spirete, and cried out for fere. And forthwith Jesus spake vnto them sayinge: be of good chere, it is I, be not afrayde.

Peter answered hym, and sayd: master, yf
thou be he, byd me come vnto the on the water. And he sayd, come. And when Peter was come downe out of the shyppe, he walked on the water to go to Jesus. But when he sawe a myghty wynde, he was afrayde. And as he beganne to syncke, he cryed sayinge: Master saue me. And forthwith Jesus stretched forth his hande and caught hym, and sayd to hym:
O litle faythful, wherfore diddest thou doubt?
And as sone as they were come in to the shyp,
the wynde ceased. So they in the shyp, came and worshypped hym, sayinge: Certaynly thou arte the sonne of God. And when they were come ouer, they wente in to the lande of Genazareth. And the men of that place hauynge knowlege of hym, sente out in to all D that countrey rounde about, and brought vn-
to hym all that were sycke, and besought hym that they myght but touche the hemme of his garmente. And as many as touched, were made safe.

come forth of the mouth, come from the herte,
and they defyle the man. For out of the herte come cupll thoughtes, murders, aduoutrys, horedome, theftes, false wytnesbearynge, blasphemy: These are the thyngs which defyle a fyleth not a man. ✣

✠ And Jesus went thence, and departed in to the coostes of Tyre and Sydon. And beholde, a woman of Cane came out of the same coostes, and cryed vnto hym, sayinge: Haue mercy on me Lorde, thou sonne of Dauid, my doughter is sore vexed with a deuyll. And he gaue her neuer a worde to answere. Then came to hym his disciples and besought hym sayinge: Sende her awaye for she folowyth vs cryinge. He answered and sayde, I am not sente, but vnto the lost sheepe of the house of Israel. Then she came and worshypped hym, saying: master helpe me. And he healed them, in so moche that the people wondred to se the domme speke, the maymed hole, the halt go, and the blynde se. And they glorifyed the god of Israel.

Then Jesus called his disciples to hym, and said: I haue compassion on the people because they haue continued with me now .iij. dayes, and haue nought to eate, and I wyll not let them go fastyng, lest they perysshe in the way. And after syxe dayes Jesus toke Peter and James and Johñ his brother, and brought them vp in to an hygh mountayne out of the waye, and was transfygured before them: & his face did shyne as the sonne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And beholde there appeared vnto them Moses and Hely, talkynge with hym. Then answered Peter, and sayd to Jesus: master here is good being for vs. If thou wilt, let vs make here .iij. tabernacles, one for the, & one for Moses, and one for Hely. Whyle he yet spake, beholde a bright cloud shadowed them. And ✠ beholde there came a voyce out of that cloude saying: this is my dere sonne, in whom I delyte, heare hym. And when the disciples herde that they fell on theyr faces and were sore afrayde. And Jesus came and touched them, and sayd; aryse and be not afrayde. And when they loked vp, they sawe no man saue Jesus onely.

And as they came downe from the mountayne, Jesus charged them sayinge: See ye shewe the vysyon to no man, vntyll the sonne of man be ryssen agayne from dethe. ✠ And his disciples asked hym saying: ✠ Why then saye the Scribes that Hely muste fyrst come? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: Hely shall fyrst come, and restore all thynges. And I say vnto you that Hely is come already, and they knewe him not, but haue done vnto him what soeuer they lusted. In lykewyse shal also the sonne of man suffre of them. When the disciples perceiued that he spake vnto them of Johñ Baptyst. And when they were come to the people, there came to hym a certayne man and kneled downe to hym, and sayde. Master haue mercye on my sonne, for he is lunatycke, and is sore vexed. A
And

And Jesus aunswered, and spake vnto them agayne, in parables, sayenge.

✠ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a man beynge a kynge, whiche maryed his sonne, and sent forthe his seruauntes, to call them that were byd to the weddynge, & they wolde not come. Agayne he sente forthe other seruauntes, sayenge. Tell them whiche are bydden: beholde I haue prepared my dynner, myne oxen and my fatlynges are kylled, & all thynges are redy, come vnto the mariage. But they regarded not, and wẽt their wayes: one to his house in the coũtrey, another about his marchaundyse, the remnaunt toke his seruauntes, and intreated them foule, and slew them. When the kynge hearde that, he was wrothe, and send forth his warryers, and destroyed those murtherers, and brent vp their cytye.

Then sayde he to his seruauntes: the weddynge is prepared. But they which were bydden, were not worthy. Go ye therfore out into the hyghe wayes, and as many as ye fynde byd them to the mariage. The seruantes wẽt out into the hyghe wayes, and gathered together as many as they coulde fynde, both good and bad, and the weddynge was furnysshed with gestes. Then the kynge came in, to vyset the gestes, and spyed there a man whiche had not on a ✠ weddynge garment, and sayde vnto hym: Frende, how fortuned it that thou camest in hyther, and hast not on a weddynge garment? But he had neuer a worde to saye.

Then sayde the kynge to his mynisters: take and bynde hym hande and fote, and caste hym into vtter darckenes, there shall be weppynge, and gnasshynge of teeth. For many are called but fewe be chosen. ✠

✠ Then went the Pharises and toke cõsell how they might trappe him in his wordes And they sent vnto him their disciples, with Herodes officers, sayeng: ✱ Master, we know thou art true, and teachest the waye of God truly, neyther carest for any man, for thou cõsyderest not mens estate. Tell vs therfore: how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to geue trybute vnto Cesar or not? Jesus perceyued their wickednes, and sayd: Why tempte ye me, ye hypocrites? Let me se the coyne of the trybute money. And they toke hym ✠ a penye. And he sayde vnto them: Whose is this Image and superscription? They sayd vnto him: Cesars. Then sayde he vnto them: Geue therfore to Cesar, that whiche is Cesars: and geue vnto God, that which is Gods. ✠ Whē they herd that, they marueled, and left him, and went their waye.

The same daye the Sadduces came to hym, (which saye that there is no resurrection) and asked him sayenge: Master, Moses bade, yf a man dye hauyng no children, that the brother mary his wyfe, and rayse vp seed vnto his brother. There were with vs seuen brethren and the first maryed and deceased without yssue & left his wyfe vnto his brother. Lykewyse the second and the thirde euen vntyll the seuenth. Last of all the woman dyed also. Now in the resurrection whose wyfe shall she be of the seuen? For all had her. Jesus answered & sayde vnto them ✱ ye are deceyued and vnderstand not the scriptures, nor yet the power of God. For in the resurrection they neyther mary nor be gyuẽ in mariage: but are as angels in heuẽ

✠ When the Phariſes had herde, howe he hadde stopped the Sadduces mouthes, they drewe togither, and one of them a doctour of lawe, asked him a question, temptinge hym, & sayenge: Master which is the chefe cõmaundement in the law? Jesus sayde to hym: Thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God with all thyne herte, with all thy soule, & with all thy mynd. This is the firſt and the chefe commaundmẽt. And the seconde lyke vnto this. Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. In these .ij. commaundementes hange all the lawe & the Prophetes.

Whyle the Pharises were gathered togyther, Jesus asked them sayeng: What thinke ye of Christ? Whose sonne is he? They sayde vnto hym, The sonne of Dauid. He sayd vnto them: How then doth Dauid in spirite, call hym Lorde, sayenge: The Lorde sayd to my Lorde, syt on my ryghte hande, tyll I make thyn enemyes thy fote stole. If Dauid cal him Lorde: howe is he then his sonne? And none coulde answere him agayne one worde: neyther durst any frome that daye forth, aske him any mo questions. ✠

Then spake Jesus to the people, and to his disciples, sayeng: The Scribes and Phariſes ✠ syt in Moses chayre. All therfore whatsoeuer they byd you kepe, that kepe, and do: but after their workes do not: for they saye, and do not. For they bynde heuy burdẽs and greuous to be borne, and laye theym on mennes shoulders: but they them selues will not moue theym with their fynger. All their workes they do, to be sene of men. They set abrode their philacteries, and make large borders on their garmentes, and loue to syt vppermoste at feastes, and to haue the chefe seates in the assembles, & gretynges in the marketes, and to be called of men Rabbi.

✠ To syt in Moses chaire, is to reache, not their own dremes, but the lawe of god, promulgate by Moses.

B
But ye shall not suffre youre selues to be called Rabbi. For one is youre master, that is to wyt Christ, and all ye are brethren. And call no man youre father vpon the earthe, for there is but one your father, and he is in heauen. Be not called masters, for there is but one your master, and he is Christ. He that is greatest amonge you, shalbe youre seruaunt. But whosoeuer exalteth hym selfe, shalbe humbled. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shalbe exalted. Wo be vnto you Scribes and Phariſes hy-

ses, Hypocrites, because ye shut vp the kyngdome of Heauen before men: for ye youre selues go not in, nether suffre ye them that come to enter in.

Wo be to you Scribes and Pharises, Hypocrites: because ye deuoure wydowes houses: and that vnder a colour of prayenge longe prayers, wherfore ye shall receaue the greater damnacion.

Wo be to you Scribes and Pharises, Hypocrites, which cõpasse see and lande, to bring one into your beleke: and when he is brought ye make hym two folde moare the chylde of hell, then ye your selues are.

Wo be vnto you blynde guydes, which say: Who so euer sweare by the temple, it is nothynge: but who so euer sweareth by the gold of the temple, is bounde. Ye foles and blynde: whether is greater the golde or the temple that sanctifyeth the golde? And who so euer sweareth by the aulter, it is nothinge: But whosoeuer sweareth by the offerynge that lyeth on the aulter, is bounde. Ye foles and blynde: whether is greater the offerynge, or the aulter whiche sanctifyeth the offerynge? Who so euer therfore sweareth by the aulter, sweareth by it, and by all that there on is.

¶ And whosoeuer sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it and by hym that dwelleth therin. And he that sweareth by heauen, sweareth by the trone of God, and by hym that sytteth theron.

Wo be to you Scribes and Pharises, Hypocrites, whiche tythe mynt, anyse, and cõmyn, and leaue the waighteyer matters of the lawe vnwne: iudgement, mercy, and faithe. These ought ye to haue wne, and not to leaue the other vndone. Ye blynde guydes whiche strayne out a gnat, and swalowe a camell.

Wo be to you Scribes and Pharises, Hypocrites, whiche make cleane the vtter syde of the cuppe, and of the platter: but within they are full of raupne and excesse. Thou blynde Pharyse, clense first the innerside of the cup and platter, that the outeryde of them maye be cleane also.

Wo be to you Scribes and Pharises, Hypocrites, for ye are lyke vnto paynted tombes which appeare beautyful outwardly: but are within full of dead bones, and of al fylthynes. So also ye, outwardly ye appeare righteous vnto men, when within, ye are full hypocrisy and wickednes.

Wo be vnto you Scribes and Pharises hypocrites: for ye buylde the tombes of the Prophetes, and garnysshe the sepulchres of the ryghteous, and saye: yf we hadde bene in the dayes of our fathers, we wold not haue bene parteners with them, in the bloud of the Prophetes. So then ye be wytnesses vnto youre selues, that ye are the children of them which kylled the Prophetes. Fulfill ye also the measure of your fathers. Ye serpentes and generacion of vipers, howe shulde ye escape the iudgement of hell?

✠ Wherfore, beholde I sende you Prophetes, wyse men and scribes, of them some ye shall kyll and crucifye: & some ye shall scourge in youre assembles, and pursue frome cytie to cytie, that vpon you maye come all the righteous bloude that was sheed vpon the erthe, frome the bloude of ryghteous Abell, vnto the bloude of Zachary, the sonne of Barachias, whome ye slewe betwene the temple and the aulter. Verely I saye vnto you, all these thynges shall lyght vpon this generacion. Jerusalem, Jerusalem whiche kyllest the Prophetes, and stonest them whiche are sent to the: howe often wolde I haue gathered thy chyldren togyther, as the hen gathereth her chickens vnder her wynges, and ye wolde not: Beholde, youre habitacion shalbe lefte vnto you desolate. For I saye to you, ye shall not se me hence forth, tyll that ye saye: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde. ✠

Ye shal heare of warres, and rumours of warres: but se that ye be not troubled. For al must come to passe, but the ende is not yet. For nacion shall ryse against nacyon, and realme against realme: & there shalbe pestilence, hõger and erthquakes in all places. All these are the begynnynge of sorowes.

For then shalbe great tribulation, such as was not from the begynnyng of the worlde to this tyme, nor shalbe. And except those dayes shulde be shortened, there shoulde no flesh be saued: but for the chosens sake, those dayes shalbe shortened.

Then yf any man shall saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there is Christ: beleue it not. For there shall aryse false Christes, and false Prophetes, and shall do great myracles and wonders. In so moche that yf it were possible euen the chosen persons shulde be deceaued. Take hede, I haue tolde you before. Wherfore yf they shall saye vnto you: ✠ beholde he is in the wyldernesse, go not forth: beholde in the secret places, beleue not. For as the lightnynge cometh out of the east, and shyneth into the west: so shall the cõmynge of the sonne of man be. For where soeuer a dead karkas is euen thyther wil the egles resorte. And then shall appeare the tygne of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shall all the kynredes of the earthe mourne, and they shall se the sonne of man come in the clowdes of heauen, with power and great glorye. ✠ And he shall sende his aungels with the greate voyce of a trompette, and they shall gather togyther his chosen, frome the. iiij. wyndes, and frome the one ende of the heauen to the other.

Then two shalbe in the felde, the one is receyued, and the other refused, two wemen grynding at the myl, the one is receyued, and the other refused. ✠ Wake therfore, because ye knowe not what houre your master wil come. Of this be sure, that yf the housholder knewe what houre the theef wolde come: he wolde surely watche, and not suffre his house to be broken vp. Therfore be ye also redy, for in the houre ye thinke not: the sonne of man cometh. Who is the faithfull seruaunt and wyse, who his master hath made rular ouer his household to geue them meate in season: happy is that seruaunt whom his master (when he cometh) shall fynde so doynge. Verely I tell you, he shall make him rular ouer all his goodes.

That yf the euyll seruaunte shall saye in his herte, my master tarieth, and begyn to smyte his felowes, yea to eate and to drynke with the dronken: the master of that seruaunte shall come in a daye when he loketh not for hym, & in an houre that he is not ware of, and shall hewe hym, and geue him his part with hypocrites. There shalbe weppynge and gnashynge of teeth.

CAPI. XXV.

THen the kyngdome of heauen shalbe lykened vnto ten virgins, whiche toke their lampes, & went to mete the brydegrome: fyue of them were folysshe, and fyue were wyse. Whyle the brydgrome tarryed, all slombred and slepte, at mydnyght, a crye was made: beholde, the brydegrome cometh, go mete hym. Then all these virgins arose, and prepared their lampes. And the folysshe sayde to the wyse: Geue vs of your oyle for our lampes be out. But the wyse answered, sayenge: Not so, lest there be not ynough for vs and you: but go rather to them that sel and bye for youre selues. And whyle they went to bye, the brydegrome came: and they that were redy, went in with hym to the weddyng and the gate was shut vp. Afterwardes came also the other virgins, sayenge: Lorde Lorde open to vs. But he answered, and sayde. Verely I tell you: I knowe you not. When Jesus vnderstode that, he sayde vnto them: Why trouble ye the woman? She hath wrought a good worke vpon me. For ye haue poore folke alwayes with you but me haue ye not allwayes. For where as this woman hathe casten this oyntement on my body, she dyd it to burye me with. The spirite is prompte, but the flesshe is weake.

He wente forthe ones agayne, and prayed, sayenge: My father, yf this cup can not passe away frome me, but that I drynke of it, thy wyll be done. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayne. For their eyes were heuy. And he left them and went agayne, and prayed ỹ thirde tyme, sayenge the same wordes. Then came he to his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Slepe henceforth, and take your rest. Behold the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man is betraped into the handes of synners. Ryse, let vs be goyng: beholde, he is at hande that betrayeth me. Whyle he yet spake: Lo, Judas one of the .xij. came, and with him a great multitude with swerdes and staues, sent from the chefe prestes, and elders of the people. And he that betrayed hym, hadde gyuen a token, sayenge: Whosoeuer I kysse, that same is he, laye handes on hym. And forthwith he came to Jesus, and sayde, hayle Master: and kyssed hym. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: frend wherfore arte thou come. Then came they, & layde handes on Jesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched oute his hande, and drue his swerde, and stroke a seruaunte of the hyghe prestes, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: Put vp thy swerde into his place. ✳ For all that take the swerde, shal perysshe with the swerde. Eyther thynkest thou that I can not nowe praye to my father, and he wall geue me mo then .xij. Legions of angels? But howe then shulde the scriptures be fulfylled: that so it oughte to be. The same tyme sayde Jesus to the multitude: ye be come out as vnto a theefe, with swerdes and staues for to take me. I sate dayely teachynge in the temple amonge you, and ye toke me not. All this was done that the scriptures of the prophetes myght be fulfilled. ✳ Then all the disciples forsoke hym and fled. And they toke Jesus and led hym to Cayphas the chiefe Priest, where the Scribes and elders were assembled. The chiefe prestes and elders, and all the concile, sought false witnesse against Jesus, to put him to death, but founde none: in so moch that when many false wytnesses came, yet founde they none. At last came two false wytnesses, and sayde: This man sayde: I can destroy the temple of God, and buylde it agayn in thre dayes. And the chefe Priest arose, and sayde to hym: answerest thou nothinge? How is it that these beare witnesse against the. But Jesus held his tongue. And the chiefe preste answered, and sayde to hym: I conjure the in the name of the lyuyng God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christ the sonne of God. Jesus sayde to hym: thou hast sayde. ✳ Then the chiefe preste rent his clothes, sayenge: he hath blasphemed: what nede we any mo wytnesses? Beholde, nowe ye haue herde his blasphemy: what thinke ye? They answered and sayde: he is gylte of deathe. Then spat they in his face and buffeted hym with fystes. And other smote hym with the palme of their handes on the face, sayenge: Prophecye vnto vs thou Christ, who is he ỹ smote the? Mar.xiiii.g. Luke.xxii. f. G

Peter sate without in the palace. And a damsell came to him, sayenge: Thou also wert with Jesus of Galile: but he denyed before them al sayenge: I wote not what thou sayst. When he was gone oute into the porche, an other wenche sawe hym, and sayde vnto them that were there. This felowe was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denyed with an othe, I knowe not the man. And after a whyle came vnto hym they that stode by and sayde vnto Peter: ✳ Surely thou arte one of them, for thy speache bewrayeth the. Then began he to curse and to sweare, that he knew not the man. And by and by the cocke krewe. ¶ Chryst ¶ Chryst is delyuered vnto Pilate. Judas hangeth hymselfe. Chryste is crucifyed amonge theues. He dyeth and is buryed. watchmen kepe the graue.

CAPI. XXVII.

a Mar.xv.a Luke.xxiii.a. WHen the mornynge was come, ✻ all the chiefe prestes, and the elders of the people helde a counsayle agaynste Jesus, to put hym to deathe, and brought hym bounde, and delyuered hym vnto Poncius Pylate the deputie.

Then when Judas whiche betrayed hym, sawe that he was condempned, he repented hym selfe, and brought agayne the .xxx. plates of syluer to the chiefe Prestes and elders, sayenge: I haue synned betrayenge the gyltles bloude. And they sayde: what is that to vs? See thou to that. And he caste downe the syluer plates, in the temple, and departed, and went and hounge hym selfe.

And the chiefe prestes toke the syluer plates and sayde: It is not lawfull to put them into the treasure, because it is the pryce of bloude. And they toke counsell, and boughte with them a potters felde, to bury straungers in. Wherfore that felde is called ℔ felde of bloud, eyll this daye. Then was fulfylled, that was spoken by Jerempe the Prophete, sayenge. Jere.xxxii.b zacha.xi.c. And they toke thirty syluer plates, the pryce of hym that was valued, whō they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and they gaue theym for the potters felde, as the Lorde appoynted me. b Mar.xv.a. Luke.xxiii.a John.xviii.f ✻ Jesus stode before the deputye: and the deputye asked hym, sayenge: Arte thou the kynge of the Jues: Jesus sayde vnto hym. Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chiefe Prestes, and elders, he aunswered nothynge. Then sayde Pilate vnto hym: Hearest thou not, howe many thynges they laye againste the? And he answered hym to neuer a worde: in so moche that the deputie meruayled greatly.

At that feast, the deputie was wont to delyuer vnto the people a prysoner, whom they wolde desyer. He had then a notable prysonner called Barrabas. And when they were gathered togyther, Pilate sayde vnto them: Mar.xv.a John.xviii.g ✻ Whether wyll ye that I gyue loolse vnto you Barrabas or Jesus whiche is called Christe? For he knewe well, that for enuye they hadde delyuered hym.

When he was set wone to geue iugement his wyfe sent to hym, sayeng: Haue thou nothinge to w th that iuste man. For I haue suffered many thynges this daye in a dreame, aboute hym. But the chiefe prestes and elders hadde persuaded the people, that they shulde aske Barrabas, and shulde destroye Jesus. Then the deputie aunswered and sayde vnto them: whether of the twayne will ye that I let loolse vnto you? And they sayde, Barrabas. Pilate sayde vnto them: what shall I then with Jesus, whiche is called Christe? They all sayde to hym: let hym be crucifyed. Then sayde the deputie: What eupll hath he done? And they cryed the more, sayenge: Let hym be crucifyed. When Pilate sawe that he preuayled nothynge, but that more busynesse was made, he toke water, and washed his handes before the people, sayenge: I am innocent of the bloude of this ✻ iuste person, a- ✻ His confesse him to ryse you. Then answered all the people, and sayde: his bloude be on vs, and on oure chyldren. Then let he Barrabas loolse vnto them and scourged Jesus, and delyuered hym to be crucyfyed.

Then the soudiours of the deputie toke Jesus vnto the comune hall; and gathered vnto hym all the companye. And they strypped hym and put on hym a purpyl robe, and platted a crowne of thornes and put vpon his hed and a reede in his ryghte hande: and bowed their knees before hym, and mocked hym, sayenge: Hayle kynge of Jewes: and spytted vpon hym, and toke the rede, and smote hym on the heed.

And when they hadde mocked hym, they toke the robe of hym agayne, & put his owne d rayment on hym, and led hym awaye to crucyfye hym. And as they came out, they founde a man of Cyren, named Simon: hym they compelled to beare his crosse. And when they came vnto the place, called Golgotha (that is to saye, a place of dead mens sculles) they gaue hym vyneger to drynke, mengled with gall. And when he had tasted therof, he wold not drynke.

When they hadde crucyfyed hym, they parted his garmentes, and dyd cast lottes: to fulfill that was spoken by the Prophet. ✻ They deuyded my garmentes amonge theym: and vpon my vesture dyd caste lottes. And they sate and watched hym there, and they set vp ouer his hed the cause of his deathe wryten. This is Jesus the kynge of the Jewes. ✻ And there were two theues crucyfyed with hym, Mar.xv.b Luke.xxiii.e one on the ryghte hande, and an other on the lyfte. e

They that passed by, reuyled hym, waggynge their heddes, and sayenge: Thou that destroyest the temple of God, and buyldest it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. If thou be the sonne of God, come downe frome the crosse. Lykewyse also the hyghe Prestes mockynge hym, with the Scrybes and elders, sayde: He saued other, hym selfe he can not saue. If he be the kynge of Israel: let hym nowe come downe frome the crosse, and we wyll beleue hym. He trusted in God, let hym delyuer him nowe, yf he wyll haue hym: for he sayde, I am the sonne of God. That same also the theues, whiche were crucifyed with hym, cast in his teeth.

Frome the syxte houre was there derckenes ouer all the lande vnto the nynth houre. And aboute the nynthe houre, Jesus cryed with a f loude voyce, sayenge: Eli Eli lama sabacthani. Mar.xv.b Psal.xxii. That is to say: ✻ my God, my God, why haste thou forsaken me? Some of theym that stode there, when they herde that, sayde, this man calleth for Helf. And forthwith one of them ran and toke a sponge, and fylled it full of vyneger, and put it on a rede, and gaue him to drynke. Other sayde, let be: let vs se whether Helf wyll come, and delyuer hym. Jesus cryed cryed agayne with a loude voyce and yelded vp the ghoste.

And beholde the ✻ vayle of the temple dyd rent in twayne, frome the hyghest to the lowest, and the earthe dyd quake, and the stones dyd rent, and graues dyd open: and the bodyes of many sayntes whiche slepte, arose, and came oute of the graues after his resurrection, and came into the holy cytie, and appeared vnto many. ✻ When the Centurion, and they that were with hym watchynge Jesus, sawe the earthe quake, and those thynges whiche happened, they feared greately, sayenge. Truely this was the sonne of God.

✻ And many wemen were there, beholding him a farre of, whiche folowed Jesus frome Galile, mynistringe vnto hym. Amonge whyche was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James and Joses, and the mother g of Zebedes chyldren.

✻ When the euen was come, there came a ryche man of Aramathia named Joseph, whyche man also was Jesus disciple. He went to Pilate and craued the bodye of Jesus. Then Pilate commaunded the body to be delyuered. And Joseph toke the body, and wrapped it in a clene lynnen clothe, and put it in his newe tombe, whiche he hadde hewen oute, euen in the rocke, and rolled a greate stone to the wre of the sepulcre, and departed. And there was ✻ Mary Magdalene, & the other Mary, syttynge ouer against the sepulcre. The nexte daye, that folowed the daye of preparing the Sabboth, the hyghe prestes and Pharises gat them selues to Pilate, and sayde: Syr, we remembre, that this deceyuer sayde whyle he was yet alyue. After thre dayes, I shall aryse agayne. Commaunde therfore that the sepulcre be made sure tyll the thirde daye, leste his disciples come and steale hym awaye, and saye vnto the people, he is ryssen frome deathe and the laste errour be worse then the fyrste. Pylate sayde vnto them. Ye haue a watche: Go, and make it as sure as ye can. And they went and made the sepulcre sure with watche men, and sealed the stone. ℣

CAPI. XXVIII.

IN the euenynge of the Sabboth dayes, which dawneth vnto one of the Sabothes Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, came to se the sepulchre.

And beholde there was a great erth quake. For an aungell of the Lorde descended frome heauen, and came and rolled backe the stone frome the wre, and sate vpon it. His countenaunce was lyke lyghtnynge, and his rayment whyte as snowe. And for feare of hym the kepers were astonyed, and were as deed.

✻ The aungell aunswered and sayde to the wemen, feare ye not. I know that ye seke Jesus whiche was crucyfyed: he is not here: he is ryssen as he sayde. Come, and se the place where the Lorde was put: and goo quickely, and telle his disciples, that he is ryssen frome deathe. And beholde, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye shall se hym. Lo I haue tolde you. ℣ B

✻ And they departed quickly frome the sepulcre with feare and greate ioye: and ran to tell his disciples. And as they went to tell his disciples: beholde Jesus met them, sayenge: All hayle. And they came and helde hym by ℔ fete, and worshypped hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: Be not afrayde. Go and tell my c brethren, that they go into Galile, and there shall they se me. When they were gone: Beholde, some of the kepers came into the cytie, and shewed vnto the hyghe Prestes, all the thinges that were happened. And they gathered them togyther with the elders, and toke counsell, and gaue large money vnto the soudiours, sayenge: Say that his disciples came by nyght, and stole hym away whyle ye slept. And yf this come to the rulars eares, we will appease hym, and saue you harmelesse. And they toke the money, and dyd as they were taughte. And this sayenge is noysed amonge the Jewes vnto this daye. ℣

✻ Then the .xi. disciples went awaye into d Galile, into a mountayne, where Jesus had appoynted them. And when they sawe hym, they ✻ worshypped hym. But some of theym Mark.xvi.d doubted. And Jesus came and spake vnto the sayenge. All power is gyuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth. Go therfore and teache all nacyons, Baptysynge them, in the name of the father, and the sonne, and the holy ghost: Teachynge the to obserue all thinges, what so euer I commaunded you. And lo, I am with you alwaye, euen vntyll the ende of the worlde. ℣

A ✠ The begynnynge of the Gospell of Jesu Christe, the sonne of God, as it is written in the Prophetes, ✠ Beholde, I sende my messenger before thy face, whiche shall prepare thy waye before the. The voyce of a cryer in the wildernesse: ✠ prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, make his pathes streyght. Mala.iii.a Esaye.xl.a Johñ dyd baptyse in the wildernesse, & preache the baptisme of repentaunce, for the remissiõ of synnes. And all that lande of Jurie and they of Jerusalem, went out vnto hym, and were all baptised of hym in the ryuer Jordan, confessynge their synnes.

Johñ was clothed with camels heare, and with a gyrdell of a skynne about his loynes. And he dyd eate locustes and wylde hony, and preached sayenge: a stronger then I commeth after me, whose sho latchet I am not worthy to stoupe downe and vnlose. I haue baptysed you with water: but he shall baptyse you ✠ the holy ghost. B The baptisme of Christ.

And it came to passe in those dayes, that Jesus came frome Nazareth, a citie of Galile: & was baptised of Johñ in Jordan. And assone as he was come out of the water: he sawe heauen open, and the holy ghost descendinge vpõ hym, lyke a due. And there came a voyce frõ heauen. Thou arte my dere sonne in whom I delyte.

And forthwith the spyrite draue hym into wyldernesse: and he was there in the wyldernesse. xl. dayes, and was tempted of Satan, & was with wylde beastes. And the angels ministred vnto hym. After Johñ was taken, Jesus came into Galile, preachynge the gospell of the kyngdome of God, sayenge: the tyme is come, and the kyngdome of God is at hande, repente and beleue the Gospell.

As he walked by the see of Galile, he sawe Simon and Andrew his brother, castyng nettes into the see, for they were fyshers. And Jesus sayde vnto them: folow me, and I wil make you fyshers of men. And forthwith, they forsoke their nettes, and folowed hym. And when he had gone a lytell further thence, he sawe James the sonne of Zebede, and Johñ his brother, whiche also in the shyp were mẽdynge their nettes. And anone he called them And they lefte their father Zebede in the shyp with his hyred seruauntes, and wente their waye after hym.

L And they go to Capernaum: and forthwith on the Saboth dayes, he entred into the Synagoge and taught, and they merueled at his learnynge. For he taughte theym as one that had power, and not as the Scribes.

And there was in their Synagoge a man vexed with an vncleane spirite, that cryed sayenge: Ah, what haue we a to with the, Jesu of Nazareth? Arte thou come to destroye vs? I knowe what thou art, that holy of God. And Jesus rebuked hym sayenge: be styll and come out of the man. And the vncleane spirite tare hym, and cryed with a loude voyce, & came out of hym. And they were all amased, in so moch that they demaunded one of an other amonge theim selues sayenge: What thinge is this? ✠ What newe doctrine is this? For he commaundeth the foule spirites with power, and they obey hym. And immediatly his fame spred abrode throughout all the region rounde about in Galile. ✠ Christes doctrine counted nought

And forthwith, assone as they were come oute of the Synagoge, they entred into the house of Symon and Andrew, with James & Johñ. And Symons mother in lawe lay sicke of a feuer. And anone they tolde hym of her. And he came and toke her by the hande, & lyft her vp: and the feuer forsoke her by and by: and she mynystred vnto theym. And at euen when the sonne was downe, they brought to hym all that were dyseased, and theym that were possessed with dyuels. And all the cyte gathered togither at the dore, and he healed many that were sicke of dyuers diseases. ✠ And he cast out many dyuels, and suffred not the dyuels to speake, because they knew him. D Luke.iiii.g Ephesia.iii.

And in the morynyng very erly, Jesus arose and went out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with him folowed after hym. And when they had founde him, they sayde vnto hym: all men seke for the. And he sayde vnto them: let vs go in to the next tounes, that I maye preache there also: for truely I came out for that purpose. And he preached in their Synagoges throughout all Galile, and cast the dyuels out.

✠ And there came a leper to hym, besechyng hym, and kneled downe vnto hym, and sayde to hym: Yf thou wilte, thou canste make me cleane. And Jesus had compassion on hym, & put forth his hande, touched hym, and sayd to hym: I will, be thou cleane. And assone as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed frome hym, and sent hym awaye forthwith, & sayde vnto hym: See thou saye nothinge to any man: but get the hence, and shewe thy self to the Preste, and offer for thy clensynge, those thinges which Moses commanded, for a witnesse vnto them. But he (assone as he was departed) began to tell many thinges, & to publysshe the dede: in so moche that Jesus coulde no more openly entre into the citie, but was without in deserte places. And they came to hym frome euery quarter. Matth.viii.d Luke.v.c L Leuit.xiiii.a no rowme to receyue them, no not so moche as about the dore. And he preached the worde vnto them. And there came vnto hym, that brought one sicke of the palsie, borne of foure men. And because they coulde not come nyghe vnto hym for preasse, they vncouered the rofe of the house, where he was. And when they hadde broken it open, they let downe the bed wherin the sicke of the palsye laye. When Jesus sawe their fayethe, he sayde to the sycke of the palsye, ✠ Sonne, thy synnes are forgyuen the. B

And there were certayne of the Scribes sittynge there, and reasonynge in their hertes: How weth this felowe so blaspheme? Who can forgyue synnes, but God onely? And immediatly when Jesus perceyued in his spyrite, that they so reasoned in them selues, he sayde vnto them: Why thynke ye suche thinges in your hertes? Whether is it easyer to saye to the sycke of the palsye, thy synnes are forgyue the: or to saye, aryse and take thy bedde, and walke? ✠ That ye maye know that the sonne of man hath power in erth to forgyue synnes, he spake vnto the sycke of the palsy: I say vnto the, aryse and take vp thy bed, and get the hense into thyne owne house. And by and by he arose, and toke vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so moch that they were all amased, and glorified God, sayenge: we neuer sawe it on this fassyon.

And he wente agayne vnto the see, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe Leui ✠ sonne of Alphey syt at the receyte of custome, and sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he arose and folowed hym. ✠ And it came to passe, as Jesus sate at meate in his house, many publicans and synners sate at meate also with Jesus and his disciples. For there were many that folowed him. And when the Scribes & Phariseis sawe hym eate with publicans and synners, they sayde vnto his disciples: How is it, that he eateth and drynketh with publicans and synners? When Jesus herde that, he sayde vnto them. ✠ The hole haue no nede of the Physycion, but the sycke. I came not to call the ryghtwyse, but the synners to repentaunce. C

And the disciples of Johñ and the Phariseis dyd faste: and they come and say vnto hym. Why do the disciples of Johñ & of the Phariseis faste, and thy disciples fast not. And Jesus sayde vnto them: Can the children of a weddynge faste, whyles the brydegrome is with them? As longe as they haue the brydegrome with them, they cannot faste. But the dayes shall come when the brydegrome shalbe taken frome them, and then shall they faste in those dayes. D

Also no man soweth a pece of newe clothe vnto an old garment, for then taketh he away the new pece frome the olde, and so is the rent worse. In lykewyse, no man powreth newe wyne into olde vessels: for yf he do, the newe wyne breaketh the vessels, and the wyne runneth out, and the vessels perysshe. But newe wyne, must be powred into new vessels.

And it chaunced that he went thorow the corne teldes, on the Sabboth daye: and his disciples as they went in their waye, began to plucke the eares of corne. And the Phariseis sayde vnto hym: beholde, why do they on the Sabboth dayes, that whiche is not lawfull? And he sayd to them: haue ye neuer red what Dauid dyd, when he hadde nede, and was an hongred, bothe he / and they that were with hym? Howe he wente into the house of God in the dayes of Abiathar the hyghe preest, and dyd eate the halowed loues, whiche is not lawfull to eate, but for the preestes onely: and gaue also to them whiche were with hym? And he sayde to them the Sabboth was made for man, and not mã for the Sabboth. Wherfore the sonne of man is Lorde also of the Saboth daye. 1.Regũ.xxi.b.

CAPI. IIII.

AND he began agayne to teach by the see syde. And there gathered togyther vnto hym moch people, so greatly that he entred into a shyp, and sate in the see, and all the people was by the see syde on the shore. And he taughte them many thinges in parables, and sayde vnto them in his doctrine. Herken: beholde, there went out a sower to sowe. And it fortuned as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde, and the fowles of the ayre came and deuoured it vp. Some fel on the stony grounde, where it had not moche erth: and by and by sprange vp, because it had not depth of earthe: but as sone as the sonne was vp, it caught heet, and because it had not rotynge, wyddred awaye.

And some fell amonge the thornes, and the thornes grewe vp, and choked it, so that it gaue no frute. And some fell vpon good groūd and dyd yelde frute that spronge and grewe, & brought forthe: some thirty folde, some sixtye folde, and some an hundred folde. And he sayd vnto them: he that hathe eares to heare, let him heare. ✠

And when he was alone, they that were aboute hym with the twelue, asked him of the parable. And he sayde vnto them. To you is it graūted to knowe the mysterye of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are without, shall all thinges be done in parables: that when they se, they shall se, and not discerne: and when they heare, they shal heare, and not vnderstande: leaste at any tyme they shoulde tourne, and their synnes shoulde be forgyuen them. And he sayde vnto them: Perceyue ye not this parable? and how ye shal vnderstand all other parables.

The sower soweth the worde. And they that are by the wayes syde, where the worde is sowen, are they to whome allone as they haue herde it, Satan commeth immediately, and taketh awaye the worde that was sowen in theyr hertes. And lykewyse they that are sowen on the stonye grounde, are they: whiche when they haue herde the worde, forthwith receyue it with gladnes, yet haue no rotes in them selues, and so endure but a tyme: and anon as trouble and persecucion ariseth for the wordes sake, they fall immediatly. And they that are sowen amonge the thornes, are suche as heare the worde, and the care of this worlde and the disceptfulnes of ryches, and the lustes of other thynges entre in & choke the worde, and it is made vnfrutful. And those that were sowed in good grounde, are they that heare the worde and receyue it, and bryngе forthe frute, some thyrty folde, some sixtye folde, some an hundred folde.

And he sayd vnto them: is the candell lyghted to be put vnder a bushell, or vnder the table, and not rather to be put on a candelstycke? For there is nothynge so preuye that shall not be opened, neyther so secrete, but that it shall come abrode. If any man haue eares to heare, let hym heare. And he sayde vnto them: take hede what ye heare. With what measure ye mete, with the same shall it be measured vnto you again. And vnto you that heare, shal more be gyuen. For ✳ vnto hym that hath, shall it be gyuen/and from him that hath not, shal be taken awaye, euen that he hath. Math.xiii.b

And he sayde: so is the kyngdome of God, as yf a man sholde sowe seed in the grounde, and sholde slepe, and ryse vp nyght and daye: and the sede sholde springe and growe vp, he not ware. For the earthe bringeth forth frute of her selfe: first the blade, then the eares, after that full corne in the eares. And as sone as the frute is brought forth, anone he putteth to the sykell, because the haruest is come.

And he sayde: Where vnto shall we lyken the kyngdome of God? or with what parable shall we compare it? It is lyke a grayne of mustardseed, whiche when it is sowen in the erth, is the leest of all seedes that be in ẏ erth: but

but after that it is sowen, it groweth vp, and is greatest of all herbes: and beareth greate braunches, so that the fowles of the ayre may dwell vnder the shadowe of it.

And with manye suche similitudes he preached the word vnto them, after as they might heare it. And without similitude spake he nothing vnto them. But when they were a part he expounded all thinges to his disciples. And the same daye when euen was come, he sayde vnto them: Let vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they lefte the people, and toke hym euen as he was in the shyppe. And there were also with hym other shyppes.

And there arose a great storme of wynde, & dashed the waues into the shyppe, so that it was full. And he was in the sterne a slepe on a pelowe. And they awoke him, and sayde to him: Master, caresi thou not that we perysh? And he rose vp, and rebuked the wynde, and sayd vnto the see: peace be still. And the wynde slayed, and there folowed a great calme. And he sayde vnto them: Why are ye so fearfull? Howe is it that ye haue no fayth? And they feared exceadyngly, and sayde one to another what felowe is this? For both wynde and see obaye hym.

AND they came ouer to the other syde of the see, into the countrey of the Gadarenites. And when he was come out of the shyppe, there met him out of the graues a man possessed of an vncleane spirite, whiche had his abydinge amonge the graues. And no man coulde bynde him: no not with cheynes, because that when he was often bounde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes a sunder, and brake the fetters in peces. Neither coulde any man tame him. And alwayes both nyght and daye he cryed in the mountaynes, and in the graues, and bet him selfe with stones. When he had spyed Jesus a farre of, he ran and worshypped hym, and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayde: What haue I to do with the Jesus the sonne of the moste hyghest God? I requyre the in the name of God that thou torment me not. For he had sayde vnto him: Come out of the man thou foule spirite. And he asked him: What is thy name? and he answered sayenge: My name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayed him instauntely, that he woulde not sende them awaye, oute of the countrey.

And there was a certayne woman, whiche was dyseased of an yssue of bloude. xij. yeres, and had suffred many thinges of many physicions, and had spent all she had, and felt none amendement at al, but wered worse & worse. When she had herde of Jesus: she came into the preace behynde hym, and touched his garment. For she thought: yf I may but touche his clothes I shall be hole. And forthwith her fountayne of bloude was dryed vp, & she felte in her body, that she was healed of the plage.

And Jesus immediatly felt in him selfe, the vertue that went out of hym, and turned him rounde aboute in the preace, and sayde: who touched my clothes? And his disciples sayde vnto hym: seyst thou the people thrust the, and yet askest, who dyd touche me? And he loked rounde aboute, to se her that hadde wrought that thinge. The woman feared and trembled (for she knewe what was done in her,) & she came and fell downe before hym, and tolde him the hole trouthe. And he sayde to her: Daughter, thy faith hath made the hole: go in peace, and be hole of thy plage.

¶ The disciples eate with vnwasshen handes. The commaundement of God is trangressed by manes traditions. Of the woman the Sirophenissa. Of the Saboth.

CAPI. VII.

AND the Pharysees came togyther vnto hym, and dyuers of the Scribes which came from Jerusalem. And when they sawe certayne of his disciples eate bred with common handes (that is to saye, with vnwasshen handes) they complayned. For the Pharysees and all the Jewes, onelesse they washe their handes ofte, eate not, obseruyng the traditions of the elders. And when they come frō the market, excepte they washe, they eate not. And many other thynges there be which they haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the washyng of cuppes and crues, and of brasen vessels, and of tables.

Then asked hym the Pharysees & Scrybes why walke not thy disciples accordyng to the traditions of the elders, but eate bread with vnwasshen hādes? He answered and sayd vnto them: wel prophecied Esaie of you hypocrites as it is wryten: ✳ This people honoureth me with their lyppes, but their hert is farre from me: In vayne they worshyp me, teachyng doctrynes the cōmaundementes of men. And Peter answered and sayde to Jesu: Master here is good being for vs, let vs make thre tabernacles, one for the, one for Moses, and one for Helias. For he wyst not what he sayd: for they were afrayde. And there was a cloude that shadowed them. And a voyce came out of the cloude sayinge: ✳ This is my deare sonne, heare hym. And sodeynly they loked rounde about them, & sawe no man more then Jesus onely with them.

And as they came downe from the hyll, he charged them, that they sholde tell no man what they had sene, til the sonne of man were risen frome deathe agayne. And they kepte that sayinge with them, and demaunded one of an other what the rysynge frome deathe agayne sholde meane? And they asked hym, sayinge: Why then saye the Scrybes, that Helyas muste fyrste come? He answered and sayd vnto them: ✳ Helyas verily shall fyrste come and restore all thynges. And also the sonne of man as it is wrytten, that suffre many thinges, and shall be set at nought. Moreouer, I saye vnto you that Helyas is come, and they haue done vnto him what so euer pleased the, as it is wrytten of hym.

And he came to his disciples, & sawe moche people about them, and the Scrybes questionyng with them. And anone all the people when they beheld hym, were amased and ranne to hym, and greted hym. And he sayde vnto the Scrybes: What questyone ye with them? ✣ ✳ And one of the companye answered and sayd: Master, I haue brought my sonne vnto the, which hath a domme spirite. And when so euer he taketh hym, he teareth hym, and he fometh & gnasheth with his teth, and pyneth awaye. And I spake to thy disciples that they sholde cast hym out, and they coulde not.

He answered hym and sayd: O vnfayethfull generacion, how longe shall I be with you? How longe shall I suffre you? Bryng hym hyther to me. And they brought him vnto him. And as sone as the spirite sawe hym, he tare hym. And he fell downe on the grounde walowyng and fomyng. And he asked his father, how long is it ago, sythens this hath happened him? He sayd, of a chylde, and ofte tymes casteth hym in to the fyre, and also in to the water to destroye hym. But yf thou canste do any thynge haue mercye on vs, and helpe vs. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: Yf thou couldest beleue, all thynges are possyble to hym that beleueth. And forthwith the father of the chylde cryed with teares: sayinge: Lorde I beleue, helpe myne vnbelefe.

When Jesus sawe that the people came runnynge togyther vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spirite, saying vnto hym: Thou domme and deafe spirite, I charge the, come out of hym, and entre no more in to hym. And the spirite cryed, and rent hym sore, and came out: and he was as deed, in so moch that many said he is deed. But Jesus caught his hande, and lyfte hym vp, and he arose. And when he was come in to the house, his disciples asked hym secretly, why coulde not we caste hym out?

And he sayde vnto them: This kynde can by none other meanes come forth, but by prayer and fastynge. ✣

✣ And they departed thence, and toke their iourneye thorowe Galile, and he wolde not that any man sholde haue knowen it. For he taught his disciples and sayd vnto them: ✳ the sonne of man shall be delyuered in to the handes of men, and they shall kyll hym, and after that he is kylled, he shal aryse agayn the third daye. But they wyste not what that sayinge meant, and were afrayde to aske hym. And he came to Capernaum. And when he was come to house, he asked them, what was it that ye reasoned betwene you by the way? And they helde their peace: for by the waye they reasoned amonge them selues, who sholde be the chefest. ✳ And he sate downe and called the .xij. vnto hym, and said to them: yf any man desyre to be fyrst, the same shal be last of all, & seruant vnto all. And he toke a chylde, and set hym in the myddes of them, & toke him in his armes and sayde vnto them: who so euer receyueth one of such children in my name, receyueth me. And who so euer receyueth me, receyueth not me, but hym that sent me. ✣

Johñ answered hym, sayinge: ✣ Master, we sawe one castynge out deuyls in thy name, whiche folowyth not vs, and we forbad hym bycause he folowyth vs not. But Jesus sayde, forbyd hym not. For there is no man that shall do a myracle in my name, that can lyghtly speake euyll of me. Who so euer is not agaynste you, is on your parte. And who so euer shall gyue you a cup of water to drinke for my names sake, bycause ye belonge to Christe, verily I saye vnto you he shall not loose his rewarde. And who so euer shall offende one of these lytelones that beleue in me, it were better for hym that a mylstone were hanged aboute his necke, and that he were cast in to the see. Wherfore yf thy hande offende the, cut hym of. It is better for the to entre in to lyfe maymed, then haynge two handes go in to hell in to fyre vnquenchable, where their worme dyeth not, and the fyre neuer goeth out. But Jesus answered agayne, and sayde vnto them: chyldren howe harde is it for them that trust in ryches to entre in to the kyngdome of God? came a woman, hauynge an alabaster bore of oyntmente called narde, that was pure and costly / and she brake the bore and powred it on his heed. Now there were some that were not content in them selues, and sayde: what neded this waste of oyntment? For it might haue ben solde for more then. iij. hundred pens, and ben giuen vnto the poore. And they grudged agaynst her.

But Jesus sayde: let her be in reste, why trouble ye her? She hathe wrought a good worke on me. For ye haue poore with you alwayes / and when so euer ye wyll ye maye do them good, but me ye haue not alwayes. She hath done that she coulde/ she came aforehande

* And at euen he came with the.xij. And whyle they sate at borde and ate: Jesus sayd: Verely I saye vnto you, that one of you shall betraye me whiche eateth with me. And they began to mourne, and to saye to hym one by one: is it I? And an other sayd: is it I? He answered and said vnto them: One of the.xij. whiche dyppeth with me in the platter. The sonne of man goeth as it is wrytten of hym: but wo be to that man by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. Good were it for him, if that man had neuer ben borne.

And whyle they ate, Jesus toke breed, blessed and brake, and gaue to them and sayd. Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke ye cup, gaue thankes, & gaue it to them, and they al dranke of it. And he said vnto them: this is my blood of the new couenaunt, which is shed for many. Verely I say vnto you, I shal drynke no more of this frute of the vyne, tyll that daye that I drynke it newe in the kyngdome of God. And when they had gyuen prayses, they went out to mount Oliuet.

And Jesus saith vnto them: All ye shal be offended thorow me this night. For it is wrytten: I wyll smyte the shepherde, and the shepe shal be scattered. But after I am rysen agayne, I wyll go in to Galile before you. * Peter sayd vnto him. Although all men sholde be offended yet wold not I. And Jesus said vnto him. And he came and founde them slepyng, and sayd to Peter: Symon slepest thou? Couldest not thou watche with me one houre? watche ye and praye, lest ye entre into temptacion, the spirite is redye, but the flesshe is weyke. And agayne he went awaye and prayde and spake the same wordes. And he returned and founde them a slepe agayne / for theyr eyes were heuye: neyther wyst they what to answere him. And he came the thyrde tyme, and sayde vnto them: slepe hensforth and take your ease, it is ynough. The hour is come/ beholde, the sonne of man shall be delyuered in to the handes of synners. Ryse vp, let vs go. Lo, he that betrayeth me, is at hande.

And forthwith whyle he yet spake, came Judas one of the twelue, and with hym a greate route of people with swerdes and staues from the hyghe preestes and Scrybes, and elders. And he that betrayed hym had gyuen them a watche worde, sayinge: who so euer I do kysse, he it is: take hym and leade hym awaye warely. And as sone as he was come, he wente anone to hym, and sayde vnto hym: master master, and kyssed hym. And they layde theyr handes on hym, and toke hym. And one of them that stode by, drewe out his swerde, and smote a seruaunt of the hyghe preest, and cut of his eare.

And Jesus answered and said vnto them/ ye be come out as vnto a thefe with swerdes and with staues to take me. I was dayly with you in the temple teachynge / and ye toke me not, but that the scriptures sholde be fulfylled. And they all forsoke hym and ranne awaye. And there folowed him a certayne yonge man, clothed in lynnen vpon the bare, & the yonge men caught him, and he lefte his lynnen, and fledde from them naked. * And they led Jesus away to the hyest preest of all, and to hym came all the hye preestes and the elders, and the Scrybes. And Peter folowed hym a great way of, euen in to the palace of the hye preest, and sat with the seruauntes, and warmed hym selfe at the fyre.

Math.xx Luke.xx John.x

And the hyghe preestes, and all the councyle sought for wytnes agaynst Jesu, to put him to deth, & founde none. For many bare false wytnes agaynst hym, but their witnes agreed not togither. And there arose certeyn and brought false wytnes agaynst hym, sayinge. We herde hym say: I wil destroye this temple made with handes, and within thre dayes I wyll buylde an other made without handes. But their witnesse agreed not togyther.

And the hyghest preest stode vp amongest them, and asked Jesus, sayinge: Answerest thou nothynge? Howe is it that these beare wytnes agaynst the? And he helde his peace, and answered nothynge. Agayne the hyghest preest asked him, and sayd vnto hym. Art thou Christ the sonne of the blessed? Jesus sayd, I am. * And ye shall se the sonne of man syt on the ryghte hande of power, and come in the cloudes of heuen. Then the hyest preest rente his clothes and sayde: what nede we any further of witnes? ye haue herd blasphemy, what thinke ye? And they all condempned him that he was worthye of dethe. And some began to spyt at him, and to couer his face, and to beate hym with fystes, and to saye vnto hym, arede vnto vs. And the seruauntes boffeted hym on the face.

AND anone in the dauning, the hye preestes helde counsell with the elders and the Scrybes, and the hole cōgregacion, and bounde Jesus and led him away and deliuered him to Pylate. And Pilate asked him: art thou the kynge of the Jewes? And he answered & sayd vnto him: thou sayest. And the hye preestes accused him of many thinges. Pilate asked him agayne sayinge: * Answerest thou nothyng? Beholde how many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Jesus answered neuer a worde, so that Pylate meruayled.

At that feest Pilate was wont to deliuer at their pleasure a prysoner, whome so euer they wolde desyre. Now there was one named Barrabas, which lay bound with them that made insurrection, & in the insurreccion commytted murther. And the people called vnto him, and began to desire accordyng as he had euer done vnto them. Pylate answered them and sayde: Wyll ye that I loose vnto you the kynge of Jewes? For he knewe that the hygh preestes had deliuered him of enuy. But the high preestes had moued the people that he sholde rather delyuer Barrabas vnto them.

And Pilate answered agayn, and said vnto them: * what wyl ye then that I do with him whome ye call the kynge of Jewes? And they cryed agayne: crucifye him. Pylate sayd vnto them: what euyl hath he done? And they cried the more feruently: Crucifye him. And so Pylate wyllyng to cōtent the people, loosed them Barrabas, and delyuered Jesus when he had scourged him, for to be crucifyed.

And the soudiers ledde him awaye in to the commen hall, and called togither the hole multitude, and they clothed him with purple, and they platted a crowne of thornes & crowned hym withall, and began to salute him. Hayle kynge of the Jewes. And they smote hym on the heed with a rede, and spat vpon him, and worshypped him.

And when they had mocked him, they vnclothed hym of the purple, and put his owne clothes on him and ledde him out, to crucifye hym. * And they compelled one that passed by called Symon of Syrene (whiche came out of the countrey, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to beare his crosse. And they broughte hym to a place named Golgotha (whiche is interpreted, the place of deed mens sculles) and they gaue hym to drynke, wyne myngled with myrre, but he toke it not.

Lykewyse also mocked hym the hyghe preestes amonge them selues with the scribes, and said: he saued other men, him selfe he can not saue. Let Christ the kyng of Israel now descende from the crosse, that we maye se and byleue. And they that were crucifyed with him, reuyled him also.

And erly in the mornyng the next day after the Saboth daye, they came vnto the sepulcre, when the sonne was rysen. And they sayd one to an other, who shall roll vs awaye the stone from the doze of the sepulcre? And when they loked, they sawe how the stone was rolled awaye, for it was a very great one. And they went in to the sepulcre, and saw a yong man syttyng on the ryght syde, clothed in a longe whyte garment, and they were abashed. ✶ And he sayd vnto them, be not afrayde: ye seke Jesus of Nazareth, whiche was crucified. CAPI. I.

A THere was in the dayes of Herode the kynge of Jurye a certeyn preest named Zachary, of the course of Abia. And his wyfe was of the doughters of Aaron / & her name was Elizabeth. Bothe were perfecte before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordinaunces of the Lorde without reproue. And they had no chylde, bicause Elizabeth was bareyn, and bothe were well stryken in age.

And it came to passe, as he executed the prestes office before God, as his course came (according to the custome of the preestes office) his lot was to burne encense. And he went in to the temple of the Lorde, and the hole multitude of the people were without in prayer whyle the incese was a burning. And there appered vnto hym an aungell of the Lorde standyng on the ryght syde of the auiter of incense. And when Zachary saw hym, he was abashed, and feare came on hym.

B But the aungell sayd vnto hym: feare not Gene.xvii.b Zachary, for thy prayer is herde: ✶ And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare the a sonne, & thou shalt call his name John, and thou shalt haue ioye and gladnes, and many shal reioyce at his byrth. For he shall be great in the syght of the Lorde, & shall neither drynke wyne ne stronge drynke. And he shall be fylled w the holy ghost, euen in his mothers wombe: and many of the chyldren of Israel shal he turne to their Lorde God. And he shall go before hym in the spyrite and power of Helias, to turne the hertes of the fathers to the chyldren, and the vnbyleuers to the wysdome of the iust men/ to make the people redy to the Lorde.

And Zachary said vnto the aungell: wherby shall I knowe this: seynge I am olde, and my wyfe well stryken in yeres. The aungell answered and sayde vnto hym. I am Gabriel that stande in the syght of God/ and am sent to speke vnto the: and to shewe the these glad tydynges. And beholde, thou shalte be domme, and not be able to speake, tyll the tyme that these be performed, bycause thou byleuedst not my wordes, which shalbe fulfylled in their season.

And the people wayted for Zachary, and marueyled

marueyled that he tarryed in the temple. And when he came out, he coulde not speake vnto them, wherby they perceyued that he had sene some vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned specheles.

C ✠ And it fortuned, as sone as the tyme of his office was out, he departed home in to his owne house. And after those dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceyued, and hyd her selfe. v. monethes, saying: This wise hath god delt with me, in the dayes when he loked on me, to take from me the rebuke that I suffred among men. And in the sixte moneth the aungell Gabriel was sent from God vnto a city of Galile, named Nazareth, to a virgyn spoused to a man whose name was Joseph of ỹ house of Dauid, and the virgins name was Mary. And the aungell went in vnto her, and sayd. Hayle full of grace, the Lorde with the: blessed arte thou amonge women.

When she sawe hym, she was abashed at his sayinge: and cast in her mynde what maner of greetynge that sholde be. And the aungell sayd vnto her: feare not Marye, for thou hast founde grace with God. Lo, thou shalte conceyue in thy wombe, & shalt beare a sonne, and shalt cal his name Jesus. He shal be great, and shal be called the sonne of the highest. And the Lorde God shall gyue vnto him the seate of his father Dauid, and he shall raygne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and of his kyngdome shall be none ende.

D Then sayd Mary vnto the aungell: How shall this be, sythens I knowe not man? And the aungell answered and sayd vnto her: The holy ghost shal come vpon the, and the power of the hyest shall ouershaddowe the. ✶ Therfore also that holy thyng which shal be borne, shall be called the sonne of God. And beholde thy cosyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceyued a son in her age. And this is her syxte moneth, whiche was called bareyn: for with God can nothynge be impossible. And Mary sayde: beholde the handemayde of the Lorde: be it vnto me as thou hast sayde. ✠ And the aungell departed from her.

✠ Mary arose in those dayes, and went in to the mountaynes with haste, in to a citye of Jury, & entred in to the house of Zachary, and greted Elizabeth. And it fortuned as Elizabeth herde the greetyng of Mary, the babe sprange in her bely. And Elizabeth was filled with the holy ghost, and cryed with a loude voyce, and

E sayd: Blessed arte thou amonge women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this vnto me, that the mother of my Lorde sholde come vnto me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy greetynge sounded in myne eares, the babe sprang in my bely for ioye. And blessed art thou that bileuedst, for those thiges shall be performed, which were tolde the from the Lorde. And Mary sayd:

My soule magnifieth the Lorde. And my spyrite reioyseth in God my sauyour. ✠ For he hath loked on ỹ baselnes of his handmayde. Beholde nowe from henceforth shall all kynredes call me blessed. For he that is myghtye hathe done to me greate thynges, and holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that feare hym throughout all generations. He sheweth strengthe with his arme, he scattereth them that are proude in the deuyse of their herte. He putteth downe the myghtye from their seates, and lifteth vp the lowly. He filleth the hongrye with good thynges, and sendeth the ryche emptye. He remembrynge mercye, hath taken his seruaunt Israel.

And it befell the eyght day, they came to circumcyse the chylde, and called his name Zacharye, after the name of his father. And his mother answered and sayd: not so, but he shal be called John. And they said vnto her. There is none of thy kynne that is named with this name. And they made signes to his father how he wolde haue hym called. And he askynge for wrytynge tables wrote sayinge: his name is John. And they merueyled all. And his mouth was opened forthwith, and his tonge, and he spake, prayinge God. And fere came on al them that dwelt nygh vnto them. And all these sayinges were noysed abrode throughout all the hyll countrey of Jury, and all they that herde them, layde them vp in their hertes, sayinge: What maner child shal this be? And the hand of the Lorde was with him.

And his father Zachary was fylled with the holy ghost, and prophecyed, sayinge:

B And there were in the same regyon shepeherdes abydynge in the felde, and watchynge theyr flocke by nyght. And lo, thaungell of the Lorde stode harde by them, and the brightnes of the Lorde shone rounde about them, & they were sore afrayde. But the aungell sayde vnto them. Be not afrayde. For beholde, I bring you tydynges of greate ioye that shall come to all the people, for vnto you is borne this daye in the city of Dauid, a sauiour whiche is Chryste the Lorde, & take this for a sygne: ye shal fynde the childe swadled, and layde in a manger. And sodenly there was with the aungell a multitude of heuenly sowdyers, praysyng God, and sayinge: Glorye to God on hye, and peace in the erth, in men reioysynge.

Gloria in excelsis.

C And it fortuned, as soone as the aungelles were gone awaye frome them in to heauen, ✠ the shepherdes sayd one to an other: let vs go vnto Bethleem, and se this thynge that is happened, whiche the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with haste, and founde Marye and Joseph, and the babe layde in a manger. And when they had sene it they publysshed abrode the sayinge, whiche was tolde them of that childe. And all that herd it, wondred at those thynges, which were tolde them of the shepherdes. But Mary kept al those sayinges, ponderynge them in her herte. And the shepherdes returned glorifyng and prayesynge God for all that they had herde and sene, euen as it was tolde vnto them. ✠

✠ And when the eyght day was come that the childe sholde be circumcised, his name was called Jesus, which was named of the aungell before he was conceyued in the wombe. ✠

✠ And when the tyme of their purifycacion (after the lawe of Moses) was come, they broughte him to Hierusalem, to present him to the Lorde (as it is wrytten in the lawe of the Lorde: euery man childe that firste openeth the wombe, shall be called holy to the Lorde) and to offre (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payre of turtle doues, or two yonge pygyons. And beholde, there was a man in Hierusalẽ, whose name was Symeon. And the same man was iuste and feared God, and longed for the comforte of Israel, and the holy goost was in him. And an answere was gyuen him of the holy ghoste, that he sholde not se deth, before he had sene the Lordes Chryste. And he came in spirite in to the temple.

✠ And his father and mother merueyled at those thynges which were spoken of him. And Symeon blessed them, & said vnto Marye his mother, beholde, this childe shal be the fall and ryssynge of many in Israel, and a sygne whiche shall be spoken agaynste. And moreouer the swerde shall pearce thy soule, that the thoughtes of many hertes may be opened.

F And there was a prophetesse, one Anna the doughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: which was of a great age, and had lyued with an husbande seuen yeres frome her virginitie. And she had ben a wedowe aboute. iiij. score and foure yere / whiche went neuer out of the temple, but serued God with fastynge and prayer night and day. And the same came forth that same houre and prayesed the Lorde, and spake of hym to all that loked for redemption in Hierusalem.

And as sone as they had performed al thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned in to Galile to their owne city Nazareth. And the childe grewe and waxed stronge in spirite, and was fylled with wysdome, and the grace of God was with him. ✠

And his father and mother went to Hierusalem euery yere at the feest of Ester. ✠ And when he was. xij. yere olde, they wente vp to Hierusalem after the custome of the feest. And when they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the childe Jesus abode styll in Hierusalem vnknowing to his father and mother. For they supposed he had ben in the companye, and therfore came a dayes iourney and soughte hym amonge their kynsfolke and acquayntaunce. And when they founde him not, they went backe agayne to Hierusalem, and soughte him. And it fortuned after thre dayes that they founde him in the temple, sytting in the myddes of the doctours, both hearing them and askyng them. And all that herde him maruepled at his vnderstandyng and answeres.

And when they saw him they were astonied. And his mother sayd vnto him: Sonne, why hast thou thus dealte with vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue sought the sorowynge. And he sayd vnto them, howe is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must go about my fathers busines? And they vnderstode not that sayinge that he spake to them. And he wente with with them, and came to Nazareth, and was obedient to them. But his mother kepte all these thinges in her herte. And Jesus increased in wysdome and age, and in fauoure with God and man. ✠

¶ The preachynge, baptysme, and prysonmente of John. The baptysme of Chryste / and a reherfall of the generacion of the fathers.

CAPI. III.

A ✠ N the fyftene yere of the raygne of Tiberius Themperour, Pontius Pilate beyng rular of Jury, and Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galile, and his brother Philip, Tetrarche in Iturea, and in the region of Traconites, & Lysania the Tetrarche of Abyline, when Anna and Cayphas were the hyghe Prestes, the worde of God came vnto Johñ the sonne of Zachary, in the wyldernes. And he came into all the coostes about Jordan, preachynge the Baptysme of repentaunce for the remission of synnes, as it is wrytten in the boke of the sayenges of Esay the Prophete, which sayth. ✠ The voyce of a crear in wyldernes: prepare ye waye of the Lorde, make his pathes straight. Euery valley shalbe fylled, and euery mountayne and hyl, shalbe brought lowe. And crooked thinges shalbe made streight: & the rough wayes shalbe made smooth: and all fleshly shal se the sauour sent of God. ✠

B Then sayd he to the people that were come to be baptised of hym. O generacion of vypers who hath taught you to flee frome the wrath to come? Bryng forthe due frutes of repentaunce, and begyn not to saye in your selues, we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you: God is able of these stones / to reyse vp children vnto Abraham. Now also is the axe layde vnto the rote of the trees: so that euery tre which bringeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

And the people asked hym, sayenge: what shall we then? He answered, and sayde to them: He that hath two cotes, let him parte C with him that hath none: and he that hathe meate, let him do lykewyse.

Then came also publicans to be baptised, & sayde vnto hym: Master, what shall we do? And he sayde vnto them: Oppresse you no man: neyther sklaunder any man: but be content with your wages.

As the people were in a doute, and all men disputed in their hertes of Johñ, whether he were very Christ: Johñ answered and sayd to them all: I baptyse you with water, but a stronger then I cometh after me, whose shoe latcher I am not worthy to vnlouse: he will baptyse you with the holy goooste, and with fyre: who hath his fanne in his hande, & will purge his flore, and will gather the corne into his barne: but the chaffe will he burne with fyre vnquencheable. And many other thynges in his exhortation, preached he vnto the people.

Then Herode the Tetrarch (when he was D Matth.iii.a Mar.i.b. rebuked of hym for Herodias his brother Philippes wyfe, and for all the cuyls whiche Herode had done) put this to aboue all other cuyls, and put Johñ in pryson.

✠ And it befelle as all the people receyued Matth.iii.a. Marke.i.b baptyme (and when Jesus was baptysed, & dyd praye) the heauen was opened, and the holy ghost came downe in a bodely shape lyke a doue vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen sayenge: Thou arte my dere sonne, in the do I delyte.

IEsus then full of the holy ghoste returned from Jordan, and was caryed of the spyrite into wyldernesse, and was. xl. dayes tempted of the deuyl. And in those dayes ate he nothynge. And when they were ended, he afterwarde hongred. And the deuyll sayde vnto hym: Yf thou be the sonne of God, cõmaunde this stone that it be breed. And Jesus answered hym, sayenge: ✠ It is wrytten, man shall not lyue by breed onely, but by euery worde of God. Deut.viii. a.

And the deuyll toke him into an hyghe mountayne, and shewed hym all the kyngdome of the worlde euen in the twynklynge of an eye. And the deuyll sayde vnto hym: all this power will I gyue the, and the glory of theym: for they be delyuered to me, and to who so euer I wil, I gyue them. If thou therefore wilt worshyp me, they shalbe all thyne. Jesus answered him and sayde: Hence fro me Satã. For it is wrytten: ✠ Thou shalt honoure the Lorde thy God and him onely serue. Deut.vi.e

And he caryed hym to Jerusalem, and set hym on a pynacle of the temple, and sayd vnto hym: Yf thou be the sonne of God, caste thy selfe downe from hens. ✠ And Jesus returned by the power of the spyrite into Galile, and there wente a fame of hym thorow out all the region rounde about. And he taught in their Synagoges, and was commended of all men.

Math.xiii.b. ✠ And he came to Nazareth where he was nourysed, and as his custome was, went into the Synagoge on the Sabboth dayes, & stode vp for to reede. And there was delyuered vnto hym the boke of the Prophete Esai. And whe he hadde opened the boke, he founde the place, where it was wrytten. ✠ The spyrite of the Lorde vpon me, because he hathe annoynted me: to preache the Gospell to the poore, he hath sent me: and to heale the broken harted: to preache delyueraunce to the captiue, and syght to the blynde, and to delyuer the bruised in forgyuenes, and preache the acceptable yere of the Lorde. Marke.vi. Esaie.lxi.a

And he closed the boke, and gaue it agayne to the minister, and sate downe. And the eyes of all that were in the Synagoge, were fastened on hym. And he began to saye vnto them. This day is this scripture fulfilled in your eares. And all bare hym wytnesse, and wondred at the gracious wordes whiche proceded oute of his mouthe. ✠ and sayde: Is not this Josephs sonne? D

And he sayde vnto theym: In any wyse ye wyll saye vnto me this parable. Phisicion, heale thy selfe. ✠ Whatsoeuer we haue herde done in Capernaum, do the same here lykwyse in thyne owne countrey. And he sayde, verely I saye vnto you: No Prophet is receyued in his owne countrey.

Arte thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the, what thou arte, euen the holy of God. And Jesus rebuked him sayenge: Be styll and come out of hym. And the deuell threwe hym in the myddes of them and came out of hym, and hurt hym not. And feare came on them all, & they talked amonge them selues, sayenge: What maner a thynge is this? ✠ ✠ And he arose vp, and came out of the Synagoge, and entred into Simons house. And Simons mother in law was taken with a great ague, and they made intercessiõ to hym for her. And he stode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer: and it left her. And she forthwith arose and ministred vnto them.

When the sonne was downe, all they that had sycke persons taken with dyuers diseases brought them vnto hym: and he layde his hãdes on euery one of them, and healed them. ✠ And deuels also came oute of many of them, cryenge & sayenge: thou arte Christ the sonne of God. And he rebuked them, and suffered them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Christ.

As sone as it was daye, he departed & went awaye into a wylsome place, and the people sought hym and came to hym, and kepte hym that he shulde not departe from them. And he sayde vnto them. I muste to other cyties also preache the kyngdome of God: ỹ for therfore am I sente. And he preached in the Synagoges of Galile.

¶ Christe preacheth in the shyppe. The disciples forsake all and folowe hym. He cleanseth the leper, healeth the man of the palsey, calleth Mathew the customer, and eateth with open synners.

And he entred into one of the shyppes, whiche pertayned to Simon, and prayed him, that he wold thrust out a lytell from the lande. And he sate downe and taught the people oute of the shyp. When he had left speaking, he sayd vnto Simõ: launche out into the depe, and let syp your nettes to make a draught. And Simon aunswered and sayde to hym: Master, we haue labored all nyght, and haue taken nothynge: Neuertheles at thy word I will lose forth the net. And when they had so done, they inclosed a greate multitude of fysshes. And their net brake: but they made signes to their felowes which were in the other shyp, that they shuld come & helpe them. And they came: and filled both ỹ shyppes that they soncke agayne. Luce.v.a

When Simon Peter sawe that, he fell downe at Jesus knees, sayenge: Lorde, go from me, for I am a synfull man. For he was vtterly astonyed and all that were with him, at the draught of fysshe whiche they toke: and so was also James and Johñ, the sonnes of Zebede, whiche were partyners with Simõ. And he put forthe a symilitude vnto them: Can the blynde, leade the blynde? Doo they not bothe then fall into the dyche? The disciple is not aboue his master. Euery man shall be perfecte, euen as his master is. Why seyste thou thou a moote in thy brothers eye, and consyderest not the beame þ is in thyne owne eye? Eyther howe canst thou saye to thy brother: Brother, let me pull out the moote that is in thyn eye: when thou perceyuest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye? Dissembler, caste out the beame out of thyne owne eye first, and then shalte thou se perfectely, to pull oute the mote of thy brothers eye. ✠

5 ✻ It is not a good tree that bringeth forth euyll frute: neyther is that an euyll tree, that bringeth forth good frute. For euery tree is knowen by his frute. Neyther of thornes gather men fygges, nor of bushes gather they grapes. A good man out of the good treasure of his herte, bryngeth forth good. And an euil man out of the euyll treasure of his hert, bringeth forth euyll. For of the aboundance of the hert, his mouth speaketh.

Why call ye Master, Master: and do not as I byd you? Whosoeuer cometh to me, and heareth my sayenges, and doeth the same, I wyll shewe you, to whome he is lyke. He is lyke a man whiche buylte an housse, and dyged depe, and layd the foundacion on a rocke. When the waters arose, the floude bet vpon that house, and coulde not moue it. For it was grounded vpon a rocke. But he that heareth and doeth not, is lyke a man that without foundacion buylt an house vpon the earthe / against whiche the floude dyd beate: and it fell by and by. And the fall of that house was greate.

The healeth the Captaynes seruaunt: rayseth vp the wydowes sonne, enformeth þ disciples of John, commendeth John, and reproueth the Jewes for theyr vnfaythfulnes. He eateth with the Pharisee. The woman washeth his fete.

CAPI. VII.

WHen he had ended al his sayinges in the audience of the people, he entred into Capernaum. And a certayne ✻ Centurions seruaunt was sycke & redy to dye, whiche was deare to hym. And when he herde of Jesu, he sent vnto him the elders of the Jewes beseechinge hym that he wolde come and heale his seruaunt. And they came to Jesus and besought him busyly, sayenge: He is worthy þ thou shouldeste do this for him. For he loueth our nacyon, and hath buylt vs a Synagoge. So Jesus went with them.

And when he was not farre from the house the Centurion sent frendes to hym: sayenge vnto hym. ✻ Lorde trouble not thy selfe: for I am not worthy that thou shuldest enter vnder my rofte. Wherfore I thought not my selfe worthy to come vnto the: but saye the worde and my seruaunt shalbe hole. For I also am a man vnder power, and haue vnder me souldiours, and I saye vnto one: go, and he goeth. And to an other, come: and he commeth. And to my seruaunt, do this: and he weth it. Whe Jesus herde this, he merueyled at hym, and turned hym about, and sayde to the people þ folowed hym: I saye vnto you, I haue not founde so greate fayth, no, not in Israel. And they that were sente, turned backe home agayne, and founde the seruaunte that was sicke, hole.

✠ And it befell after that, that he went into a cytie called Naim, and many of his disciples went with him, and moch people. Whe he approched to the gate of the cytie: beholde there was a dead man caryed out, which was thonely begotten sonne of his mother, and the was a wydwe, and moche people of the cytie was with her. Whom when the Lorde saw, he had compassion on her, and sayde vnto her: wepe not. And he went and touched the beer, & they that bare hym, stode styll. And he sayde: Yonge man, I saye vnto the, aryse. And the dead sate vp, and began to speake. ✻ And he deliuered hym to his mother. And there came a feare on them all. And they glorified God, sayeng: a great Prophete is rysen amonge vs and God hath vysited his people. ✠ ✠ And this rumor of him went forth throughout all Jurie, and thorow out all the regions whiche lye rounde about.

And the disciples of Johñ shewed hym of al these thynges. And Johñ called vnto him two of his disciples, and sente them to Jesus, sayenge: Arte thou he that shulde come: or shall we loke for an other? When the men were come vnto hym, they sayde: Johñ Baptiste sent vs vnto the, sayenge: Arte thou he, that shulde come: or shall we wayte for an other? And at that same howre, he cured many of their dyseases and plages, and of euyll spyrites, and vnto many that were blynde, he gaue syght. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Go your wayes and shew Johñ what thinges ye haue sene & herde, how the blynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clensed, þ deafe heare, the dead aryse, to the poore is the glad tydinges preached, and happye is he, that is not offended by me.

When the messengers of Johñ were departed, he beganne to speake vnto the people, of Johñ. What went ye out to the wyldernesse to see? a reede shaken with the wynde? But what wente ye oute to se? A man clothed in softe rayment? Beholde, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and lyue delycately, are in kynges courtes. But what went ye forthe to se? A Prophete? Yea, I saye to you, and more then a Prophete. This is he, of whome it is wrytten: Beholde, I sende my messenger ✻ before thy face, to prepare thy waye before the. For I saye vnto you: a greater Prophete then Johñ, amonge wemens chyldren is there none. Neuertheles, He that is lesse in the kyngedome of God, is greatter then he. ✠

And all the people that herde, and the publicans, iustified God, and were baptised with the baptysme of Johñ. But the Pharises and lerned men in the lawe, despysed the counsell of God against them selues, and were not baptysed of hym.

So the Lorde sayd: Whervnto shall I lyken the men of this generacion, and to what are they lyke? They are lyke vnto children syttinge in the market place, and cryenge one to an other, and sayeng: We haue ypped vnto you, and ye haue not daunsed: We haue mourned to you, and ye haue not wepte. For Foꝛ Johñ Baptiſt came, neyther eatyng bꝛed, ne dyynkynge wyne, and ye saye: he hathe a dyuell. The sonne of man came eatynge and dyynkynge, and ye saye: Behold, a man whiche is a glotton, & a dyynker of wyne, a frend of publicans and synners. And wyſdome is iuſtifyed of all her childꝛen.

F ✣ One of the Phariſes deſyꝛed hym that he wolde eate with hym. And he went into the Phariſes houſſe, and sate downe to meate. And beholde, a woman in that cytie, whiche was a ſynner, as sone as she knewe that Jeſus sate at meate in the Phariſes houſſe, she bꝛought an Alabaſter boxe of oyntment, and she stode at his fete behynde hym, weppynge, & began to waſſhe his fete with teares, and dyd wype them with the heares of her heed, and kyſſed his fecte, and annoynted theym with oyntement.

When the Pharile whiche bade hym, sawe that, he spake with in hym ſelfe, sayenge: If this man were a Pꝛophete, he wolde surely haue knowen who and what maner woman this is whiche toucheth hym, foꝛ she is a ſynfull woman. And Jeſus aunſwered and sayde vnto hym: Simon, I haue some what to say vnto the. And he sayd: maſter, saye on. There was a certayne creditoure whiche hadde two detters, the one ought fyue hundꝛed pence, & the other fyftye. When they hadde nothinge to pape, he foꝛgaue theym bothe. Whiche of them tell me, shall loue him moſt? Simon answered, and sayde: I suppoſe, that he to whom he foꝛgaue moſt. Thē he sayd vnto him: Thou haſt ꝛightly iudged.

G And he turned to the woman, and sayd vnto Simon: Seeſt thou this woman? I entred in to thy houſe, and thou gaueſt me no water to my fete: but this hathe waſſhed my fete with teares, and wyped theym with the heeres of her heed. Thou gaueſt me no kyſſe: but this, ſythens the tyme I came in, hathe not ceaſed to kyſſe my fete. Myne heed with oyle thou dyꝺeſt not annoynte: but this woman hathe annointed my fete with oyntment. Wheꝛfoꝛe I saye vnto the: Many synnes are foꝛgyuen her: Becauſe she loued mothe. To whome leſſe is foꝛgyuen, the same weth leſſe loue. And he sayde vnto her, thy synnes are foꝛgyuen thē. And they that sate at meate with hym, began to saye with in theym ſelues: Who is this, whiche foꝛgyueth synnes alſo? And he sayde to the woman: Thy faythe hathe ſaued the: Go in peax. ✣

¶ Chꝛyſte with his Apoſtles goeth fꝛome towne to towne and pꝛeacheth, the parable of the ſede, who is his mother and his bꝛother, ſtylleth the ſee, delyuereth the poſſeſſed, and dꝛyueth the deuylles in to the herde of ſwyne, and helpeth the ſycke woman, and Jairus daughter.

CAPI. VIII.

And it befell after that, that he him ſelf went thꝛoughe out cyties and townes, pꝛeachynge, and ſhewynge the kyngdome of God, and the twelue with hym. And also certayne wemen, whiche were healed of cupll ſpꝛetes, & ſickeneſſes. Mary called Magdaleyn, out of whome went ſeuen deuyls, and Joanna the wyfe of Chuſa Herodes ſtewarde and Suſanna, and many other: which mynſtred vnto hym of their ſubſtaunce.

✣ ✶ When moch people were gathered together, and were come to hym out of al cyties he ſpake by a parable. A ſower went oute to ſowe his ſeede: and as he ſowed, some fell by the waye ſyde, and it was troden downe, and foules of the ayꝛe deuoured it vp. And some fell on the stone, & as sone as it was ſpꝛonge vp, it wyddꝛed awaye, becauſe it lacked moyſtenesſe. And some fell amonge thoꝛnes, and the thoꝛnes ſpꝛange vp with it, & choked it. And some fell on good gꝛounde, and ſpꝛange vp, & bare fꝛute, an hundꝛed folde. And as he sayde theſe thinges, he cryed: He that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

And his diſciples aſked hym, sayenge: what maner ſymilitude is this? And he sayd: Vnto you it is gyuen to knowe the myſteries of the kyngdome of God: but to other in ſimilitudes: that when they ſe they ſhoulde not ſe, and when they heare / they ſhoulde not vnderſtande.

The parable is this. The ſede is the woꝛde of God. Thoſe that are beſyde the waye, are they that heare, and afteꝛwarde commeth the dyuell, and taketh awaye the woꝛde oute of their hertes, leaſt they ſhoulde beleue, and be ſaued. They on the ſtonnes, are they whiche when they heare, receyue the woꝛde with ioye And theſe haue no rotes, whiche foꝛ a whyle beleue, and in tyme of temptation go awaye. Nowe, that whiche fell amonge thoꝛnes, are they whiche heare, and as they go are choked with cares, and with ryches, and voluptꝛeous lyuynge, and bꝛynge foꝛthe no fꝛute. That in the good gꝛounde, are they whiche with a good and pure herte, heare the woꝛde, & kepe it, and bꝛynge foꝛth fꝛute with pacience. ✣

C ✶ No man lyghteth a candell, and couereth it vnder a veſſell, neyther putteth it vnder a bedde, but ſetteth it on a candelſticke, that they that enter in, maye ſe the lyght. Foꝛ nothinge is in ſecꝛet, that ſhall not come abꝛode: Neyther any thynge hyd, that ſhall not be knowen, and come to lyght. Take hede theꝛfoꝛe, howe ye heare. Foꝛ who ſoeuer hath, to hym ſhalbe gyuen: And who ſo euer hath not, euen that whiche he ſuppoſed that he hathe, ſhalbe taken fꝛome hym.

Then came to him his mother and his bꝛethꝛen, and couldе not come at him foꝛ pꝛeaſe. And they tolde hym sayenge: Thy mother & thy bꝛethꝛen ſtande without, and wold ſe the. He aunſwered and sayde vnto theym: my mother and my bꝛethꝛē are theſe which heare the woꝛde of God, and do it.

the lake. And they launched foꝛthe. And as they sayled, he fell a ſlepe, and there aꝛose a ſtoꝛme of wynde in the lake, and they were fylled with water, and were in ieopardy. So they wente to him, and awoke him, sayenge: Maſter, Maſter, we are loſt. Then he aꝛose and rebuked the wynde, and the tempeſte of water, and they ceaſed, and it waxed calme. And he sayde vnto them: where is youꝛ faith? But they feaꝛynge, wondꝛed, sayenge one to an other: What perſon is this? Foꝛ he commaundeth bothe the wyndes and water, and they obeye hym? ✣ And they sayled vnto the region of the Gadꝛenites, whiche is ouer against Galile.

And as he went out of the shyppe to lande, there met him a certayne man out of the citie, which had a dyuell longe tyme, and ware no clothes, neyther abode in any houſe: but amonge graues.

When he sawe Jeſus, he cryed, and fell wbne before hym, & with a loude voyce sayd: What haue I a do with the, Jeſu the ſonne of the hyghell God? I beſeche the, toꝛment me not. Foꝛ he commaunded the foule ſpꝛete to come oute of the man. Foꝛ ofte tymes he caught hym, and he was bounde with chaynes, and kept with fetters: and he bꝛake the bondes, and was caryed of the fende, into wyldeꝛneſſe.

E So Jeſus aſked him sayenge: What is thy name? And he sayde: ✶ Legion, becauſe many deuels were entred into him. And they beſoughte him, that he wolde not commaunde them to go out into the depe. And there was there by an heꝛde of many ſwyne, fedynge on an hyll, and they beſought him, that he wold ſuffre them to enter into them. And he ſuffred them. Then went the deuyls out of the man, and entred into the ſwyne: And the heeꝛd ruſhed in hedlonge into the lake, and were choked. When the heeꝛdmen sawe what was wne, they fled, and tolde it in the cytie, and in the villages.

Now, they came out to ſe what was wne: and came to Jeſus, and founde the man, out of whome the deuyls were departed, ſyttinge at the fete of Jeſus, clothed and in his ryghte mynde, and they were afꝛayed. They also whiche sawe it tolde them howe he that was poſſeſſed of the deuyll, was healed. And all ꝑ multitude of the Gadarenes, beſoughte him that he wolde departe fꝛome them: foꝛ they were taken with gꝛeat feare. But he takinge shyp returned. ✶ Then the man out of whom the deuyls were departed, beſought him to be with him. But Jeſus ſent him awaye, sayeng Retourne into thy houſe, and ſhewe all that euer God hathe wne to the. And he went his waye, and pꝛeached thoꝛowe oute all the cytye, what thinges Jeſus had wne vnto him.

It happened when Jeſus was come agayn that the people receyued him. Foꝛ they all wayted foꝛ him: ✶ And beholde, there came a man named Jairus (and he was a tulat of the Synagoge) and he fell wbne at Jeſus fete, and beſought him to entre into his houſe foꝛ he hadde one onely doughter, vpon a. xij. yeꝛe of age, and she laye a dyenge. Nowe as he went the people thꝛonged him.

And a woman haupnge an yſſue of bloude twelue yeꝛes (whiche hadde ſpent all her ſubſtaunce amonge Phyſicions, neyther couldе be healed of any) came behynde hym, and touched the hem of his garmente, and anone her iſſue of bloude ſtaunched. And Jeſus sayde: Who is it that touched me? When euery mā denyed, Peter and they that were with him, sayde: Maſter, the people thꝛuſt the and bexe the: and sayeſte thou who touched me? And Jeſus sayde: Some body hath touched me. Foꝛ I peꝛceyue vertue to haue gone out of me When the womā sawe that she was not hyd she came tꝛembynge, and fell at his fete, and tolde hym beꝛoxe all the people foꝛ what cauſe she had touched him, and howe she was healed immediatly. And he sayd vnto her: Daughter be of good comfoxte. ✶ Thy faith hathe made the hole, go in peax. Matth.ix.d Mar.v.d.

G Whyle he yet spake, there came one fꝛome the rular of the Synagogis houſe which sayd to him: thy doughter is deed, dyſeaſe not the maſter. When Jeſus herde that, He aunſwered the father, sayenge: ✶ Feare not, beleue onely, and she ſhall be made hole. And when he came to the houſe, he ſuffred no man to go in with him, ſaue Peter, James and Johñ, & the father and mother of the mayde. Nowe, euery perſon wept, and soꝛowed foꝛ her. And he sayde: Wepe not: foꝛ she is not deed, but ſlepeth. And they lowghe him to ſcoꝛne, knowynge that she deed. But he dꝛyuynge them all oute, caught her by the hande: and cryed, sayenge: Mayde aryſe. And her ſpꝛete came agayne, and she aꝛose foꝛthwith. And he commaunded to gyue her meate. And the father, and the mother of her, were aſtonyed. But he warned them, that they ſhoulde tell no man what was done. Matth.ix.d Marcke. v.d

¶ He ſendeth out the. xii. Apoſtles to pꝛeache. He feedeth fyue thouſande with fyue loaues and two fyſhes, the diſciples cōfeſſe him to be the ſonne of God, he tranſlygureth him ſelfe. Teacheth his diſciples to be lowly. They deſyꝛe vengeaunce, but he ꝛebꝛoueth them.

CAPI. IX.

A Then called he the twelue togither, & gaue them power and auctoꝛitie ouer al deuyls, and to heale dyſeaſes. And he ſent them to pꝛeache the kyngdome of God, & to cure the ſycke. And he sayd to them: Take nothinge towardes youꝛe iourney, neyther ſtaffe, noꝛ ſcꝛippe, neyther bꝛeed, neyther money, neyther haue ye two cootes. And whatſo euer houſe ye enter into, there abyde, and thence departe. And who ſo euer wyll not receyue you, when ye go out of that cytie, ſhake of euen the duſt fꝛome youꝛ fete, foꝛ wytneſſe against them. But they departinge went thoꝛow the townes, pꝛeachinge the goſpell, and healynge euery wheare. ✣ Matth.x.a Marke.vi.a

Nowe Herode the Tetrarche heaꝛde of all that was done by hym, and doubted, because it was sayde of some, that Johñ was rysen a-gayne frome deathe: and of some, that Hely had appeared: and of some, that one of the olde Prophetes was rysen agayne. And He-rode sayth: Johñ haue I beheaded: who is this of whome I heare such thinges? And he desyred to se hym.

B Math.xiiii.b Marcke.vi.b Johñ.vi.a And the Apostles retourned: and told him what they had wone. ✻ And he toke them and went a syde into a solytary place, nygh to a cytie called Bethsaida. Whiche the people knowynge, folowed him. And he receyued them, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, and healed them that had nede to be healed. But the daye began to weare awaye, then came the twelue, and sayde vnto hym: Sende the people awaye, that they maye go in to the townes and villages rounde about, to some Inne, and get meate, for we are here in a place of wildernesse. He sayde vnto theym: Gyue ye them to eate. And they sayde. We haue no mo but fyue loaues and two fisches, oneles we shulde go, and bye meat for all this people. Nowe they were aboute fyue thou-sande men. And he sayde to his disciples: Make them syt downe by fyftyes in a company. And they dyd so, and made them all syt downe. And he toke the fyue loaues, and the two fis-ches, and loked vp to heauen, and blessed the and brake, and gaue to the disciples, to set before the people. And they ate, and were all fylled. And there was taken vp of the frag-
Math.xvi.b Marke.viii.c mentes that they leaued, twelue baskets ful.

✻ And it fortuned as he was alone prayng
L his disciples were with him, and he asked the sayenge: Who saye the people that I am? They aunswered, and sayde: Johñ Baptiste: Some saye Hely. And some saye, one of the olde Prophetes is rysen agayne. He sayd vn-to them, But who saye ye that I am? Peter
M aunswered and sayde: Thou art the Christ of God. And he warned and commaunded them that they shulde tell this to no man, sayenge: The sonne of man must suffre many thynges, and be reproued of the elders, and of the hygh preestes and scribes, and be slayne, and the.iij. daye, ryse agayne.

And he sayde to them all, yf any man wyll come after me, let him denye hym selfe, and and take vp his crosse dayely, and folowe me. Who so euer will saue his lyfe, shall lose it. And who so euer shall lose his lyfe for my sake the same shall saue it. For what auauntageth it a man to wynne the hole worlde, yf he lose him selfe, or runne in dommage of him selfe? For who so euer is ashamed of me, and of my wordes, of hym shall the sonne of man be as-hamed, when he commeth in his glorye, and in the glorye of his father, and of the holye Aungels. And I tell you of a trouthe. There be some of them that stande here, which shall not taste of deathe, tyll they se the kyngdome of God.

And it folowed aboute an. viij. dayes af-ter these sayenges, he toke Peter, James, and Johñ, and went vp into a mountayne to praye. And as he prayed, the hue of his coun-tenaunce was altered, and his garment was whyte and shoon. And behold, two men talked with hym, whiche were Moses and He-
D ly, who sene in glorye shewed his departinge, whiche he shoulde ende at Jerusalem. Peter and they that were with hym, were heuye with slepe. And when they awoke, they sawe his glorye, and the two men standinge with hym.

And it chaunced, as they departed frome hym, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: Master, it is good for vs to be here, and let vs make three tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Hely, not knowynge what he sayde. Whyle he thus spake, there came a cloude, and shadowed theym, and they feared when they were come vnder the cloude. And there came a voyce oute of the cloude, sayeng: This is my deare sonne / heare hym. And as
M sone as the voyce was past, Jesus was found
E alone. And they kept it close: and tolde no mã in those dayes, any of those thinges, whyche they had sene.

And it chaunsed on the nexte daye, as they came downe frome the hyll, moche people met hym. And beholde, a man oute of the multi-tude cryed oute, sayenge: Master, I beseche the behold my sonne, for he is all that I haue, And se, a spyrite taketh him, and sodenly he cryeth, and he teareth him that he foometh a-gayne, and with moche payne departeth from hym, when he hath rent hym, and I besought thy disciples to caste hym out, and they could not. Jesus aunswered and sayde. O faythles
F generacion, and croked: howe longe shall I be with you, and shall suffre you? Bynge thy sonne hyther. As he yet was commynge, the deuyll rent him and tare hym. And Jesus re-buked the vncleane spyrite, and healed the child and rendred hym to his father. So they were all amased at the myghty worke of God.

Whyle they wondred euery one at al thin-ges whiche he dyd, he sayde vnto his disciples Let these wordes synke downe into your ea-res. The tyme shall come, when the sonne of man, shalbe delyuered into the handes of mẽ. But they wiste not what that worde mente, and it was hyd frome them, that they vnder-stode it not. And they feared to aske hym of ỹ sayenge.

Mat.xviii.a Marcke.ix.c Luke.ix.b ✻ Then there entred a debate amonge thẽ who shoulde be greattest. When Jesus per-
S ceyued the thoughtes of their hartes, he toke a childe, and set hym harde by hym, and sayd vnto them.

Who so euer receyueth this childe in my
N name, receyueth me. And who so euer recey-ueth me, receyueth hym that sent me. For he that is least amonge you all, that same shall be greate.

Johñ aunswered, and sayde: Master / we sawe one castinge oute deuyles in thy name, and we forbade hym, because he foloweth not with vs. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynste vs, is with vs.

And it folowed when the dayes were come of his assumption, he set his face to go to Je-rusalem, and sent messengers before hym.

And

And they wente and entred into a cytie of the Samaritans to make redy for him. And they receyued hym not, because his face was as thoughe he wold go to Jerusalem. When his disciples, James and Johñ, sawe that, they sayde. Lorde, wilt thou that we commaunde that fyre come downe frome heauen, and con-
L.ii.b sume them, as Hely dyd? Jesus turned about and rebuked theym, sayenge: Ye wote not of G what spyrite ye are. The sonne of man is not come to destroye mennes sowles, but to saue them. And they went to an other towne.

✻ And it chaunsed as he went in the waye, a certayne man sayde vnto hym: I wil folow
G the, whether so euer thou go. Jesus sayde to hym: Foxes haue holes, & byrdes of the ayer haue nestes: but the sonne of man hathe not where on to laye his heed.

And he sayde vnto an other: folowe me. But he sayde: Lorde, suffre me first to go bu-ry my father. Jesus sayde to hym. Let ỹ deed bury their deed: go thou and preache ỹ kyng-dome of God.

And an other sayde: I wyll folow the Lord: but let me first go byd them farewell, whiche are at home at my house. Jesus sayd vnto him No man that putteth his hande to the plowe and loketh backe, is mete to the kyngedome of God. ✠

¶ He sendeth the seuentye before him to preache, prayeth his heauenly father, answereth the Scribe that tempted him, sheweth who is a mans neyghbourc, Martha receyueth the Lorde, Magdalene is feruent in hearynge his worde.

CAPI. X.

A ✠ After these, the Lorde appoynted o-
1 ther seuenty also, and sent theym two and two before hym into euery cytie & place, whyther he hym selfe shulde come. And sayde vnto them, the haruest is great, but the labozers are fewe. Praye therfore the Lorde of the haruest, to sende forth labozers into his haruest. Go your wayes: beholde, I send you forthe as lambes amonge wolues. Go not frome house to house: & into whatsoeuer cytie ye entre, yf they receyue you, eate that is set before you, and heale the sicke that are there, and saye vnto them: the kyngdom of God, is approched vpon you. ✻ But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, yf they receyue you not, go your wayes out into the stretes of the same and saye: euen the dust, which cleaueth to vs of your cytie, we wype of againste you: Yet knowe this, that the kyngdome of God was come nyghe vpon you. I saye to you: it shalbe easyer in that daye for Zodome, then for that cytie.

D that heareth you, heareth me: and he that dis-pyseth you, despyseth me: and he that despy-seth me, despyseth him that sent me.

And the seuenty turned agayne with ioye, sayenge: Lorde, the very dyuels are subdued to vs thorow thy name. He sayde vnto them: I sawe Satan, as lightenyng fall downe frõ heuen. Beholde, I gyue you power to treade on serpentes & scorpions, and ouer all power of the enemy, and nothyng shal hurt you. Ne-uertheles, in this reioyce not that the spyrites are subiecte to you / but reioyse, bicause youre names are wryten in the heuens.

That same tyme reioysed Jesus in the spyrite, and said, I confesse vnto the father: ✻ Lord of D heuen and erth, that thou hast hyd these from Math.xi.d the wyse & prudent, and hast opened them to the babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. All are gyuen me of my father. And no man knoweth who the son is, but the father / and who the father is, saue the sonne / and he to whom the sonne wyll shewe hym.

And turnyng to his disciples, sayd secretly. ✠ Happy are the eyes which se that ye se. For I tell you, that many prophetes and kynges haue desyred to se that ye se, and haue not sene / and to heare that ye heare, and haue not herde.

And beholde a certeyn lawyer stode vp, and tempted him, sayinge: ✻ Master, what shall I
E do, to inherite eternal life? He said vnto him. Math.xxii.b. What is wrytten in the lawe? Howe redest thou? And he answered, & sayd: ✻ Thou shalt Deut.vi.b loue thy Lorde God w all thy hert, and with all thy soule, and with all thy strengthe, and with all thy mynde, and thy neighbour as thy selfe. And he sayde vnto him: Thou hast an-swered ryght. This do, and thou shalte lyue. He wyllynge to iustifye him selfe, sayde vnto Jesus: Who is my neyghbour?

Jesus answered, and said: A certayne man came downe frome Hierusalem to Hierico, and fell in to the handes of theues, which rob-bed him of his rayment, and wounded hym / and departed, leuynge him halfe deed. And by chaunce there came a certeyn preest that same way, and when he saw hym, he passed by: And lykewyse a Leuyte, when he was come nye to F the place, wente and loked on him, and passed by. Then a certayne Samaritane, as he tour-neyed, came nye vnto him, and when he sawe him, he had compassion on him, and went to him and bounde vp his woundes, and poured in oyle & wyne, & put hym on his owne beest, and brought him to a cõmon Inne, and made prouision for him. And on the morowe when he departed, he toke out two pence and gaue them to the host, & said vnto him. Take cure of him, and what so euer thou spendest more when I come agayne, I wyll recompence the. Which nowe of these thre thinkest thou was neyghboure vnto him that fell into the theues handes? And he sayd: he that shewed mercye on him. Then sayde Jesus vnto him: Go and do thou lykewyse. ℣

✠ It befell as they went, he entred in to a

This woman had a sister called Mary, whiche sate at Jesus fete, and herde his preaching So Martha was combred about moche seruice, and stode and sayde: master, doest thou not care, that my sister hathe left me to minister alone? Byd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her
C Martha, Martha, thou carest, and art troubled about many thinges: but one thinge is nedefull. Mary hathe chosen her that good parte, whiche shall not be taken away frome her. ℣

The teacheth his disciples to praye. Rebuketh the blasphemous Pharises. They requyre sygnes. He eateth with the Pharisee.

CAPI. XI.

A And it fortuned as he was prayenge in a certayne place: when he ceased, one of his disciples sayde vnto him Master, teache vs to praye, as Johā taught his disciples. And he sayde vnto them: when ye praye, Patet noster saye: O our father whiche arte in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy will be done in earth, as in heauen. Our dayly bred geue vs dayly. And forgeue vs our synnes: For also we forgeue euery man that trespaseth vs. And leade vs not into temptation. But deliuer vs from euyll.

And he sayde vnto theym: ✠ yf any of you shulde haue a frende, and shulde go to him at mydnyght, and saye vnto him: frende, lende me three loues, for a frende of myne is come out of the waye to me, and I haue nothinge to set before him: and he within shoulde answere & saye, trouble me not, the dore is now shut, and my seruauntes are with me in the chamber, I can not ryse and geue them to ℣. I saye vnto you, thoughe he wolde not aryse and geue hym, because he is his frende: yet because of his vnshamefastnes he wold ryse, & geue him as many as he neded. And I saye vnto you: ✠ aske, & it shalbe gyuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde. Knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For euery one that asketh, receyueth: and who seketh fyndeth: and to him that knocketh, shal it be opened. Yf the sonne shall aske bred of any of you that is a father: will he geue him a stone? Or yf he aske fysshe, will he for a fysshe geue hym a serpent? Or yf he aske an egge: will he offer him a scorpion? Yf ye then beynge euyll, can geue good gyftes vnto your children, how moche more shal the father of heauen geue an holy spyrite to them, that aske him? ℣

✠ And he was castinge out a deuyll, whiche was domme. And it folowed when the deuell was gone out, the domme spake, and the people wondred. But some of them sayde he casteth out deuels by the power of Belzebub the chefe of the deuels. And other temted him, seekynge of hym a sygne frome heauen. But he knowinge their thoughtes, sayde vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuyded in it selfe is made wildernesse: and one house shall fall vpon an other. So yf Satan be deuyded in him selfe: how shall his kyngdome endure? Because ye say I cast out deuyls by the power of Belzebub. If I, by the power of Belzebub cast out deuels: by whome do youre children cast theym oute? Therfore shall they be youre iudges. But yf I, with the finger of God cast out deuels, assuredly the kyngdom of God is come vpon you.

When a stronge man armed watcheth his house: that he possesseth is in peace. But when a stronger then he commeth vpon him, and ouercommeth him: he taketh frome him his harnes wherein he trusted, and deuydeth his spoyles. He that is not with me, is against me. And he that gathereth not with me, scatereth.

When the vnclene spyrite is gone out of the D man, he walketh throughe waterlesse places, seking rest. And when he fyndeth none, he sayth: I will returne vnto my house, whence I came. And when he commeth, he fyndeth it swept and garnyshed. Then goeth he and taketh to him seuen other spyrites worse then him selfe: and they enter in, and dwell there. And so the extremes of that man, be worse then the begynnynges.

And it happened as he spake these thinges, a certayne woman of the company lyft vp her voyce, and sayde vnto him: Happy is the wombe that bare the, and the breastes whiche gaue the sucke. But he sayde: Nay, happy are they that heare the worde of God, and kepe it. ℣

When the people were gathered thicke together: he began to saye: This is an euyl nacion: they seke a sygne, and there shal no sygne be gyuen them, but the sygne of Jonas ℣ Prophet. For as Jonas was a sygne to the Ninuites, so shall the sonne of man be to this nacion. ✠ The quene of the southe shall ryse at the iudgement, with the men of this generacion, and condempne them: for she came from the ende of the worlde, to heare the wysdome of Salomon. And beholde, a greater then Salomon is here. The men of Ninue shall arise in the iudgement with this generacion: and shall condemne them: for they repented at the preachinge of Jonas. And beholde, a greater then Jonas is here.

✠ ✠ No man lyghteth a candell, and putteth it in an hyd place, ne vnder a bushel: but on a candelstycke, that they that come in may se the lyght. The light of thy body is the eye. Therfore when thyne eye is syngle: then is al thy body full of lighte. That yf thyne eye be euyll: then shall all thy body be full of darcknesse. Take hede therfore that the lyght whiche is in the, be not darckenesse. For yf all thy body shall be lighte, hauinge no parte darcke: then shall all be full of lyght, euen as when a candell doeth lyghte the with his bryghtnesse. ℣

And as he spake, a certayne Pharisee besought hym to dyne with him: and Jesus wēt in and sate downe to meate. When the Pharise sawe that, he merueled that he hadde not F first washed before dyner. And the Lorde sayd to him: ✠ Nowe do ye Pharyses, make clene the outside of the cup, & the platter: but youre inwarde part is full of rauyne and wickednes Foles, dyd not he that made that whiche is without: make that which is within also? Neuertheles that ye haue gyue in almes, and beholde all is clene to you. But woo be to you Pharises, for ye tythe the mynt and rewe, and all maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgement & the loue of God. These ought ye to haue done and those not to haue left.

Woo to you Pharises: for ye loue the fyrste seates in assembles, and greetynges in the markets. Woo to you Scribes and Pharises Hypocrites, for ye are as graues whiche appeare not, and the men that walke ouer theym are not ware of them. Then answered one of the lawyers, and sayd to hym: Master, thus sayenge thou puttest vs to rebuke also. Then he sayde: Woo to you also ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burdens importable, and your selues touche not the packes with your one fynger. Woo to you, ye buylde the sepulcres of ℣ Prophetes, whom as your fathers kylled the, truely ye beare witnesse, that ye alowe the dedes of your fathers: for they kylled them, but ye buylde their sepulcres. Therfore also sayde the wysdome of God: I will send them Prophetes and messangers, and of them they shal slay and persecute: that the bloude of all the Prophetes, whiche was shedde frome the begynnynge of the worlde, maye be requyred of this generacion, frome the bloude of ✠ Abel, vnto the bloude of Zacharye, who perysshed betwene the aulter and the temple. Verely I tell you: it shalbe requyred of this nacion.

Woo to you lawyars: for ye haue taken awaye the keye of knowledge, ye entred not in your selues, & the entrers in, ye forbade. Whē he thus spake vnto them, the lawyers and ℣ Pharises began to were busy about him, and to stop his mouth with many questions, lying in wayte for him, and seking to catche some thinge of his mouthe, wherby they myghte accuse hym.

The leuen of the Pharises, Chryste conforteth his disciples agaynste persecution, warneth them to beware of couetousnes. He wyll not haue them to hange vpon erthly thynges.

CAPI. XII.

A As there gathered togither an innumerable multitude of people (in so moche that they trood one an other) he began to saye vnto his disciples: firste of all beware of the leuen of the Pharises, whiche is ℣ hypocrysy. For there is nothinge couered, that shall not be vncouered: ne hyd, that shall not be knowen. For what so euer ye haue spoken in darckenes: shall be herde in the lighte. And that ye haue spoken in the eare euen in secrete places, shall be preached on the top of houses.

I saye to you my frendes: be not afrayde of them that kyll the body, and after that haue no more that they can do. But I will shewe B you, whome ye shall feare. Feare hym whiche after he hath kylled, hath power to cast into hell. Surely I saye vnto you, hym feare. Are not. v. sparowes bought for two farthinges? And yet not one of them is forgotten of God. Also euen the very heeres of youre heedes are nombred. Feare not then: ye are more worth than many sparowes.

I saye vnto you: whosoeuer confesseth me before men, hym shall the sonne of man confesse also before the aungels of God. And he that denieth me before men: shal be denied be- G fore the aūgels of God. And whosoeuer speketh a worde against the sonne of man it shall be forgyuen hym. But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holy ghoste, it shall not be forgyuen. When they bringe you vnto the assembles, and vnto the rulers and officers, take no thought howe or what ye shall answere or what ye shall speake. For the holy ghost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

✠ One of the companye sayde vnto hym: Luce. xii. c. Master, byd my brother deuyde the enheritaunce with me. But he sayde vnto hym: Mā who made me a iudge or a deuyder ouer you? Wherfore he sayde vnto them: take hede, and beware of couetousnesse. For no mans lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of thynges whi- E che he possesseth. And he put forthe a parable vnto theym, sayenge: The grounde of a certayne ryche men brought forth frutes plenteously, and he thoughte in him selfe, sayenge: what shall I doo? because I haue no rowme where to bestowe my frutes? And he sayde: This will I do. I will destroye my barnes, and buylde greater, and therin will I gather all my frutes, and my goodes: And I will saye to my soule: Soule thou hast moch goodes layde vp in stoore for manye yeares, take thyne ease: eate, drynke, and be mery. But God sayde vnto hym: Thou fole, this night will they fetche awaye thy soule agayne from the. Then whose shall the thinges be whiche thou haste prouyded? So is it with him that gathereth ryches? and is not ryche in God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therfore I saye vnto you: Take no thought for youre lyfe, what ye shall eate; ne for youre bodye, what ye shall put on. The lyfe is more then meate, and the body is more then rayment. Consydre the rauens, for they neyther sowe nor repe, who neyther haue stoore houlse ne barne, and yet God fedeth them. Howe moche are ye better then foules? Whiche of you D with takynge thought, can put to his stature one cubyt? If ye then be not able to do that is least: why take ye thought for the reste? Consydre the lylies howe they growe: They labour not: they spyn not: and yet I tell you Salomon in all his royalte, was not clothed lyke to one of these.

That yf the grasse, beynge to daye in the felde, and to morowe shalbe cast into the fornace, God so arayeth, howe moche more will

he clothe you, o lytle faithfull? And aske not you what ye shall eate or what ye shal drinke and be ye not caryed in the clowdes: for all these the hethen people of the worlde seke for. Youre father knoweth that ye haue nede of these thinges. Wherfore seke ye after ꝑ kyngdome of God, and all these shall be cast vnto you. ✣ Feare not lytell flocke, for it is your fathers pleasure, to gyue you a kyngdome. Sell your substaunce, and gyue in almes. And make you bagges, whiche were not olde, and treasure that fayleth not in heauen, where no theefe commeth, neyther mooth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there shalbe your herte also.

E Let your loynes be gyrt aboute, and youre lyghtes brennynge, and your selues lyke vnto men that wayte for their master, when he wil returne frome the weddinge: that assone as he commeth and knocketh, they maye open vnto hym. Happy are those seruauntes, whiche the Lorde when he commeth, shall fynde wakynge. Verely I saye vnto you, he wyll gyrde hym selfe about, and make them to syt downe to meate, and walke by, and minister vnto theym. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yea yf he come in the thirde watche, & shall fynde them so, happy are those seruauntes. This vnderstonde, that yf the housholder knewe what houre the theefe wolde come, he wolde surely watche: and not suffre his house to be broken vp. Be ye redy therfore: for what houre ye thynke not, the sonne of man commeth. ꝑ

Mat.xxiiii.d Marke.xiii.c

Then Peter sayde to hym: ✳ Master, speakest thou this similitude vnto vs, or to all me? And the Lorde sayde: Who thinkeste thou is faithfull seruaunt and wyse, whom his Lorde shall make ruler ouer his housholde, to gyue them their ductie of meate at due season: happy is that seruaunt, whome his master when he commeth, shall fynde so wynge. Of a truth F I saye vnto you: he wil make hym rular ouer all that he hath. But yf the seruaunt shall say in his hert: My master differreth his cõmyng and shall begyn to smyte the seruauntes and maydens, and to eate, and drynke, and to be dronken: the lorde of that seruaunt will come in a daye when he thinketh not, & at an houre when he is not ware, and will departe him, & put his part with the infideles.

The seruaunt that knewe his masters will and prepared not hym selfe, ne dyd accordyng to his will, shall be beaten with many strypes. But he that knewe not, and yet dyd cõmitte thinges worthy of strypes, shalbe beatẽ with fewe strypes. For vnto whome moche is gyuen, of him shalbe moche required. And to whom men moche commit, the more of him will they aske.

G I am come to sende fyre on erth: and what is my desyre, but that it were al redy kyndled? Notwithstandinge I must be baptysed with a baptysme: and howe am I prested tyll it be ended? Suppose ye that I am come to sende peare on earthe? I tell you naye, but rather dissension. For frome hence forthe there shall be fyue in one house deuyded, three against two, and two against thre. The father shall be deuyded against the sonne, and the sonne against the father. The mother against the doughter, and the doughter against the mother. The mother in lawe against her doughter in lawe, and the doughter in lawe against her mother in lawe.

Then sayde he to the people: when ye se a clowde ryse out of the weste anone ye saye, a shower commeth, and so it is. And when ye se the south wynde blowe, ye saye: we shall haue heet, and it commeth to passe. Hypocrites, ye can skyll of the fashion of the skye, and of the earthe, but howe is it, that ye can not trye this tyme? Yea and why iudge ye not of your selues what is right?

For whyle thou goest with thyne aduersary to the ruler: as thou arte in the waye, gyue diligence that thou mayst be delyuered frome hym, least he brynge the to the iudge, and the iudge delyuer the to the taylar, and the taylar cast the into pryson. I tell the, thou departest not thence, tyll thou haste yelded the vttermoste myte.

¶ Of the Galileans whom Pilate slewe. The symylitude of the fygge tre. Of the mustarde sede and leuen. Fewe entre into the kyngdome. Christ reproueth Herode and Jerusalem.

CAPI. XIII.

THere were presente at the same season A that shewed him of the Galileãs, whose bloude Pilate mengled with their sacrifice. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Suppose ye that these Galileans were greater synners then all thother Galileans, because they suffred suche punysshemente? I tell you naye: but oneles ye repente, ye shall all lyke wyse perysshe. Or those. xviij. vpon D whiche the toure in Syloe fell, and slew thẽ, thinke ye that they were synners aboue all men that dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you naye But oneles ye repente, ye all shall lyke wyse perysshe.

✣ He put forthe this parable: a certayne B man had a fygge tree planted in his vyneyard and he came and sought frute theron, & found none. Then sayde he to the dresser of his vyneparde: Beholde, these. iij. yeares haue I come and sought frute in this fygge tree, and fynde none: cut it downe: why occupyeth it the grounde? and he answered, and sayd vnto him: Lorde let it alone this yere also, tyll I dygge rounde about it, and donge it, and if it beare frute well and good, if not then thou shalte cut it downe. And he taughte in one of their Synagoges on the Sabboth dayes. And beholde, a woman whiche had a spyrite of infirmitie. xviij. yeares: & was made cruen croked, and coulde not ones lyft vp her self. Whe Jesus sawe her, he called her to him, and sayd E to her: woman thou art delyuered frome thy disease. And he layde his handes on her, and forthwith she was streyght, & glorifyed God. Now the rular of the Synagoge aunswering and disdayninge (because that Jesus hadde hea-healed on the Sabboth day) sayd vnto the people. There are sixe dayes in which men ought to worke: in them come and be healed, & not on the Sabboth daye.

Then answered hym the Lorde, and sayde: ✳ hypocryte, dothe not eche one of you on the Sabboth daye, lose his oxe or his asse from the stall, and leade him to the water? And ought not this doughter of Abraham, whom lo, Satan hath bound. xviij. yeres, be loosed from this bond on the Saboth daye? And when he thus sayd, all his aduersaryes were ashamed / and all the people reioysed on al the glorious dedes that were done by him. ꝑ

Then sayde he: What is the kyngdome of God lyke? or wherto shall I compare it? It is like a graynе of mustard seed, which a mã toke and sowed in his garden / and it grew & wexed in to great tre, and the foules of the ayre made nestes in the braunches of it.

And agayne he sayd: whervnto shall I lyken the kyngdome of God? It is lyke leuen which a woman toke and hyd in three busshels of floure, tyll all was thorow leuened. And he went thorowe cityes and townes teachynge and iourneyinge towardes Jerusalem. Then E sayd one vnto him: Lorde, are there few that shall be saued? And he sayd vnto them / Stryue to entre in at the strayte gate: for many I saye vnto you wyll seke to entre, and shall not be able.

When the goodman of the house is ryssen vp, and hath shut the doore, ye shall begyn to stande without and to knocke at the doore, sayynge: Lorde Lorde, open vnto vs, and he shall F answere and saye vnto you, I knowe you not whence ye are. Then shall ye begyn to saye: We haue eaten in thy presence and dronke / and thou hast taught i our stretes. And he shal saye: I tell you I knowe ye not whence ye are: departe from me all ye workers of wyckednes. There shal be weppyng and gnasshing of teeth, when ye shall se Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophetes in the kingdome of God, and your selues thrust out. And they shall come frome the East and West and north and south, and syt in the kyngdome of God. And beholde, they be last, which shall be fyrst. And they be fyrst, which shal be last.

G The same daye there came certayne of the pharises and said vnto him / get the out of the waye, and departe hence, for Herode wyl kyll the. And he sayd vnto them. Go tell that fore beholde I cast out deuyls and heale the people to daye and to morowe, and the thyrde daye I make an ende. Neuertheless, I muste walke to daye and to morowe, and the day folowynge / for it can not be, that a Prophet perysshe any other where then at Jerusalem.

✳ Jerusalem, Jerusalem, whiche kyllest H Prophetes, and stonest them that are sent to the: howe ofte wolde I haue gathered thy chyldren togyther as the henne gathereth her nest vnder her wynges, but he wolde not. Beholde your habitacion is lefte to you desolate. For I tell you, ye shall not se me tyll the tyme come that ye shall saye / blessed, that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

¶ Jesus eateth with the Pharisee, healeth the dropsy vpon the Sabboth, teacheth to be lowly, telleth of the great supper. The salt of the erth.

CAPI. XIIII.

AND it chaunced that he wente in to A the house of one of the chefe Pharisees to ✳ eate breed on the Saboth daye: and they watched hym. And beholde, there was a man before hym, whiche had the dropsye. And Jesus answered and spake vnto the lawyers and Pharisees, sayynge: is it lawfull to heale on the Saboth daye? But they helde theyr peare. And he healed hym, and let hym go: and answered them, sayynge: Whiche of you shall haue an asse or an oxe fallen in to a pyt, and wyll not forthwith pull him out on the Saboth daye? And they coulde not answere him to that.

(✳ To eate breed, ꝑ is to dyne, or to take a repast)

He put forthe a symylitude to the gestes, markynge howe they chase the byghest rowmes, and sayd to them: When thou arte byd to a weddynge of any man, syt not downe in B the byghest rowme, leest a more honourable man then thou be bydden of him, and he that bade bothe hym and the, come and saye to the, gyue this man rowme, and thou then begyn with shame to take the lowest rowme. But rather when thou arte bydde, go and sytte in the lowest rowme, that when he that bade the commeth, he maye saye vnto the / frende syt vp higher. Then shalt thou haue worshyp in the presence of them that syt at meat with C the. ✳ For who so euer exalteth him selfe, shal be humbled. And he that humbleth him selfe, shall be exalted. ꝑ

Math.xxiii.b Luke.xviii.c

Then sayd he also to him that had desyred him to dyner. ✣ When thou makest a dyner or a supper: call not thy frendes, nor thy brethren, ne thy kynsmen, neyther ryche neyghbours, lest they byd the agayne, and a recompence be made the. But when thou makest a feest, call poore, maymed, lame and blynde, and thou shalte be happy, for they can not reacquyte the. But thou shalte be recompensed in the vprysynge of the iust men.

When one of them that sate at meate also herde that, he said vnto him / happy is he that eateth breed in the kyngdome of God. ꝑ D Then sayd he to him. ✣ A certayne man ordeyned a greate supper, and bade many, and sent his seruaunt at supper tyme, to saye to them that were bydden, come / for all thynges are now redye. And they all at ones began to make excuse. The fyrste sayde to him: I haue bought a pece of grounde, and I muste go se it, I praye the haue me excused. And an other sayde: I haue bought fyue yoke of oxen, and I go to proue them, I praye the haue me excused. The thyrde sayde: I haue maryed a wyfe, therfore I can not come. And the seruaunte wente, and tolde his master these thynges.

Math.xxii.d Apocali.xix.a

Then was the housholder displeased, and said to his seruaunt: Go out quyckly in to the stretes and quarters of the city, and brynge in hither the poore, & maymed, and halt & blynde.

And

And the seruaunt sayde, Lorde it is done as thou commaundest, and yet is there rowme. And the Lorde sayd to the seruaunt: Go out in to the hygh wayes and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be fylled. For I saye vnto you, that none of those men which were bydden, shal taste of my supper. ✠

There went a greate companye with him, Math.xvi.d. And he turned and sayd vnto them. ✠ Yf a Math.xvii.d man commeth to me, and hate not his father F and mother, and wyfe and chyldren, and brethren and systers, moreouer and his owne life he can not be my disciple. And who so euer beare not his crosse and come after me, can not be my disciple.

Whiche of you wyllynge to buylde a toure sytteth not downe first and counteth the cost, whether he hath to perfourme it? lest after he hath layde the foundacion and is not hable to perfourme it, all that behold it begyn to mocke him, sayinge: this man began to buylde, and G was not hable to fynysshe. Or what kynge goyng to make battayle agaynst an other kynge doth not syt downe first and consider whether he be hable with ten thousande to mete hym that cōmeth agaynst hym with twenty thousande. Or els whyle he is yet a great waye of, he sendeth ambassadours and desyre peare. So lykewise euery one of you that renounceth not all that he hath can be my disciple. ✠

Mathew.v.b Marcke.ix.g ✠Salt is good, but if salt be vnsauery, wher with shall it be sauered. It is mete neyther for the lande, nor for the donghyll, they cast it out at the dores. He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

¶ The louyng mercye of God is openly set forth in the parable of the hundreth shepe, and of the sonne that was lost.

CAPI. XV.

A Math.ix.b Marcke.ii.b Luke.v.f THen resorted vnto him all the Publicās and synners to heare him. And the pharisees and Scribes grudged, saying: He receyueth synners, and eateth with them. And he spake this parable to them, saying: What man of you haupnge an hundred shepe, yf he lose one of them, doth not leaue nyntye and.ix in the wyldernes, and go after that whiche is lost tyll he fynde him? And when he hathe founde him, he putteth him on his shoulders with ioye. And as sone as he commeth home, he calleth togither his frēdes and neighbours saying vnto them: Reioyse with me, for I haue B founde my shepe whyche was lost. I say vnto you, that so ioye shall be in heuē ouer one synner that repenteth, more then ouer foure score and nyntene eyghtous persons, which nede no repentaunce. Either what woman haupng.x. grotes, yf she lose one, doth not lyght a candel, and swepe the house, and seke diligently tyll she fynde it? And when she hath founde it, she calleth her frendes and her neighbours saying: C Reioyce with me, for I haue founde the grote which I had lost. So I saye vnto you, ioye is made before the aungels of God ouer one synner that repenteth. ✠

Filius prodigus. ✠ And he sayde: A certayne man had two sonnes, and the yonger of them said to his father/father giue me the part of the goodes that to me belongeth. And he deuyded vnto them his substance. And not longe after, the yonger son gathered all that he had togither, and toke his iourney in to a farre countrey, & there ✠ he Prouerb.xxix wasted his goodes with ryotous lyuyng. And when he had spent all that he had, there arose a great derth throow out all that same lande and he began to lacke. And he went & claue to a citezyn of that same coūtrey, which sent him to his feld to kepe his swyne/& he wolde fayne haue fylled his bely with the coddes that the swyne ate, and no man gaue to him.

D Then he came to hym selfe and sayde: how many hyred seruauntz at my fathers haue breed ynough, and I dye for honger. I wyl arise and go to my father, and wyll saye vnto him: father: I haue synned agaynst heuen, and before the, and am no more worthye to be called thy son, make me as one of thy hyred seruauntes. And he arose & wente to his father. And when he was yet a greate waye of, his father sawe him, and had compassion, and ran and fell on his necke, and kyssed hym. And the sonne sayde vnto him: father, I haue synned agaynst heuen, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy E to be called thy sonne. Then his father said to his seruauntes, bryng forth that best garment and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his fete. And bryngе hyther that fatted calfe and kyll hym, and let vs eate and be mery: for this my sonne was ded, and is reuiued, he was lost, and is nowe founde. And they began to be merye. The elder brother was in the felde, and when he came & drewe nyghe to the house, he herde mynstrelsy and daunsynge, and called one of his seruauntes, I and asked what those thynges meante. And he sayde vnto hym: thy brother is come, and thy father hath kylled the fatted calfe, because he hath receyued him safe and sounde. So he was angry, and wolde not go in. Then came his father and entreated him. But he answered and sayd to his father: Lo these many yeres haue I haue done the, seruyce/neyther haue I broken at any tyme thy commaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer so moche as a kydde to make mery with my frendes/ but as soone as this thy sonne was come, whiche hath deuoured thy goodes with harlottes, thou hast for him kylled the fatted calfe. And he sayde vnto hym: Sonne, thou arte euer with me, and all that I haue is thyne: it was mete that we sholde make merye and be glad, for this thy brother was deed, and is alyue agayne: and was lost, and is founde. ✠

¶ The parable of the wycked Mammon. Not one tytle of Gods worde shall perish. Of the ryche man, and poore Lazarus.

CAPI. XVI.

A HE sayd also vnto his disciples. ✠ There was a certayne ryche man, which had a stewarde, that was accused vnto him that he had wasted his goodes. And he called him, and sayth vnto him: Howe is it that I heare heare this of the? Kendre accomptes of thy stewardshyp: for thou mayst be no longer stewarde. The stewarde sayde within him selfe: what shall I do? for my master wyll take away from me the stewardshyp. I can not dyg, and to begge I am ashamed. I wote what I shal do, that whē I am put out of the stewardshyp, they may receyue me in to their houses.

B So called he all his masters detters, and sayd vnto the fyrst: howe moche owest thou vnto my master? And he said an hundred tonnes of oyle. And he sayd to hym: take thy bill and syt downe quyckly, and wryte fyfty. Then said he to an other: what owest thou? And he sayd, an hundred quarters of whete. He sayd to him: Take thy bill, and wryte foure score. And the Lorde commended the vnryghtous G stewarde, bycause he had done wisely. For the chyldren of this worlde are in theyr kynde, wyser then the chyldren of lyght. And I saye also vnto you: Make you frendes of the wicked Mammon, that when ye shall departe, they maye receyue you in to euerlastynge habitacions. ✠

✠ He that is faythfull in the lest, is faythfull also in moche. And he that is vnryghtous in the lest: is vnryghtous also in moche. So then yf ye haue not ben faythfull in the wycked Mammon, who wyll byleue you in that whiche is true? And yf ye haue not ben faythfull in an other mannes bulynes: who shall gyue you your owne? No seruaunt can serue two masters, for eyther he shall hate the one and loue thother, or els he shall leane to the one, and dispise the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

D All these herde the Pharysees also, whiche were couetous, and they mocked him. And he said vnto them: Ye are they which iustify your selues before men, but God knoweth youre hertes. For that whiche is hygh amonge men, is abhominacion before God.

The lawe and the Prophetes reygned tyll the tyme of Johū/and frō that tyme the kyngdome of God is preached, and euery man styreth to go in. Soner shall heuen and erth perysshe, then one tytle of the lawe shall perisshe. Who so euer forsaketh his wyfe and maryeth an other, dothe aduoutrye. And who so euer E marieth her that is diuorsed from her husband commytteth aduoutrye.

✠ There was a certeyn ryche man, whiche was clothed in purple and costly lynnen, and fared deliciously euery daye. Now there was a certayne begger named Lazarus, whiche laye at his gate full of sores, desyrynge to be fylled with the crommes whiche fell frome the ryche mans table. Neuertheless the dogges came and lycked his sores. And it fortuned that the begger dyed, and was caryed by the aungels F in to Abrahams bosome. The ryche man also dyed, and was buryed.

And beinge in hell in tormentes, he lyfte vp his eyes and saw Abraham a farre of, and Lazarus in his bosome, and he cryed and said: father Abraham, haue mercye on me, and sende Lazarus, that he maye dyp the typ of his fynger in water, and cole my tong: for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said vnto him: Sonne, remembre that thou in thy lyfe time, receyuedst thy good thynges, & Lazarus lykewyse payne. Nowe therfore is he comforted, and thou art punished. Besyde all this, betwene you and vs is a great bawte set, so that they whiche wolde go frome hence to you can not, neither may come from thence to vs. G

Then he said, I praye ꝑ therfore father that thou wyll sende him to my fathers house. For I haue fyue brethren: for to warne them lest they also come into this place of tormēt. Abraham said vnto him: they haue Moses and the prophetes, let thē heare them. And he said, nay father Abraham, but yf one come vnto them from the ded, they wolde repent. He said vnto hym: Yf they heare not Moses and the Prophetes, neither wyll they byleue, thoughe one rose from deth agayne.

¶ Christ teacheth his disciples to auoyde occasions of euyll, one to forgyue another, stedfastly to trust in God and no man to presume in his owne workes. He healeth the ten lepers, speaketh of the latter dayes, and of the end of the worlde.

CAPI. XVII.

THen sayde he to his disciples, it can not A be auoyded but that offences come. But Mat.xviii.a Marcke.ix.f wo to him thorow whom they come. It were better for hym that a millstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were caste in to the see, then he sholde offende one of these litleones. Take hede to your selues. ✠ Yf thy brother trespace agaynst the, rebuke him/ and if he repent, forgyue him. And though he synne agaynste the seuen tymes in a daye, and seuen tymes in a day turne agayne to the, sayinge/ it repenteth me, forgyue him. Math.xviii.f Leuitic.xix.c Eccles.xix.b

And the apostles sayd vnto the Lorde: encrease our fayth. And the Lorde said: yf ye had fayth lyke a grayne of mustard seed, ye sholde B saye vnto this sycampyne tree, plucke thy selfe vp by the rootes, and plant thy selfe in the see and he sholde obey you.

Who is it of you, yf he had a seruaunt eareynge or fedynge catell, that wolde saye vnto him when he were come frome the felde: Go quyckly and syt downe to meate, and wolde not rather saye to him, make redye wherwith I maye sup, and gyrde vp thy selfe and serue me tyll I haue eaten and dronken, and afterwarde, eate thou, and drynke thou? Dothe he thanke that seruaunt bicause he did that was commaunded hym? I trowe not. So also ye C when ye haue done all whiche are commaunded you, saye: we are vnprofytable seruauntes. We haue doone that whiche was oure dutye to do.

✠ And it befell as he wente to Jerusalem, he passed thorowe Samaria and Galile. And as he entred in to a certayne towne, there met hym ten men that were lepers. Whiche Ten lepers stode a farre of, and put forthe theyr voyces, and sayde: Jesu master, haue mercye on vs. When he sawe them, he sayde vnto them: Go and shewe your selues vnto the preestes.

And

D And it came to passe as they went, they were clensed. And one of them when he saw he was clensed, turned backe agayne, and with a loude voyce praysed God, and fell downe on his face at his fete, and gaue him thankes. And the same was a Samaritane. And Jesus answered and sayd: are there not ten clensed? But where are those nyne? There are not founde that returned agayne to gyue God prayse saue onely this straunger. And he sayde vnto him: aryse and go thy waye, thy fayth hath saued the. F

E ✠ When he was demaunded of the Pharysees when the kyngdome of God shulde come he answered them, and sayd: The kyngdome of God cōmeth not with wayting for. Neither shall men saye: Lo here, lo there. For beholde the kyngdome of God is within you.

And he sayde vnto the disciples: the dayes wyll come, when ye shall desyre to se one day of the sonne of man, and ye shall not se it. And they shall saye to you. Se here. Se there. Go ye not, nor folowe them/ for as the lyghtnyng that appereth out of thone part of heuen, and shyneth vnto the other part of heuē: ✠ So shal the sonne of man be in his daye. But fyrst must he suffre many thynges, and be refused of this nation.

As it happened in the tyme of Noe, so shall it be in the tyme of the sonne of man. They ate they dranke, they maried wyues, & were gi-uen in mariage, euen vnto that same day that Noe went in to the arke, and the floode came and destroyed them all. Lykewyse also, as it chaunced in the dayes of Lot. They ate, they dranke, they bought, they solde, they planted, they buylte. And euen the same daye that Lot went out of Sodom it rayned fyre and brymstone from heuen and destroyed them all. After these exemples shal it be in the daye when the sonne of man shall appere.

G And that day, he that is on the house toppe and his vessels in the house, let him not come downe to take it out. And lykewyse let not him that is in the felde, turne backe agayne to that he lefte behynde. Remembre Lots wyfe.
Who so euer wyll seke to saue his lyfe, shall lose it/ and who so euer wyll lose his lyfe, shall saue it. I tell you, in that nyght there shall be two in one bed, the one shall be receyued, and thother forsaken. Two women shall be gryndynge togyther/ thone shall be receyued, & the other forsaken. And they answered, and sayde to him: where Lorde? And he said vnto them:
where so euer the body shall be, thyther wyll
the Egles resorte.

¶ He teacheth to be feruent in prayer. Pharisee and the publican. Christ answereth the ruler, and promysseth reward vnto such as suffre losse for his sake.

CAPI. XVIII.

A ✠ And he spake a parable vnto them, sig-nifyinge that men ought alwayes to pray, and not to be wery, saying. There was a Judge in a certayne city, whiche feared not God, neither regarded man. And there was a certeyn wydow in the same city, which came vnto him, sayinge: reuenge me of myne aduersary. And he wolde not for a whyle. But afterwarde he sayde to him selfe: thoughe I feare not God, nor care for man, yet bycause
this wydow troubleth me, I wyl reuenge her cause, lest at the last she come and hagge on me B And the Lorde sayd: heare what the vnrighteous Judge sayth. And shall not God auenge his chosen, whiche crye daye and nyght vnto him, though he deferre them? I tel you he wyl C auenge them and that quyckly. ✠ Neuertheles
when the sonne of man commeth, suppose ye he shall fynde fayth on the erth.

✠ And he spake this symilitude, vnto cer-tayne whiche trusted in them selues that they were perfecte, and despysed other. Two men went vp in to the temple to praye: the one a Pharisey, and thother a Publican. The Pha-risey stode and prayed thus with him self. God E
I thanke the that I am not as the rest of men, extortioners, vniust, aduoutrers, or as this pu blican. I fast twyse in the weke, I gyue tythe of al that I possesse. And the publican standing a farre of, wolde not lyft vp his eyes to heuen,
but smote his brest, saying: God be mercyfull to me synner. I tel you this mā departed home to his house iustified more then the other, ✠ for Math.xxiii.
euery man that exalteth hym selfe, shall be lowyed: And he that lowyeth him selfe, shal be exalted. F

✠ They brought vnto him also babes, that D
he shulde touche them. When his disciples saw Math.xix.
that, they rebuked thē. But Jesus called them Marcke.x.
vnto him, and sayde: Suffre the chyldren to come vnto me, & forbyd them not. For of suche is the kyngdom of God. Verely, I say to you:
who so euer receyueth not the kyngdome of God as a chylde: shall not entre therin.

And a certayne ruler asked hym, sayinge:
good master: what ought I to do, to obtayne euerlastynge lyfe? Jesus sayde to hym: Why callest thou me good? None is good, saue God Exodi.xx.
onely. Thou knowest the commaundementes:
Thou shalt not commyt aduoutry/ thou shalt not kyll/ thou shalt not steale/ thou shalte not beare false wytnes. Honoure thy father and thy mother. And he sayd, all these haue I kept from my youthe. When Jesus herde that, he sayde vnto him: Yet lackest thou one thynge.
Sell all that thou hast, and distribute it vnto
the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in he- E uen, and come folowe me. When he herd this he was heuy, for he was very ryche.

When Jesus sawe him mourne, he sayde:
How hardly shall they that haue ryches enter in to the kyngdome of God: it is easyer
for a camell to goo thorowe a nedles eye,
then a ryche man to entre into the kyngdom of God. Then sayd they that herde that. And who shall then be saued? And he sayd: Those thinges that are impossible with men, are possible with God. F

Then Peter sayd: Lo, we haue left all, and Math.xix.
haue folowed the. And he said vnto thē. ✠ Ue- Marcke.x.
rely I saye vnto you/ there is no man that leueth houle, eyther father and mother, eyther brethren, or wyfe, or chyldren for the kyngdome of God, whyche shall not receyue moche more in this world, and in the worlde to come lyfe euerlastynge.

✠ He toke vnto him the twelue, and sayde
vnto them. Beholde we go vp to Jerusalem, and all shall be fulfylled that are wrytten by the prophetes of the sonne of man. He shal be delyuered vnto the gentyles, & shal be mocked and shall be despytfully entreated, and shall be spytted on/ and when they haue scourged him
they shall put him to deth, and the thyrd daye
he shall aryse agayne. But they vnderstode none of these thynges. And this sayinge was hyd from them. Neither they perceyued the 5 thinges whiche were spoken.

✠ And it came to passe as he approched nye vnto Hiericho, a certeyn blynde man sate by the way syde begging. And when he herd the people passe by, he asked what it meant. And they told vnto him, that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayinge: Jesus the sonne of Dauid, haue mercye on me. And they whiche went before rebuked him, that he shold be styl.
But he cryed so moche the more, ✠ thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercye on me. So Jesus stode styl, and commaunded him to be brought vnto
him. And whe he was come nere, he asked him saying: what wylt thou that I do vnto the?
And he said, Lorde, þ I maye receyue my sight.
Jesus sayde vnto him/ receyue thy sight, thy fayth hath saued the. And anone he sawe, & folowed him praysing God. And all the people when they sawe it, gaue prayse to God. F

¶ Of Zacheus, and the ten seruauntes to whome the talentes were delyuered. Christ rydeth to Jerusalem, and weepeth ouer it.

CAPI. XIX.

A ✠ And he entred and went thorow Hierico. And beholde there was a man named Zacheus, whiche was a ruler amonge the Publicans, and was ryche. And he sought to se Jesus, what he shold be: & could not for the preace, bycause he was lytle of stature. And runnynge before, clymed vp in to a wylde sygge tree to se him/ for he sholde come that waye. And when Jesus came to the place, he loked vp, and sawe hym/ and said vnto him: Zache, haste the downe, for to day
I must abyde at thy house. And he came dowe hastely, and receyued hym ioyfully. And when they sawe that, they all grudged, saying: He is gone in to tarye with a synfull man.

B And Zache stode forthe and sayde vnto the Lorde: Beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goo-des I gyue to the poore/ and yf I haue done any man wronge, I restore hym foure folde.
And Jesus sayde to him: this daye is healthe come vnto this house, for as moche as he also is become the chylde of Abraham. ✠ For the sonne of man is come to seke and to saue
the lost. F

As they herde these, he put to and spake:
bycause he was nye to Hierusalem, and by-cause they thoughte the kyngedome of God sholde shortly appeare. He sayde therfore:
✠ ✠ A certayne noble man wente in to a farre countrey, to receyue hym a kyngdome, and to come agayne. So he called his tenne seruauntes, and delyuered them tenne poundes, sayinge vnto them. Occupye tyll I come.
But his citezyns hated hym, and sent a message after him, saying: we wyll not haue this man to reygne ouer vs.

And it came to passe when he was come a- E
gayne and had receyued his kingdom, he commaunded his seruantes to be called vnto him (to whome he gaue his money) to wyt what euery man had marchaundysed. Then came the fyrst, sayinge: Lorde, thy pounde hath en-creased ten poundes. And he sayde vnto hym.
✠ Well good seruaunt, bycause thou hast ben Math.xxv.b.
faythfull in a very lytle thynge, haue thou auctoritie ouer ten cityes. And the seconde came, saying: Lorde, thy pound hath encreased fyue poundes. He sayde also to this: and be thou also ruler ouer fyue cityes.

And an other came and sayd: Lord beholde
thy pounde, whiche I haue kepte in a napkyn,
for I feared the bycause thou art a sterne man:
thou takest vp that thou laydest not downe/and repest that thou dydest not sowe. And he sayd vnto him: ✠ Of thyne owne mouth iudge Math.xxv.c.
I the, thou cursed seruaunt. Knewest thou that D
I am a sterne man/ taking vp that I layde not downe, & reping that I dyd not sowe. Wherfore then gauest not thou my money in to the banke, that at my commynge I myght haue requyred myne owne with gaynes?

And he sayd to them that stode by: take frō
him that pounde, and gyue it hym that hathe ten poundes. And they sayd vnto him, Lorde he hath tenne poundes. I saye vnto you, that vnto euery one that hathe, it shall be gyuen/and from him that hath not, euē that he hath shal be taken from him. Moreouer those myne E enemyes which wolde not I shold reigne ouer them, bringe hither, and slē them before me.
✠ And when he had thus spoken, he went be- Math.xxi.a.

And it fortuned, when he was come nye to Bethphage and Bethany, beside mount called Oliuet, he sent two of his disciples, sayinge: Go in to the towne ouer agaynste you.
In whiche as soone as ye are come, ye shall fynde a colte tyed wheron yet neuer man sate.
Loose hym and bringe hym hyther. And yf any man aske you, why do ye loose him/ thus ye shall saye vnto him, the Lorde hath nede of him.

They that were sent, went theyr way and founde euen as he had said vnto them. And as they were loosinge the colte, the owners of it sayd vnto them: why loose ye the colt? And they sayd, the Lorde hathe nede of him. And they brought him to Jesus. And castynge their rayment on the colte, they sate Jesus theron. F
And as he went, they spredde theyr clothes in the waye.

And when he nowe approched nere to the descente of the mounte Oliuet, the hole mul-tytude of the disciples began to reioyse, and prayse God with a great voyce, for all the myracles that they hadde sene, sayinge: blessed be the kyng that commeth in the name of the Lorde

Lorde: peax in heuen, and glory in the highest. And some of the Pharisees of the trayne sayd to him: Master, rebuke thy disceples. He answered and sayd vnto them: I tell you if these sholde hold your peare, the stones wolde crye.

✣ And when he was come nere, he beheld the city, & wept on it sayinge. Yf thou knewest also euen in this daye the thinges apteynyng vnto thy peare. But nowe are they hyd frome thyne eyes. For the dayes shall come vpon the that thy enemyes shall cast a banke about the and besiege the, and kepe the in on euery syde, and make the euen with the ground, with thy

¶ They aske Christe one question, and he asketh them an other. The parable of the vynyard. Of tribute to be gyuen vnto Cesar, and how Christ stoppeth the mouthes of the Sadducees.

CAPI. XX.

A ✣ And it befell in one of those dayes as he taught the people in the temple and preached the gospell, the chiefe preestes and Scribes came with the elders, and spake
Wath.xxii.e. vnto him, sayinge: ✳ Tell vs by what auc-Marck.xi.d. toritie thou doest these thynges? Either who is he that gaue the this auctoritie? He answered and sayde vnto them: I also will aske you a word, and answere me. The baptisme of Johñ was it from heuẽ or of men? And they thought within them selues, sayinge: yf we shall saye from heuen: he will saye: why then beleued ye hym not? But yf we shall saye, of men/ all the people wyl stone vs. For they be ascerteyned that Johñ is a Prophet. And they answered, they coulde not tell whence it was. And Jesus sayde vnto them: neyther tell I you by what auctoritie I do these.

B Then began he to speake to the people this Wath.xxii.c. parable. ✳ A certayne man planted a vyne-Marck.xii.b. yarde, and let it forth to husbandmen, & went him selfe in to a straunge countrey for a greate season. And when the tyme was come, he sent a seruant to the husbandmen that they sholde gyue him of the frutes of the vyneyarde. And they dyd beat him, and sent him away empty. And agayne he sente yet an other seruaunte. But they dyd beate him, and foule entreated him also, and sent him awaye emptye. He sent the thyrde to, and him they wounded, and cast
C out. Then sayd the Lorde of the vyneyarde: What shal I do? I will sende my deere sonne, him peraduenture they will reuerence when they se him.

But when the fermers sawe him, they reasoned within them selues sayinge: this is the heyre, come let vs kyll hym, that the inheritaunce maye be ours. And they cast him out of the vyneyarde, and kylled him. Nowe, what shal the Lorde of the vyneyarde do vnto them? He will come and destroye these fermers, and will let out his vyneyarde to other. When they herde that, they sayd: God forbyd.

And he beheld them, and said: what meaneth this then that is wrytten: ✳ The stone Plal.cxvii.a

D And they watched hym, and sente forthe espyes, whiche sholde fayne them selues perfecte to take him in his wordes, and to deliuer him vnto the power and auctoritie of the ruler. And they asked him, sayinge: Master, we knowe that thou sayest and teachest ryghtly/ neyther consyderest thou the person, but teachest the waye of God truly. A Nd the hole multytude of them arose, and led him vnto Pilate. And they began to accuse him, sayinge: We haue founde this man peruertynge the people, and forbyddyng to paye tribute to Cesar: sayinge that he is Christ a kyng. And Pylate examined him, saying: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? He answered him and said: thou sayest. Then said Pilate to the hyghe preestes, & to the people: I fynde no faute in this man. And they were the more fearce, saying. He maketh commocions in the people, teachinge throughout Jury, and began at Galile, euen to this place.

When Pylate herde mencyon of Galile, he asked whether the mā were of Galile. And as sone as he knewe that he was of Herodes iurisdiction, he sent him to Herode, which was also at Jerusalem in those dayes. And when Herode sawe Jesus, he was exceadyngly glad. For he was desyrous to se him of a longe season, bycause he hadde herde many thynges of him, and trusted to haue sene some myracle doone by him. Then questioned he with him of many thynges. But he answered him not one worde. The hyghe preestes and Scrybes stode and accused him sharpely. But Herode with his men of warre despysed hym, and after he had mocked him, arayed him in whyte, and sente hym agayne to Pylate. ✠ And the same daye Pylate and Herode were made frendes togyther. For before they were at bayaunce.

Pylate assembled the hyghe preestes, and rulers, and the people, and said vnto them: ye haue brought this man vnto me, as one that peruerted the people. And beholde I haue examined him before you, haue founde no faute in this man, of those thynges wherof ye accuse him. No nor yet Herode. But theyr eyes were holden, that they coulde not knowe him. And he sayd vnto them: What communicacyons are these that ye haue one to an other as ye walke and are sadde? And one of them named Cleophas, answered and and sayd vnto hym: arte thou alone a straunger in Jerusalem, and hast not knowen that haue chaunsed therin, in these dayes? To whome he sayde, what thynges?

And they sayd vnto hym: of Jesu the Nazarene, whiche was a Prophete myghtye in dede and worde before God, and all the people. And howe the hygh preestes, and our rulers delyuered him to be condempned to deth: and haue crucifyed him. But we trusted that it hadde ben he, that sholde haue delyuered Israel. worde, and the worde was with God / and the worde was God. This was in begynnynge with God. All were made by it, and without it was made nothyng that was made. In it was lyfe, and the lyfe was the lyghte of men, and the lyghte shyneth in the darkenes, and the darkenes comprehended it not.

There was a man sent frome God, whose name was Johñ. This came for a wytnes, to testifye of the lyghte, that all men thrughe him might beleue. He was not the lyght, but to beare wytnes of the lyghte. That was the true lyght whiche lyghteth all men commyng in to the worlde. He was in the worlde, and the worlde was made by him, and the worlde knewe him not.

He came in to his owne, and his owne receyued him not. But as many as receyued B him, to them he gaue power to be made the sonnes of God, beleuynge on his name whiche were borne, not of bloode, nor of the wyll of the flesshe, nor of the wyll of man, but of God.

And the worde was made flesshe, and dwelt amonge vs/ and we sawe the glorye of it, as the glorye of the onely begotten sonne of the father, full of grace and trouthe. ✠

✠ Johñ wytnesseth of him, and cryed sayinge: This was he of whome I spake, he that cõmeth after me, was before me, because he was fyrst er I was. And of his fulnes haue all we receyued, and grace for grace. For the lawe was giuen by Moses, but grace & trouth came by Jesus Chryst. No man hath sene God C at any time. The onely begotten sonne, which is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared him. ✠

✠ And this is the recorde of Johñ: when the Jewes sent preestes and Leuites from Jerusalem, to aske him, what arte thou? And he confessed and denyed not, and confessed I am not Chryste. And they asked him: what then? Arte thou Hely? And he sayd: I am not. Arte thou the Prophet? And he answered no. Then sayd they vnto him: what arte thou, that we may gyue an answere to them that sente vs: What sayest thou of thy selfe? He sayd: I am a voyce of one crynge in the wyldernes, make Esaye.xl.a strayte the waye of the Lorde, as sayd the prophet Esaie.

And they whiche were sente, were of the Pharisees. And they asked him, and said vnto him: Why baptyzest thou then, yf thou be not Chryste, nor Hely, neither the Prophete? Johñ answered them, sayinge: I baptise with water: but one is come amonge you, whome ye knowe not/ he it is that commeth after me, whiche was before me, whose shoo latchet I am not worthy to vnlose. These thinges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordane, where Johñ dyd baptyse.

✣ The nexte daye Johñ sawe Jesus commynge vnto him, and said: beholde the lambe of God, which taketh away the synne of the worlde. This is he of whome I said. After me commeth a man whiche was before me, for he was yer then I, and I knew him not, but that he shulde be declared to Israel/ therfore am I come baptisynge with water.

And Johñ wytnesed sayinge: I sawe the spyrite descende from heuen, lyke vnto a doue and abyde vpon him, and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptyse in water, he sayde vnto me, vpon whome thou shalt se the spyrete descende and tarye styll on hym, this is he whiche baptyseth with the holy ghoste. And I sawe and testifyed that this is the son of God. ✣

Math.iii.d Marcke.i.b. Luke.iii.d

The nexte daye after, Johñ stode agayne, and two of his disciples. And he beholde Jesus as he walked by, and sayde: Beholde the lambe of God. And the two disciples herd him speake and folowed Jesus. And Jesus turned aboute, and sawe them folowe, and sayd vnto them: What seke ye? They said vnto him: Rabbi (whiche is by interpretacion, Master) where dwellest thou? He sayde vnto them/ come and se. They came and sawe where he dwelt, and abode with him that daye. For it was about the tenth houre.

One of the two whiche herde Johñ speake and folowed Jesus, was Andrew Symon Peters brother. This fyrste founde his brother Symon, and sayde vnto hym: we haue founde Messias, whiche is by interpretacion, annoynted/ and broughte hym to Jesus. And Jesus beholde hym and sayde/ thou arte Symon the sonne of Jonas/ thou shalte be called Cephas, whiche is by interpretacion a stone.

Messias.

The daye folowynge Jesus wolde go in to Galile, and founde Philip, and said vnto him: folowe me. Philip was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrew and Peter. And Philip founde Nathanael, and sayd vnto hym. We haue founde him of whom Moses in the lawe and the prophetes dyd wryte, Jesus the sonne of Joseph, a Nazarene. And Nathanael sayde vnto him: can ther any good come out of Nazareth? Philip said to him: Come and se.

Jesus sawe Nathanael commynge to him/ and sayde of him. Beholde a ryght Israelyte, in whome is no gyle. Nathanael sayde vnto hym: where knewest thou me? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Before that Philip called the, when thou wast vnder the fyg tree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayde vnto him: Rabbi, thou art the sonne of God, thou art the kynge of Israel. Jesus answered and said vnto him: Because I sayd vnto the, I sawe the vnder the fygge tree, thou beleuest. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayd vnto him: Verily, verily, I saye vnto you: hereafter shall ye se heuen open, and the aungels of God ascendynge and descendynge ouer the sonne of man.

¶ Christe turneth the water vnto wyne, and dryueth the byers and sellers out of the temple.

CAPI. II.

A And the thyrde daye, was there a maryage in Cana a cite of Galile, and the mother of Jesus was there. And Jesus was bydden also & his disciples vnto the maryage. And when the wyne fayled, the mother of Jesus said vnto him/ they haue no wine. Jesus sayde vnto her: woman, what haue I to do with the? myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayd vnto the ministres: what so euer he sayth vnto you, do. And ther were standing there, sixe water pottes of stone, after the maner of the purifying of the Jewes, containyng two or thre fyrkyns a pece.

And Jesus said vnto them: fyll the water pottes with water. And they fylled them vp to the brym. And he said vnto them: draw out nowe, and beare vnto the gouernour of the feest. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feest had tasted of the water that was turned vnto wyne, and knewe not whence it was, (but the mynistres whiche drewe the water knewe) He called the brydegrome and sayde vnto him: all men at the begynnyng set forth good wyne, and when men were dronke, then that whiche is worse. But thou hast kepte backe the good wyne tyll now.

B This begynnynge of myracles did Jesus in Cana of Galile, and shewed his glory, and his disciples beleued on him. ✣ After that he descended in to Capernaum, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples/ and there continued not many dayes.

C ✣ And the Jewes Ester was at hande, and Jesus went vp to Jerusalem, and founde sytynge in the temple those that solde oxen and shepe and dues, and chaungers of money. And he made a scourge of small cordes, and draue them al out of the temple, with the shepe and oxen, and powred out the chaungers money. and ouerthrew the tables, and said vnto them that solde doues: Awey with these thynges hēce, and make not my fathers house an house of marchaundyse. And his disciples remembred how that it was written: ✳ The zele of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

D Psal.lxviii.b

Then answered the Jewes, and sayd vnto him: What token shewest thou vnto vs, bycause thou doest these thinges? Jesus answered and said vnto them: ✳ destroye this temple, and in thre dayes I shal reare it vp agayn. Then said the Jewes. xlvj. yeres was this tēple a buyldynge, and wylt thou reare it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of his bodye. As sone therfore as he was risen from deth agayne, his disciples remembred that he thus sayd. And they beleued the scripture, and the wordes whiche Jesus had sayd.

Math.xxvi.d Marc.xiiii.d

E When he was at Jerusalem at Ester in the feest, many beleued on his name, when they sawe his myracles whiche he dyd. But Jesus put not hym selfe in theyr handes, bycause he knewe all men, and neded not that any shulde testifie of him. For he knewe what was in man. ✣

¶ The communycacion of Christ with Nycodemus The doctrine and baptisme of John, and what witnesse he beareth of Christe.

CAPI. III.

A man. ✣ There was a man of the Pharises named Nycodemus, a rular amonge the Jewes. The same came to Jesus by nyght, and sayde vnto him. Rabbi, we know thou arte a teacher come frome God. For no man can do these tygnes that thou west, except God were with. Jesus aunswered and sayde vnto him: Verely, verely I say vnto the: onles a man be borne a newe, he can not se the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus sayd vnto him how can a man be borne when he is olde? can he enter into his mothers wombe, & be borne agayne? Jesus answered: Verely, verely I saye vnto the: oneles a man be borne of water and spyrete, he can not enter in the kyngedome of God. That whiche is borne of the flesshe is flesshe: and that whiche is borne of the spyrite, is spirite. Maruayle not that I sayd to the, ye must be borne a newe. The ✣spirite breatheth where he lysteth, and thou hearest his sounde: but canst not tell whence he commeth, and whether he goeth. So is euery mā that is borne of the spirite.

B And Nycodemus aunswered and sayde vnto hym: howe can these be? Jesus aunswered and sayde vnto him: arte thou the master of Israel, and knowest not these thinges? Verely, verely I saye vnto the, we speake that we knowe, and witnesse that we haue sene: and ye receyue not oure wytnes. If when I tell you earthly thinges, ye beleue not: how shulde ye beleue, yf I shall tell you heauenly thinges?

And no man ascendeth vp to heuen, but he that came downe frome heauen, the sonne of man whiche is in heauen.

And as ✳ Moses lyfted vp the serpent in ỳ wyldernesse, euen so must the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that none that beleueth in hym perysshe: but shuld haue euerlastinge lyfe. ✣

Num.xxi.b

✣ For God so loueth the worlde, that he hath gyuen his onely sonne, that none that beleue in him, shulde perysshe: but shuld haue euerlastinge lyfe. For God sent not his sonne into the worlde, to condemne the worlde: but that the worlde through him, might be saued. He that beleueth on him, shall not be condēned. But he that beleueth not, is condemned all redy, bycause he beleueth not in the name of the only sonne of God. And this is the cōdemnacion, that light is come into the world and the men loued darcknes more then light because their dedes were cuyll. For euery mā that cuyll doeth, hateth the lyght: neyther commeth to lyght, lest his dedes shoulde be reproued. But he that doeth trueth, commeth to the lyght ỳ his dedes might be knowē, how that they are wrought in God. ✣

C After these came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Jewry, and there he abode with them and baptised. And Johñ also baptysed in Enon besydes Salim, bycause there was moche water there, and they came, and were baptysed. For Johñ was not yet caste in to pryson.

✣ There arose a question betwene Johñs disciples and the Jewes about purifyenge. And they came vnto Johñ, & sayde vnto him: Rabbi, he that was with the beyonde Jordan, to whome thou bareste wytnesse, beholde he baptyseth, and all men come to hym. Johñ answered, and sayde: A man can receyue nothinge, oneles it be gyuen him frome heauen. Ye your selues are witnesses, that I sayde: I am not Christ, but am sent before him. He ỳ hath the bryde, is the brydegrome. But the frende of the brydegrome, which standeth by & heareth him, reioyseth greately of the brydegromes voyce. This my ioye is fulfylled. He must increase: and I must abate.

He that commeth from an hyghe, is aboue all: He that is of the earthe, is earthly, and speaketh of the earthe. He that commeth frō heauen, is aboue all, and what he hathe sene and herde: that he testifieth: but no man receyueth his testimonye. He that hathe receyued his testimonye, hath set to his seale that God is true. For he whome God hathe sent, speaketh the wordes of God. For God gyueth not the spirite by measure. The father loueth the sonne, and hath gyuen all thinges into his hand. He that beleueth on the sonne hath euerlastinge lyfe: & he that beleueth not the sonne, shall not se lyfe, but the wrathe of God abydeth on him. ✣

¶ The louynge communicacion of Christ with the woman of Samaria by the welles syde. How he healeth the rulers sonne.

CAPI. IIII.

A As sone as the Lorde had knowledge, howe the Pharises had herde, that Jesus made and baptysed moo disciples then Johñ (thoughe that Jesus him selfe baptysed not: but his disciples) he lefte Jewry, & departed agayne into Galile. And it behoued him to go thorow Samaria. So came he to a cyte of Samaria called Sichar, besydes the possessiō that Jacob gaue to his sonne Joseph. And there was Jacobs well. Jesus then wered in his iorney, sate thus on the well. And it was about the sixte houre: and there came a woman of Samaria to drawe water. And Jesus sayd vnto her: gyue me drynke. For his disciples were gone awaye vnto the towne to bye meate. Then sayde the woman of Samaria vnto him: howe is it, that thou beynge a Jewe, askest drynke of me, beynge a Samaritane? For the Jewes medle not with ỳ Samaritans. Jesus answered and sayd vnto her: If thou knewest the gyfte of God, and who it is that sayethe to the gyue me drynke, thou woldest haue asked of him, and he wold haue gyuen the, lyuinge water. The woman sayd to hym. Syr thou hast nothinge wherewith to drawe, and the well is depe: frome whence then hast thou that water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then our father Jacob which gaue vs the well, and he him selfe dranke therof, and his children, and his catell?

B Jesus answered and sayde vnto her: whosoeuer

so euer drinketh of this water, shall thirste agayne. But who so euer shall drynke of the water that I shall gyue hym, shall neuer be more a thirste: but the water that I shal gyue him, shalbe in him a well of water, spryngyng vp into euerlastinge lyfe. The woman sayde to him: Syr, gyue me of that water, that I thyrst not, neyther come hyther to drawe. Jesus sayde vnto her. Go and call thy husband, and come hyther. And the woman answered, and sayde to him: I haue no husbande. Jesus sayde to her: Thou hast well sayd, I haue no husbande. For thou hast had fyue husbandes, and he whome thou now hast, is not thy husbande. That saydest thou truely.

The woman sayde vnto him: Syr, I perceyue, thou arte a Prophet. Our fathers worshypped in this mountayne: and ye saye that in Jerusalem is the place, where men oughte to worshyppe. Jesus sayde vnto her: woman beleue me, the houre is commynge, when ye shall neyther in this mountayne nor yet at Jerusalem, worshippe the father. Ye worshyppe ye wot not what: we knowe what we worshyppe. For helth commeth of the Jewes. But the houre commeth and nowe is, when the true worshyppers shall worshyppe the father in spryte, and trouthe. For suche also the father seketh to worshyp hym. God is a spryte and they that worshyp him, must worshyppe hym in spryte and trouthe.

The woman sayde vnto hym: I wot well that Messias shal come, which is called Christ When he is come, he will tell vs all. Jesus sayde to her: I that speake vnto the, am he. And euen with that came his disciples, & mercueled that he talked with the woman. Yet no man sayde vnto hym: What meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her? The woman the left her waterpot, and went her waye into the cytie, and sayde to the men. Come, se a man whiche tolde me all that euer I dyd. Is not he Christ? Then they went out of the cytie, & came to hym.

In the meane whyle, his disciples prayed him, sayenge: Master, eate. He sayde vnto them: I haue meate to eate, that ye knowe not of. Then sayde the disciples within them selues: hath any man brought him meat? Jesus sayde vnto them: my meate is to do the will of hym that sent me. And to fynyshe his worke Saye not ye: there are yet foure monethes, & then commeth haruest? Beholde, I saye vnto you, lyfte vp your eyes, and loke on the regions: for they are whyte alreedy vnto haruest. And he that reapeth receyueth rewarde, & gathereth frute vnto lyfe eternall: that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, myghte reioyse togyther. And herein is the sayenge true, that one soweth and an other reapeth. I sente you to reape that wheron ye bestowed no labour. Other men laboured, and ye are entred into their labours.

Many of the Samaritans of that cytie beleued on him, for the sayenge of the woman / whiche testified: he tolde me all, that euer I dyd. Then when the Samaritans were come vnto hym they besought hym, that he would tary with them. And he abode there .ij. dayes. And many moo beleued, because of his owne wordes, and sayde vnto the woman: Now, we beleue not because of thy sayenge: for we haue herde him oure selues, and knowe that this is in dede Christe, the sauioure of the worlde.

After two dayes, he departed thence, and went into Galile. * And Jesus hym selfe testified that a Prophete hath none honoure in his owne countreye. Then as sone as he was come into Galile, the Galileās receyued him which had sene all that he dyd, at Jerusalem at the feast. For they went also vnto the feastfull daye. And Jesus came agayne into Cana of Galile, where he turned the water, into wyne. (Matth. xiii. Marcke vi. Luke, iiii.)

✣ And there was a certayne rular, whose sonne was sicke at Capernaum. This man as sone as he herde that Jesus was come oute of Jewry into Galile, wente vnto him, and besought him, that he wolde come downe, and heale his sonne. For he was at poynt of deth. Then sayde Jesus to hym: except ye se signes and wondres, ye can not beleue. The rular sayde vnto hym: Syr come away, or that my childe dye. Jesus sayde to him: Go thy waye thy sonne lyueth. And the man beleued the wordes that Jesus had spoken vnto him, and went his waye. And anone as he went on his waye, his seruauntes met him, and told him sayenge: thy child lyueth. Then enquyred he of them the houre when he began to amende. And they sayde vnto him: Yesterdaye the seuenth houre, the feuer left him. And the father knewe that it was the same houre, in whiche Jesus sayde vnto him: Thy sonne lyueth. And he beleued, and all his housholde. This is agayne the seconde myracle that Jesus dyd, after he was come oute of Jewry into Galile.

The healeth the man that was sick eyght and thirtye yere. The Jewes accuse him, he answereth for him selfe, and reproueth them.

CAPI. V.

After that, there was a feast of the Jewes, and Jesus went vp to Jerusalem And there is at Jerusalem, by the * slaughterhouse, a pole called in the Ebrewe tongue, Bethseda, hauynge fyue porches. in whiche lay a great multitude of sicke folcke, of blynde, halte and wyddered, waytinge for the mouynge of the water. For an angell went downe at a certayne season in to the pole, and troubled the water. Who so euer then first after the sterynge of the water, wente downe, was made hole of what so euer disease he had A certayne man was there, which hadde bene diseased. xxxviij. yeres. When Jesus sawe him lye, and knewe that he nowe longe tyme had bene diseased, he sayde vnto hym. Wilt thou be made hole? The sicke man answered him. Syr, I haue no man when the water is troubled, to put me into the pole. But in the meane tyme, whyle I am aboute to come, an other stepped downe before me.

And Jesus sayde vnto hym: arise, take vp thy thy bedde and walke. And forthwith the man was made hole, and toke vp his bed and walked. And the same daye was the Sabboth daye. The Jewes therefore sayde to hym that was made hole. It is the Sabboth daye, it is not lawfull for the, to take awaye thy bed. He aunswered them: he that made me hole, sayde vnto me: Take vp thy bed, and walke. Then asked they hym: What man is that, whiche sayde vnto the, take vp thy bed, and walke. But he that was healed, wist not who it was. For Jesus hadde gotten hym selfe awaye, because there was preace of people in the place.

After that, Jesus founde hym in the temple, and sayde vnto him: Beholde, thou arte made hole, synne no more, lest a worse thinge happen vnto the. The man departed and told the Jewes that it was Jesus, whiche hadde made him hole.

And therefore the Jewes dyd pursue Jesus, and sought to slee him, because he had done this on the Sabboth. And Jesus aunswered them: ✣ My father worketh hytherto, and I worke. Therefore the Jewes sought the more to kyll hym, not onely because he had broken the Saboth: but sayd also that God was his father, and made him selfe egall with God.

Then answered Jesus, and sayde to them: Verely, verely I saye vnto you: the sonne can nothinge of hym selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For what so euer he doeth, ꝑ doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth ꝑ sonne, and sheweth him all what so euer he doeth. And he will shewe hym greatter workes then these, so that ye shall maruayle. For as the father rayseth vp the deed, and quyckeneth the, so the sonne also quyckeneth whome he will. Neither iudgeth the father any man: but hath gyuen all iudgement vnto the sonne, that all men shulde honour the sonne, as they honour the father. Who so honoureth not the sonne, honoureth not the father, whiche hathe sent hym. Verely, verely I say vnto you: He that heareth my wordes and beleueth on him that sent me, hath euerlastinge lyfe, and shall not come into damnation: but hath passed frome death vnto lyfe.

Verely, verely I saye vnto you: the howre is commynge, and now is, when the deed shal heare the voyce of the sonne of God. And they that heare, shall lyue. For as the father hath lyfe in him selfe, so hathe he gyuen the sonne, to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath gyuen him power also to iudge, in that he is the sonne of man. Maruayle not at this: the houre shall come, in whiche all that are in the graues, shal heare his voyce, and shall come forthe: they that haue done good, vnto the resurrection of lyfe: and they that haue done euyll, vnto the resurrection of damnacion.

✣ I can of my selfe do nothing. As I heare I iudge, and my iudgement is iuste, because I seke not my wyll, but the wyll of the father whiche hathe sent me. If I beare wytnes of my selfe, my wytnesse is not true. There is an other that beareth wytnesse of me, and I am sure that the wytnesse, whiche he beareth of me, is true.

Ye sent vnto Johñ, and he bare wytnesse vnto the trouthe. But I receyue not the recorde of man. But these thinges I saye, that ye myght be safe. He was a burnynge, and a shynynge lyght, & ye wolde for a season haue reioyced in his light. But I haue greater wytnesse then the wytnesse of Johñ. For the workes, whiche the father hathe gyuen me to fynyshe: the same workes that I do, beare wytnesse of me, that the father sent me. And the father him selfe whiche hath sent me, beareth wytnesse of me. Ye haue nor herde his voyce at any tyme nor ye haue sene his shape: And his wordes haue ye not abydinge in you For whome he hath sent: hym ye beleue not.

Searche the scriptures, for in the ye thinke ye haue eternall lyfe: and they are they whiche testifye of me. And yet will ye not come to me, that ye myghte haue lyfe. I receyue not prayse of mē. But I know you, that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name, and ye receyue me not. If an other shall come in his owne name, hym wyll ye receyue. How can ye beleue which receyue glorye one of an other, and seke not the glory that commeth of God onely?

Do not thinke that I will accuse you to my father. There is one that accuseth you: euen Moses in whome ye truste. For hadde ye beleued Moses, ye wolde haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But yf ye beleue not his wrytynges: howe shoulde ye beleue my wordes?

Jesus fedeth fyue thousande men, departeth awaye, that they shulde not make him kynge, and reproueth the fleshely hearers of his worde. The carnall are offended at him.

CAPI. VI.

After these Jesus went his way ouer the see of Galile nyghe to a cytie called Tiberias. And a great companye followed hym, because they had sene his myracles which he dyd on the diseased. And Jesus wēt vp into a mountayne, and there sate with his disciples. And Easter, a feaste of the Jewes, was nyghe.

✣ * Then Jesus lyft vp his eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto him, and sayd vnto Philip: Whence shall we bye breed that these might eate. This he sayde to proue him for him selfe knewe what he wolde do. (Matth. xiiii. Marcke. vi. Luke, ix.)

Philip aunswered him, two hundred penye worthe of bred are not sufficient for them, that euery one maye take a lytell. Then sayde vnto him one of his disciples, Andrewe Simon Peters brother. There is a ladde here, whiche hath fyue barley loaues and two fisshes: but what is that amonges so manye? And Jesus sayde: Make the people sit down: There was moche grasse in the place. And the men sate down, in nombre, about fyue thousand. Jesus toke the bred, and gyuynge thankes / gaue to the disciples / and his disciples / to them that were set downe. And lykewyse of the fisshes / as

as moche as they wolde.

When they had eate ynoughe he sayd vnto his disciples, gather vp the broken meate ye remayneth: that nothinge be loste. And they gathered it togither, and fylled twelue baskettes with the fragmentes, of the fyue barly loaues: whiche remayned vnto them that had eaten. Then the men, when they hadde sene the myracle that Jesus dyd, sayde: this is doubtles the Prophete that shulde come into the worlde, ⊢

When Jesus perceyued that they wolde come, and take him vp to make him kynge, ✶ he departed agayne into a mountayne, hym selfe alone. Math .xiiii.c Marcke.vi.f Luke,vi.c

And when euen was come, his disciples went vnto the see, and entred into a shyppe & went ouer the see vnto Capernaum. And anone it was darcke, and Jesus was not come to them. And the see arose with a great wynd that blewe. Nowe, when they had rowen a-
C bout. xxv. or. xxx. furlonges, they sawe Jesus walkynge on the see, & drawynge nyghe vnto the shyppe, and were afrayed. But he sayde vnto theym: It is I, be not afrayde. Then wolde they haue receyued hym into the shyp, and the shyp was forthwith at the land whyther they went.

The daye folowynge, the people whiche stode on the other syde of the see, sawe that there was none other shyppe there, saue that one into which his disciples were entred, and that Jesus entred not with his disciples in ye shyppe: but that his disciples were gone awaye alone. Howe be it, there came other shyppes frome Tiberias nygh vnto the place, where they ate breed, when the Lorde hadde blessed. Then when the people sawe that Jesus was not there, neyther his disciples, they also toke shyppynge, and came to Capernaũ, sekynge Jesus.

And when they hadde founde hym, on thother syde of the see, they sayde vnto hym: Rabbi, when camest thou hyther? Jesus aunswered them and sayde: Verely, verely I say vnto you: Ye seke me, not because ye sawe the myracles: but because ye dyd eate of the loaues, and were filled.

✝ Worke ye not the meate whiche peryssheth, but that endureth, vnto euerlastynge lyfe, whiche the sonne of man shall gyue vnto you. For him hath God the father sealed.

D Then sayde they vnto him: what shall we do that we myght worke the workes of God? Jesus aunswered and sayde vnto them. This is the worke of God, that ye beleue on hym, whome he hathe sent. They sayde vnto hym: what signe shewest thou then, that we maye se, and beleue the? What doest thou worke? Oure fathers dyd eate Manna in the wyldernesse, as it is wrytten: He gaue theym breed frome heauen to eate. Jesus sayde vnto thẽ: Verely, verely, I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not the breed frome heauen: but my father gyueth you the true breed frome heauen. But I sayde vnto you: that ye haue sene me, and yet beleue not. All that the father gyueth me, shall come to me: and hym that cõmeth to me, I cast not to awai. And this is the fathers will whiche hath sent me, that of all whiche he hath gyuen me, I shulde lose nothinge: but shoulde rayse it vp agayne, at the last daye. And this is the wil of him that sent me: that euery man which seyth the sonne, & beleueth on hym, haue euerlastinge lyfe, and I will rayse hym vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at him, because he sayd:

¶ Jesus cõmeth to Jerusalem at the feast, teacheth the Jewes, and reproueth them. There are dyuerse opinions of him, amonge the people. The Pharises rebuke the officers, because they haue not taken him, and chyde with Nycodemus, for takynge his parte.

CAPI. VII.

A ✝ After that, Jesus walked aboute to Galile, and wolde not walke in Jewry for the Jewes sought to kyll hym. The Jewes tabernacle feast was at hande. His brethren therfore sayde vnto hym: get the hence and go into Jewry that thy disciples maye se thy workes that thou doest. For there is no man that doeth any thinge secretly, & he hym selfe seketh to be knowen openly. If thou do suche thinges, shewe thy selfe to the worlde. For as yet his brethren beleued not in hym.

Then Jesus sayde vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is all way redy. The worlde can not hate you. But me it hateth: because I testify of it, that the workes of it are euyll. Go ye vp vnto this feast. I wil not go vp yet vnto this feaste, for my tyme is not yet full come. These wordes he sayde vnto

Then sought him the Jewes at the feast, and sayde: Where is he. And moche murmurynge was there of hym amonge the people. Some sayde: He is good, others sayd naye, but he deceyueth the people. How be it no man spake openly of hym, for feare of the Jewes. ⊢

✝ In the myddes of the feast, Jesus wente vp into the temple, & taughte. And the Jewes marueyled, sayenge: Howe knoweth he the scriptures, wheras he neuer lerned? Jesus answered them, and sayde: My doctrine is not myne: but his that sent me: Yf any man will doo his will, he shall knowe of the doctryne, whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my selfe. He that speaketh of him selfe/seketh his own prayse. But he that seketh his prayse that sent him, he is true, and no vnrightwysnesse is in hym.

Thẽ cryed Jesus in the tẽple as he taught sayenge: ye knowe me, and whence I am, ye knowe. And I am not come of my selfe, but he that sent me is true, whome ye know not. I knowe hym: for I am of him, and he hath sent me. Then they sought to take hym: but no man layde handes on hym/ because his tyme was not yet come. Many of the people beleued on hym, and sayde: When Christ cõmeth, shall he do mo myracles then this man hath done?

The Pharises herde that the people murmured this about hym. Wherfore the Pharises and hyghe prestes sent ministers forthe to take hym. Jesus therfore sayde vnto theym: Yet am I a lytel whyle with you, and then go I vnto him that sent me. Ye shal seke me, and shall not fynde me: and where I am thyther can ye not come. Then sayd the Jewes to thẽ selues: whyther shall he go, that we can not fynde hym? Will he go amonge the skatering of the Grekes, & teache the Grekes? What maner of sayeng is this that he sayde: Ye shal seke me, and shall not fynde me: and where I am, thyther can ye not come? E ¶ Christe maketh the man to se, that was borne blynde.

CAPI. IX.

AND as Jesus passed by, he sawe a man blynde from his byrth. And his disciples asked him, sayinge: Master, who dyd synne: this man, or his parentes, that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: Neyther hath this man synned, nor yet his parentes: but that the workes of God shulde be shewed in him. I must worke the workes of him that sent me, whyle it is daye. ✳ The nyghte commeth when no man can worke. As longe as I am in the worlde, I am the light of the worlde.

B As sone as he hadde thus spoken, he spatte on the grounde, and made claye of the spettle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, and sayde vnto hym: Goo washe the in the pole of Syloe, which by interpretacion signifieth sent. He wente his waye and washed, and came agayne seynge. The neyghboures and they that had sene him before howe that he was a begger, sayde: Is not this he that sate and begged? Some sayde: this is he. Other sayde: he is lyke hym.

But he him selfe sayd: I am euen he. They sayd therfore vnto him. How are thyne eyes opened? He answered and sayd. A man called Jesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me. Go to the pole Syloe and washe. And I wente and washed, and receyued my syght. They sayd vnto him: where is he? He sayth: I can not tell. L

They brynge hym to the Pharisees that a tyme before was blynde (for it was the Saboth daye when Jesus made the claye and opened his eyes.) Then agayne the Pharysees also asked him howe he had receyued his syght. He sayd vnto them: He put clay vpon myne eyes, and I washed, and I se. Then sayde some of the Pharysees: this man is not of God, bycause he kepeth not the Soboth daye. Other sayde: howe can a man that is a synner, doo suche myracles? And there was stryfe among them. Then spake they vnto the blynde agayne: What sayest thou of him, bycause he hath opened thyne eyes? And he said: He is a Prophete. D

The Jewes therfore dyd not byleue of the felowe, that he was blynde, and receyued his syght, tyll they hadde called the parentes of him that hadde receyued syght. And they asked them, sayng: Is this your sonne, whom ye saye was borne blynde? Howe dothe he nowe se then? His parentes answered them and sayde: We wote well that this is oure sonne, and that he was borne blynde: but how he now seeth we know not, or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell. He is of age alke him / let him answere for him self. Suche E wordes spake his parentes, bycause they feared the Jewes. For the Jewes hadde nowe conspyred, that yf any man dyd confesse that he was Christe, he shulde be excommunicate. Therfore sayd his parentes: he is of age, aske him.

Then agayne called they the man that was blynde, and sayde vnto him: Gyue God the prayse: we knowe that this man is a synner. He answered and sayd: Whether he be a synner or no, I can not tell: One thynge I am sure of, that I was blynde, and nowe I se. Then sayd they to him agayne. What dyd he to the? Howe opened he thyne eyes? He answered them: I tolde you euen nowe, and ye dyd not heare. Wherfore wolde ye heare it agayne? Wyll ye also be his disciples? whose brother Lazarus was sycke, and his systers sent vnto him, sayinge. Lorde beholde, he whom whō thou louest, is sicke. When Jesus herde that, he sayd: This infirmite is not vnto deth

but for the glorye of God, that the sonne of God, myghte be glorysied by it. Jesus loued Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus. Then after he had herde that he was sycke, he abode
B two dayes styll in the same place.
After that, sayde he to his disciples: let vs go into Jewry agayne. His disciples sayd vn to him: Master, the Jewes lately sought to stone the, and wilt thou go thyther agayne?
Jesus answered, are there not twelue houres in the daye? Yf a man walke in the daye, he stombleth not, because he seyth the lyghte of this worlde. But yf a mā walke in the night
he stombleth, because there is no lyght in him
This sayde he, and after that, he sayde vnto them: our frende Lazarus sleepeth, but I goo to awake him. Then sayde his disciples: Lorde yf he slepe, he shall do well ynoughe. But Jesus spake of his death: wheras they thought that he had spoken of the sleppnge of slepe.
Then sayde Jesus vnto theym playnly, Lazarus is dead, and I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, because ye maye beleue.
But go we vnto him. Then sayde Thomas called Didimus, vnto the disciples: Let vs
also go, that we maye dye with him. So wēt
C Jesus, & founde that he had lyen in his graue
foure dayes alredy. Bethany was nyghe vnto Jerusalem, aboute. xb. furlonges of, & many of the Jewes were come to Martha and Mary to comforte them ouer their brother.
Martha as sone as she herde that Jesus was commynge, wente and met hym: but Mary sate styll in the house.
✠ Then sayde Martha vnto Jesus: Lord
yf thou haddest bene here, my brother had not bene dead: but also now I knowe that what so euer thou askest of God, God wyll gyue it the. Jesus sayde vnto her: Thy brother shall ryse agayne. Martha sayde vnto him: I know that he shal ryse agayne in the resurrection at the last daye. Jesus sayde vnto her: I am the resurrection and the lyfe: He that beleueth in me, thoughe he were dead, yet shall he lyue.
And who so euer lyueth, and beleueth in me, D shall neuer dye: Beleuest thou this? She sayd vnto him: ye Lorde, I beleue that thou arte Chryst the sonne of God whiche shoulde come into the worlde. ✠
And as sone as she had so sayde, she went & called Mary her sister secretly, sayenge: The master is come and calleth for the. And assone as she herde that, she arose quickly, and came vnto hym. Jesus was not yet come into the towne: but was in the place where Martha met hym. The Jewes then which were with her in the house, & comforted her, when they sawe Mary, that she rose vp hastely, and wēt out, folowed her, sayenge: She goeth vnto
the graue, to wepe there.
Then when Mary was come where Jesus was and sawe hym, she fell downe at his fete, sayenge vnto him: Lorde yf thou haddest ben E here, my brother hadde not bene dead. When Jesus sawe her wepe, & the Jewes also wepe, which came with her, he groned in the spyrite,
and was troubled in him self, & sayde: Where haue ye layd hym? They sayd vnto him: Lord come and se. And Jesus wept. Then sayd the Jewes: Beholde, howe he loued him. And some of theym sayde: Coulde not this man whiche opened the eyes of the blynde, haue made also, that this man shulde not haue dyed? Jesus agayne groned in hym selfe, & came to the graue. It was a caue and a stone was layde on it.
And Jesus sayde: Take awaye the stone.
Martha the sister of him that was dead, sayd vnto him: Lorde by this tyme he stynketh.
For he hath ben dead foure dayes: Jesus sayd vnto her: Sayd I not vnto the, that yf thou dyddest beleue, thou shouldest se the glory of God. Then they toke awaye the stone frome the place where the dead was layde. And Jesus lyfte vp his eyes, and sayde: Father I thanke the, because thou haste herde me. I wote that thou hearest me alwayes: but because of the people that stande by, I sayde it that they maye beleue that thou hast sent me.
And when he thus hadde spoken, he cryed with a loude voyce. Lazarus come forth. And F he that was dead, came forth, bounde hande and fote, with graue bōdes, and his face was bounde with a napkin. Jesus sayde vnto thē:
lowse hym, and let him go. Then many of the Jewes which came to Mary, and hadde sene
the thynges whiche Jesus dyd, beleued on
hym. ✠ But some of them went their wayes
to the Pharises, and tolde them what Jesus had done.
✠ Then gathered the hyghe Prestes, and Pharises a concile, and sayde: What w we?
This man weth manye myracles. Yf we let hym escape thus, all men will beleue on hym
and the Romayns shall come and take away our countrey and the people. But one of the named Cayphas beynge the hyghe preaste of that yere, sayde vnto them: Ye perceyue no-thinge, nor yet consyder that it is expediēt for vs, that one man dye for the people, and not all the people perysshe. This spake he not of hym selfe, but beynge hyghe Preste that same yere, prophesyed that Jesus shulde dye for the people, and not for the people onely, but that he shulde gather togyther in one the childrē of God whiche were scattered abroade. ✶ Math.xxvi.a Frome that daye forthe, they deuysed to put Marc.xiiii.a hym to deathe.
Jesus therfore walked no more openly a- G monge the Jewes: but wente thence vnto a countrey nyghe to the wylderneile, into a cy-tie called Ephraim, and there taryed with his disciples. ✶ Nowe, the Jewes Easter was nyghe, and many went oute of the countreye Math.xxvi.a vp to Jerusalem before the Easter, to purysye Marc.xiiii.a them selues. Then sought they for Jesus, and Luke.xxii.a spake betwene theym selues, as they stode in the temple: What thynke ye, that he commeth not to the feast. The hyghe Prestes and Pharises hadde gyuen a commaundement, that yf any man knewe where he were, he shoulde shewe it, that they myghte take
hym. ✠

¶ Mary anoynteth Chrystes fete. Judas murmureth, Chryst excuseth her, and rideth in to Jerusalem.

CAPI. XII.

A Math.xxvi.a Marc.xiiii.a Luke.vii.c

THen Jesus, sixe dayes before Easter, came to Bethany, where Lazarus was which had bene dead, & whom Jesus had raysed from deth. There they made him a supper, and Martha serued: but Lazarus was one of them that sate at the table with hym. Then toke mary a pounde of oyntment called Nardus, pure and precious, and annoynted Jesus fete, and wypt his fete with her heer, the house was filled with the sauer of ỹ oyntment. ✣ Then sayde one of his disciples, named Judas Iscariot, Simons sonne, whiche afterwarde betrayed hym: why was not this oyntment solde for thre hundred pence, & geuen to the poore? This sayde he, not that he cared for the poore: but because he was a theefe, and kept the bagge, & bare that whiche was geuen. Then sayde Jesus: Let her alone, against the daye of my buryenge she hath kept this. The poore allwayes ye haue with you, but me ye haue not allwayes.

Math.xxvi.a Marc.xiiii.a

B Moche people of the Jewes, hadde knowledge that he was there. And they came, not for Jesus sake onely, but that they myght se Lazarus also whom he had raysed from deth. The hyghe Prestes therfore helde a councell, that they myghte put Lazarus to deeth also, because for his sake many of the Jewes went and beleued on Jesus. ✣

Math.xxi.a Marc.xiii.a Luke.xix.c

✣ On the morow, moche people that were come to the feast, when they herde that Jesus shulde come to Jerusalem, toke braunches of palme trees, and went and met him, & cryed Hosanna, blessed is he that in the name of the Lorde, commeth kynge of Israel. And Jesus got a ponge asse and sate theron, accordynge to that which was wrytten: feare not daughter of Syon, beholde thy kynge commeth sittynge on asses colte. These vnderstode not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorifyed, then remembred they that suche thinges were written of him, and that suche thinges they had done vnto him. The people that was with hym when he called Lazarus oute of his graue, and rayled him from death, bare recorde. Therfore met hym the people, because they herde that he had done suche a myracle. The Pharises therfore sayde amonge thē selues, perceyue ye how we preuayle nothinge? Beholde the worlde goeth awaye after him.

C There were certayne Grekes amonge thē, that came to praye at the feast: these came to Philip, whiche was of Bethsaida a cytie in Galile, and desyred him, sayenge: Syr, we wolde sayne se Jesus. Philip came and tolde Andrewe. And agayne Andrewe and Philip, tolde Jesus. And Jesus answered them sayenge: the houre is come, that the sonne of mā must be glorifyed.

D ✣ Verely, verely I saye vnto you, oneles the wheate corne fall into the grounde & dye, it abydeth alone. Yf it dye, it bringeth forthe moche frute. He that loueth his lyfe shall destroye it: and he that hateth his lyfe, in this worlde, shall kepe it vnto lyfe euerlastinge. E If any man minister vnto me, let him folow me, and where I am, there shall also my minister be. And yf any man minister vnto me, him shal my father honoure. ✣

Now is my soule troubled, & what shall I saye? Father delyuer me from this houre: but therfore came I vnto this houre. Father glorifye thy name. Then came there a voyce from heauen: I haue glorifyed it, and will glorifye it agayne. Then sayd the people that stode by and herde: it thoundreth. Other sayd, an angell spake to hym. Jesus answered, & sayde: This voyce came not because of me, but for your sakes.

✣ Now is the iudgement of this worlde: now shal the prince of this worlde be cast out. And I, yf I were lyfte vp from the earth, will draw all men vnto me. This sayd Jesus, signifienge what deathe he shulde dye. The people answered him: We haue herde out of the lawe that Christ abydeth euer, and how sayst thou then, that the sonne of man must be lyft vp? Who is that sonne of man? Then Jesus sayde vnto them: yet a lytell whyle is the lyght with you. Walke whyle ye haue lyght lest the darckenesse come on you. He that walketh in the darcke, wotteth not whyther he goeth. Whyle ye haue lyghte, beleue on the lyght, ỹ ye maye be the children of ỹ light. ✣

E These thinges spake Jesus and departed, and hyd hym selfe from them. And thoughe he had done so many miracles before them, yet beleued not they on hym, that the sayenge of Esay the Prophet myght be fulfilled, that he spake. ✣ Lorde who beleueth oure sayenge? And to whome is the arme of the Lorde opened? Therfore could they not beleue, because that Esaye sayth agayne: he hathe blynded their eyes, & hardened their hertes, that they shulde not se with their eyes, and vnderstand with their hertes, and shulde be conuerted, & I shulde heale them. Suche thynges sayd Esay when he saw his glory, and spake of him. Neuertheles also amonge the chefe rulers, many beleued on him. But because of the pharises, they wolde not be aknowen of it, leaste they shuld be thrust out of the Synagoge. For they loued the prayse, that is geuen of men, more then the prayse that commeth of God.

F But Jesus cryed and sayd: he that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seyth me, seyth him that sent me. ✣ I am come a lyght into the worlde that who so euer beleueth on me, shulde not abyde in darckenes. And yf any man heare my wordes, and beleue not, I iudge hym not: for I came not to iudge the worlde: but to saue the worlde. He that refuseth me, and receyueth not my wordes, hathe one that iudgeth hym. The wordes that I haue spoken, they shall iudge him, in the last daye. For I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father whiche sent me, he gaue me a commaundment what I shulde saye and what I shulde speake. And I knowe that this commaundement is lyfe euerlastinge. What so euer I speake therfore, euen as the father bad me, so I speake. ✣

¶ Christ washeth the disciples fete, telleth them of Judas the traytour, and commaundeth thē earnestly to loue one a nother.

CAPI. XIII.

A BEfore the feast of Easter, when Jesus knew his houre was come, that he shuld departe out of this worlde, vnto the father, where as he loued his, whiche were in the worlde, vnto the ende he loued them. And when supper was ended, after that the deuyll had put in the hert of Judas Iscariot Simōs sonne, to betraye him: Jesus knowyng, that the father had geuen all thinges into his handes, and that he was come frome God, and went to God, ryseth frome supper, and layd a syde his vpper garmentes, and toke a towel, and gyrde hym selfe. After that, he powred water into a basyn, and began to washe his disciples fete, & to wype them with the towel wherwith he was gyrde.

Then came he to Simon Peter. And Peter sayde to hym: Lorde wasshest thou my fete? Jesus answered and sayde vnto him: What I do, thou wotest not nowe, but thou shalte knowe hereafter. Peter sayde vnto hym: thou shalt not washe my fete whyle the worlde stāndeth. Jesus answered hym: yf I wash he thee not, thou hast no part with me. Simon Peter sayde vnto him: Lorde, not my fete onely: but also my handes and my heed. Jesus sayde to him: He that is washed, needeth not saue to washe his fete, and is clene euery whit. And ye are cleane: but not all. For he knewe his betrayer. Therfore sayde he: Ye are not all cleane.

B After he had washed their fete, and receyued his clothes, and was set downe agayne, he sayde vnto theym: Wote ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me master and Lorde, and ye say well, for so am I. Yf I then, your Lord & master haue washed your fete, ye also ought to washe one an others fete. For I haue geuen you an exemple, that ye shulde do, as I haue done to you. ✣ Verely verely I saye vnto you, the seruaunt is not greatter then his master, neyther the Apostle greatter then he that sent him.

C Yf ye vnderstande these thinges, happy are ye, yf ye do them. I speake not of you all, I knowe whome I haue chosen. But that the scripture be fulfilled: He that eateth breed with me, hath lyft vp his hele against me. Nowe tell I you, before it come: that whē it is come to passe, ye might beleue, that I am he. Verely verely I saye vnto you. He that receyueth whom so euer I sende, receyueth me. And he that receyueth me, receyueth him that sent me.

D When Jesus had thus sayde, he was troubled in the spirite, and testified sayenge: verely verely I say vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me. And then the disciples loked one on an other doubtynge of whome he spake. There was one of his disciples, which leaned on Jesus bosome, whō Jesus loued. To him beckened Simon Peter, that he shoulde aske who it was of whome he spake. He then as he leaned on Jesus brest, sayd vnto hym: Lord who is it? Jesus answered, he it is to whom I geue a soppe, when I haue dypte it. And he wet a soppe, and gaue it to Judas Iscariot, Simons sonne. And after the soppe, Satan entred into him. Then sayde Jesus vnto him That thou doest, do quyckely. That wist no man at the table, for what intent he spake vnto hym. Some of them thought, because Judas had the bagge, that Jesus had sayde vnto him, bye thole thynges that we haue nede of, against the feaste: or that he shoulde geue some thinge to the poore. As sone then as he had receyued the soppe, he went out. And it was nyghte, when he was gone oute. Jesus sayde: now is the sonne of man glorifyed. And God is glorifyed by him. Yf God be glorifyed by him, God shal also glorifye him in him self: and shall forthwith glorifye him.

E ✣ Deare children, yet a lytell whyle, am I with you. Ye shall seke me, and as I layd vnto the Jewes, whyther I goo, thyther can ye not come. And to you saye I now. A newe cōmaundement geue I vnto you, that ye loue togyther, as I haue loued you, that euen so ye loue one an other. By this, shall all men know that ye are my disciples, yf ye shal haue loue one to an other. Simon peter sayd vnto him: Lorde whyther goest thou? Jesus answered hym: Whyther I go, thou canst not folow me now, but thou shalt folowe me afterwardes. ✣ Peter sayde vnto him: Lorde, why can not I folowe the now? I will geue my lyfe for thy sake? Jesus answered him: wilt thou geue thy lyfe for my sake? Verely, verely I saye vnto the, the cocke shall not crowe, tyll thou haue denyed me thryse.

¶ He armeth his disciples with consolation against trouble, and promyseth them the holy ghoste, the spirite of comforte.

CAPI. XIIII.

A ✣ And he sayde vnto his disciples: Let not your hertes be troubled. Beleue in God, and beleue in me. In my fathers house are many dwellynges. Yf it were not so, I wolde haue tolde you. I go to prepare a place for you. And yf I go to prepare a place for you, I will come agayne, and receyue you euen vnto my selfe, that where I am, there maye ye be also. And whyther I go ye know, and the waye ye knowe.

Thomas sayd vnto him: Lorde, we know not whyther thou goest, and how is it possible for vs to knowe the waye? Jesus sayd vnto hym: I am the waye, and the trouth and the lyfe. And no man commeth vnto the father, but by me. Yf ye had knowen me, ye had knowen my father also. And nowe ye knowe him, and haue sene him.

Philip sayeth vnto hym: Lorde, shewe vs the father, and it sufficeth vs. Jesus sayd vnto him, haue I bene so longe tyme with you: & yet hast thou not knowen me? Philip, he ỹ hath sene me, hath sene the father. And howe sayest thou then: shewe vs the father? Beleuest thou not that I am in the father, & the father in me? The wordes ỹ I speake vnto you

I speake not of my selfe: but the father that dwelleth in me, is he that weth the workes. Beleue me that I am in the father, and the father in me. At the least, beleue me for the very workes sake.

Verely, verely I say vnto you, he that beleueth on me, the workes that I do, he shall also do, and greater workes then these, shall he do, because I go vnto my father. And what soeuer ye aske in my name, that will I doo, that the father, myghte be glorified, by the sonne. Yf ye shall aske any thing in my name, I will do it. ✠

✠ Yf ye loue me, kepe my commaundmentes, and I will praye the father, and he shall gyue you an other comforter, that he maye abyde with you euer: whiche is * the spirite of trouthe, whome the worlde can not receyue, because the worlde seyth hym not, nether knoweth hym. But ye knowe hym. For he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I will not leaue you fatherles: but will come to you.

* The holy ghost.

Yet a lytell whyle, and the worlde seeth me no more: but ye shall se me. For I lyue, and ye shall lyue. That daye shall ye knowe that I am in my father, and you in me, and I in you.

L Who that hath my commaundementes, & kepeth them, the same is he that loueth me. And who loueth me, shall be loued of my father: and I will loue hym, and open my selfe to hym. Judas sayde vnto hym (not Judas Iscariot) Lorde, what is the cause that thou wilt shewe thy selfe vnto vs, and not vnto ỹ worlde? Jesus answered and sayde vnto him: yf a man loue me, he will kepe my worde, and my father also will loue him, & we will come vnto hym, and dwell with hym. He that loueth me not, kepeth not my sayenges. And ỹ wordes whiche ye heare, are not myne, but ỹ fathers whiche sent me.

D This haue I spoken vnto you, beynge yet present with you. But that comforter the holy ghoste (whome my father will sende in my name) he shall teache you all, and bringe all to your remembraunce, what so euer I haue tolde you.

G Peax I leaue with you, my peax I gyue vnto you. Not as the worlde gyueth, gyue I vnto you. Let not youre hertes be greued, nether feare ye. Ye haue herde, how I sayde vnto you: I go, and come agayne vnto you. Yf ye loued me, ye wolde verely reioyce, because I sayde, I go vnto the father. For the father is greater then I. And nowe haue I shewed you, before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue. Here after will I not speake many wordes vnto you. For the ruler of this worlde commeth, and hath nought in me. But that the worlde maye knowe that I loue the father: Therfore as the father gaue me commaundement, euen so do I. ✠ Aryse, go we hence.

¶ The true vyne, the husbandman, and the braunches. ✠ doctrine of loue, and a sweete cõforte agaynst persecution.

I ✠ Am the true vyne, and my father is the husbandman. Euery braunche that beareth not frute in me, he will take awaye. And A eucrye braunche, that beareth frute, will he pourge, that it maye bringe more frute. Now are ye cleane, thorowe the wordes, whiche I haue spoken vnto you. Abyde in me, and let me abyde in you. As the braūche cannot beare frute of it selfe, except it abyde in the vyne: no more can ye, oneles ye abyde in me. I am the vyne, and ye are the braunches. Who abydeth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth moche frute. For without me, can ye do nothinge. Yf a man abyde not in me, he is cast forth as a braunche, and is wyddered: & men gather it, and cast it into the fyre, and it burneth. * Yf ye abyde in me, and my wordes also abyde in you: what so euer ye will, ye shall aske, and it shalbe done to you. ✠ B Math.vii. 1. Johan.xiii.b

Herein is my father glorified, that ye beare moche frute, and be made my disciples.

As the father hath loued me, so haue I loued you. * Continue in my loue. Yf ye shall kepe my commaundementes, ye shall abyde in my loue, euen as I haue kept my fathers cõmaundementes, and abyde in his loue. These haue I spoken vnto you, that my ioye myght remayne in you, and your ioye myght be full. * Charite & loue.

✠ This is my commaundement: That ye loue togyther, as I haue loued you. A greater loue then this, hath no man, that a man bestowe his lyfe for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, yf ye do what so euer I commaunde you. Henceforthe call I you not seruauntes: for the seruaunt knoweth not what his lorde doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for all that I haue herde of my father, I haue opened to you. C

Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeyned you, that ye go and bring forth frute, and that your frute remayne, that what so euer ye shall aske of the father, in my name, he shulde gyue it you. ✠

✠ This commaunde I you, That ye loue togyther. Yf the worlde hate you, ye knowe that he hated me, before he hated you. Yf ye were of the worlde, the worlde wold loue his owne. Howe be it because ye are not of the world, but I haue chosen you out of the world therfore hateth you the world. Remember the sayenge that I sayde vnto you: The seruaūt is not greater then the Lord. * Yf they haue persecuted me, so will they persecute you. Yf they haue kept my sayenges, so will they kepe youres. Mathei. Luke.xxi. Marcha.xi.

But all these thinges will they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not knowen hym that sent me. Yf I hadde not come, and spoken vnto them, they shulde not haue had synne: but nowe haue they nothinge, to cloke their synne with all. He that hateth me hateth my father. Yf I had not done workes amonge them, whiche none other man dyd, they had not had synne. But now haue they seene, and yet haue hated bothe me and my father: euen ỹ the sayenge myghte be fulfilled ỹ is wrytten in their law: they hated me without a cause. ✠ D

✠ But when the comforter is come, whome I will sende vnto you frome the father, whiche is the spirite of trouthe/ whiche proceedeth of the father, he shall wytnesse of me. And ye shall beare wytnesse also, because ye haue ben with me frome the begynnynge.

¶ Consolacion agaynst trouble. Prayers are herde thorow Christe.

CAPI. XVI.

A THese thynges haue I sayd vnto you, because ye shulde not be offended. They shall excommunicate you/ yea the tyme shall come, that who so euer killeth you, will thynke that he dothe God seruyce. And suche thynges will they do vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father, nether yet me. But these thynges haue I tolde you, ỹ when that houre is come, ye myght remembre them that I tolde you so. ✠ These thynges sayd I not vnto you at the begynnynge, because I was present with you.

B ✠ But now I go awaye to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me: whither goest thou? But because I haue sayd suche thynges vnto you, your hertes are full of sorowe. But I tell you the trouthe, it is expedient for you that I go awaye. For yf I go not awaye, the comforter will not come vnto you. But yf I departe, I wyl sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he shal rebuke the worlde of synne, and of ryghtousnes, and of iudgement. * Of synne, because they beleue not on me/ of righteousnes, because I go to my father, & ye shall se me no more/ of iudgement, because the chiefe ruler of this worlde is iudged already.

I haue yet many thynges to saye vnto you: but ye can not beare them awaye nowe. Howbeit when he is come (I meane the spirite of trouthe) he will leade you in to all trouthe. He shall not speake of hym selfe / but what so euer he shall heare, that shall he speake/ and he will shewe you thynges to come. He shall glorifye me / for he shall receyue of myne, and shall shewe vnto you. All thynges that the father hathe, are myne. Therfore sayde I vnto you, that he shall take of myne and shewe vnto you. ✠ E

✠ A whyle & ye se me not, agayne a whyle and ye shall se me/ for I go to the father. Then said some of his disciples within them selues: What is this that he sayth vnto vs/ a whyle and ye se me not, and agayne a whyle and ye shall se me, and that I go to the father. They sayde therfore: what is this that he sayethe, a whyle? we can not tell what he sayethe. Jesus perceyued that they wolde aske him, and sayd vnto them: This is it that ye enquyre of amonges your selues, that I sayde: a whyle and ye se me not, and agayne a whyle and ye shall se me. Verily verily I saye vnto you: ye shal wepe and lament, and the worlde shal reioyse: ye shall sorowe, but your sorow shall be turned to ioye. D

A woman when she trauayleth, hathe sorowe, because her houre is come: but as soone as she is delyuered of the childe, she remembreth no more the anguyshe, for ioye that a man is borne in to the worlde. And ye nowe are in sorowe, but I will se you agayne, and youre hertes shall reioyce, and your ioye shall no man take frome you. ✠ F And in that daye shall ye aske me no question. ✠ Verily verily I saye vnto you, what so euer ye shal aske the father in my name, he will gyue it vnto you. Hytherto haue ye asked nothyng in my name. * Aske and ye shall receyue it: that your ioye may be full. Math.vii.a Luke.xi.d Jacobi.i.a

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you in prouerbes. The tyme shall come when I shall no more speke to you in prouerbes/ but I shall shewe you playnly of my father. At that daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I will speke vnto my father for you. For the father him selfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued that I came from God. I wente out from the father, and came in to the worlde/ and I leue the worlde agayne, and go to the father.

His disciples said vnto him: lo, nowe speakest thou playnly, and thou vsest no prouerbe. Nowe knowe we that thou understandest all thynges, and nedest not that any man sholde aske the any question. Therfore beleue we that thou camest from God. ✠ Jesus answered them: Now ye beleue. * Beholde the houre draweth nye, and is already come, that ye shall be scattered euery man his wayes, & shall leue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For the father is with me. G Math.xxvi.c Marc.xiiii.c

These wordes haue I spoke vnto you, that in me ye might haue peace. For in the worlde shall ye haue tribulacion/ but be of good chere I haue ouercome the worlde.

¶ The moste harty and louynge prayer of Christe vnto his father, for all such as receyue the truth

CAPI. XVII.

A ✠ THese wordes spake Jesus and lyft vp his eyes to heuen, and sayd: father, the houre is come: glorifye thy sonne, that thy sonne maye glorifye the: as thou hast gyuen him power ouer all fleshe, that he sholde gyue euerlastyng lyfe to as many as thou hast gyuen him. This is lyfe euerlastyng, that they might knowe the, thonly true God, & whome thou hast sent Jesus Christ.

I haue glorifyed the on the erthe. I haue fynyshed the worke whiche thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye me thou father at thyne owne selfe, with the glory whiche I had with the, er the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men whiche thou gauest me of the worlde. Thyne they were, and thou gauest them me, and they haue kepte thy sayinges. Now they knowe that all what so euer thou hast gyuen me, are of the. For I haue gyuen B vnto them the wordes which thou gauest me, and they haue receyued them, and know surely that I came frome the/ and do beleue that thou dyddest sende me.

* I praye for them, I praye not for the worlde, but but for them whiche thou hast gyuen me, for they are thyne. And all myne are thyne, and thyne are myne/and I am glorifyed in them. And nowe am I no more in the worlde, but they are in the worlde, and come to the. ✠ Holy father kepe i thyne owne name them whiche thou hast gyuen me, that they may be one as we are. whyle I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name. Those that thou gauest me, haue I kept, and none of them is lost, saue that lost childe, that the scripture myght be fulfylled.

L Now come I to the, & these wordes speake I in the worlde, that they might haue my ioye full in them. I haue gyuen them thy wordes, and the worlde hath hated them, bycause they are not of the worlde, lyke as I am not of the worlde. I desyre not that thou woldest take them out of the worlde, but that thou kepe them from euyll. They are not of the worlde, like as I am not of the worlde. Sanctifie them with thy trouthe. Thy saynge is trouthe. As thou diddest send me in to the worlde, so haue I sent them in to the worlde, & for their sakes sanctifye I my selfe, that they also mighte be sanctifyed thorowe the truthe.

I praye not for them alone: but for them also whiche shall byleue on me thorowe theyr preachynge, that they all maye be one, as thou father art in me, and I in the/ that they maye be also one in vs, that the worlde may byleue that thou hast sente me. And that glorye that thou gauest me, I haue gyuen them/that they maye be one, as we are one. I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfecte in one/and that the worlde may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loued them, as thou hast loued me.

D Father, I wyll that they whiche thou hast gyuen me, be with me where I am/that they maye se my glory whiche thou hast gyuen me. For thou louedest me before the makynge of the worlde. ✠ O ryghtous father, the worlde hathe not knowen the, but I haue knowen the/ and these haue knowen that thou hast sente me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and wyll declare it/ that the loue wherwith thou hast loued me, be in them/ and I in them. F

CAPI. XVIII.

A Matth.xxvi.d Marc.xiiii.d. Luke.xxii.d

✠ When Jesus had spoken these wordes he went forth with his disciples ouer the broke Cedron, where was a garden in to whiche he entred with his disciples. Now Judas whiche betrayed him knewe the place, for Jesus oft tymes resorted thyther with his disciples. Judas then after he hadde receyued a bande of men, and ministres of the hygh preestes & Pharisees, came thither with lanterns and fyrebrandes, and weapens. Then Jesus knowing al thinges that sholde come on him, went forth and said vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered him: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus said vnto them: I am he. Judas also whiche betrayed him, stode with them. But as sone as he had sayde vnto them, I am he, they wente bakwardes and fell to the grounde. And he asked them agayne: whom seke ye? They sayd: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I said vnto you, I am he/ yf ye seke me, let these go their way. That the saying myght be fulfylled whiche he spake: of them whiche thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

Simon Peter had a swerde, and drue it, and smote the hyghe preestes seruaunt, and cut of his ryghte eare. The seruauntes name was Malchus. Then sayd Jesus vnto Peter: put vp thy swerde in to the sheathe: shall I not drynke of the cup which my father hath ginen me? Then the company and the captayne, and ministers of the Jewes toke Jesus and bounde him, and ledde him awaye to Anna fyrste / for he was fatherelawe vnto Caypphas, whiche was the hye preest that same yere. Caypphas was he that gaue counsell to the Jewes, that it was expedient that one man sholde dye for the people.

C Matth.xxvi.d Marc.xiiii.d Luke.xxii.d

✠ And Simon Peter folowed Jesus & another disciple, that disciple was knowen of the hye preest, & went in with Jesus in to the palace of the high preest. But Peter stode at the dore without. Then wente out that other disciple whiche was knowen vnto the hye preest, and spake to the damsell that kepte the dore, and brought in Peter. Then said the damsell that kept the wre vnto Peter: Art not thou one of this mans disciples? He said: I am not. The seruauntes and the ministers stode there, and had made a fyre of coles, for it was colde/ and they warmed them selues. Peter also stode amonge them, and warmed him selfe.

D Marc.xiiii.d Luke.xxii.d

✠ The hygh preest asked Jesus of his disciples & of his doctryne. Jesus answered him: I spake openly in the worlde. I euer taughte in the Synagoge, and in the temple whyther all the Jewes resorted, and in secrete haue I sayde nothynge: Why asketh thou me? Aske them which herd me, what I said vnto them. Behoide, these can tell what I sayd. When he had thus spoken, one of the ministres whiche stode by smote Jesus on the face, saynge: answerest thou the hygh preest so? Jesus answered him. Yf I haue euyll spoken, beare wytnes of the euyl: yf I haue wel spoken, why smytest thou me? And Annas sente him bounde vnto Caypphas the hygh preest.

Symon Peter stode and warmed hym selfe. And they sayde vnto him: Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denyed it, and sayde: I am not. One of the seruauntes of the hyghe preestes (his cosyn whose eare Peter smote of) sayde vnto hym: Dyd not I se the in the garden with him? Peter denyed agayne / and anone the cocke crewe. ✠ Then ledde they Jesus from Caypphas in to the hall of iudgemēt. It was in the morning, and they them selues went not in to the iudgement hall lest they sholde be defyled, but that they might eate the passhe. Pylate then wente out vnto them and sayde: What accusation bynge ye agaynst this man? They answered and sayde vnto him. If he were not an euyll doer, we wold not haue deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Pylate vnto them: take ye him and iudge him after your lawe. Then the Jewes sayde vnto him. It is not lawfull for vs to put any man to dethe. That the wordes of Jesus myghte be fulfylled, whiche he spake signifynge what deth he sholde dye.

F Then Pylate entred in to the iudgemente hall agayne/ and called Jesus, and sayde vnto him: Arte thou the kynge of the Jewes? Jesus answered: sayest thou that of thy selfe, or dyd other tell it the of me? Pilate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne owne nacion and hye preestes haue delyuered the vnto me. What hast thou done? Jesus answered: My kyngdome is not of this worlde. Yf my kyngdome were of this worlde, then wolde my ministers surely fyght, that I sholde not be delyuered to the Jewes/ but now is my kyngdom not from hence. Pilate said vnto him: Art thou a kynge then: Jesus answered / thou sayst that I am a kynge. For this cause was I borne, and for this cause came I in to the worlde, that I shold beare wytnesse vnto the trouthe. And all that are of the trouthe heare my voyce. Pilate said vnto him: what thing is trouthe? And when he had sayd that/ he went out agayn vnto the Jewes, and sayde vnto them: I fynde in him no cause at al. Ye haue a custome that I sholde delyuer you one lose at Ester. Wyll ye that I lose vnto you the kynge of the Jewes? Then cryed they all agayne, sayinge: Not him, but Barrabas/ that Barrabas was a robber.

¶ Chryste is crucified, He commendeth his mother vnto Jhon, theadeth his blonde, and is but yed.

CAPI. XIX.

Then Pylate toke Jesus and scourged him. ✠ And the souldyours wounde a crowne of thornes, & put it on his heed. And they dyd on him a purple garmente, and sayd, hayle kynge of the Jewes: & they smote him on the face. Pilate went forth agayn and sayd vnto them: Beholde I bynge him forth to you, that ye maye knowe that I fynde no faute in him. Then came Jesus forthe, weaynge a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And Pilate sayd vnto them: beholde the man. ✠ When the hye preestes and ministers sawe him/ they cryed, sayinge: Crucifye him, crucifye him. Pylate sayd vnto them. Take ye him and crucifye him, for I fynde no cause in him. The Jewes answered him. We haue a lawe, and by our lawe he ought to dye: bycause he made him selfe the sonne of God. When Pilate herde this sayinge, he was the more afrayde, and went agayn in to the iudgement hall, and sayd vnto Jesus: Whence art thou? But Jesus gaue him none answere. Then sayde Pilate vnto him. Speakest thou not vnto me? Knowest thow not that I haue power to crucifye the, and haue power to lose the? Jesus answered. Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynste me, onlesse it were gyuen the from aboue. Therfore he that delyuered me vnto the, is more in synne. ✠ And from thence forthe sought Pilate meanes to lose hym. But the Jewes cryed, sayinge / yf thou let him go, thou arte not Cesars frend. For who so euer maketh him selfe a kynge, is agaynst Cesar.

Mat.xxvii.d Marck.xv.c Luke.xxiii.e. L

When Pilate herde this saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sate downe to gyue sentence, in a place called the pauement, but in the Hebrue tonge, Gabbatha. It was the Saboth euen, whiche falleth in the Ester feest, and aboute the syxte houre. And he sayde vnto the Jewes: beholde your kynge. They cryed, awaye with him, awaye with him/ crucify him. Pilate sayde vnto them, shall I crucifye your kynge? The hye preestes answered: we haue no kyng but Cesar: ✠ Then deliuered he him vnto them, to be crucified.

And they toke Jesus, and ledde him awaye. And he bare his crosse, and wente forthe in to a place called the place of deed mens sculles, which is named in Hebrue, Golgotha. where they crucified him, and two other with hym/ on eyther syde one, and Jesus in the myddes. And Pilate wrote this tytle, and put it on the crosse. The wrytyng was: Jesus of Nazareth kynge of the Jewes. This title red many of the Jewes. For the place where Jesus was crucifyed, was nye to the city. And it was written, in Hebrue, Greke, and Latyn. Then sayd the high preestes of ye Jewes to Pilate/ wryte not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayd I am kynge of the Jewes. Pylate answered: what I haue wrytten, that haue I wrytten.

Then the souldiours when they had crucifyed Jesus, toke his garmentes and made foure partes, to euery souldiour a parte, and also his coote. The coote was without seme, wrought vpon thorowe out. And they sayd one to an other. Let vs not deuyde it/ but cast lottes who shall haue it. That the scripture myght be fulfylled whiche sayth. ✠ They parted my rayment amonge them, and on my coote dyd caste lottes. And the souldiours dyd these thynges in dede. E

When Jesus sawe his mother, and the disciple standynge whom he loued/ he sayd to his mother: woman, beholde thy sonne. Then sayde he to the disciple: beholde thy mother. And frome that houre the disciple toke her for his owne.

After that, when Jesus perceyued that all thynges were perfourmed, that the scripture might be fulfylled, ✠ he sayd: I thurst. There stode a vessell full of vyneygre by. ✠ And they fylled a sponge with vineygre, and wounde it aboute with ysope, and put it to his mouthe. As sone as Jesus had receyued of the vineygre he sayde: It is fynished, and bowed his heed, and gaue vp the ghost. The Jewes then bycause it was the Saboth euē, that the bodyes shold not remayne vpon the crosse on the Saboth daye (for that Saboth daye was an hye day) besought Pilate that their legges might be broken, & that they might be taken downe. ✠ The morowe after the Saboth daye, came Marye Magdaleyn early, when it was yet darke, vnto the ſepulcre, and ſawe the ſtone taken awaye frome the graue, Then ſhe ranne, and came to Symon Peter and to thother diſcyple whome Jeſus loued, and ſayd vnto them. They haue taken awaye the Lorde out of the graue, & we can not tell where they haue layde him. Peter went forth and that other diſcyple, and came to the ſepulcre. They ranne bothe togyther, and that other diſciple dyd out runne Peter, & came fyrſt to the ſepulcre. And he ſtouped downe, & ſawe the lynnen clothes lyinge/ yet went he not in.

B Then came Symon Peter folowynge hym, and went in to the ſepulcre/ and ſawe the lynnen clothes lye, and the napkyn that was about his heed not lyinge with the lynnen cloth but wrapped togyther in a place by it ſelfe. Then went in alſo that other diſcyple whiche came fyrſt to the ſepulcre, and he ſawe and bleued. For as yet they knewe not the ſcriptures that he ſholde ryſe agayne from deth. ✠ And the diſciples went awaye agayne vnto theyr owne home.

✠ Mary ſtode without at the ſepulcre weypnge. And as ſhe wepte, ſhe bowed her ſelfe

She ſayde vnto them/ for they haue taken awaye my Lorde, & I wote not where they haue layd him. When ſhe had thus ſayd, ſhe turned her ſelfe backe, and ſawe Jeſus ſtandynge, and knewe not that it was Jeſus. Jeſus ſayde vnto her: Woman, why wepeſt thou? Whome ſeketh thou? She ſuppoſynge he had ben a gardener, ſayd vnto him. Syr, yf thou haue borne him hence, tell me where thou haſt layd him, that I may fet him. Jeſus ſayd vnto her: Marye. After

A ✠ After that Jeſus ſhewed hym ſelfe agayne, at the ſee of Tybertias. And on this wyſe ſhewed he him ſelfe. There were togyther Symon Peter, Thomas called Didimus: and Nathanael of Cana a cirye of Galile, and the ſonnes of Zebedei, & two other of the diſciples. Simon Peter ſayth vnto them: I go a fyſſhynge. They ſayde vnto

B him: We alſo wyll go with the. They wente theyr waye, and entred in to the ſhyppe forthwith, and that nyght caught they nothynge. But when the morynge was now come, Jeſus ſtode on the ſhore: neuertheleſſe the diſciples knewe not that it was Jeſus. Jeſus ſayde vnto them: Chyldren, haue ye any meate? They anſwered hym, no. And he ſayde vnto them: caſt out the net on the eyght ſyde of the ſhyp, and ye ſhall fynde. They caſt out, and anone they were not hable to drawe it vp, for the multitude of fyſſhes.

C Then ſayd the diſciple whom Jeſus loued vnto Peter: It is the Lorde. When Symon Peter herde it was the Lorde, he gyrde his mantell to him (for he was naked) and ſprange in to to ſee. The other diſciples came by ſhyp, for they were not farre frome lande, but as it were two hundred cubites, and they drue the nette with fyſſhes. When they were come to to lande, they ſaw hote coles and fyſſhes layde theron, & breed: Jeſus ſayd vnto them: bring

D of the fyſſhe which ye haue nowe caught. Symon Peter ſtepped forthe and drewe the nette to lande full of greate fyſſhes, an hundred and liij. And for al there was ſo many, yet was not the net broken. Jeſus ſayde vnto them: come and dyne. And none of the diſciples durſt aſke him: what art thou? For they knewe it was the Lorde. Jeſus then came and toke breed, and gaue them, and fyſſhe lykewyſe. And this is nowe the thyrde tyme that Jeſus appeared to his diſciples, after he was ryſen agayne frome deathe. ✠

E When they had dyned: Jeſus ſayd to Symon Peter: Simon Joanna, loueſt thou me more then theſe? He ſayde vnto hym: Yea Lorde, thou knoweſt I loue the. He ſayde to him: fede my ꝓ lambes. He ſayde vnto him the thyrde tyme: Symon Joanna loueſt thou me? And Peter ſorowed bycauſe he ſaid to him the thyrde tyme, loueſt thou me/ and ſayd vnto him: Lorde thou knoweſt all/ thou knoweſt that I loue the. Jeſus ſayd to hym: fede my ſhepe.

That ſpake he, ſignifyinge by what deth he ſholde glorifye God.

And when he had ſayd thus, he ſayd to him ✠ folowe me. Peter turned about, and ſawe that diſcyple whome Jeſus loued folowynge whiche alſo lened on his breſt at ſupper, and ſayde: Lorde, whiche is he that ſhall betraye the. When Peter ſawe him, he ſayd to Jeſus: Lorde, but what ſhal this man do? Jeſus ſaid

G vnto him: Yf I wyll haue hym tarye tyll I come, what is ꝓ to the? folow thou me. Then went this ſaying abrode amonge the brethren that that diſciple ſholde not dye. Yet Jeſus ſayd not to him, he ſhal not dye/ but yf I wyll that he tary tyll I come, what is that to the?

The ſame diſciple is he whiche teſtifyeth of theſe thynges, and wrote theſe thinges: And we knowe that his teſtimonye is true. ✠ There are alſo many other thynges whiche Jeſus dyd, whiche yf they ſholde be wryten euery one, I ſuppoſe the worlde coulde not contayne the bokes that ſholde be wrytten.

C ✠ But Peter stepped forth with the eleuen and lyfte vp his voyce, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Jurye, and all ye that inhabyte Jerusalem: be this knowen vnto you and with youre eares heare my wordes. These are not droncken, as ye suppose: for it is yet but the thyrde hour of the day. But this is that whiche was spoken by the Prophet Johel: ✱ It shalbe in the last dayes (sayth God) of my sprete I will powre out vpon all fleshe. And youre sonnes and youre daughters shall prophesye and youre yonge men shall se visions, and youre olde men shall dreme dremes. And on my seruauntes, and on my hande maydens I wyll powre out of my sprete in those dayes, and they shall prophesye. And I wyll shewe wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the erthe beneth, bloude and fyre, and the vapour of smoke. ✱ The sonne shalbe turned in to darknes, and the mone in to bloude before y that greate & notable daye of the Lorde come. ✱ And it shalbe, that whosoeuer shall call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saued. ✠ D ✠ Ye men of Israell heare these wordes. Jesus of Nazareth a man aproued of God asones, after he was delyuered by the determi-nat councell and fore knowledge of God, and haue crucifyed and slayne: whome God hathe raysed vp lowsynge the sorowes of death, because it was impossyble that he shulde be hol-

Moreouer also my fleshe shal rest in hope, because thou wylte not leaue my soule in hell, neyther wylt suffre thyn holy to se corrupcion. Thou haste shewed me the wayes of lyfe, and shalte make me full of ioye with thy countenaunce. ✠
Men and brethren, for as moche as I may E freely speake vnto you of the Patriarke Dauid ✱ For he is both deed and buryed, and his sepulchre remayneth with vs vnto this daye. Where as he then was a Prophet, and knew that God had sworne with an othe to hym, that the frute of his loynes shulde syt on his seate (in that Christ shulde ryse agayne in the fleshe) he sawe before: and spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soule shulde not be left in hell: neyther his fleshe shoulde se corruption. This Jesus hathe God raysed vp, wherof we all are wytnesses.
Sythens now that he by the ryght hand of God is exalted, and hathe receyued of the father the promyse of the holy ghoste, he hathe shed forthe this whiche ye now se and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauen: but he sayde. ✱ The Lorde sayde to my Lorde syt on my righte hande, tyll I make thyne enne-myes thy fote stole. Soo therfore let all the house of Israel know for a suretye, that God hath made that same Jesus / whome ye haue crucyfyed, Lorde and Christ.
When they herde this, they were pricked in their hertes, and sayde vnto Peter and tho ther Apostles: Ye men and brethren, what shall we do? Peter sayde vnto them: repent and be baptysed euery one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, & ye shall receyue the gyft of the holy ghost: for the promyse was made vnto you and to your chyldren, and to all that are a farre, euen as many as the Lorde our God shall call. And with many other wordes bare he witnes and exhorted them, sayeng: Saue your selues frō this croked generacion. Then they that glad-
G ly receyued his preachinge, were baptysed: & the same daye, there were added vnto theym aboute thre thousande soules.
And they continued in the apostles doctrine and felowshyp, and in breakinge of breed, and in prayer. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wondres and signes were shewed by the Apostles. And al that beleued kept thē selues togither, and had all thinges comen, & solde their possessions and goodes, and departed them to all men, as euery man had nede. And they continued dayly with one accorde in the temple, and brake breed in euery house, & dyd eate their meate togither, with gladnes and synglenes of hert, praysinge God, & had fauour with all the people. And the Lorde added to the congregacyon dayly suche as shuld be saued.

¶ The halte is restored to his fete. Peter preacheth Chryst vnto the people.

CAPI. III

A P✠Eter & Johñ wēt vp togither into the temple at the nynth houre of prayer. And there was a certayne man halt, from his mothers wombe, whom they brought & layd at the gate of the temple called beutyfull, to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. Which same when he sawe Peter & Johñ that they wolde entre into the temple, desired to receyue an almes. And Peter fixinge his eyes on him with Johñ, sayde: Loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustynge to receyue some thinge of them. Then sayd Peter:
B Syluer & golde haue I none, suche as I haue, gyue I the. In the name of Jesu Christ of Nazareth, ryse vp and walke. And he toke him by the right hande, and lyft him vp. And anone his feete and anclebones receyued strength. And he sprange, stode and also walked, & en-tred with them into the temple, walkinge & leapinge, and praysynge God.
And all the people saw him walke & prayse God. And they knew him, y it was he which sate and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondred and were sore astonyed at that which had happened vnto him. And as the halt which was healed, helde Peter and Johñ, all the people ran, amased vnto them in Salomons porche.
C When Peter sawe that, he aunswered vnto the people. ✠ Ye men of Israel, why maruell ye at this, or why loke ye so stedfastly on vs, as though by our owne power or holynes we had made this man goo? The God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his sonne Jesus, whome

 ye dely-

ye delyuered and denyed in the presence of Pylate, whyen he had iudged him to be loosed. But ye denied the holy and iust, and desyred a murtherer to be gyuen you, and killed the Lorde of lyfe, whō god hath raysed from deth, of the which we ar witnesses. And his name thorow the fayth of his name, hathe made this man sounde, whom ye se and knowe. And the fayth which is by him, hath gyuen to him this helth in the presence of you all:

And now brethren, I wot wel that thorow ignorance ye dyd it, as dyd also your rulers. But those thinges which god before had shewed by the mouth of all his Prophetes, how that Christ sholde suffre, he hathe thus wyse fulfylled. Repent ye therfore and turne, that your synnes may be done awaye. ✠ When the tyme of refreshyng commeth, whiche we shall haue of the presence of the Lorde, & when God shall sende him, whiche before was preached vnto you, that is to wit, Jesus Christe, whiche must receyue heuen, tyll tyme all thinges whiche God had spoken by the mouth of al his holy Prophetes ꝑ sithens the world began be restored agayne.

Deut.xviii.c. Deut.vii.e. For Moses sayd vnto the fathers: ✠ a Prophete shal the Lorde your God rayse vp vnto you, euen of your brethren lyke vnto me: him shal ye heare, in al thinges what so euer he shal saye vnto you. For the tyme shall come that euery soule whiche shall not heare that same Prophete, shall be destroyed out of the people. Also al the Prophetes from Samuel & thence forthe, as many as haue spoken haue in lykewyse tolde of these dayes.

Testament) a couenaunt or promyse. Genesis.xii.a Ye are the chyldren of the prophetes and of the testament, whiche God hathe made vnto our fathers, sayinge to Abraham: ✠ Euen in thy seed shall all the kynredes of the earth be blessed. Fyrst vnto you hath god raysed vp his sonne Jesus, and him he hathe sente to blesse you, that euery one of you sholde turne from your wyckednesse. ✠

¶ The Apostles are taken and brought before the Councille. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto God then vnto men.

CAPI. IIII.

A AS they spake vnto the people, the preestes and the ruler of the temple, and the Sadducees came vpon them takynge it greuously that they taught the people & preached in Jesus the resurrection from deth. And they layde handes on them, and put them in holde tyl the nexte daye: for it was now euen tyde. How be it many of them which herde the wordes, bylued/and the nombre of the men was about fyue thousande,

And it chaunced on the morowe that their rulers, and elders, and Scribes, as Annas the chefe preest and Cayphas, and Johñ and Alexander, & as many as were of ꝑ kynred of B the hygh preestes gathered together at Jerusalem, and set the other before them, and asked by what power, or in what name haue ye done this? ✠ Then Peter full of holy ghost sayd vnto them: Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, yf we this daye are examined of the good dede doone to the sycke man, by what meanes he is made hole: be it knowen vnto you all, and to the people of Israel, that in the name of Jesu Christe of Nazareth, whome ye crucified, and whom God rayed agayne from deathe: euen by him dothe this man stande here present before you hole. ✠ This is the stone caste a syde of you buylders, which is set in the chefe place of the corner. Neither is ther saluacion in any other. For there is not any other name gyuen to men, wherin we must be saued. ✠ Math.xxi. Marck.xii. Luke.xx.c. Psal.cxvii.

When they sawe the boldnes of Peter and Johñ, and vnderstode that they were vnlerned and laye people, they meruey led, and they knewe them, that they were with Jesu, and beholdynge also the man whiche was healed standynge with them, they couide not saye agaynste it. But they commaunded them to go aside out of the concile, and coūseyled among them selues saying: what shall we do to these mē? For a manifest sygne is done by them, and is openly knowen to al them that dwel in Jerusalem, and we can not denye it. But that it be noysed no farther among the people, let vs threaten and charge them they speake henceforth to no man in this name.

And they called them, and commaunded them that in no wyse they sholde speake or teache in the name of Jesu. But Peter & Johñ answered vnto them, and sayd: whether it be right in the sight of God, to obeye you more then God, iudge ye. For we can not, but speke that which we haue sene and herde. So threatned they them, and let theym goo, and founde nothynge howe to punysshe them, because of the people. For all men glorified God for the myracle whiche was doone, for the man was aboue fourty yere olde, on whome this myracle of healynge was shewed.

As soone as they were let go, they came to their felowes, and shewed all that the hyghe preestes & elders had sayd to them. And when they herde that, they lyfte vp their voyces to God with one accorde, and sayd: Lorde, thou arte God whiche hast made heuen and erthe, the see and all that in them is, whiche by the mouth of thy seruant David hast sayd: ✠ why dyd the hethen rage, and the people ymagen vayne thynges. The kynges of the erth stode vp, and the rulers came togither agaynste the Lorde, and agaynst his annoynted. Psalm.ii.a

For of a trouth, agaynst thy holy sonne Jesus whom thou hast anoynted, bothe Herode and also Poncius Pylate, with the Gentiles and the people of Israel gathered them selues togither to F what so euer thy hande and thy counsell determined before to be doone. And now Lorde, beholde their threatnynges, & graūt vnto thy seruauntes w all confydence to speke thy worde. So that thou stretche forthe thyne hande/that healyng, and signes and wonders be done by the name of thy holy sonne Jesus. And as soone as they had prayd, the place moued where they were assembled togyther, and they were all fylled with the holy ghoste, and they spake the worde of God boldly. ✠ And

G ✠ And the multitude of them that byleued were of one herte, and of one soule. And none of them sayde that any of the thynges whiche he possessed was his owne, but had al thynges commen. And with greate power the apostles gaue witnes of the resurrection of the Lorde Jesu. And greate grace was with them all. Neyther was there any among them, that lacked. For as many as were possessers of landes or houses, solde them and broughte the pryce of the thynges that were solde, and layde it downe at the apostles fete. So distribucion was made vnto euery man accordynge as he had nede. ✠

And Joses which was also called of the apostles, Barnabas (that is to saye the sonne of consolacion) being a Leuyte, and of the countrey of Cypers had lande, and solde it, and layd the pryce downe at the apostles fete.

¶ The dissemblynge of Ananias and Saphira is punyshed. Myracles are done by the apostles, which are taken, but the angell of God bryngeth them out of pryson. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beate, they reioyce in trouble.

CAPI. V.

A A Certayne man named Ananias w Saphira his wyfe, solde a possession, and kepte awaye part of the pryce (his wife also beynge of counsell) and broughte a certayne part, and layd it downe at the apostles fete. The said Peter: Ananias, how is it that Sathan hath fylled thyne hert, that thou sholdest lye vnto the holy ghost, & kepe away part of the lyueloode. Perrayned it not vnto the onely, and after it was solde, was not the pryce in thyne owne power. Howe is it that thou hast put this thynge in thine hert? Thou hast not lyed vnto men, but vnto God. When B Ananias herd these wordes, he fell downe and gaue vp the ghost. And great feare came on all them that these thynges herde. And the yonge men rose vp, and put him aparte, and caryed him out, and buryed him.

And it fortuned, as it were aboute the space of.iij. houres after, that his wyfe came in, not knowynge what was done. And Peter sayd vnto her: Tell me, gaue ye the lande for so moche? And she sayd: yea, for so moche. Then Peter said vnto her: Why haue ye agreed together, to tempte the spyrete of the Lorde? Beholde the fete of them which haue buryed thy husbande, are at the dore / and shall carye the out. Then she fel downe, forthwith at his fete and yelded vp the ghost. And the yonge men came in, and founde her deed, and caryed her out, and buried her by her husband. And great feare came on all the congregacion, and on as many as herde it.

C By the handes of the apostles were manye signes and wonders shewed amonge the people. And they were all togyther with one accorde in Salomons porche. And of other durst no man ioyne him selfe to them: neuertheles the people magnified them. The nōbre of them that beleued in the Lorde bothe of men and women grewe more & more, in so moche they brought the sicke in to the stretes, and layde them on beddes and palettes, that at the leest waye the shadowe of Peter when he came by, might shadow some of them. There came also a multitude out of the cities rounde about vnto Jerusalem, bryngynge sycke folkes, and them whiche were vexed with vncleane spyrets. And D they were healed euery one.

Then the chefe preest rose vp, and all they that were with hym (which is the secte of the Sadducees) and were full of indignacion, and layde handes on the apostles, and put them in the comon pryson. But the aungel of the lorde by nyght opened the pryson doores, & brought them forthe, and sayd: go, steppe forthe, and speake in the temple to the people all the wordes of this lyfe. When they herde that, they entred in to the temple early in the morynge and taught. The chefe preest came, and they that were with him, and assembled the concile and hole order of the elders of the chyldren of Israel, & sent to the pryson to fet them. When the ministres came, and found them not in the pryson, they returned and tolde, sayinge: the pryson found we shut as sure as was possible, and the kepers standynge without before the dores. But when we had opened, we found no man with in. When the chefe preest, and the E ruler of the temple, and the hye preestes herde these thynges, they doubted of them, whervnto this wolde growe.

But now came one, and shewed them: beholde the men that ye put in pryson, stande in the temple, and teache the people. Then went the ruler of the temple with ministers, and brought them wout violence. For they feared the people, leest they sholde haue ben stoned. And when they had brought them, they set the before the counsell. And the chefe preest asked them, sayinge: Did not we straytly commaunde you ye sholde not teache in this name? And beholde ye haue fylled Jerusalem with youre doctryne, and ye intende to bryng this mans bloode vpon vs.

Peter and the other apostles answered and F sayde: ✠ We ought more to obey God, then Gene. xxvi.a men. The God of our fathers rayed vp Je- Exodi.xx.c sus, whom ye slewe and hanged on tree. Hym Deutero.xi.b hath God lyft vp with his right hande, to be a ruler and a sauyour, for to gyue repentaunce to Israel, and forgyuenes of synnes. And we are his recordes concernynge these thynges, and also the holy ghost, whome God hath gyuen to them that obey him. When they herde that, they claue asunder, and soughte to slee them. Then stode there vp one in the counsel, a Pharisey named Gamaliel, a doctour of law Gamaliel. hade in auctorite amonge all the people, and commaunded to put the Apostles aside a lytell space, and sayde vnto them: men of Israel take hede to youre selues what ye entende to do as touchynge these men. Before these days rose vp one Theudas bostynge hym selfe, to G whome resorted a nombre of men, aboute a foure hundred which was slayne, and they all whiche byleued him were scattered abrode, and brought to nought. After this man, arose there vppe one Judas of Galile, in the tyme when tribute beganne, and drewe awaye moche people after him. He also perished, and al euen as many as harkened to him, are scattered abrode.

And nowe I saye vnto you: refrayne youre selues from these men, let them alone. For yf this counsayle or worke be of men, it will come to nought. But yf it be of God, ye can not destroye it, lest happyly ye be founde to stryue against God. Now to him they agreed, and called the apostles, and bet them, and commaunded that they sholde not speake in the name of Jesu, and let them go.

And they departed from the counsell reioysyng that they were counted worthy to suffre rebuke for his name. And dayly in the temple and in every house they ceased not, teachynge and preachinge Jesus Christ.

¶Ministers or deacons) are ordeyned in the congregacion to do seruice in necessary thinges of the body that the Apostles maye wayte onely vpon the worde of God. Steuen is accused.

CAPI. VI.

A IN those dayes, as the nombre of the disciples grew, there arose a grudge among the Grekes against the Hebrues, because their wydowes were despised in ꝑ dayly ministring. Then the twelue called the multitude of the disciples togyther, & sayd: it is not mete that we sholde leaue the worde of God, and serue at tables. Wherfore brethren loke ye oute amonge you, seuen men of honest reporte, and full of the holy ghost and wysdome, which we may appoynt to this nedefull busynesse. But B we wil gyue our selues continually to prayer, and to the ministracion of the worde. And the sayinge pleased the hole multitude. And they chose Steuen, a man full of fayth, and of the holy ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, & Nicholas a conuerte of Antioche. Whiche they set before the apostles, and they prayed & layde their handes on them.

C And the worde of God encreased, and the nombre of the disciples multiplyed in Jerusalem greatly, and a greate companye of the preestes, were obedient to the fayth. ✣ And Steuen full of fayth and power, dyd greate wonders and myracles amonge the people. Nowe, there arose certayne of the Synagoge, whiche is called the Synagoge of the Libertynes and Syrenytes, and of Alexandria, and Cecilia, & Asia, and disputed with Steuē. And they coulde not resiste the wysdome and the spirite, with whiche he spake. Then sent they in men, which sayd: We haue herd him speke blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people and the elders, and the Scribes, & came vpon him D and caught him, and brought him to the concile, and brought forth false witnesses, whiche sayde. This man ceaseth not to speke blasphemous wordes against this holy place, and the lawe. For we herd him say: this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shal chaunge the ordinaunce whiche Moses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell, loked stedfastly on him, and sawe his face as it had ben the face of an aungell.

¶Steuen maketh answere to his accusacion, rebuketh the harde necked Jewes, and is stoned vnto deathe.

CAPI. VII.

THen sayd the chefe preest: is it euen so? A And he said: ye men, brethren & fathers, harken to. The God of glorye appered vnto our father Abraham, while he was yet in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran, & said vnto him: *come out of thy countrey and *Gene.xij.a from thy kynred, & come in to the lande which I shal shew the. Then came he out of the land of Caldey, & dwelt in Charran. And after that, as sone as his father was ded, he brought him in to this lande in whiche ye nowe dwell, and he gaue him none inheritaūce in it, no not the bredth of a fote: *but promised that he wold *Gene.xiij.b xlviij.b gyue it to him to possesse, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no chylde.

God verily spake on this wise, that his seed sholde be a dweller in a straunge lande, & that they shold kepe them in bondage, and intreate them euil. iiij. hundred yeres. But the nacion to whome they shall be in bondage wyll I iudge, sayd God. And after that shal they come forth and serue me in this place. *And he gaue him *Gen.xvij.b xxj.b the couenaunt of circumcision. And he begate xlviij.b Jsaac, and circumcised him the eight daye, and xlix.b Jsaac begat Jacob, and Jacob the. xij. Patriarkes. *And the Patriarkes having indignacion, Gen.xxxvij.a solde Joseph in to Egypt. And God was with him, & deliuered him out of all his aduersities, and gaue him fauour and wisdom in the sight of Pharao king of Egypt, which made him gouerner of Egypt, and ouer all his housholde.

✣ Then came there a derth ouer all the lande *Gene.xlvij.a of Egypt & Canaan, and great affliction, that our fathers founde no sustenaunce. But when Jacob herde that there was corne in Egypte, he sent oure fathers first. *And at the seconde *Gene.xlv.a time Joseph was knowen of his brethren, and Josephs kinred was made knowen vnto Pharao. Then sente Joseph, and caused his father to be brought and al his kynne, thre score and xv. *soules. And Jacob descended in to Egypt *Soules are and dyed bothe he and oure fathers, and were men and wo translated in to Sichem, and were put in the men. sepulcre that Abraham bought for money of the sonnes of Emor at Sichem.

When the tyme of the promes drewe nye E (which god had sworne to Abraham) the people grewe and multiplyed in Egypte, tyll an other kynge arose whiche knewe not Joseph. The same dealynge subtelly with our kynred cupll entreated oure fathers, and made them to caste oute their younge chyldren, that they shold not remayne alyue. The same time was Moses borne, and was a proper chylde in the sight of God, whiche was noury shed vp in his fathers house thre monethes. When he was cast out, Pharaos doughter toke him vp, and noury shed him vp for her owne sonne. And Moses was lerned in all maner wysdom of the Egyptians, and was myghtye in dedes and in wordes.

And

And when he was full forty yere olde, it came in to his herte to vysyte his brethren the chyldren of Jsrael. And when he sawe one of them suffre wronge, he defended him and auenged his quarell that had the harme doone to hym, and smote the Egyptian. For he supposed his brethren wolde haue vnderstande, how that god by his handes sholde saue them. D But they vnderstode not.

And the nexte daye he shewed him selfe vnto them as they stroue, and wolde haue sette them at one agayne, saying: Syrs, ye are brethren, why hurt ye one an other? But he that dyd his neyghbour wronge, thrust him away, sayinge: Who made the a ruler and a iudge amonge vs? What, wylte thou kyll me, as thou kyldest the Egyptian yesterday? *Then fledde Moses at that saying, and was a straūger in the lande of Madian, where he begate two sonnes. *Exo.ij.c.

✣ And when. xl. yeres was fulfilled, there appered to him in the wyldernesse of mounte Syna, an angell of the Lorde in a flame of fire in a bushe. When Moses saw it, he wondred at the sight. And as he drewe nere to beholde, the voyce of the Lorde came vnto him: I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Jsaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses trembled and durst not beholde. Then said the Lorde to him. *Put of thy shoes from thy fete, for the place where thou standest, is holy grounde. I haue perfectly sene the affliction of my people whiche is in Egypt, & I haue herde their gronynge, and am come downe to deliuer them. And now come, and I wyl sende the in to Egypte.

E This Moses whom they forsoke, sayinge: Who made te a ruler and a iudge, God sent bothe a ruler and a deliuerer, by the handes of the angel, which appered to him in the bushe. And the same brought them out, shewynge wonders and sygnes in Egypt, and in the red see, and in the wildernes. xl. yeres. This is that Moses, whiche sayde vnto the chyldren of Jsrael: *A Prophete shall the Lorde your God rayse vp vnto you of your brethren, lyke vnto me, him shall ye heare.

This is he that was in the congregacion in the wildernes with the aungell whiche spake to him in the mounte Syna, and with our fathers. This man receyued the worde of lyfe to giue vnto vs, to whom our fathers coulde not obey, but cast it from them, and in their hertes turned backe agayne in to Egypt, saying vnto Aaron: *make vs Goddes to go before vs, for this Moses that brought vs out of the lande of Egypt, we wote not what is becom of him. and they made a calfe in those dayes, and offered sacrifyce vnto the ymage, and reioysed in the workes of their owne handes.

Then God turned him selfe, and gaue them vp, that they sholde worshyp the sterres of the skye: as it is wrytten in the boke of the Pro- F phetes. *O ye of the house of Jsrael, gaue ye to me sacrifyces and meat offrynges by ꝑ space of fourty yeres in the wyldernes? And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the sterre of your God Remphan, figures whiche ye made to worshyp them. And I wyll translate you beyonde Babylon.

Our fathers had the tabernacle of wytnes in the wildernes, as he hadde appoynted them speaking vnto Moses, that he sholde make it accordyng to the fassion that he had sene. Whiche tabernacle our fathers receyued, & brought it in with Josue in to the possession of the gentyles, whiche God draue out before the face of our fathers, vnto the tyme of David. Whiche founde fauour before God, and wolde fayne haue made a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. But Salomon bylt him an house.

How be it he that is hyest of all, dwelleth not in temples made with handes, as sayth the Prophete: Heuen is my seate, and erth is my foote stole: what house wyll ye buylde for me sayth the Lorde? or what place is it that I sholde rest in? ha the not my hande made all these thynges? *Esaye.xlvi.a

Ye stiffnecked, and vncircumcised hertes and G eares, ye haue always resysted the holy ghost: as your fathers dyd, so do ye. Whiche of the Prophetes haue not your fathers persecuted? And they haue slayne them which shewed before of the commynge of that rightous person whome ye haue nowe betrayed and murdred. And ye also haue receyued a lawe by the ordinaunce of aungels, and haue not kept it.

✣ When they herde these thynges, they H hertes claue a sunder, and they gnasshed on hym with their tethe. But he being full of the holy ghost, loked vp stedfastly with his eyes in to heuen, and sawe the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, and sayd: beholde, I se the heuens open, and the sonne of man standynge on the right hande of God. Then they gaue a shoute with a loude voyce, and stopped their eares, and ran vpon him with one accorde, and cast him out of the citye, and stoned him. And the wytnesses layde downe their clothes at a yonge mans fete named Saul. And they stoned Steuen, callynge on and sayinge: Lorde Jesu receyue my spyrite. And he kneled downe, and cryed with a loude voyce: Lorde, laye not this synne to their charge. And when he had thus spoken, he fell a slepe. I ¶Saule persecuteth the Christen, The Apostles are scatered abrode. Philip commeth in to Samaria. Simon magus is baptysed, he dissembleth. Philip baptyseth the chamberlayne.

CAPI. VIII. A

SAul was consentynge to his dethe. And at that tyme there was a great persecucion agaynst the congregacion whiche was at Jerusalem, & they were all scatered abrode throrowe out the regions of Jewrye and Samaria, excepte the apostles. Then deuout men dressed Steuen, and made greate lamentacion ouer him. But Saul made hauoke of the congregacion, and entred in to euery house, and drewe out bothe man and woman, and thrust theym in to prysone. How be it, they that were scattered abrode, wente euerye where preachynge the worde. Then came Philip in to a cutye of Samaria, and preached Christe vnto

B them. And ꝑ people gaue hede vnto those thinges whiche Philip spake with one accorde in that they herde and sawe the myracles which he dyd. For vnclene spirites crying with loude voyce, came out of many that were possessed of them. And many taken with palsyes, and many that halted, were healed. And ther was great ioye in that citye. Now there was a certayne man called Symon, which before tyme in the same citye, vsed wytchecrafte, and bewytched the people of Samarie, sayinge that he was a man that coulde do greate thynges. Whom they regarded from the leest to the greatest, saying: this felowe is the great power of God. And him they set moche by, because that of long tyme he had mocked them with sorcery. But as sone as they beleued Philips preachyng of the kingdom of god, and of the name of Iesu Christ, they were baptised bothe men and women. Then Symon him selfe beleued also, and was baptised / and continued with Philip, and wondred, beholdyng the myracles and signes whiche were shewed.

C ✝ When the apostles which were at Ierusalem, herde saye that Samaria had receyued the worde of God, they sent vnto them Peter and Iohñ, which whē they were come prayed for them that they might receyue ꝑ holy ghost. For as yet he was come on none of them: but they were baptised only in the name of Christ Iesu. Then layde they their handes on them, and they receyued the holy ghost. ꝟ

Simon Magus.

When Symon sawe, that thorow layinge on of ꝑ apostles hādes on them, the holy ghost was gyuen: he offered them money sayinge: gyue me also this power, that on whom so euer I put the handes, he may receyue the holy ghost. Then said Peter vnto him: thy money perysshe with the, because thou wenest that the gyfte of God maye be obteyned with money. Thou hast neyther parte nor felowshyp in this busynes. For thy herte is not ryghte in the sight of God. Repent therfore of this thy wyckednes, and praye God that the thought of thyne herte may be forgyuen the. For I perceyue that thou art full of bytter gall, & wrapped in wyckednes.

Then answered Simon and said: praye ye to the Lorde for me, that none of these thynges whiche ye haue spoken, fall on me. And they when they had testified and preached the worde of the Lorde, returned towarde Ierusalem, and preached the gospell in many tounes of the Samaritans.

C ✝ Then the aungel of the Lorde spake vnto Philip, saying: aryse, & go towarde South, vnto the waye that goeth downe frome Ierusalem vnto Gaza, whiche is in the desert. And he arose and wente on. And beholde a man of Ethiopia, which was a chamberlayne, and of greate auctorite with Candace quene of the Ethiopians, & had the rule of all her treasure, came to Ierusalem for to praye. And as he returned home agayne syttyng in his charet, he red Esaie the prophete.

Then the spirite said vnto Philip: go nere and ioyne thy selfe to yonder charet. And Philip ran to him, and herd him rede the Prophet thou redest? And he sayd: How can I, onlesse I had a guyde? And he desyred Philip that he wolde come vp & syt with hym. The tenour of the scrypture which he red, was this. He was Esaye liij.

E saie, and sayd: Vnderstandest thou what F
ledde as a shepe to be slayne, and lyke a lambe domme before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth. Bicause of his humblenes, he was not estemed: who shall declare his generacion? for his lyfe is taken from the erth. The chamberlayne answered Philip, and sayd: I praye the, of whome speaketh the Prophete this? of him selfe, or of some other man?

And Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Iesus. And as they went on their waye, they came vnto a certeyn water/ and the chamberlayne sayde: Se, here is water/ what shal let me to be baptysed? Philip sayd vnto him. Yf thou beleue with all thyne herte, thou mayst. He answered and sayde: I beleue that Iesus G
Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charet to stande styll. And they wente downe both in to the water: both Philip and also the chamberlayne, and he baptised hym. And as sone as they were come out of the water, the spirite of the Lorde caught awaye Philip, that the chamberlayne sawe him no more. And he went on his way reioysyng: but Philip was found at Azotus. And he walked thorowe out the countrey, preachynge in their tounes, tyll he came to Cesarea. ꝟ

CAPI. IX.

A ✝ And Saul yet breathyng out threatninges and slaughter agaynst the disciples of the Lorde, went on to the high preest and desired of him letters to Damasco, to the synagoges: * that yf he founde any of this *Actu. viij.
waye, whether they were men or women, he myght brynge them bounde vnto Ierusalem. But as he iourneyed & was come nye to Damasco, sodenly there shyned round about him a light from heuen, and he fel to the erth, and herde a voyce, sayinge to him: *Saul, Saul, *Actu. xxij.
why persecutest thou me? And he sayd: what arte thou Lorde? And the Lorde sayd: I am Iesus whome thou persecutest, it is harde for the to kycke agaynst the pricke. And he bothe trembling and astonyed, sayd: Lorde, what Saul is conuerted.
wilt thou haue me to do? And the Lorde sayd vnto him: Aryse, and go in to the citye, and it shal be tolde the what thou shalt do.

B The men whiche iourneyed with him, stode amased, for they herde a voyce, but sawe no man. And Saul arose from the erth, and opened his eyes, but sawe no man. Then led they him by the hande, and brought him in to Damasco. And he was thre dayes without sight, and neyther ate nor dranke. Now there was a certeyn disciple at Damasco named Ananias, to hym sayd the Lorde in a vysion: Ananias? And he sayd: beholde, I am heare Lorde. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: aryse, and go in to the strete called straight, and seke in the house Iudas, after one called Saul of Tharsus. For

For beholde he prayeth, and hath sene in a vi- F
sion, a man named Ananias commynge into him, and puttynge his handes on him, that he myght receyue his sight.

Then Ananias aunswered: Lorde, I haue herde by many of this man, how moche euyll he hath done to thy saynctes at Ierusalem: & here he hath auctorite of the hyghe Prestes to bynde all that call on thy name. The Lorde sayde vnto him: Go thy waye, for he is a chosen vessell vnto me, to beare my name before the gentyles and kynges, and the children of Israel. For I will shew hym how great thinges he must suffre for my name.

Ananias went his waye and entred into ꝑ house, and put his handes on him, and sayde: brother Saul, the Lorde that appeared vnto the in the waye as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou myghtest receyue thy sight, and be fylled with ꝑ holy ghost. And forthwith there fell frome his eyes as it had bene scales, and he receyued syght, and arose, and was baptised, and receyued meate, and was comforted. Then was Saul a certayne dayes, with the disciples whyche were at Damasco. And streyght waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges, how that he was the sonne of God. All that herde him, were amased, and sayde: Is not this he, that spoyled them which called on this name in Ierusalem, and came hyther for the entent that he shuld bringe them bounde vnto the chiefe prestes? But Saul encreased in strength, & confounded the Iewes whiche dwelte at Damasco, affirminge that this was very Christ. ꝟ and put him thorowe the wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

And after a good whyle, the Iewes toke counsell togither, to kyll him. But their layenge awayt was knowen of Saul. And they watched at the gates, daye and nyght, to kyl him. * Then the disciples toke hym by night *Actu. ix.

And when Saul was come to Ierusalem, he assayde to couple him selfe with the disciples, and they were all afrayde of hym, and beleued not that he was a disciple. But Barnabas toke him and brought him to the Apostles, and declared to them, howe he had sene the Lorde in the waye, and had spoken with him: and how he had done boldely at Damasco, in the name of Iesu. And he had his conuersacion with them at Ierusalem, and quite him selfe boldely in the name of the Lorde Iesu. And he spake and disputed with the Grekes: and they wente about to slay him. But when the brethrē knew of that, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tharsus. Then had the congregacions rest thorow out all Iewry and Galile, and Samary, and were edified, and walked in the feare of the Lorde, and multiplied by the comforte of the F holy ghost.

And it chaunced as Peter walked throughout al quarters, he came to the saynctes whiche dwelte at Lydda. And there he founde a certayne man, named Eneas, which had kept his bed. viij. yeres, sycke of the palsye. Then sayde Peter vnto him: Eneas, Iesus Christ make the hole: aryse and make thy bed. And he arose forthwith. And all ꝑ dwelt at Lydda and Sharon, sawe hym, and tourned to the Lorde.

There was at Ioppa a certayne woman/ (which was a disciple named Tabitha, whi- Tabitha. Dorcas.
che by interpretation is called Dorcas) the same was full of good workes and almes dedes, whiche she dyd. And it chaunced in those dayes, that she was sycke, and dyed. When they had washed her and layde her in a chamber: because Lydda was nyghe to Ioppa, & the disciples had herde that Peter was there they sent vnto him, desiring him that he wold not be greued to come vnto them.

Peter arose and came with them. And whē he was come, they brought him into ꝑ chaumber. And all the wydowes stode rounde about him wepinge and shewinge the cotes and garmentes whiche Dorcas made, whyle she was with them. And Peter put them al forth and kneled downe and prayed, and turned him to the body, and sayde: Tabytha, aryse. And she opened her eyes, and when she sawe Peter, sate vp. And he gaue her the hande, and lyft her vp, and called the saynctes and wydowes and shewed her alyue. And it was knowen thorowout all Ioppa, and many beleued on the Lorde. And it fortuned that he taryed many dayes in Ioppa, with one Symon, a tanner.

¶ The vision that Peter sawe. Howe he was sent to Cornelius. The heythen also receyue the spirite, and are baptysed.

CAPI. X.

T ✝ Here was a certayne man in Cesarea A called Cornelius, a captayne of the souldiers of Italy, a deuoute man, and one that feared God with all his housholde, whiche gaue moche almes to the people, & prayde God alwayes. The same sawe in a vysion euidently aboute the nynthe houre of the daye an Aungell of God commynge in, to him, & sayenge vnto hym: Cornelius. When he loked on him, he was afrayde and sayde: What is it Lorde? He sayde vnto him. Thy prayers & thy almes are come vp into remembraūce D before God. And now sende men to Ioppa, & cal for one Simon named also Peter. He lodgeth with one Symon a tanner, whose house is by the see syde. He shal tell the, what thou oughtest to doo. When the Aungell whiche spake vnto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his housholde seruauntes, and a deuout soudyer of them that wayted on him, and tolde them all the matter, and sent them to Ioppa.

On the morowe as they went on their iorney, & drewe nyghe vnto the cytie, Peter wēt B vp vpō the toppe of the house to praye, about the sixt houre. Then waxed he an hongred, & wolde haue eaten. But whyle they made redy, he fell into a traunce, and sawe heauen opened, and a certayne vessell come downe vnto him, as it had bene a great shete, knyt at the. iiij. corners, and was let downe to the earthe earthe, where in were all maner of. iiij. foted beastes of the earth, and vermen and wormes and foules of ỹ ayer. And there came a voyce to him: aryse Peter, kyll, and eate. But Peter sayde: God forbyd Lorde, for I haue neuer eatē any thinge that is comen or vncleane. And the voyce spake vnto him agayne the seconde tyme: What God hathe cleansed, that make thou not comen. This was done thryse and the vessell was receyued vp agayne into heauen.

Whyle Peter mused in him selfe what this vysion whiche he had sene, meant: Beholde, the men whiche were sent frome Cornelius, had made enquyrie for Simons house, & stode before the dore. And called out one and asked whether Simon whiche was also called Peter were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on this vysion, the spyrete sayde vnto him: beholde, men seke the: aryse therfore, get the downe, and go with theym, and doubte not: for I haue sent them. Peter went downe to ỹ men whiche were sent vnto him, frome Cornelius, and sayde. Beholde, I am he whome ye seke, what is the cause wherefore ye are come? And they sayde vnto him: Cornelius ỹ captayne, a iust man, & one that feareth God, and of good reaporte amonge al the people of the Iewes, was warned by an holy Aungell, to sende for the into his house, and to heare wordes of the. Then called he theym in, and lodged them.

And on the morow Peter went away with them, and certayne brethren frome Joppa accompanyed hym. And the thurde daye entred they into Cesaria. And Cornelius wayted for them, and had called togyther his kynsmen, & speciall frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in, Cornelius met him, and fell downe at his fete, and worshypped him. But Peter toke him vp, sayeng: stand vp: for euen I my selfe am a man. And as he talked with hym, he came in, and founde many that were come togyther. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe how that it is an vnlawfull thinge for a man that is a Iewe, to companye or come vnto a straunger: but God hathe shewed me that I shulde not call any man commen or vncleane: therfore came I vnto you, withoute sayenge naye, as sone as I was sent for. I aske therfore, for what intent haue ye sent for me?

And Cornelius sayde: This daye now. iiij. dayes I fasted, and at the. ix. houre I prayde in my house: and beholde, a man stode before me in bright clothinge, and sayde: Cornelius thy prayer is herde, and thyne almes dedes are had in remembraunce in the sight of God. Sende therfore to Joppa, and call for Simō whiche is also called Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Symon, a tanner by the see syde, who as sone as he is come, shall speake vnto the. Then sent I for the immediately: and thou hast well done for to come. Nowe are we all here present before God, to heare all thynges that are commaunded vnto the, of God.

Then Peter opened his mouth, and sayde: Of a trouth, I perceyue that God is not par tiall: but in all people, he that feareth hym, and worketh righteousnesse, is accepted with hym.

Ye knowe the preachynge that God sente vnto the children of Israell, preachinge peace by Jesu Christ, which is Lorde ouer all: ✣ Which preachinge was publyshed thorowe out all Jewry, and began in Galile, after the baptysme whiche Johñ preached, howe God had annoynted Jesus of Nazareth, with the holy ghoste, and with power. Whiche Jesus went aboute doynge good, and healynge all that were oppressed of the deuyls, for God was with him. And we are wytnesses, of all thynges whiche he dyd in the lande of the Jewes, and at Jerusalem: whome they slewe & honge on tree. Him God reysed vp the thirde daye, and shewed him openly, not to all the people, but vnto vs witnesses chosen before of God, whiche ate and dronke with him, after he arose frome deathe. ✣ And he cōmaunded vs to preache vnto the people and testify, that it is he that is ordened of God, a iudge of quycke and deed. To him gyue all the prophetes witnesse, that thorowe his name, all that beleue in him, shall receyue remission of synnes. ✣

Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, the holy ghoste fell on all theym whiche herde the preachinge. And they of the circumcision whiche beleued, were astonyed, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentyls also was shed out the gyfte of the holy ghoste. For they herde them speake with tonges and magnifye God. Then answered Peter: can any man forbyd, that these shulde not be baptysed with water, whiche haue receyued the holy ghoste as well as we? And he commaunded theym to be baptised, in the name of the Lorde. ✣ Then prayd they hym to tary a few dayes.

*They of the circumcision, that is to say, the Jewes.

¶ Peter sheweth the cause wherfore he went to the Heythen. Barnabas and Paule preach vnto the Heythen. Agabus prophecieth derth for to come.

CAPI. XI.

And the Apostles and the brethren that were thorowout Jewry, herde say that the Heythen had also receyued ỹ word of God. And when Peter was come vp to Jerusalem, they of the circumcision reasoned wt him, sayenge: Thou wentest in to men vncircumcised, and atest with them.

Then Peter began, & expouned the thynge in order to them, sayenge: I was in the cytie of Joppa, prayenge: and in a traunce I saw a vysion, a certayne vessell descende, as it had bene a large lynnen clothe, let downe frome heauen, by the foure corners, and it came to me. Into the whiche when I hadde fastened myne eyes, I considered and saw foure foted beastes of the earth, and vermen and wormes and foules of the ayre. And I herde a voyce sayenge vnto me: Aryse Peter, sley, and eate. And I sayde: God forbyd Lorde, for nothing * commen or vncleane, hath at any tyme entred into my mouth. But the voyce answered me me agayne frome heauen, counte not thou those thinges commen, whiche God hathe cleansed. And this was done thre tymes. And all were taken vp agayne into heauen.

And beholde, anone there were three men come vnto the house where I was, sente frome Cesarea vnto me. And the spyrete sayde vnto me, that I shulde go with them, without doubtinge. These .vi. brethren accompanyed me: and we entred into the mans house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an Aungell in his house, which stode and sayd to him sende men to Joppa, and call for Simon, named also Peter: He shall tell the, wordes, whereby both thou and all thyne house shall be saued. And as I began to preache, the holy ghoste fell on them, as he dyd on vs at the begynnynge. Then came to my remembraūce the wordes of the Lorde, how he sayde: * Johñ baptised with water, but ye shalbe baptysed with the holy ghoste. For as moche then as God gaue them lyke gyftes, as he dyd vn to vs, when we beleued on the Lorde, Jesu Christe: What was I, that I shulde haue withstande God? When they herde this, they helde their peax and glorifyed God, sayenge: then hath God also to the gentyls graunted repentaunce vnto lyfe.

They whiche were scatred abrode, thorow the affliction that arose about Steuen, walked thorowe oute, tyll they came vnto Phenices and Cypers and Antioche, preachynge the worde to no man, but vnto the Jewes only. Some of them were men of Cypers, and Cyrene, which when they were come into Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lorde Jesus. And the hande of the Lord was with them, and a greate noumbre beleued and turned vnto the Lorde.

Tydinges of these thinges came vnto the eares of the congregation, whiche was in Jerusalem. And they sent forth Barnabas that he shulde go vnto Antioche. Which when he was come, and hadde sene the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted theym all, that with purpose of hert, they wold cōtinually cleaue vnto the Lorde. For he was a good man, and full of the holy ghoste and of faith: and moch people was added vnto the Lorde. Then departed Barnabas to Tharsus, for to seke Saul. And when he had foūd him, he brought him vnto Antioche. And it chaunsed that a hole yere, they hadde their conuersacion with the congregation there, & taught moche people: in so moche that the disciples of Antioche were the firste that were called Christen.

* In those dayes came Prophetes frome Jerusalem vnto Antioche. And there stode vp one of them named Agabus, and signifyed by the spyrete, that there shoulde be great derthe through oute all the worlde, whiche came to passe in the Emperour Claudius dayes. Then the disciples euery man accordinge to his habilite, purposed to sende socoure vnto the brethren which dwelt in Jewry. Which thinge they also dyd, and sent it to the elders, by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

CAP. XII.

In that tyme Herode the kynge stretched forth his handes to vexe certayne of the cōgregacion. And he kylled James the brother of Johñ with the swerde, and because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes, he proceded further, and toke Peter also. Then were the dayes of swete bred. And when he had caught him, he put him in prison, and delyuered him to .iiij. * quaternions of soudiers to be kept, entendinge after Easter to bringe him forthe to the people. Thē was Peter kept in prysō. But prayer was made without ceasynge of ỹ congregacion, vnto God for hym. And when Herode wolde haue brought him oute vnto the people, ỹ same night slept Peter betwene two souldyers, bounde with two chaynes/ and the kepers before the doore, kepte the prysō.

And beholde the aungell of the Lorde was there present, and a lyght shyned in the lodge. And he smote Peter on the syde, and stered him vp, sayenge: aryse vp quickely. And his cheynes fell of from his handes. And the angell sayde vnto him: gyrde thy selfe and bynde on thy * Sandales. And so he dyd. And he sayde vnto him: cast thy mantle about the, & folowe me. And he came oute, and folowed him, and wist not, that it was truthe whiche was done by the aungel, but thought he had sene a vysyon. When they were past the firste and the seconde watche, they came vnto the yron gate, that ledeth vnto the cytie, whiche openned to theym by the owne accorde. And they went oute and passed thorowe one strete and by and by, the Aungell departed frome hym.

* Sandales are soles to be bound vnder the fete.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe/ he sayde: nowe I knowe of a suretie, that the Lorde hath sent his Aungell, and hathe deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, & from all the tarynge awayte of the people of the Jewes. ✣

✣ And as he consydred the thynge, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one * Johñ, whiche was called Marke also, where many where gathered togither in prayer. As Peter knocked at the entrey doore, a damsell came forthe to herken, named Rhoda. And when she knew Peters voyce, she opened not the entrey for gladnes, but ran in, and tolde howe Peter stode before the entrey. And they sayde vnto her: thou arte mad. And she bare them downe that it was euen so. Then sayde they: it is his Aungell. But Peter continued knockinge: and when they hadde opened the doore, and sawe him, they were astonyed. And he beckened vnto thē with the hande, to hold their peax, and tolde them by what meanes ỹ Lorde had brought him oute of the prysō. ✣ And he sayde: goo shewe these thinges vnto James, and to the brethren. And he departed and went into an other place.

* This Johñ is the same Marck that wrot the Gospell of Marcke.

a do among the ſouldyers, what was become of Peter. When Herode had called for hym, and founde him not, he examined the kepers, and commaunded them to departe. And he deſcended frome Jewry to Ceſarea, and there aboode. Herode was diſpleased with theym of Tyre and Sydon. And they came al togyther and made interceſſion vnto Blaſtus the kynges chamberlen, & deſyred peax, becauſe their countrey was norysshed by the kynges lande. And vpon a daye appointed, Herode arayed him in royal apparel, and ſet him in his ſeate, and made an oracion vnto them. And the people gaue a shoute, sayenge: it is the voyce of a God, and not of a man. And immediately the aungel of the Lorde * ſmote him, becauſe he gaue not God the honoure, & he was eaten of wormes, and gaue vp the ghoſte. And the worde of God grewe and multiplyed. And Barnabas and Paul returned to Jeruſalē, when they hadde fulfylled their office, and toke with theym Johñ, whiche was alſo called Marcus.

CAPI. XIII.

THere were at Antioche, in the congregacion certayne prophetes and teachers as Barnabas and Simon called Niger and Lucius of Cirene and Manahen Herode the Tetrarches norſſelowe, & Saul. As they ministred to the Lorde and fasted, the holye ghoſt ſayd: separate me Barnabas and Saul to the worke where vnto I haue called them. Then fasted they and prayed, and put their handes on them, and let theym go. And they after they were ſent of the holy ghoſte, came vnto Seleucia, and frome thence they sayled to Cyprus. And when they were come to Selamine, they shewed the worde of God in the ſynagoges of the Jewes. And they had Johñ to their minister.

When they had gone thorow oute the Yle vnto the cytie of Paphos, they founde a certayne ſorcerer, a falſe prophete whiche was a Jewe, named Bariesu, whiche was with the rular of the countrey one Sergius Paulus a prudēt man. The ſame rular called vnto him Barnabas and Saul, and deſyred to heare ỹ worde of God. But Elymas the ſorcerer (for ſo was his name by interpretation) withſtode theym, and ſoughte to turne awaye the rular frome the faithe. Then Saul whiche alſo is called Paul beynge full of the holy ghoſt, ſet his eyes on him, and ſayde: O full of all ſutteltie and diſceyte fulnelle, the childe of the deuyll, and the enemye of al ryghtouſnes, thou ceaſeſt not to peruerte the straight wayes of the Lorde. And now beholde the hande of the Lorde is vpon the, and thou ſhalt be blynde, and not ſe the ſunne for a ſeaſon. And forthwith there fell on him a myſt and a darckines, and he went aboute ſekinge them that ſhuld leade hym by the hande. Then the rular whē he ſawe what had happened, beleued, & wondred at the doctrine of the Lorde.

When they that were with Paule, were departed by shyppe frome Paphos, they came to Perga a cytie of Pamphylia: & there Johñ departed frome them, and returned to Jeruſalem. But they wandred thorowe the countreyes frome Perga to Antioche a cytie of the countrey of Piſidia, and went into the ſynagoge on the Sabboth daye and ſate downe. And after the lawe and the Prophetes were redde, the rulars of the Synagoge ſent vnto theym, sayenge: Ye men and brethren, yf ye haue any ſermon to exhort the people, ſay on.

Then Paul ſtode vp, and beckened with ỹ hande, and ſayde: Men of Iſrael, and ye that feare God, geue audience. The God of this people choſe oure fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt as ſtraūgers in the land of Egypt, and with a myghty arme brought them out of it, and about the tyme of. xl. yeares ſuffred he their maners in the wyldernes. And he deſtroyed. vij. nations in the lande of Canaan, and diuided their lande to theym by Lot. And after he gaue vnto theym iudges about the space of. * iiij. C. and fyfftye yeres, vnto the tyme of Samuel the Prophete. And after that, they deſyred a kynge, & God gaue vnto them Saul the ſonne of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the ſpace of fourtye yeres. And after he had put him downe, he ſet vp Dauid to be their kynge, of whome he reaported, sayenge: I haue found Dauid the ſonne of Jeſſe, a man after myne owne hert, he ſhall fulfyll all my will.

* Foure hundred and fyfftye yeares. Thefe yeres muſte ye reken from their commynge forthe of Egypte Exod. xij. and not frō thēs fyrſte Iudge, Judith.

Of this mans ſeed hath God (accordynge to his promyſe) brought forthe to the people of Iſrael, a ſauyoure, one Jeſus, when Johñ had firſt preached before his commynge ỹ baptiſme of repentaunce, to Iſrael. And when Johñ had fulfylled his courſe, he ſayd: whō ye thynke that I am, the ſame am I not. * But beholde, there commeth one after me, whoſe ſhowes of his fete I am not worthye to lowſe.

Beware therfore leſt that fall on you, whiche is ſpoken of in the Prophetes: Beholde ye deſpiſers & wonder, and perysshe ye: for I do a worke in your dayes, whiche ye ſhall not beleue, yf a man wolde declare it you.

Habac. i. a

When they were come oute of the Synagoge of the Jewes, the Gentyles beſoughte that they wolde preache the worde to theym betwene the Sabboth dayes. When the congregation was broken vp, manye of the Jewes and deuout conuertes folowed Paul and Barnabas, whyche ſpake to theym and exhorted theym, to continue in the grace of God.

✣ And the nexte Sabboth daye came almooſte the hole cytye togyther, to heare the worde of God. When the Jewes ſaw the people, they were full of indignacion, and ſpake againſt thoſe thinges whiche were ſpoken of Paule, ſpeking againſt it, and raylinge on it.

Then Paule and Barnabas wered bolde, & ſayde: It was mete that the worde of God ſhulde firſte haue bene preached to you. But ſeynge ye put it frome you, and thinke youre ſelues vnworthy of euerlastinge lyfe: Lo, we turne to the Gentyles: For ſo hath the Lord commaunded vs * I haue made the a lyght to the Gentyles, that thou be ſaluacion vnto ỹ ende of the worlde.

The Gentyles herde, and were glad, and glorifyed the worde of the Lorde, and beleued: euen as many as were ordeyned vnto eternall lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was publyſſhed thorow out all the region. But ỹ Jewes moued the worſhypfull and honorable wemen, and the chiefe men of the cytie, & reyſed perſecution againſte Paule and Barnabas and expelled them oute of their coſtes. * And they thouke of the duſte of their fete againſt them, and came vnto Iconium. And ỹ diſciples were fylled with ioye and with the holy ghoſt. ✣

Act. xiij. b

¶ Paule and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some beleue, some ſtere vp ſedicion. At Lyſtra they wolde do ſacrifyce to Barnabas and Paule, whiche refuſe it, and exhorte the people to worſhyppe the true God, Paule is stoned, after that commeth he to Derba, Lyſtra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

CAPI. XIIII

AND it fortuned in Iconium that they went both togyther into the Synagoge of the Jewes, and ſo ſpake, that a great multitude both of the Jewes and alſo of the Grekes beleued. But the vnbeleuinge Jewes, ſtered vp and diſquicted the myndes of the Gentyles againſt the brethren. Longe tyme abode they there, and quyte them ſelues boldely with the helpe of the Lorde, whiche gaue teſtimony vnto the worde of his grace, & cauſed ſignes and wōders to be done by their handes. The people of the cytie were deuided and parte helde with the Jewes, and part wt the Apoſtles.

When there was a ſaulte made bothe of ỹ Gentyles and alſo of the Jewes, with their rulars, to put theym to shame / and to ſtone them, they were ware of it, and fled vnto Lyſtra and Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, and vnto the region that lyeth rounde aboute, & there preached the Goſpel. And there ſate a certayn man at Lyſtra weake in his fete, beynge cripple frome his mothers wombe, & neuer walked. The ſame herde Paul preache. Whiche beheld him, and perceyued that he had faith to be hole, and ſayde with a lowde voyce: ſtād vpright on thy fete. And he ſterte vp, & walked. And when the people ſawe what Paul had wone, they lyfte vp their voyces, ſayenge in the ſpeche of Lycaonia: Goddes are come wowne to vs in ỹ lykines of men. And they called Barnabas, Jupiter: and Paul Mercurius, becauſe he was the preacher. Then Jupiters prieſte, whiche dwelte before their cytie, brought oxen and garlandes vnto the churche porche, and wolde haue doone ſacrifice with the people.

Paule and Barnabas abhorre to haue oxen and garlandes offred vnto them.

But when the Apoſtles, Barnabas and Paul herde that, they rent theyr clothes, and ran in amonge the people, cryinge and ſayenge: Syrs, why do ye this? We are mortal men lyke vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye ſhulde turne frome theſe vanities vnto the lyuynge God, which made heauen and earthe, and the ſee, and all that in theym is: whiche in tymes paſte ſuffered all nacyons to walke in their owne wayes. Neuertheleſſe he left not hym ſelfe without wytneſſe, in that he ſhewed his benefytes, in gyuinge vs rayne frome heauen and frutefull ſeaſons, fyllinge oure hertes with fode, and gladneſſe. And with theſe ſayenges, ſcace refrayned they the people, that they had not done ſacrifice vnto theym.

Thyther came certayne Jewes frome Antioche and Iconium, and obtayned the peoples conſent, and ſtoned Paul, and drew him oute of the cytie, ſuppoſynge, he had bene dede. How be it as the diſciples stode rounde about him, he aroſe vp, and came into the cytie. And the next daye he departed with Barnabas to Derba. After they had preached to that cytie, and had taught many, they returned to Lyſtra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and ſtrengthed the diſciples ſoules, exhorting them to continue in the faith, affirmyng that we muſt thorow moche tribulacion, entre into the kyngdome of God. And they ordeyned them them elders by election in euery congregacion, and prayed and fasted, and cõmended them to God on whome they beleued. And they went thorow out Pisidia and came to Pamphilia, and when they had preached the worde of God in Perga, they descended into Attalia, and thence departed by shippe to Antioche, frome whence they were delyuered vnto the grace of God, to the worke whiche they had fulfylled. When they were come and had gathered the congregation togyther, they rehersed all that God had done by them, and how he had opened the dore of faith vnto the gentyles. And there they abode longe tyme with the disciples.

¶ Variaunce about circumcision. The apostles pacyfye the matter at Jerusalem. Paule and Barnabas preache at Antyoche.

CAP. XV.

A Galath. v. a

THen came certayne frome Jewrye, and taught the brethren * except ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moses, ye can not be saued. And when there was rysen dissencion and disputynge not a lytell vnto Paul and Barnabas againste them, they determyned that Paul and Barnabas, and certayne other of them, shulde go vp to Jerusalem, to the Apostles and elders, aboute this questiõ. And after they were brought on their waye by the congregacion, they passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declarynge the conuersion of the Gentyles, and they brought great ioye vnto all the brethren. And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were receyued of the congregacion, and of the Apostles and elders. And they declared what thinges God hadde done by them. B Then arose vp certayne of the secte of the Pharises, whyche byd beleue, sayenge: that it was nedefull to circumcyse theym, and to enioyne theym, to kepe the lawe of Moses. And the Apostles, and elderes, came to gyther to reasone of this matter.

And when ther was moche disputyng, Peter rose vp and sayde vnto them: Ye men and brethren, ye knowe how that a good whyle a goo, God chose amonge vs that the Gentyls by my mouthe shulde heare the worde of the Gospel and beleue. And God which knoweth the herte, bare them wytnes, and gaue vnto them the holy ghost, euen as he dyd vnto vs, and he put no difference betwene the and vs, but with fayth purefyed theyr hertes. Nowe therfore why tempte ye God, that ye wolde put a yoke on the disciples neckes, which neyther our fathers nor we were hable to beare. But we beleue that thorowe the grace of the Lorde Jesu Chryste, we shalbe saued, as they do. Then all the multytude was apeased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paul, which tolde what sygnes and wonders God hade shewed amonge the Gentyles by them.

And when they helde theyr peace James answered saying: Men and brethren heken vnto me. Simeon tolde how God at the begynninge dyd vysyte the Gentyls, and receyued of them, people vnto his name. And to this, agreeth the wordes of the Prophetes, as it is wrytten. Amos. ix. After this I wyll returne, and wyll buyld agayne the tabernacle of Dauid which is fallen downe and the decayed of it, wyll I buylde agayne, and I wyll set it vp that the residue of men myghte seke after the Lorde, and also the Gentyls vpon whome my name is called on sayth the Lorde, whiche doth all these thynges: Known vnto God are all his workes frome the begynninge of the worlde. Wherfore my sentence is that we trouble not them whiche from amonge the Gentyls, are turned to God: but that we wryt vnto them, that they absteyne them selues frome fylthynes of ymages frome fornycacyon, from strangled and frome bloude. For Moses of olde tyme hath in euery cytye that preach hym, and is red in the synagoges euery Sabboth daye. D

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the hole congregacyon, to sende chosen men of their own company to Antioche with Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas called also Barsabas, and Silas, whiche were chiefe men amonge the brethren, & gaue them letters in their handes after this forme.

The Apostles, elders and brethren send gretinges vnto the brethren which are of the gẽtyls in Antioche, Syria and Cylicia. For as moche as we haue herde that certayne which departed frome vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combred youre myndes, sayeng: Ye must be circumcysed and kepe the lawe, to whome we gaue no suche commaundement: we thought good, when we were come togither with one accorde, to sende chosen men vnto you, with our beloued Barnabas & Paul, men that haue ieoparded their lyues, for the name of our Lord Jesu Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Silas, whiche shall also tell you the same thinges by mouth. For it semed good to the holy ghost and to vs, to put no greuous thinge vpon you, more then these necessary thinges: that is to saye, that ye absteyne frome thinges offred to ymages, frome bloude, frome strangled and fornication. Frõ which yf ye kepe your selues, ye shall do wel. Fare ye well. Letters of the Apostles. E

When they were departed, they came to Antioche, and gathered the multytude togyther, and delyuered the Epistle. When they had red it, they reioyced of that consolacion. And Judas and Silas beinge Prophetes, exhorted the brethren with moche preachinge, & strengthed them. And after they hadde tarved there a space, they were let goo in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwithstandinge it pleased Silas to abyde there still. Paul & Barnabas continued in Antioche teachinge & preachinge the worde of the Lord with other many. F

But after a certayne space, Paul sayd vnto Barnabas: Let vs go agayne and vysyte oure brethren in euerye cytie where we haue shewed the worde of the Lorde, and se howe they do. And Barnabas gaue counsell to take with theym Johñ, called also Marcke. But Paul thoughte it not mete to take hym vnto their G theyr company which departed from them at Pamphilia, and went not with them to the worke. And the dissencion was so sharpe betwene them, that they departed a sunder one from ỹ other: so that Barnabas toke Marcke and sayled vnto Cypers. And Paul chose Silas and departed, beraken of the brethren vnto the grace of God. And he went thorow all Syria and Cilicia, stablysshynge the congregacions.

¶ Timothe is circumcised. Paul preacheth at Philippos, and there is put in pryson.

CAP. I. XVI.

A THen came he to Derba and to Lystra. And beholde, a certayne disciple was there named Timotheus, a womans sone whiche was a Jewesse and beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whome reaported well, the brethren of Lystra, and of Iconium. The same, Paul wolde that he shulde go forth with hym, and toke and circumcysed him because of the iewes which were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that his father was a Greke. As they went thorowe the cyties, they delyuered theym the decrees for to kepe, ordeyned of the Apostles & elders, whiche were at Jerusalem. And so were the congregacions stablysshed in the faithe, and encreased in noumbre dayly.

B When they had gone thorowe oute Phrygia, and the region of Galacia, and were forbydden of the holy ghost to preache the word in Asia, they came to Mysia, and sought to go into Bethynia. But the spirite suffered them not. Then they went ouer Mysia, and came downe to Troada. And a vysion appeared to Paul in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed him, sayenge: come into C Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vysion, immediatly we prepared to go into Macedonia, certyfyed that the Lorde had called vs, for to preache the Gospell vnto theym. Then sayled we forthe frome Troada, and with a strayght course came to Samothracia, and the next daye to Neapoli, and frome thence / to Philippos, whiche is the chiefe cytie in the partes of Macedonia, and a free cytie.

We were in that cytie abydinge a certayne dayes. And on the Sabboth dayes we wente oute of the cytie, besydes a ryuer, where men were wont to praye. And we sate downe and spake vnto the wemen, whiche resorted thyther. And a certayne woman named Lidya a sellar of purple, of the cytie of Tyratira, whiche worshypped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lorde opened that she attended vnto the thinges, whiche Paul spake. D When she was baptysed and her housholde, she besought vs, sayenge: If ye thinke that I beleue on the Lorde, come into my house, and abyde there. And she constrayned vs.

* And it fortuned as we went to prayer, a certayne dãsell possessed with a spirete of south sayenge, met vs, which brought her maister & maistres moche gaynes with Prophesyenge. The same, folowed Paul and vs, and cryed, sayenge: These men are the seruauntes of the hyghest God, which shewe vnto vs the waye of saluacyon. And this dyd she many dayes. But Paule not content, tourned aboute and sayde to the spirete. I commaunde the in the name of Jesu Chryste, that thou come oute of her. And he came out the same houre.

And when her maister and maistres, sawe that the hope of their gaynes was gone, they caught Paul and Sylas, and drue theym into the market place, vnto the rulars, and E brought them to the officers, sayenge: These men trouble our cytie, which are Jewes, and preache ordinaunces, which are not lawfull for vs to receyue, neyther to obserue, sithens we are Romayns. And the people ranne on them, and the officers rent theyr clothes, and commaunded them to be beaten with rodes. And when they had beaten them sore, they cast them into pryson, cõmaundyng the iayler to kepe them surely. Who when he had receyued suche commaundement, thruste theym in to the inner pryson, and made theyr feete faste in the stockes.

At mydnyghte Paule and Silas prayed, F and praysed God. And the prysoners hearde them. And sodenly there was a greate erthquake, so that the foundacion of the pryson was shaken, and anone all the dores opened, and euery manes bandes were lowsed. When the keper of the prison waked out of slepe and sawe the pryson dores open, he drewe out his sweard and wolde haue kylled him selfe, supposynge the prysoners had bene fled. But Paule cryed with aloude voyce, sayeng: do thy selfe no harme, for we are all heare. Then he called for a lyghte and sprange in and came tremblynge, and fell doune before Paul and Silas, and brought them out and sayd. Sirs, what muste I do to be saued? And they sayde: beleue on the Lorde Jesus, and thou shalt be G saued and thy housholde. And they preached vnto him the worde of the Lorde, and to all that were in his house. And he toke them the same houre of the nyghte and washed theyr woundes, and was baptysed with all that belonged vnto him strayght way. When he had brought them in to his house, he sete meate before them, and ioyed that he with all his housholde, beleued on God.

And when it was daye, the officers sent the ministers, sayng: let those men go. The keper of the prison tolde this sayinge to Paule, the officers haue sente worde to louse you. Nowe therfore gete you hence and go in peace. Then sayde Paule vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncondempned, wheras we are Romayns, and haue cast vs in to prison: and now wolde they sende vs awaye preuely? Nay, not so, but let them come them selues, and fet vs out. When the ministers tolde these wordes vnto the officers, they feared when they herde that they were Romayns, and came and besoughte them, and brought them out, and desyred them to departe out of the cite. So they went out of the prison and entred in to the house of Lidia, and when they had sene the brethren, they comforted them and departed.

¶ Paule commeth to Thessalonica, where the Jewes set the cytye on a rore. Paule escapeth, and commeth to Athens, where he preacheth the true and vnknowne God.

CAPI. XVII.

C beleued on the Lorde with all his houshold, and many of the Corinthians gaue audience, and beleued and were baptysed.

Then spake the Lorde to Paule in the nyght by a vysion. Be not afrayd, but speake, & holde not thy peace: for I am with the, & no man shall inuade the that shall hurte the. For I haue moche people in this citie. And he contynued there a yeare and sixe monethes, and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of D Achaia, the Jewes made insurreccio͂ with one accorde agaynste Paule, and broughte him to the iudgment seate, sayinge: this felow counseleth men to worshippe God, contrary to the lawe. And as Paule was aboute to open his mouthe Gallio sayde vnto the Jewes: yf it were a matter of wrong, or an euyll dede (O ye Jewes) reason wolde that I shulde heare you: but yf it be a question of wordes, or of names. or of youre lawe, loke ye to it youre selues. For I wyl be no iudge in suche maters, and he draue them frome the seate. Then toke al the Grekes Sostenes the chefe ruler of the Sinagoge, and smote him before the iudges E seate. And Gallio cared for noone of those thynges.

Paule after this, taryed there yet a good whyle, and then toke his leaue of the brethren and sayled thence in to Cyria, Priscilla and Aquila accompanying him. And he shore his heed in Cenchrea, for he had a vowe And he came to Ephesus and left them there: but he him selfe entred in to the Sinagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. When they desyred him to tary longer tyme with them, he consented not, but bade them fare well sayinge. I muste nedes at this feaste that commeth, be in Jerusalem: but I wyll returne agayne vnto you, yf God wil. And he departed frome Ephesus and came vnto Cesarea: and ascendid

G but the baptisme of Johñ only. And the same began to speake boldly in the Sinagoge. And when Aquila and Priscilla hadde herde hym, they toke him vnto them and expouned vnto him the waye of God more perfectly.

And when he was disposed to go in to Achaia the brethren wrote, exhortynge the disciples to receyue him. After he was come thyther, he holpe them moche whiche hadde beleued thorow grace. And mightely he ouercame the Jewes, and that openly, shewynge by the scriptures that Jesus was Chryste.

¶ Of the .xii. men whom Paule baptysed at Ephesus and what miracles were done by him. Demetrius moueth sedicion in the cytye.

CAPI. XIX.

It fortuned whyle Apollo was at Corinthum, that Paul passed thorow the vpper costes and came to Ephesus, and found certayne disciples, and sayde vnto them: haue ye receyued the holy ghoste sithens ye beleued? And they sayde vnto him: no, we ha e not hearde whether there be any holy ghost or no. And he sayde vnto them: wherwith were ye then baptysed? And they sayd: With Johñs baptysme. Then sayde Paule: Johñ baptysed with the baptisme of repentaunce, saying vnto the people that they shulde beleue on him, which shuld come after him: that is on Christ Jesus. When they herde that, they were baptised in the name of the Lord Jesu. And Paul A layde his handes vpon them, and the holy B ghost came on them, and they spake with tonges, and prophesyed, and all the men were about twelue.

And he went in to the synagoge, and behaued him selfe boldely for the space of thre monethes, disputynge and gyuynge them exhortacions of the kyngdome of God.
When dyuers wexed harde herted and beleued not, but spake euyll of the waye, and that before the multytude: he departed from them and seperated the disciples. And he disputed dayly in the scole of one called Tyrannus. And this contynued by the space of .ii. yeares so that all they whiche dwelte in Asia, herde the worde of the Lorde Jesu, both Jewes and Grekes. And God wrought no small myracles by the handes of Paul: so that frome his body, were brought vnto the sycke, napkyns C or partelettes, and the dyseases departed frō theym, and the euyll spretes went oute of theym.

Then certayne of the vagabounde Jewes exorcistes, toke vpon them to call ouer theym whiche had euyll sprętes, the name of ẏ Lord Jesus sayenge: We coniure you by Jesu whō Paul preacheth. And there were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Jewe and chiefe of the prestes whiche dyd so. And the euyll sprete answered and sayde: Jesu I know, and Paul I know: D but who are ye? And the man in whome the ☞ euyll sprete was, ran on them, and ouercame theym, and preuayled against theym, so that they fledde out of that house naked and woūded. And this was knowen to all the Jewes, and Grekes also, whiche dwelt at Ephesus, and feare came on them all, and they magnified the name of the Lorde Jesus.

And many that beleued, came and confessed and shewed theyr workes. Many of them whiche vsed curious crafftes, broughte theyr bookes and burned them before all men, and they counted the prece of them, and founde it fyfty thousande syluerlynges. So myghtely grewe the worde of God, and preuayled. After these thinges were ended, Paul purposed in the spirite, to passe ouer Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Jerusalem, sayenge: After I haue bene there, I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of the that ministred vnto him, Timotheus and Erastus but he hym self remayned in Asia for a season.

E The same tyme there arose no lyttell a doo about that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a siluersmyth, which made siluer shrynes for Diana, was not a lyttell benefite all vnto the craftes men. Which he called together with the workemen of lyke occupation and sayde: Syrs, ye knowe that by this craft we haue gaynes, And ye se and heare that not alone at Ephesus, but almost thorowout all Asia, this Paul hath perswaded and turned awaye moche people, sayeng that they be not Goddes whiche are made with handes. So not onely this our craffte commeth into parel to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the greate Goddesse Diana shoulde be despysed, and her magnificence shoulde be destroyed, whiche all Asia and the worlde worshypped.

When they herde these sayinges, they were full of wrath, and cryed out sayenge: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all the cytie was on a rooze, & they rushed into the comen hall with one assent, and caught Gayus and Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Pauls companyons. When Paul wolde haue entred in vnto the people, the disciples suffred him not.

F Certayne also of the chef of Asia which were his frendes, sent vnto him, desyringe him that he wolde not preace into ꝑ comen hall. Some cryed one thinge and some an other, and the congregacion was all oute of quyet, and the moare parte knewe not wherfore they were come togither.

Some of the company drue forthe Alexandre, the Jewes thrustynge hym forwardes. Alexandre beckened with the hande, and wolde haue gruen the people an answere. When they knewe that he was a Jewe, there arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres, of all men cryenge: great is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the towne clarcke hadde ceased the people, he sayde: Ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not, how the cytie of the Ephesians is a worshypper of the greate Goddesse Diana, and of the ymage whiche came frome heauen. Seynge then no man sayth here against, ye oughte to be content, & to do nothinge rashely: for ye haue broughte hyther these men whiche are neyther robbers of churches, ne despysers of youre Goddes.

C Wherfore yf Demetrius and the craftes men which are with him, haue any sayenge to any man, the lawe is open, and there are rulers, let them accuse one an other. Yf ye go about any other thynge, it maye be determyned in a lawfull congregacyon. For we are in ieopardy to be accused of this dayes busynesse: for as moche as there is no cause wherby we may gyue a rekeninge of this concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken he let the congregation departe.

¶ Paule goeth in to Macedonia and in to Greece. At Troas he rayseth vp a ded body. At Ephesus he calleth the elders of the congregation togyther, counterfeteth the keppynge of Godocs flocke vnto them, warneth them of false teachers, maketh his prayer with them, and departeth to shyppe.

CAPI. XX.

A Fter the rage was ceased, Paul called the disciples vnto him, and toke his leaue of them, and departed to go into Macedonia. And when he hadde gone ouer those parties, and gyuen them large exhortations, he came into Greece, and there abode three monethes. And when the Jewes layde awayte for him as he was aboute to sayle into Syria, he purposed to returne thorow Macedonia. There accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berrhea, and of Thessalonia, Aristarcus and Secundus, and Gayus of Derba, and Timotheus: and out of Asia, Tichicus and Trophimos. These went before, and taryed vs at Troas. And we sayled away frō Philippos after the Eater holydayes, & came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And on the morow after the Saboth day, the disciples came togither for to breake bred, and Paul preached vnto them (redy to depart on the morowe) and continued the preaching vnto mydnight. And there were manye lightes in the chaumber where they were gathered togither, and there sate in a wyndowe a certayne ponge man named Eutichus, fallen into a depe sleepe. And as Paul declared, he was the moare ouercome with slepe, and fell downe frome the thyrde lofte, and was taken vp deed. * Paul went downe and fel on him and embraced him, and sayde: make nothing a doo, for his lyfe is in hym. When he was come vp agayne, he brake bred, and talked, & comened a longe whyle, euen tyll the morynge, and so departed. And they brought the younge man a lyue, and were not a lyttell cōforted.

And we went afore to shyp, and sayled vnto Asson, there to receyue Paule. For so had he appointed, & wolde him selfe go a fote. When he was come vnto vs to Asso, we toke him in, and came to Mytilenes. And we sayled thence and came the next dayoueragainst Chios. And the next day we arriued at Samos, and taryed at Trogilion. The next day we came to Myleton: for Paul had determined to leaue Ephesus as they sayled, because he wolde not spende the tyme in Asia. For he hasted to be (yf ¶ Pauls iorney by shyppe. Of Philippe the Euangelist, and Agabus the prophet, which warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remayned stedfast in his purpose, and is taken in the temple.

CAPI. XXI.

A And it chaunced that as sone as we had launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a straught course vnto Choon, and the day folowyng vnto the Rhodes, and from thense vnto Patara. And we founde a shyppe redye to sayle vnto Phenices, and went a borde and set forthe. Then appeared vnto vs Cyprus, and we lefte it on the lefte hande, and sayled vnto Syria, and came vnto Tyre. For there the shyp vnladed her burthen. And when he had founde brethre we taryed there seuen dayes. And they tolde Paule thorowe the spirite, that he shulde not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended, we departed and went our wayes, and they all brought vs on our waye, with theyr wyues and chyldren, tyll we were come oute of the city. And we kneled downe in the shore and prayed. And wen we had taken our leaue one of an other, we toke shyp, and they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course from Tyre we arryued at Ptolomaida, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one daye. The nexte daye, we that were of Paules compayne departed and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred in to the house of Philip the Euangelyst, whiche was one of the seuen deacons, and abode with him. The same man hadde foure doughters virgyns, whiche dyd prophesye. * And as we taryed there a good meyny of dayes, there came a certayne Prophete frome Jurye, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he toke Paules gyrdel, and bounde his handes and feete, and sayde: Thus sayth the holy ghost, so shal the Jewes at Jerusalem bynde the man that oweth this gyrdell, and shal delyuer him in to the handes of the Gentyles.

When we herde this, both we and other of the same place, besoughte him that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paule answered and sayde: What doo ye, weppynge and breakynge myne herte? I am redye not to be bounde onely, but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the Lorde Jesu. When we coulde not turne his mynde, we ceased, sayinge: the wyll of the Lorde be fulfylled. After those dayes we made our selues redye, and went vp to Jerusalem. There went with vs also certayne of the disciples of Cesarea, and broughte with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an olde disciple with whome we shulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receyued vs gladly. And on the morow, Paule went in with vs vnto James, and all the elders came togyther. And when he hadde saluted them, he tolde by ordre all thynges that God had wrought amonge the Gentyles by his ministracion. And when they herde it they glorifyed the Lorde, and (yf he coulde possible) at Jerusalem at the day of Pentecost. Wherfore frome Myleton he sente to Ephesus, and called the elders of the congregation. And when they were come to him, he sayd vnto them: Ye knowe from the fyrste daye that I came in to Asia, after what maner I haue bene with you at all seasons, seruynge the Lorde with all humblenes of mynde, and with many teares, and temptacions, whiche happened vnto me by the lyenges awayte of the Jewes/ and howe I kepte backe nothyng that was profitable, but that I haue shewed you and taughte you openly and at home in your houses, witnesyng bothe to the Jewes, and also to the Grekes, the repentaunce towarde God, and fayth towarde our Lorde Jesus.

And now beholde, I go bounde in the spirite vnto Jerusalem, and knowe not what shall come on me there, but that the holy ghost witnesseth in euery citye, saying: that bandes and trouble abyde me. But none of those thynges moue me, neither is my lyfe dere vnto my self, that I myght fulfyll my course with ioye, and the ministracion which I haue receyued of the Lorde Jesu, to testifie the gospell of the grace of God.

And nowe beholde, I am sure that hence forth ye all (thorow whom I haue gone preachynge the kyngdome of God) shall se my face no more. * Wherfore I take you to recorde this same day, that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue kepte nothing backe, but haue shewed you all the counsell of God. Take hede therfore vnto your selues and to all the flocke, wherof the holy ghoste hathe made you ouerseers, to rule the congregacion of God, whiche he hathe purchased with his bloude. * For I am sure of this, that after my departynge, shall greuous wolues entre in amonge you, whiche wyll not spare the flocke. And of youre owne selues shall men aryse, speakynge peruerse thynges to drawe disciples after them. Therfore awake, and remembre that by the space of thre yeres, I ceased not to warne euery one of you bothe nyght and daye with teares.

And nowe brethren, I commende you to God, and to the worde of his grace, whiche is able to bylde further, and to gyue you an inheritaunce, amonge all them whiche are sanctifyed. I haue desyred no mannes syluer, golde or vesture. Ye knowe well that these handes haue ministred vnto my necessityes, and to them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thynges, how that so labouryng ye oughte to receyue the weyke, and to remembre the wordes of the Lorde Jesu, howe he sayde: It is more blessed to gyue, then to receyue.

When he hadde thus spoken, he kneled downe and prayed with them all. And they wepte haboundantly, and fell on Paules necke, and kyssed him, sorowynge most of all for the wordes whiche he spake, that they shulde se his face no more. And they accompanyed him vnto the shyppe.

sayde vnto him: Thou seest brother, how ma ny thousande Iewes there are whiche beleue, and they are all zelous ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest
all the Iewes which are amonge the gentils, to forsake Moses, and sayest that they ought not to circumcyse their children, neyther to lyue after the customes. What is it therefore?
The multitude must nedes come together. For they shall heare that thou art come. Do therefore this, that we saye to the.

Numer.vi.a. * We haue foure men, which haue a vowe
E on them. Them take, and purifye thy selfe with theym, and doo coste on them, that they maye shaue their heddes, and all shall know that those thinges whiche they haue herde cōcernynge the, are nothynge: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and kepest the lawe.
For as touchinge the gentyls whiche beleue,
we haue writtē and concluded, that they ob-serue no suche thynges: but that they kepe them selues frome thynges offred to ydoles, frome bloude, frome strangled, and from fornication. Then the nexte daye Paul toke the men, and purifyed him selfe with them, and entred into the temple, declarynge that he ob serued the dayes of the purification, tyll that an offringe shoulde be offred for euerye one of theym.

And as the seuen dayes shulde haue bene en ded, the Iewes whiche were of Asia, when they sawe hym in the temple, they moued all the people, and layde handes on hym, cryng:
F men of Israel, helpe. This is the man that teacheth all men euery where against the peo ple and the lawe, and this place. Moreouer he hath brought Grekes into the temple, and hath defyled this holy place. For they sawe one Trophimus an Ephesian with him in the cytie. Him they supposed Paul had brought into the temple. And al the cytie was moued and the people swarmed togyther. And they toke Paul and drue him out of the temple, &
forthwith the dores were shut.

As they went about to kyll hym, tydinges came vnto the chiefe captayne of the Souldy-ers, that all Ierusalem was moued. Whiche immediately toke Souldyers and vndercap-taynes, and ran downe vnto theym. When they sawe the Captayne and the Souldyers, they lefte smytinge of Paul. Then the Cap-G tayne came nere and toke him, and commanded him to be bounde with two chaynes, and demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And one cryed this, an other that amōg
the people. And when he coulde not knowe ỹ certayntie for the rage, he commaunded hym to be caryed into the castel. And whē he came vnto ỹ Greces, it fortuned that he was borne of the Souldyers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, cryenge: awaye with him.

And as Paul shulde haue bene caryed into the castel, he sayde vnto the Captayne: maye
I speake vnto the? Which sayd: Canst thou speke Greke? Arte not thou that Egyptian, whiche before these dayes made an vproure, &
led out into the wyldernesse foure thousande men that were murtherers? But Paul sayde
I am a man whiche am a Iewe of Tharsus a cytie in Cycill, a Cytesen of no vyle cytie, I beseche the / suffre me to speake vnto the people. When he had gyuen him lycence, Paule stode on the steppes, and beckened with ỹ hād vnto the people, and there was made a great silence. And he spake vnto them in the Ebrew tongue, sayenge:

¶ Paule answereth the Iewes, is scourged, and layde in pryson agayne.

CAPI. XXII.

YE men brethren & fathers, heare myne aunswere whiche I make vnto you. A
When they hearde that he spake in the Ebrewe tongue to them, they kepte the more silence. And he sayde: I am verely a man, whiche am a Iewe borne in Tharsus, a cytie
in Cycill: neuertheles brought vp in this cy tie, at the fete of Gamaliel, and informed di ligently in the lawe of the fathers, and was feruent mynded to God warde, as ye all are this same daye, and * I persecuted this way Iesus. viii.a.
vnto the death, byndynge and delyuerynge in- and.xi.a to pryson bothe men and wemen, as the chief preest dothe beare me wytnesse, and all the elders of whome also I receyued letters vnto B
the brethren, and went to Damasco to bringe them whiche were there bounde vnto Ieru-salem for to be punyshed.

And it fortuned, as I made my iourney, & was come nyghe vnto Damasco about none, sodeynly there shone frome heauen a greate lyghte rounde aboute me, and I fell vnto the earthe, and hearde a voyce, sayenge vnto me. Iesu. viii.a
* Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?
And I aunswered: What arte thou Lorde?
And he sayde to me: I am Iesus of Nazareth whome thou persecutest. And they that were with me sawe a lyght and were afrayde: but they hearde not the voyce of him that spake with me. And I sayde: What shall I doo C Lorde? And the Lorde sayde vnto me: Aryse, and go in to Damasco and there it shalbe told the of all thinges which are appointed the to do. And when I sawe nothing for the brightes of the lyght, I was ledde by the hande of them that were with me, and came into Da-masco.

And one Ananias a perfect man, and as per taynynge to the lawe haynge good reporte of all the Iewes whiche there dwelte, came D
vnto me, and stode and sayde vnto me: Brother Saule, loke vp. And that same houre I receyued my syght and sawe him. And he sayd the God of our fathers hath ordeyned the before, that thou shuldest knowe his will, and shuldest se that which is rightfull, & shuldest heare the voyce of his mouth: for thou shalt be his witnes vnto all men of those thinges whiche thou hast sene and hearde. And nowe:
why tarryest thou? Aryse and be baptysed, and washe awaye thy synnes, callynge on the name of the Lorde. And it fortuned, when I was come agayne to Ierusalem / and prayde in the

in the temple, that I was in a traunce, and sawe him, sayinge vnto me. Make haste, and E get the quyckly out of Ierusalē, for they wyll not receyue thy wytnesse that thou bearest of me. And I sayde: Lorde they knowe that I pursoned and bet in euery synagoge them that byleued on the. And when the bloode of thy wytnesse Steuen was shed, I also stode by, & consented vnto his deth, and kept the rayment of them that slewe him. And he sayd vnto me:
departe, for I wyll sende the a farre hence vnto the Gentyles.

They gaue him audience vnto his worde,
and then lyfte vp theyr voyces, and sayde: a-F waye with suche a felowe frome the erth: it is pitye that he sholde lyue. And as they cryed and cast of theyr clothes, and threwe dust in to the ayre, the captayne bad him be broughte in to the castel, and commaunded him to be scour ged, and to be examined, that he might know wherefore they cryed on hym. And as they bounde him with thonges, Paule sayde vnto
the Centurion that stode by: Is it laufull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne, and uncondemned? When the Centurion herde that, he went and tolde the captayne, sayinge:
What intendest thou to do? This man is a G Romayne.

Then the captayne came, and sayde to him:
Tell me, art thou a Romayne? He sayde: Ye.
And the captayne answered: With a greate somme obteyned I this fredome. And Paule sayde: I was free borne. Then forthwith departed from him they which sholde haue examined him. And the captayne also was afrayd after he knewe that he was a Romayne: because he had bounde him.

On the morowe, because he wolde haue knowen the certayntie, wherfore he was accused of the Iewes, he losed him from his bon des, and commaunded the chiefe preestes, and all the concile to come togyther, and brought Paule, and set him before them.

¶ Paule commeth before the counsell. Debate arysēth among the people. The capteyn deliuereth him/ God comforteth him.

CAPI. XXIII.

A PAule behelde the counsel and sayd: Men and brethren, I haue lyued in al good con science before God * tyll this daye. The Act.xxiii.b hye preest Ananias commaunded them ỹ stode
by to smyte him on the mouthe. Then sayde
B Paule to him: God smyte the thou paynted wall. Sittest thou & iudgest me after the law, and commaundest me to be smytten contrarye
to the lawe? And they that stode by sayde: re-uilest thou Gods hye preest? Then said Paul:
I wist not, brethren, that he was the hye preest.
Act.xxiii.d For it is wrytten: * thou shalte not curse the B ruler of thy people.

When Paule perceyued that the one parte were Sadduces, and the other Pharisees, he cryed out in the counsell. Men and brethren, Act.xxiii.a. * I am a Pharisey, the sonne of a Pharisey.
Of the hope and resurrection frome dethe, I am iudged. And when he had so sayde, there arose a debate betwene the Pharisees and the Sadduces/and the multitude was deuyded.
* For the Sadduces saye there is no resurrection, neither aungel ne spirite. But the Pha- Math.xxii.c risees graunte bothe. And there arose a greate crye, and the Scribes which was of the Pharisees parte, arose and stroue, saying: we fynde none euyll in this man. Though a spyrite or an aungell hath appered to him, let vs not stryue agaynst God.

And when there arose greate debate, the captayne fearynge, lest Paule sholde haue ben C pluckt asonder of them, commaunded the soul-dyers to go downe, and to take hym frome them, and to brynge him in to the castell. The night folowynge, God stode by him and sayd:
D be of good chere Paule, for as thou hast testifyed of me in Ierusalem, so muste thou beare wytnes at Rome. When daye was come, cer-tayne of the Iewes gathered them selues to-gyther, and made a vowe, sayinge: that they wolde neither eate nor drynke, tyll they had kylled Paule. They were about. xl. which had made this conspiracie. And they came to the chefe preest & elders, and said: we haue bound our selues with a vowe, that we wyl eate no-thynge, tyll we haue slayne Paule. Nowe D therefore gyue ye knowlege to the captayne
and to the counsell, that he brynge him forthe vnto vs to morow, as though we wold know some thyng more perfectly of hym. But we (or euer he come neare) are redy in the meane season to kyll hym.

When Paules systers sonne herde of theyr layinge awayte, he wente and entred in to the castel, and tolde Paule. And paule called one of the vnder captaynes vnto hym, and sayde:
bringe this ponge man vnto the hye capteyn:
for he hathe a certayne thynge to shewe him.
And he toke him, and brought him to the captayne, and sayd: Paule the prysoner called me
vnto him, and prayed me to bryng this ponge man vnto the, whiche hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captayne toke him by the hande, E
and wente aparte with him out of the waye:
and asked him, what hast thou to say vnto me?
And he sayd: the Iewes are determined to de-syre the that thou woldest bringe forth Paule to morowe in to the counsell, as though they wold enquire somwhat of him more perfectly:
But folow not theyr myndes: for there lye in wayte for him of them mo then. xl. men, which haue bounde them selues with a vowe, that they wyl neither eate ne drinke tyl they haue kylled him. And now are they redye, and loke for thy promyse.

The captayne let the ponge man departe,
and charged hym: See thou tell no man that F thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto him two vnder captaynes, saying:
make redye two hundred souldyers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen thre score and ten, and speare men two hundred, at the thyrde houre of the nyghte. And delyuer them beestes that they maye put Paule on, and bringe him sare vnto Felix the deputye, and wrote a letter in this maner.

Claudius

Claudius Lysias vnto the moost myghtye ruler Felix sendeth greetynge. This man was taken of the Jewes, and sholde haue ben kylled of them. Then came I with souldiers, and rescued him, and perceyued that he was a Romayne. And when I wolde haue knowen the cause wherfore they accused him, I brought him forth in to theyr counsell. There perceyued I that he was accused of questions of their lawe: but was not gylty of any thynge worthye of death or of bondes. And when it was shewed me howe the Jewes layde wayte for the man, I sent him streyght waye to the, and gaue commaundement to his accusers, yf they hadde oughte agaynste him, to tell it vnto the: fare well. The souldiers as it was commaunded them, toke Paule, and brought him by nyghte to Antipatras. On the morowe they left the horse men to go with him, and returned vnto the castell. Whiche when they came to Cesarea, delyuered the epystle to the deputye, and presented Paule before him. When the deputie hadde redde the letter, he asked of what countreye he was. And when he understode that he was of Cicill, I will heare the (sayde he) when thyne accusers are come also: and commaunded him to be kepte in Herodes iudgement house.

¶ Paule is accused before Felix, he answereth for him selfe.

CAPI. XXIIII.

A After fyue dayes, Ananias the high preest descended with the elders, and with a certeyn oratour named Tertullus, and enformed the ruler of Paule. When Paule was called forthe, Tertullus began to accuse him, sayinge: where as we lyue in greate quietnes by the meanes of the, and many good thinges are wrought vnto this nacion through thy prouidence: that alowe we euer and in all places moost myghty Felix with al thankes. Not withstandyng that I be not tedious vnto the I praye the that thou wouldest heare vs of thy curtesye a fewe wordes.

B We haue founde this man a ✻ pestilent felowe, and a mouer of debate vnto all the Jewes throwout the worlde, and a mayntayner of the secte of Nazarytes, and hathe also enforced to pollute the temple. Whome we toke and wolde haue iudged accordyng to our lawe, but the hye captayne Lysias came vpon vs, and with greate violence toke him awaye out of our handes, commaundynge his accusers to come to the. Of whome thou mayste (yf thou wylte enquyre) knowe of all these thynges whereof we accuse him. The Jewes lykewyse affirmed, saying that it was euen so.

Then Paule (after that the ruler him selfe had beckened vnto him that he sholde speake) answered: I shall with a more quiet mynde answere for my selfe, for as moche as I vnderstande, that thou hast ben of many yeres a iudge vnto this people, because ỹ thou mayste knowe that there are yet but twelue dayes sythens I wente vp to Jerusalem for to praye, and they neyther founde me in the temple disputynge with any man, eyther raysynge vp the people, neyther in the Synagoges, nor in the cite. Neither can they proue the thinges whereof they accuse me.

But this I confesse vnto the, that after that waye (whiche they call heresye) so worshyp I the God of my fathers, beleuynge all thinges whiche are wrytten in the lawe and the Prophetes, and haue hope towardes God, that the same resurrection of the deed (which they them selues loke for also) shall be both of iust and vniuste. And therfore studye I to haue a clere conscience towarde God, and towarde man also.

But after many yeres, I came and brought almes to my people, & offrynges in the whiche they founde me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor yet with vnquietenes, how be it there were certayne Jewes oute of Asia, whiche oughte to be here presente before the, and accuse me, yf they had ought agaynste me: or elles let these same here saye, yf they haue founde any cuyll doyng in me, whyle I stande here in the counsell: excepte it be for this one voyce that I cryed standynge amonge them, of the resurrection of the ded, am I iudged of you this daye.

When Felix herde these thynges, he referred them, for he knewe very wel of that way, and sayd: when Lysias the capteyn is come, I will knowe the vtmost of your matters. And he commaunded an vnder captayne to kepe Paule, and that he shold haue rest, and that he sholde forbyd none of his acquayntaunce to minister vnto him, and to come vnto him.

And after a certayne dayes, came Felix and his wyfe Drusilla, whiche was a Jewe, and called forth Paule, and herde him of the faith whiche is towarde Christ, and as he preached of ryghtousnes, temperaunce, and iudgement to come, Felix trembled and answered: thou haste doone ynoughe at this tyme, departe/ when I haue conuenient tyme, I will sende for the. He hoped also that money sholde haue ben gyuen him of Paule, that he myght loose him: wherfore he called him the oftener, and commoned with him. But after two yere, Festus Porcius came in to Felix rowme. And Felix wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, lefte Paule in pryson bounde.

¶ The Jewes accuse Paule before Festus, he appeleth vnto the Emperoure, and is sent vnto Rome.

CAPI. XXV.

When Festus was come in to the prouynce, after thre dayes he ascended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. Then enformed him the hyghe preestes, and the chiefe of the Jewes of Paule. And they besought hym and desyred fauour against him, that he wolde sende for him to Jerusalem: and layd awayt for him in the way to kyll him. Festus answered that Paul sholde be kepte at Cesarea, but that he hym selfe wolde shortly departe thyther. Let them therfore (sayde he) whiche among you are able to wit, come with vs and accuse him, yf there be any faute in the man.

When he had tarryed there more then tenne dayes, he departed vnto Cesarea, and the next daye sate downe in the iudgement seate, and commaunded Paule to be brought. When he was come, the Jewes whiche were come from Jerusalem, came aboute him, and layde many and greuous complaynes agaynste Paule, whiche they coulde not proue as longe as he answered for him selfe, that he had neither agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, neither against the temple, nor yet agaynste Cesar offended any thynge at all.

Festus wyllyng to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paule and sayde: wylt thou go to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these thynges before me? Then sayde Paule: I stande at Cesars iudgement seate, where I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou verye well knowest. Yf I haue hurte them, or commyted any thynge worthy of dethe, I refuse not to dye. Yf none of these thynges are, wherof they accuse me, no man ought to delyuer me to them. I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberacion, and answered. Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

After a certayne dayes, kynge Agrippa, and Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And when they hadde ben there a good season, Festus rehersed Paules cause vnto the kynge, sayinge: there is a certayne man lefte in prysō of Felix, aboute whome when I came to Jerusalem the hye preestes and elders of the Jewes enformed me, & desyred to haue iudgement agaynst him. To whom I answered: It is not the maner of the Romayns to delyuer any man that he sholde perishe, before that he whiche is accused, haue ỹ accusars before him, and haue lycence to answere for him selfe, concernyng the crime layde agaynste hym: when they were come hyther without delaye on the morowe I sate to gyue iudgement, and commaunded the man to be brought forthe. Agaynste whome when the accusers stode vp, they brought none accusation of suche thynges as I supposed: but hadde certayne questions agaynste him of theyr owne superstition, and of one Jesus whiche was deed, whome Paule affirmed to be alyue. And because I doubted of suche maner questyons, I asked him whether he wolde go to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these matters. Then when Paule hadde appealed to be kepte vnto the knowlege of Cesar, I commaunded him to be kepte tyll I myghte sende him to Cesar. Agrippa sayd vnto Festus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morowe (sayd he) thou shalte heare him. And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernice with greate pompe, & were entred in to the counsell house with the captaynes and chiefe men of the cyte, at Festus commaundement Paule was brought forthe. And Festus sayd: kynge Agrippa, and all men whiche are heare presente with vs: ye se this man aboute whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue ben with me, bothe at Jerusalem, and also here, cryinge that he oughte not to lyue any longer: Yet founde I nothynge worthy of dethe, that he had commytted. Neuerthelelle sythens that he hathe appealed to Cesar, I haue determyned to sende him. Of whome I haue no certayne thyng to wryte vnto my Lorde. Wherfore I haue brought him to you, and specially vnto the, kynge Agrippa, that after examinacion had, I might haue somwhat to write. For me thinketh it vnreasonable for to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes whiche are layde agaynst him.

CAPI. XXVI.

A Grippa sayde vnto Paule: thou arte permytted to speke for thy selfe. Then Paule stretched forthe the hande, and answered for him selfe. I thinke my selfe happy kynge Agrippa, bicause I shal answere this daye before the, of all the thynges whereof I am accused of the Jewes, namely bicause thou art expert in al customes and questions, which are amonge the Jewes. Wherfore I beseche the to heare me patiently.

A Paules oracion

B My lyuynge of a chylde, which was at the fyrste amonge myne owne nacion at Jerusalem, knowe all the Jewes, whiche knewe me from the begynnyng, yf they wolde testifie it. For after the moost straytest secte of our laye, lyued I a Phariseye. And nowe I stande and am iudged, for the hope of the promyse made of God vnto oure fathers: vnto whiche promyse our twelue trybes instantly seruyng god daye and nyghte, hope to come. For whiche hopes sake, kynge Agrippa, am I accused of the Jewes. Why wolde it be thought a thyng incredible vnto you, that God sholde rayse agayne the deed? I also verily thought in my selfe, that I ought to do many contrary thinges, clene agaynst the name of Jesus of Nazareth: whiche thynge I also dyd in Jerusalem. Where many of the sayntes I shut vp in pryson, and had receyued auctorite of the hye preestes. And when they were put to dethe, I gaue the sentence. And I punyshed them ofte in euery synagoge, and compelled them to blaspheme: and was yet more madde vpon them, and persecuted them euen vnto straunge cityes. About the whiche thynges as I went to Damasco with auctorite and lycence of the hygh preestes, euen at myddaye (o kynge) I sawe in the way a light from heuen, aboue the brightnes of the sonne, shyne rounde about me, and them whiche iourneyed with me.

When we were all fallen to the earthe, I herde a voyce speakynge vnto me, and sayinge in the Hebrewe tonge: ✻ Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to kycke agaynst the prycke. And I sayde: Who arte thou Lorde? And he sayde: I am Jesus whom thou persecutest, but ryse and stand vp on thy fete. For I haue appeared vnto the for this purpose, to make the a minister & a wytnesse, nesse bothe of those thinges whiche thou hast sene, and of those thynges in whiche I will appeare vnto the, deliuringe the from the people, and from the Gentyles, to whome now I sende the, to open their eyes, that they myght turne from darckenesse to lyght, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they may receyue forgyuenesse of synnes and inheritaunce amonge them, which are sanctified by faith in me.

C Iesu. 22. a and 22. b

F Wherefore kynge Agrippa, I was not disobedient vnto the heauenly vysion: but shewed fyrste vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and thorow out all the coostes of Jewry, and to the Gentyles, that they shulde repent, and tourne to God, and do ye ryght workes of repentaunce. For this cause, the Jewes caught me in the temple, and went about to kyll me. Neuertheles I obtayned helpe of God, and continewe vnto this daye, witnessinge bothe to small and great, sayenge none other thynges, then those whyche the Prophetes and Moses dyd saye, shulde come, that Christe shoulde suffre, and that he shoulde be the fyrste that shoulde ryse from deathe, and shoulde shewe lyght vnto the people, and to the Gentyles. As he thus aunswered for him selfe: Festus sayde with a lowde voyce. Paul, thou arte beside thy selfe. Moche learninge hath made the mad. And Paule sayde: I am not mad, moost dere Festus: but speake the wordes of truthe and soberneile. The kynge knoweth of these thynges, before whome I speake freely: Neyther thynke I that any of these thynges are hydden from him: For this thinge was not doone in a corner. Kynge Agrippa, beleuest thou the Prophetes? I wote well thou beleuest. Agrippa sayd vnto Paul: Somwhat thou bringest me in mynde for to become a Christen. And Paul sayde: I wolde to God, that not onely thou: but also al that heare me to daye, were, not somewhat onely, but all together, suche as I am, excepte these bondes. And when he hadde thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the deputie, and Bernice, and they that sate with them. And when they were gone a parte, they talked betwene them selues / sayenge: This man doeth nothynge worthy of deathe, nor of bondes. Then sayd Agrippa vnto Festus: This man myght haue bene lowsed, yf he hadde not appealed vnto Cesar.

CAP. XXVII.

A When it was concluded that we shoulde sayle into Italye, they delyuered Paule and certayne other prysoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder Captayne of Cesars Souldyers. And we entred into a shyppe of Adrampcium, and lowsed from lande, appoynted to sayle by the coostes of Asia, one Aristarcus oute of Macedonia, of the countrey of Thessalia beynge with vs. And the nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gaue him lybertie to go vnto his frendes, and to refreshe hym selfe. And from thence launched we, and sayled harde by Cyprys, because ỹ wyndes were contrarye. Then sayled we ouer the see of Cylicia, and Pamphilia, and came to Myra in B Lycia.

And there the vndercaptayne founde a shyp of Alexander, redye to sayle into Italye, and put vs therin. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes, and scace were come ouer against Gnydon (because the wynde withstode vs,) we sayled harde by the coostes of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with moch worke sayled beyonde it, and came vnto a place called Goodhauen. Nyghe whervnto was a cytie called Lasea. When moch tyme was spēt and saylynge was now ieoperdeous, because also that we hadde ouerlonge fasted, Paule put them in remembraunce, and sayde vnto them. Syrs, I perceyue that this voyage will be with hurt and moche dommage, not of the ladynge and shyppe onely: but also of oure lyues. Neuertheles the vnder Captayne beleued the gouernoure and the maister, better then tho thinges, which were spoke of Paul. And because the hauen was not commodious to wynter in, many toke counseil to departe thence, yf by any meanes they myght attayne to Phenices, & there to wynter, whiche is an hauen of Candy, & lyeth to the southwest, and northwest wynde. Whē the southwynde blewe, they supposynge to obtayne their purpose lowsed vnto Asson, and sayled paste all Candy.

But anone after, there arose against their purpose, a flawe of wynde oute of the northeast. And when the shyppe was caughte, and coulde not resiste the wynde, we let her go, & drawe with the weather. And we came vnto an yle named Clauda, and hadde moche worke to come by a bote, whyche they toke vp, and vsed helpe, vndergerdynge the shyp, fearinge least we shulde haue fallen into Syrtes. and we let downe a vessell, and so were carryed. The next daye when we were tossed with an exceadynge tempest, they lyghtened the shyp, and the thirde daye we cast out with our own handes, the tackilynge of the shyppe. When at the laste neyther sunne nor starre in many dayes appeared, and no small tempest laye vpon vs, all hope that we shuld be saued, was then taken awaye. Then after longe abstynence, Paul stode forth in the myddes of the and sayde: Syrs ye shulde haue harkened to me, and not haue lowsed from Candy, neyther to haue brought vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhorte you to be of good chere. For there shall be no losse of any mans lyfe amonge you, saue of the shyppe onely. For there stode by me this nyght the Aungell of God, whose I am, and whome I serue, sayenge: Feare not Paule, for thou muste be brought before Cesar. And lo, God hath geuen vnto the, all that sayle with the. Wherfore Syrs be of good chere: for I beleue god, that it shalbe euen as it was tolde me. How be it we muste be cast into a certayne ylonde.

But

But when the fourtenth nyght was come, as we were caryed in Adria about mydnyght, the shypmen demed that there appered some countrey vnto them: and sounded, and found it twentye faddoms. And when they hadde gone a lytell further, they sounded agayne/ and founde fyften faddoms. Then fearynge least they shoulde haue fallen on some rocke/ they caste foure ancres oute of the sterne, and wyshed for the daye.

As the shypmen were aboute to flee oute of the shyppe, and hadde let downe the bote into the see, vnder a couloure as though they wolde haue cast ancres out of the forshyppe: Paul sayde vnto the vnder captayne and the F Souldiers: excepte these abyde in the shyppe, ye can not be sake. Then the Souldiers cut of the rope of the bote, and let it fall awaye.

And in the meane tyme, betwene that and daye, Paul besought them all to take meate, sayenge: This is the fourtenth daye that ye haue tarryed and contynued fastinge, receyuinge nothinge at all. Wherfore I praye you take meate: for this noo doubte, is for youre helthe: for there shall not an heare fall from the heed of any of you

And when he had thus spoken, he toke bred and gaue thankes to God, in presence of the all, and brake it, and beganne to eate. Then were they all of good chere, & they also toke meate. We were all togyther in the shyppe, two hundred three score and fyftene soules. And when they had eaten ynough, they lightened the shyppe, and cast out the wheate into the see.

G When it was daye, they knewe not the lande, but they espyed a certayne hauen with a banke into the which they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the shyppe. And when they hadde taken vp the ancres, they commytted them selues vnto the see, and lowsed the rudder bondes, & hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, and drew to lande. But they chaunced on a place, whiche had the see on both the sydes, and thrust in the shyp. And the foore parte stucke faste, and moued not, but the hynder brake with the violence of the waues.

The Souldyers counsell, was to kyll the prysoners, least any of them, when he hadde swome oute shoulde flee awaye. But the vnder captayne, wyllynge to saue Paule, kepte them from their purpose, and commaunded that they that coulde swymme, shoulde caste them selues fyrste into the see, and scape to lande. And the other he commaunded to goo, some on bordes, and some on broken peces of the shyppe. And so it came to passe, that they came all safe to Lande.

¶ The vyper hurteth not Pauls hande / he healeth Publius father/ and preacheth Christ at Rome.

CAPI. XXVIII.

A Nd when they were escaped, then they knewe that the yle was called Milete And the people of the countrey shewed vs no lytell kyndnes: for they kyndled a fire and receyued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, and because of the colde. And whē Paul hadde gathered a bondel of styckes, and put them in to the fyre, there came a vyper oute of the heat, and lept on his hande. Whē the men of the countreye sawe the wormē hange on his hande, they sayde amonge them selues: This man must nedes be a murtherer: Whome (thoughe he haue escaped the see) yet B vengeaunce suffereth not to lyue. But he shouke of the vermen into the fyre, and felte no harme. But they wayted, when he shulde haue swollen, or fallen downe dead sodeynly. So after they hadde loked a greate whyle / and sawe no harme come to hym, then they chaunged their myndes, and sayde that he was a God.

In the same places, the chiefe man of the yle, whose name was Publius, hadde a lordshyp: the same receyued vs, & lodged vs thre dayes courteously. And it fortuned that the father of Publius laye sycke of a feuer, and of a bluddy flixe. To whome Paul entred in, and prayde, and layd his handes on him/ and healed him. When this was doue, other also which had dyseases in the yle, came and were C healed. And they dyd vs great honoure. And when we departed, they laded vs with thinges necessary.

After thre monethes we departed in a shyp of Alexandre, whiche hadde wyntred in the yle, whose badge was Castor and Pollux. And when we came to Syracusa, we taryed there three dayes. And from thence we fet a compasse, and came to Regium. And after one daye the southwynde blew, and we came the nexte daye to Putiolus: where we found bre thren, and were desyred to tary with them seuen dayes, and so came to Rome. And from thence, when the brethren herde of vs, they D came against vs to Appiphorum, and to ỹ thre tauernes. When Paul sawe them, he thanked God, & waxed bolde. And when he came to Rome, the vnder Captayne delyuered the prysoners to the chiefe Captayne of the host: but Paul was suffred to dwell by him selfe with one Souldyer that kept him.

And it fortuned after thre dayes, that Paul called the chiefe of the Jewes togyther. And when they were come, he sayde vnto them. Men and brethren, thoughe I haue committed nothinge against the people or lawes of oure fathers: yet was I delyuered prysoner, from Jerusalem, into the handes of the Romayns. Whyche when they hadde examyned me, wolde haue let me go, because they found no cause of deathe in me. But when the Jewes cryed contrarye, I was constrayned to E appeale vnto Cesar: not because I had ought to accuse my people of. For this cause haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake with you: because that for the hope of Israel, I am bounde with this chayne.

And

And they sayde unto him: We neyther re-ceyued lettres out of Jewrye pertayninge unto the, neyther came any of the brethren that shewed or spake anye harme of the. But we will heare of the what thou thinkest. For we haue herde of this secte, that euery where it is spoken againste. And when they had appoin-F ted him a daye, there came many unto him into his lodgynge. To whom he expounded and testified the kyngdome of God, and preached unto them of Jesu: bothe out of the lawe of Moses, and also out of the Prophetes, euen frome mornynge to nyght. And some beleued the thinges which were spoken, and some be-leued not.
When they agreed not amonge theym sel-ues they departed, after that Paul hadde spoken one worde. Well spake the holy ghost by Esay the Prophete unto our fathers, sayeng:
Esaie.vi.c ✶ Go unto this people and saye: with youre
Math.xiii.b. eares shall ye heare, and shal not understand:
Marck.iiii.b and with youre eyes shall ye se, and not per-Luke.viii.b. ceyue.
John.xii.f For the hert of this people is wexed grosse,
and their eares were thicke of hearynge, and their eyes haue they closed: lest they shulde se with their eyes, and heare with their eares, & G understande with their hertes, and shulde be conuerted, and I shoulde heale theym. Be it knowen therfore unto you, that this saluaciō of God is sent to the Gentyls, and they shal heare it. And when he had sayde that, the Je-wes departed, and had greate altercation amonge them selues.
And Paul dwelt two yeres full in his lod-gynge / and receyued all that came to hym, preachynge the kyngdome of God, and teachynge those thynges, whiche concerned the Lorde Jesus with all con-fydence, unforboden.

Here endeth the Actes of the Apostles.

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paule to the Romayns.

Paule declareth his loue towarde the Romayns shewerh what the Gospell is with the frute therof, and rebuketh the beestlynes of the fleshe.

CAPI. I. ✠

A PAul the ser-

to preache the gospel of god
which he promised afore by his prophetes in the holy scriptures yͤ make mēcion of his sonne, begotten of the seed of Dauid, as per-teynynge to the fleshe: and declared to be the sonne of God, with power of the holy ghoste that sanctifieth, sithens the tyme that Jesus Christ our Lorde rose agayne from deathe, by whome we haue receyued grace and Apostleshyp, to brynge all maner hethen people unto the obedience of the faith, that is in his name:
of whiche are ye a parte also, whiche are Jesus Chrystes by callynge.
To all you of Rome beloued of God, and payntes by callyng. Grace wͭ you, and pear frō god our father, & from the Lorde Jesu Christ.
B Fyrst I thanke my god thorow Jesu Christ
for you all, bicause your faythe is publysshed throughout al the worlde. For god is my witnes, whom I serue with my sprete in the gospel of his sonne, that without ceasing I make mencion of you alwayes in my prayers, bese-chyng that ones at last, a prosperous iourney by the wyl of god) might fortune me, to come unto you. For I longe to se you, that I might bestowe amonges you some ghostly gyfte to strengthe you with / that is, that I mighte be comforted togyther with you, throughe the common fayth, which both ye and I haue.
I wolde ye sholde knowe brethren that I
haue often tymes purposed to come unto you (but haue ben let hytherto) to haue some frute amonge you, as I haue amonge other of the Gentyles. For I am detter both to the

For god dyd shewe it unto them. So that his

So that they are without excuse, in as moche
as when they knewe god, they glorified hym
not as god, neither were thankfull, but wexed full of vanities in theyr ymaginacions, and theyr folysshe hertes were blynded. When they counted them selues wyse, they became foles, and turned the glorye of the immortall
god, unto the symilitude of the ymage of mortal man, and of byrdes, and four foted beestes, and of serpentes. Wherfore god likewise gaue them up unto theyr hertes lustes, unto unclen
nesse, to defyle theyr owne bodyes bytwene them selues: whiche turned his trouthe unto
a lye, and worshypped and serued the creatures more then the maker, whiche is blessed for euer. Amen. For this cause god gaue them up D unto shamefull lustes. For euen theyr women dyd chaunge the naturall use unto the unna-turall. And lykewyse also the men lefte the naturall use of the woman, and brent in their lustes one to an other. And man with man wroughte fylthynesse, and receyued in theym selues the rewarde of theyr errour, as was accordynge.
And as it semed not good unto them to be a whiche wyll rewarde euery man accordyng to his dedes, that is to saye, prayse, honour, and immortalitie to them which continue in good doynge, and seke eternal lyfe. But vnto them that are rebellions and disobey the truth, and folow iniquite, shal come indignacion & wrath, tribulacion and anguysh vpõ the soule of euery man that dothe euyl: of the Jewe fyrst, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doth good, shall come prayse, honour, and peax: to the Jewe first, & also to the Gentyle. For there is no parcialitie with God. But who so euer hath synned without lawe, shal perische without lawe. And as many as haue synned vnder the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe. For before God they are not ryghtous whiche heare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For yf the Gentyles whiche haue no lawe, do of nature those thynges conteyned in the lawe: then they hauynge no lawe, are a lawe vnto them selues, which shewe the dede of the lawe wrytten in theyr hertes: whyle

Eze.xxxvi.c.

Circumcision verily auayleth yf thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou breake the lawe, thy circumcision is made vncircumcision. Therfore if the vncircumcised kepe the right thinges conteyned in the lawe: shal not his vncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And shall not vncircumcision whiche is by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge the, whiche beinge vnder the letter & circumcision, dost transgresse the law? For he is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Neither is that thing circũcision which is outwarde in the flesche. But he is a Jewe whiche is hyd within, and the circumcision of the herte is the true circumcision, which is in spirite, and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

¶ He sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and that both the Jewes and Gentyles are vnder synne, and are iustified only by the grace of God in Chryste.

CAPI. III.

A WHat preferment then hathe the Jewe? eyther what auauntageth circumcision? surely very moche. First vnto them was cõmitted the word of god. What then though some of them dyd not byleue? shall theyr vnbyleefe make the promyse of God without effect? God forbyd. Let God be true, & all men lyars, as it is writtẽ: that thou mightest be iustified in thy saying, and sholdest ouercome when thou arte iudged.

For how then shal god iudge the worlde? Yf the veritie of God appeare more excellent thorowe my lye vnto his prayse, why am I henforth iudged as a synner? and saye not rather (as men euyll speake of vs, and as some affyrme that we say) let vs do euyl, that good maye come therof: Whose damnacion is iuste.

What say we then? Are we better then they?
C No, in no wise/ for we haue alredy proued how that bothe Jewes and Gentyles are all vnder synne, as it is written: there is none rightous, no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seketh after God, they are al gone out of the waye, they are all vnprofitable / there is none that dothe good, no not one. * Their throte is an open sepulcre, with their tonges they haue disceyued: the poyson of aspes is vnder their lyppes. Whose mouthes are full of cursynge and bitternes. Theyr fete are swyft to shed bloode. Destruction and wretchednes are in their wayes. And the way of peax they haue not knowen. There is no feare of God before theyr eyes.

✠ We knowe that what so euer the lawe sayth, he sayth it to them which are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes may be stopped, and al the worlde be subdued to God, bicause that by the dedes of the lawe shall no flesshe be iustifyed in the syghte of God. For by the lawe commeth the knowlege of synne.

Nowe the ryghtousnes that commeth of God, is declared without the fulfyllynge of the lawe, hauynge wytnesse of the lawe, and of the Prophetes. The rightousnes no doubte whiche is good before God, commeth by the fayth, of Jesus Chryste, vnto all and vpon al that byleue.

D There is no difference: for all haue synned, and lacke the glorye of God: but are iustifyed freely by his grace, throughe the redempcion that is in Chryste Jesu, to whome God hathe made a seate of mercye, thorowe fayth in his bloude, to shewe the rightousnes whiche before him is of valour, in that he forgyueth the synnes that are past, whiche God dyd suffre to shewe at this tyme the rightousnes that is allowed of hym, that he myghte be counted iust, and a iustifier of him which bileueth on Jesus.

Exodi.xxv.

Where is then thy reioysynge? It is excluded. By what lawe? by the lawe of workes? Naye, but by the lawe of fayth.

Therfore we holde that a man is iustified by fayth without the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of the Gentyles? yes of the Gentyles also? For it is God onely, whiche shall iustifye circumcision of faythe, and vncircumcision thorow fayth. Do we then destroye the lawe thorowe faythe? God forbyd. But we rather establysshe the lawe.

¶ He declareth by the example of Abraham, that fayth iustifieth, & not the law nor the workes therof.

CAPI. IIII.

A WHat shal we say then that Abraham our father as pertaynynge to the flesshe, dyd fynde? Yf Abraham were iustified by dedes, then hathe he wherin to reioyce, but not before God. For what sayth the scripture? Abraham bileued God, and it was counted vnto him for rightousnes. To him that worketh is the rewarde not reckened of fauour, but of duty. To him that worketh not, but byleueth on him that iustifieth the vngodly, his faythe is counted for ryghtousnes. Euen as Dauid descrybeth the blessednesse of the man, vnto whome God ascribeth ryghtousnes without dedes. * Blessed are they, whose vnryghtousnes are forgyuen, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man to whome the Lorde
B imputeth not synne.

...xv.b
...iii.a

Came this blessednes then vpon the circumcised, or vpon the vncircumcised? We saye verily how that faith was reckened to Abraham for rightousnes. How was it reckened? in the tyme of circumcision? or in the tyme before he was circumcised? Not in the tyme of circumcision: but when he was yet vncircumcised. And he receyued the signe of circumcision as a seale of the ryghtousnes whiche is by faythe, which fayth he had yet beynge vncircumcised: that he sholde be the father of al them that bileue, though they be not circũcised, that rightousnes myght be imputed to them also: and that he might be the father of the circumcised, not bycause they are circumcised onely, but bicause they walke also in the steppes of ye faith that was in oure father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcision.

...xvii.d

C For the promesse that he sholde be the heyre of the worlde, was not gyuen to Abraham, or to his seed thorow the lawe: but thorow the ryghtousnes of fayth. For yf they whiche are of the law, be heyres, then is fayth but vayne, and the promesse of none effecte, bycause the lawe causeth wrathe / for where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therfore by faith is the inheritaunce gyuen, that it myght come of fauour, and the promyse myghte be sure to all the seed. Not to them onely whiche are of the lawe, but also to them which are of the fayth of Abraham, whiche is the father of vs all. As it is written: I haue made the a father to many nacions, euen before God whom thou hast byleued, whiche quickeneth the deed, and calleth those thynges whiche be not, as thoughe they were.

D Which Abraham contrary to hope, bileued in hope, that he sholde be the father of many nacions, according to that which was spoken:

So shal thy seed be. And he faynted not in the faith, nor yet considered his owne body which was now deed, euen when he was almost an hundred yere olde: ne yet that Sara was past chylde bearynge. He stackered not at the promesse of God thorow vnbyleefe, but was made strong in the fayth, and gaue honour to God, full certified, that what he had promised, that he was hable to make good. And therfore was it reckened to him for rightousnes.

Genesis.xv.a

It is not wrytten for him only, that it was reckened to hym for ryghtousnes, but also for vs, to whom it shall be counted for rightousnes, so that we byleue on hym that raysed vp Jesus our Lorde from deth: Whiche was gyuen for our synnes, and rose agayne for to iustifye vs.

¶ The power of fayth, hope & loue: and how deth raygned frome Adam vnto Chryste, by whom onely we haue forgyuenes of synnes.

CAPI. V.

A BYcause therfore we are iustified by faith, we are at peace with God thorowe our Lorde Jesu Chryst, by whom we haue a waye in thorow fayth, vnto his grace, wherin we stande & reioyce in hope of the prayse that shal be giuen of God: Neither do we so onely: but also we reioyce in tribulacion. Knowyng that tribulacion bryngeth pacience, pacience experience, experience bringeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed, for the loue of God is shed abrode in our hertes by the holy ghoste, whiche is gyuen vnto vs.

For when we were yet weyke accordynge to the tyme: Chryste dyed for vs whiche were vngodly, yet scace wyl any man dye for a rightous man. Peraduenture for a good man durst a man dye. ✠ But God setteth out his loue
B that he hath to vs, for asmoche as whyle we were yet synners, Chryste dyed for vs. Moche more then now (beyng iustified in his bloode) shal we be saued from wrath thorow him.

For yf when we were ennemyes, we were reconcyled to God by the dethe of his sonne: moche more seyng we are reconcyled, we shall be preserued by his lyfe. Not onely so, but we also ioye in God by our Lorde Jesus Christ, by whome we haue receyued the attonement.

Wherfore as by one man synne entred in to C
the worlde, and dethe by synne. And so dethe wente ouer all men, in so moche that all men synned. For euen vnto ye tyme of the law was synne in the worlde, but synne was not regarded as long as there was no lawe: neuerthelesse deth regned from Adam to Moses, euen ouer thẽ also that synned not, with like transgression as dyd Adam: whiche is the figure of him that is to come.

But the gyfte is not lyke as the synne. For yf thorow the syn of one, many be deed: moche more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God and gyfte by grace, which grace was gyuen by one man Jesus Chryst.

Adams disobedience dayned vs all er we our selues wrought euil And Christes obedience saueth vs all, er we our selues worke any good.

And the gyfte is not ouer one synne, as deth came thorow one synne of one that synned/ for damnacion came of one synne vnto condemnacion: but the gyfte came to iustifye frome many synnes.

ny synnes. For yf by the synne of one, deathe reygned by the meanes of one: moche more shal they whiche receyue abundance of grace and of the gyft of ryghtousnes, reygne in life by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Jesus Chryste.

Lykewise then as by the synne of one, condenacion came on all men: euen so by the iustifienge of one commeth the ryghtousnes that bringeth life vpon al men. For as by one mãs disobedience many became synners: so by the obedience of one, shal many be made righteous. But the lawe in the meane tyme entred in, that synne shold increase. Neuertheles where aboundaunce of synne was, there was more plenteousnes of grace: to thintent ꝑ as synne had reygned vnto dethe, euen so myght grace reygne throwe ryghtousnes vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Jesu Chryst.

¶ For as moche as we be delyuered throw Christ frome synne, we muste fashion our selues to lyue as the seruaates of God, and not after our own lustes. The vnlyke rewarde of ryghtousnes and synne.

CAPI. VI.

What shall we saye then? Shall we continue in synne, that there maye be abundance of grace? God forbyd. How shall we that are deed as touchyng synne, lyue any longer therin? ✣ Remembre ye not that al we whiche are baptysed in the name of Jesu Chryste, are baptised to dye with hym? We are buryed with him by baptysme for to dye, that lykewyse as Chryste was raysed vp from deth by the glory of the father, euen so we also sholde walke in a newe lyfe. For if we be grafte in deth lyke vnto him: euen so must we be in the resurrection. This we muste remembre, that oure olde man is crucified with him also, that the body of synne myght vtterly be destroyed, that hencefoorth we sholde not be seruauntes of synne. For he that is deed, is iustifyed from synne.

Wherfore yf we be deed with Christ, we bileue that we shal liue with him: remembring that Christ, reygne ones raysed from deth, dyeth no more. Deth hathe no more power ouer hym. For as touchynge that he dyed, he dyed concernynge synne, ones. And as touchynge that he lyueth, he liueth vnto God. Likewise ymagen ye also, that ye are ꝺ deed concernyng synne, but are alyue vnto God throwe Jesu Chryste our Lorde. ✣ Let not synne reygne therfore in your mortal bodyes, that ye sholde therevnto obey in the lustes of it. Neither giue ye your membres as instrumentes of vnrighteousnes vnto synne, but gyue your selues vnto God, as they that are alyue from deth. And gyue your membres as instrumentes of ryghtousnes vnto God. Let not sinne haue power ouer you: for ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then? Shall we synne, bycause we are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace? God forbyd. ✣ Remembre ye not that to whome so euer ye commyt your selues as seruauntes to obey, his seruauntes ye are to whome ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto deth, or of obedience vnto righteousnes? God be thanked, that where as ye were the seruantes of synne, ye haue now obeyed with hert vnto the forme of doctryne wherevnto ye were delyuered. Ye are then made free from synne, and are become seruauntes of ryghtousnes. ✣

✣ I speke after mans fashion, bicause of the infirmitie of your flesshe. For as ye haue geuen your membres, seruauntes to vnclennes and to wickednes, runninge out of one wickednes in to an other: euen so nowe gyue your membres seruantes vnto righteousnes, that ye may be sanctifyed. For when ye were the seruantes of syn, ye were not vnder ryghtousnes. What feute hadde ye then, in tho thynges whereof ye are nowe ashamed? For the ende of them is deth. But now beynge delyuered from synne, and made the seruantes of God: ye haue your frute to be sanctified, and the ende euerlasting lyfe, for the rewarde of synne is dethe: but eternall ✣ lyfe is the gyfte of God, throwe Jesu Chryst our Lorde.

Eternall lyfe is the deserueyng of christ

¶ Chryste hath delyuered vs frome the lawe and death. Paule sheweth what the flesshe and outwarde man is, and calleth it the lawe of the membres.

CAPI. VII.

Remembre ye not brethren (I speake to them that knowe the lawe) howe that the law hath power ouer a mã as long as it endureth? For the woman, which is subiect to an husbande, is bounde by the lawe to the man as longe as he lyueth. Yf the man be deed, she is loosed from the power of the man. So then, yf whyle the man lyueth she couple her selfe with an other man, she shall be counted wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deed she is free from the lawe, so that she is no wedlocke breaker, though she couple her self with an other man.

Euen so ye my brethren, are deed concerning the lawe by the body of Christ, that ye sholde be coupled to an other (I meane to him that is rysen agayne frome dethe) that we sholde bringe forthe frute vnto God. For when we were in the flesshe, the lustes of synne whiche were stired vp by the lawe, reigned in our membres, to bring forth frute vnto deth. But now are we deliuered from the lawe, and deed from that wherevnto we were in bondage, that we sholde serue in newnes of spirite, and not in oldnes of the letter.

What shal we say then? is the lawe synne? God forbid, but I knew not what synne ment, but by the law. For I had not knowen what lust had ment, onlesse the law had said, ✣ thou shalt not lust. But synne takynge an occasion by the cõmaundement wrought in me all maner of concupiscence. For without the law, synne was deed. I lyued without lawe. But when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was deed. And the very same cõmaundement whiche was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was founde to be with me an occasion of dethe. For synne toke occasion by the meanes of the commaũdement, and so disceyued me, ꝺ by the same slewme.

Exodi. 20. Deut. v. b

me. Wherfore the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy, iust, and good.

Was that then whiche is good made deth vnto me? God forbyd. Nay, synne was dethe vnto me, that it myghte appeare howe that synne by that whiche is good, hadde wrought deathe in me: to thintent that synne throughe the commaundement, myghte be out of measure synfull. For we knowe that the lawe is spirituall, but I am carnal, solde ✣ vnder synne, bycause I wote not what I do. For what I wolde, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. Yf I do nowe that whiche I wolde not, I graunt to the law that it is good. So then nowe, it is not I that doo it, but synne that dwelleth in me. For I know that in me (that is to saye in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing. For, to will, is present with me: but to performe that whiche is good, I fynde not. For I do not that good thyng which I wolde, but that euyll do I, whiche I wolde not. So yf I do, that I wold not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynde then by the lawe, that when I wolde do good, euil is at hande. For I delyte in the lawe of God, concernynge the inwarde man. But I se an other lawe in my membres, rebellynge agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduynge me vnto the law of synne, which is in my membres. O wretched man that I am, who shal delyuer me from this body of deth? I thanke god thorow Jesu Chryst our Lorde. So then the selfe same I in my mynde serue the lawe of God, and in my flesshe the lawe of synne.

¶ The lawe of the spirite geueth lyfe. The spirite of God maketh vs Goddes children and heyres with Chryste The aboundaunt loue of God can not be seperated.

CAPI. VIII.

There is then no damnacyon to them which are in Christ Jesu, whiche walke not after the flesshe, but after the spirite. For the lawe of the spirite that bringeth lyfe thorow Jesu Chryste, hathe enfraunchised me frome the law of synne and deth. For what the lawe coulde not doo, in as moche as it was weyke bicause of the flesh: that yformed god, ꝑ sent his sonne in the likenes of synfull flesshe, and by ꝑ synne damned synne in the flesh, that the righteousnes whiche is requyred of the lawe might be fulfylled in vs, which walke not after the flesshe, but after the spirite.

For they that are flesshly, are flesshly mynded. But they that are goostly, are goostly mynded. For to be carnally mynded, is deth. But to be spiritually mynded is lyfe and peace. ✣ Bycause that ꝑ flesshly mynde is enmitie against God, for it is not obedient to the lawe of god neither can be. Now, they that are in the flesh can not please God,

But ye are not gyuen to the flesshe, but to the spirite: yf so be the spirite of God dwell in you. Yf there be any man that hath not the spirite of Chryste, the same is none of his. Yf Christ be in you, the bodye is deed bycause of synne, but the spirite is lyfe for ryghtousnesse sake. Wherfore yf the spirite of him that raysed vp Jesu from deth, dwell in you: euen he that rayseth vp Chryst from deth, shal quicken your mortall bodyes, bicause that his spirite dwelleth in you.

✣ Therfore brethren we are nowe detters, not to the flesshe, to liue after the flesshe. For yf ye lyue after the flesshe, ye muste dye. But yf ye mortifye the dedes of the bodye, by the helpe of the spirite ye shall lyue. For as many as are led by the spirite of God, are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receyued the spirite of bondage to feare any more, but ye haue receyued the spirite of ꝓaopcion, whereby we crye Abba father. The same spirite certifieth our spirite, that we are the sonnes of god. yf we be sonnes, we are also heyres, the heyres I meane of God, and heyres togyther with Christ, if so be we suffre togither, that we may be glorified togither. ✣

✣ For I suppose that the afflictions of this life, are not worthy of the glory which shal be shewed vpon vs. For the feruent desire of the creature, abydeth lokyng when the sonnes of God shall appere, bicause the creature is subdued to vanite not wyllyngly, but for his wil which subdueth it in hope. For the verye creature shall be delyuered frome the bondage of corruption in to the glorious libertie of the sonnes of God. For we know that euery creature groneth with vs also, and trauayleth in payne, euen vnto this tyme.

Not it onely, but euen we also whiche haue the fyrste frutes of the spirite, mourne in oure selues, waytynge for the adopcyon, the delyueraunce of our bodyes. ✣ For we are saued by hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. For how can a man hope for that whiche he seeth? But yf we hope for that we se not, then do we with patience abyde for it.

Lykewyse the spirite also helpeth oure infirmytyes / for we knowe not what to desyre as we ought, but the spirite maketh intercession mygtyly for vs with gronynges, whiche can not be expressed with tonge. And he that searcheth the herres, knoweth what is the meanyng of the spirite: for he maketh intercession for the sayntes accordynge to the pleasure of God. ✣

✣ For we know that all thinges worke for ꝑ best vnto them that loue god, which also are called ꝓ of purpose. For those whiche he knew before, he also ordeyned before that they shold be a like fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne, that he myght be the fyrste begotten sonne amonge many brethren. And whom he appoynted before, them also he called. And which he called, them also he iustified, which he iustified them he also glorified.

What shall we then saye to these thinges? if God be on our syde: who can be against vs? whiche spared not his owne sonne, but gaue hym for vs all: howe shall he not with hym gyue vs all thynges also? Who shal laye any thyng to the charge of Gods chosen? it is god that iustifyeth: who then shall condempne? it is Christ whiche is deed, yea rather whiche is rysen agayne, whiche is also on the ryghte

Neuertheles, in all these thynges we ouercome stronglye thorowe his helpe that loued vs. For I am sure, that neyther deth neither lyfe, neither aungels, nor rule, ne power, neither thinges present, ne thynge to come, neither highth neither lowth, neither any other creature shal be hable to parte vs frome the loue of God, whiche is in Christ Jesu our Lorde. ✠

¶ Paul complayneth vpon the harde hertes of the Jewes that wolde not receyue Christe, and howe the Heythen are chosen in theyr stede.

CAPI. IX.

A I Saye the truthe in Christe, and lye not, in that wherof my conscience beareth me witnes in the holy ghost that I haue great heauynes, and continuall sorowe in my herte. For Note here ✠ exceding thar-nite of Saint Paule which wold him self be damned to saue his brethren.
I haue wyshed my selfe to be cursed frome Christ, for my brethren and my kynsmen per-teynynge to the flesshe, whiche are the Israelytes. To whom perteyneth the aduycion, and glory, and the couenauntes, and the law that was gyuen, and the seruyce of God, and the promyses: whose also are the fathers, and of whome (as concernynge the flesshe) Christe came, whiche is God ouer all, blessed for euer. Amen.

I speke not of these thynges as though the
B wordes of God had take none effecte. For they are not all Israelytes whiche came of Israel:
Gene.xxi.b neyther are they all chyldren, because they are the seed of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seed be called: that is, they which are the chil-
Gene.xviij.b. dren of the flesshe, are not the chyldren of god. But the chyldren of promesse are counted thy seed. For this is a worde of promyse: ✠ a-boute this tyme wyll I come, and Sara shall haue a sonne.

Neyther was it so with her onely, but also
C when Rebecca was wt chylde by one, I meane
Gene.xxv.c. by our father Isaac, er the chyldre were borne, when they had neither wone good ne bad (that the purpose of god, which is by election, might stande) it was sayd vnto her, not by the reason Gen.xxv.d. of workes, but by grace of the caller: the elder shall serue the yonger. As it is wrytten:
Malach.i.a. Jacob he loued, but Esau he hated. What shal we saye then? Is there any vnrighteousnes wt God. No, not so. For he sayth to Moses: I wil Exod.xxxiij.d. shewe mercy, to whome I shewe mercye: and wyll haue compassion on whome I haue compassion. So lieth it not then in a mans wyl or Exod.i.ix.d rennyng, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture sayth vnto Pharao, euen for this same purpose haue I stered the vp, to shewe my power on the, and that my name myght be declared thorowoute all the worlde. So hath he mercy on whom he woll, and whom he woll, he maketh harde herted.

Thou wylt saye then vnto me: why then blameth he vs yet? For who can resiste his wyll? But O man, what arte thou which dis-
D putest with God? Shall the worke say to the worke man: why haste thou made me on this fassion? Hath not the potter power ouer the clay, euen of the same lompe to make one vessell vnto honoure, and an other vnto dishono-noure? That if God willynge to shewe his wrath, and to make his power knowen suffered with longe pacience the vessels of wrath ordeyned to damnacion, that he myght declare the ryches of his glorye on the vessels of mercye, whiche he had prepared vnto glorye: that is to saye, vs whiche he called, not of the E Jewes onely, but also of the gentyls. As he Oseei.d sayth in Osee: I wyll call them my people
1.Pet.ij.a whiche were not my people: and her beloued whiche was not beloued. And it shall come to passe in the place where it was sayde vnto the, ye are not my people: that there shalbe called the chyldren of the lyuynge God.

But Esaye cryeth for Israel, thoughe the Esaye.x.c nombre of the chyldren of Israel be as the sande of the see yet shall but a remnaunte be saued. He fynisheth the worde verely, and maketh it shorte in ryghtwysnes. For a shorte
F worde wyl God make on erth. And as Esaye
Esaye.i.c sayde before: onles the Lord of Saboth had lefte vs seede, we had bene made as Sodoma and hadde bene lykened to Gomorra.

What shall we saye then? We say the gen-
G tyles whiche folowed not ryghtwysnes haue ouertaken ryghtwysnes: I meane the ryght-wisnes whiche commeth of fayth. But Israel which folowed the lawe of ryghtewysnes, coulde not attayne vnto the lawe of ryghtewysnes. And wherfore? Because they sought it not by fayth: but as it were by the workes of the lawe. For they haue stombled at the Esaye.viij.c. and xxviij.b stombynge stone. As it is wrytten: Beholde
1.Pet.ij.a. I put in Sion a stombynge stone, and a roche whiche shall make men fall. And none that beleue on him, shalbe ashamed.

¶ The vnfaythfulnes of the Jewes. Two maner of ryghtoulnes.

CAPI. X.

B Rethren, my hertes desyre and prayer to A God for Israel, is, that they myghte be saued. For I beare the recorde they haue a feruent mynde towardes God, but not accordynge to knowledge. For beyng ignorannt of the ryghtoulnes whiche is alowed before God, and goynge aboute to stablysshe their owne ryghtoulnes they are not obedient vnto the ryghtoulnes whiche is of value before God. For Christe is the ende of the lawe, to iustifye all that beleue.

Moses describeth the ryghtoulnes which Leuit.xviij.d commeth of the lawe, that the man whiche Ezech.xx.a doth the thinges of the lawe, shal lyue therin. Deuter.xxx.c But the rightoulnes which cometh of fayth, B speaketh on this wyse: Say not in thine hert, who shall ascende in to heauen (that is no-thynge els then to fetche Christ downe) Or and thynge els then to fetche Christ frome nothynge elles but to fetche vp Christ frome deathe.) But what sayth the scripture? The worde wor.c. worde is nyghe the, euen in thy mouth and in thyne herte.

This worde is the worde of faithe whiche we preache. For if thou shalt knowlege with thy mouth that Jesus is the Lorde, and shalt beleue with thyne hert, that God rayled him vp frome deathe thou shalt be safe. ✠ For wt beleefe of the hert iustifieth, and to knowlege with the mouth, maketh a man safe. For the scripture saith: Who so euer beleueth on him shall not be ashamed.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe & the Gentyle. For one is Lorde ouer all, whiche is ryche vnto al that cal on him. For who so euer shall call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe safe. But how shall they call on hym, on whome they beleued not? how shall they beleue on him, of whom they haue not herde? how shal they heare without a preacher? And how shall they preache ✠ except they be sent? As it is wrytten: ✠ Howe beautyfull are the fete of them, whiche brynge glad tydinges of peax, and brynge glad tydinges of good thin-ges. But they haue not all obeyed the Gos-pell. For Esay sayth: ✠ Lorde who shall beleue our sayenges? So then faith commeth by hearynge, and hearynge, by the worde of God. But I aske: haue they not herde? ✠
No wonder, their sounde went out into all landes: and their wordes into the endes of wt worlde. ✠

But I demaunde / whether Israell dyd knowe or not? First Moses sayth: ✠ I will prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no peo ple, and by a folysshe nacion I wil anger you. Esay after that, is bolde, and sayth: ✠ I am founde of them that sought me not, and haue appered to theym, that asked not after me. And against Israel he sayth: ✠ All daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not, but speaketh against me.

¶ All the Jewes are not cast awaye, therfore Paul warneth the Gentyls that be called, not to be hygh minded nor to despise the Jewes, for the iudgmentes of God are depe and secrete.

CAPI. XI.

A I Saye then: Hath God cast awaye his peo ple? God forbyd. For euen I am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, & of the tribe of Ben Jamin. God hath not cast awaye his people whiche he knewe before. Either wote ye not what the scripture sayth by the mouth of Helias, how he maketh intercessiō to God against Israel, sayenge? ✠ Lorde they haue xix. killed thy Prophetes, & dygged downe thyne altars: and I am left onely, and they seke my lyfe. But what sayth the aunswere of God to hym agayne? I haue reserued vnto me seuen thousande men, whiche haue not bowed the knee to Baal. Euē so at this tyme is there a remnaunt lefte thorow the electiō of grace.
If it be of ✠ grace, then is it not of workes. For then were grace no more grace. If it be of B workes, then is it no more grace. For then were deseruynge no lenger deseruinge. What then? Israel hath not obtayned wt he sought. No but yet the election hathe obtayned it. The remnaunt are blynded, accordynge as it is wrytten: ✠ God hath gyuen the the sprete of vnquietnes: eyes that they shulde not se, and eares that they shulde not heare, euen vnto this daye. ✠ And David sayth: Let their table be made a snare to take theym with all, and an occasion to fall, and a rewarde vnto them. Let their eyes be blynded that they se not: and euen bowe wowne their backes.

Esay.vi.c Wath.xiij. John.xij.f Actus.xxviij. *Psl.lxxxviij

I saye then: haue they therfore stombled, that they should but fall onely? God forbyd: but thorow their fall is saluacion happened vnto the gentyls, to prouoke the with. Wherfore yf the fall of them, be the riches of the worlde: and the mynysshynge of them the ryches of the gentyles: How moch more shulde it be so, yf they all beleued. I speake to you Gentyles, in as moche as I am the A-postle of the Gentyles, I wil magnifie myne office, that I might prouoke them which are my flesshe, and myght saue some of them. For yf the castynge awaye of them, be the reconci-lynge of the worlde: what shall the receyuynge of them be, but lyfe agayne from deth? For yf the begynnynges be holy, wt hole heepe is holy. And yf the rote be holy, the braunches are holy also.

Thoughe some of the braunches be broken of, and thou beynge a wylde olyue tree, arte
C graft in amonge them, and made partaker of the rote and fatnesse of the Olyue tree, bosse not thy selfe against the braunches. For yf thou bost thy selfe, remember that thou bea-rest not the rote, but the rote the. Thou wilt saye then: the braunches are broken of, that I might be graffe in. Thou sayest well: because of vnbeleefe they are broken of, & thou standest stedfast in faith. Be not of an haulte mynde, but feare sythe God spared not the naturall braunches, least haply he also spare not the.

Beholde the kyndnesse and rygorousnes of God: on them whiche fell, rygorousnes: but D towardes the, kyndnes: yf thou continue in his kyndnesse. Or elles thou shalt be hewen of, and they yf they abyde not styll in vnbe-leefe, shalbe graffed in agayne. For God is of power to graffe them in agayne. For yf thou wast cut out of a naturall wilde olyue tree, & wast grafted contrary to nature in a true Olyue tree: how moche more shall the natural braunches be grafted in their owne olyue tree agayne.

I wolde not that this mysterye shoulde be hyd frome you my brethren, least ye shulde be wyse in your owne conceytes, for as moche as blyndnesse is partely happened in Israel, tyll the fulnes of the Gentyles be come in: and so D all Israel shalbe saued. As it is wrytten: ✠ Esay.lix.d There shall come out of Syon he that weth deliuer, and shall turne awaye the vngodyl-nesse of Jacob. And this is my promyse vnto them, when I shall take awaye their synnes. As concernyng the Gospel they are ennemies for your sakes: but as touchynge the election they are loued for the fathers sakes.

For

For the gyftes & callynge of God are suche that it can not repent him of them: for as ye in tyme past haue not beleued God, yet haue now obtayned mercy thorow their vnbelefe: euen so now haue they not beleued the mercy whiche is happened vnto you, that they also maye obtayne mercy. ☞ God hath wrapped all nacyons in vnbelefe, that he might haue mercy on all.

O the depenes of the ryches and wysdome, and knowledge of God: howe vnsercheable are his iudgementes, and his wayes vntraceable? For who hath knowen the mynde of ẏ Lorde? Or who was his counsellour? either who hath gyuen vnto him first, that he might be recompensed agayne? For of him, and thorow him, and for him are al thinges. To him be glory for euer Amen.

¶ The weake oughte not to be despised. No man shulde offende anothers conscience. Agayne, for outwarde thynges shulde no man condemne an other.

CAPI. XIIII.

A HIm that is weake in the faithe, receyue vnto you, not in disputinge and troublinge his conscience. One beleueth ẏ he maye eate all thinge. An other whiche is weake, eateth hearbes. Let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not. And let not him which eateth not, iudge him that eateth. For God hath receyued him. What art thou that iudgest an other mans seruaunt? Whether he stande or falle, that pertayneth vnto his master: yea, he shall stande. For God is ☞ hable to make him stande.

This man putteth difference betwene daye and daye. An other man counteth all dayes a lyke. Se that no man wauer in his owne
B meanynge. He that obserueth one daye more then an other, doth it for the Lordes pleasure. And he that obserueth not one daye more thẽ another, doth it to please the Lorde also. He that eateth, doeth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thankes. And he that eateth not, eateth not, to please the Lorde withall, and gyueth God thankes. For none of vs lyueth his owne seruaunt: neyther doth any of vs dye his owne seruaunte. Yf we lyue, we lyue to be at the Lordes will. And yf we dye, we dye at the Lordes will. Whether we lyue therfore or dye, we are the Lordes. For Christ therfore dyed and rose agayne, and reuyued that he myghte be Lorde, bothe of dead and quycke.

But why dost thou then iuge thy brother? Other why doest thou despise thy brother?
C We shalbe all brought before the iudgement seate of Christ. For it is written: ✱ As truly as I lyue, sayth the Lorde, all knees shall bowe to me, and al tongues shal gyue knowledge to God. [...]e treasure youre [...]edge.

Let vs folowe tho thinges which make for peax, and thinges wherwith one maye edifye an other. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytle meates sake. All thinges are pure: but it is euyll for that man, whiche eateth with hurte of his conscience. It is good neyther to eate fleshe, neyther to drynke wyne, neyther any thinge, wherby thy brother stombleth, either falleth, or is made weake. Haste thou faith? haue it with thy self before God. Happy is he that condemneth not him self in that thinge whiche he aloweth. For he that maketh conscience, is damned yf he eate: because he doth it not of faith. Now, what so euer is not of faith, is synne.

To do against conscience is dãnable. And all that is not of fayth is synne.

Salute one an other with an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

D I beseche you brethren, marke them which cause diuision, and gyue occasions of cuyll, contrary to the doctryne which ye haue learned and auoyde theym. For they that are suche, serue not the Lorde Jesus Christe: but their owne bellyes, and with swete preachinges & flatterynge wordes, deceyue the hertes of the innocentes. For your obedience extendeth all mē. I am glad therefore of you. But yet I wold haue you wyse vnto that which is good, and to be innocent as concernyng euyl. The God of peax treade Satan vnder your feete shortly. The grace of oure Lorde Jesu Christe, be with you.

Timotheus my worke felowe, and Lucius and Jason, and Sopater my kynsmen, salute you, I Tertius salute you, which wrote this Epistle in the Lorde. Gayus myne hoste, and the hoste of all the congregacions, saluteth you. Erastus the chamberlayne of the cyte saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of our Lorde Jesu Christe, be with you all: Amen.

To him that is of power to establyshe you according to my Gospell and preachynge of Jesus Christ in vtterynge of the mystery whiche was kept secret sythens the world began, but nowe is opened by the scriptures of Prophesy at the commaundemente of the euerlastynge God, to cause vp obedyence to the faith publyshed among all nacyons: To the same God, which alone is wyse, be prayse thorowe Jesu Christ, for euer. AMEN.

CAPI. I.

PAule by vocacion an Apostle of Jesu Christ thorowe the will of God, and brother Sosthenes.

Vnto the congregacion of God which is at Corinthe.

To theym that are sanctified in Christe Jesu, sayntes by callynge, with all that call on ✠ name of our Lorde Jesu Christ in euery place both of theirs and of oures.

Grace be with you, and peax from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesu Christ.

✠ I thanke my God alwayes on your behalfe, for the grace of God gyuen you by Jesu Christ, that in al thinges ye are made ryche by him, in all lernynge and in all knowlege, euen as the testimony of Jesu Christ was confermed in you, so that ye are behynde in no gyfte, and wayte for the appearynge of oure Lord Jesus Christ which shal strengthen you vnto the ende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of our Lorde Jesu Christ. ✠ For God is faithfull, by whome ye are called vnto the felowshyp of his sonne Jesu Christ our Lord. I beseche you brethren, in the name of oure Lord Jesu Christ, that ye al speake one thing, and that there be no dissention amonges you: but be knytte togither in one mynde and in one meanynge: It is shewed me (my brethrē) of you, by them that are of the house of Cloe that there is stryfe amonge you. I meane this that commenlye amonge you, one sayth: I holde of Paul: another I holde of Apollo: the thirde, I holde of Cephas: the fourth I hold of Christ. Is Christ deuyded? Was Paul crucyfyed for you? Eyther were ye baptysed in E the name of Paul? I thanke God that I baptysed none of you, but Crispus and Gayus, least any shoulde saye that I had baptised in myne owne name. I baptised also the house of Stephana. Furthermore know I not, whether I baptised any man or no.

For Christe sente me not to baptise, but to preache the gospel, not with wysdome of wordes, least the crosse of Christ shulde haue bene made of none effect. For the preachinge of the ✠ crosse, is to them that perysshe, folyshnesse: but vnto vs whiche are saued it is the power of God. For it is wrytten: ✻ I will destroye the wysdome of the wyse, and will cast awaye the vnderstandinge of the prudente. Where is the wyse? Where is the scribe? Where is the searcher of this worlde? Hath not God made the wysdome of this worlde, folyshnes?

For when the worlde, thorowe wysdome knewe not God, in the wysdome of God: it pleased God thorow folyshnes of preachinge to saue them that beleue. For the Jewes require a signe, & ✠ Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasion of fallynge, & vnto the Grekes folyshnes: but vnto them which are called both of the Jewes and Grekes, we preach Christ, the power of God, and the wysdome of God. For the folyshnes of God, is wyser then men: and the weakenes of God is stronger then men. Brethren loke on your calling, how that not many wyse men after the flesh, not many myghty, not many of hyghe degree, are called: But God hath chosen the folyshe thinges of the worlde, to cōfounde the wyse. And God hathe chosen the weake thinges of the worlde, to confounde thinges whiche are myghty. And vyle thinges of the worlde, and thinges whiche are despysed, hathe God chosen, yea and thinges of no reputation, for to bringe to nought thinges of reputacion, that no flesshe shulde reioyce in his his presence. And vnto him pertayne ye, in Christe Jesu, which of God is made vnto vs wysdom, and also ryghtwysnes, and sanctifienge and redēcion. That accordynge as it is written: ✻ he Hiere.ix.g which reioyseth, shulde reioyce in the Lorde.

¶ It is not eloquence and glorious painted wordes of worldly wysdome, that can edefye and conuerte soules vnto Christe: but the playne wordes of the scripture for they make mencyon of him and his crosse.

CAPI. II.

A ANd I brethren when I came to you, came not in glorwusnes of wordes, or of wysdome, shewynge vnto you the testimonye of God. Neyther shewed I my selfe, that I knewe any thinge amonge you saue Jesu Christ, euen the same that was crucyfyed. And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in moche tremblynge. And my wordes, and my preachynge, was not wt entysynge wordes of mans wysdome: but in shewing of the spirete and of power that your faith shulde not stande in the wysdome of mē but in the power of God.

That we speake of, is wysdome amonge them that are ✠ perfecte: not the wysdome of this world, neyther of ✠ rulars of this world (whiche go to nought) but we speake the wysdome of God, which is in mysterye and hyd, whiche God ordeyned before the worlde vnto our glory: which wysdome none of the rulars of this worlde knewe. For had they knowen it, they wolde not haue crucyfyed ✠ Lorde of glory. But as it is wrytten: ✻ The eye hathe not sene, and the eare hath not herd neyther haue entred into the hert of man, the thinges which God hath prepared for theym that loue him.

B ✠ Perfect are they that vnderstande the lawe, sayth & worthes truly and professe them.

Esayc.lxiiii.b

But God hath opened the vnto vs, by his spirite. For the spyrete searcheth all thinges, C yea the botome of Gods secretes. For what man knoweth the thinges of a man: saue the spyrete of a man which is within him. Euen so the the thinges of God knoweth no man, but the spyrete of God. Now, we haue not receyued ỹ spyrete of the worlde: but the spyrete which cōmeth of God, for to knowe the thinges that are gyuen to vs of God, whiche thinges also we speake, not in the conny ng wordes of mās wysdome, but with the conny nge wordes of the holy ghost, makynge spirituall comparisons of spirituall thinges. For the naturall man perceyueth not the thinges of the spyrete

of God. For they are but foly shnes to him.
Neyther can he perceyue theym, because they are spiritually discerned. But he that is spirituall, discusseth all thinges: yet he ỹm selfe is iudged of no man. *For who knoweth the mynde of the Lorde, eyther who shal informe
hym? But we vnderstand the mynde of Christ.

¶ Paule rebuketh the sectes and authors therof. Christe is the foundacion of his churche. No man ought to reioyce in men, but in God.

CAPI. III.

AND I coulde not speake vnto you brethren, as vnto spirituall: but as vnto carnall, euen as it were vnto babes in Christe. I gaue you mylke to drinke, and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, no neyther yet are. For ye are yet carnalle. For as longe as there is amonge you, enuyeng, strife and dissencion: are ye not carnall, and walke
after the maner of men? As long as one saith
I holde of Paul: and another, I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thinge is Apollo? Onely mynisters are they,
by whom ye beleued, euen as the Lorde gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the encrease. So then, neyther is he that planteth any thinge, neyther he that watreth, but God that gaue the encrease. He that planteth / and he that watreth, are neyther better then other. Euerye man yet shall receyue his rewarde, accordinge to his laboure. We are Gods labourers / ye are Gods husbandry, ye are Gods buylding.
Accordinge to the grace of God, gyuen vnto me, as a wyse buylder haue I layde the foundacion. And an other buylte thereon. But let euery man take hede how he buyldeth vpon.
For other foundacion can no man laye, then that whiche is layde, which is Jesus Christ.
Yf any man buylde on this foundacion, gold,
syluer, precious stones: tymber, haye or stoble:
euery mans worke shall appeare. For the day shall declare it, and it shalbe shewed in fyre.
And the fyre shall trye euerye mannes worke
what it is. Yf any mans worke that he hathe buylt vpon abyde, he shal receyue a rewarde.
Yf any mans worke burne, he shal suffre losse,
but he shalbe sake him selfe: neuertheles yet
as it were thorow fyre.

✣ Are ye not ware that ye are the temple of God, and that the spyrete of God dwelleth in you? Yf any man defyle the temple of god hym shall God destroye. For the temple of God is holye, whiche temple ye are. Let no man deceyue him selfe. Yf any man seme wyse amonges you, let him be a fole in this worlde, that he maye be wyse. For the wysdome of this worlde is folyshenesse with God. For it is written: * he compaseth the wyse in their craftynesse. And agayne: *God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse that they be vayne.
Therfore let no man reioyce in men. For all thinges are yours, whether it be Paul, either Apollo, eyther Cephas: Whether it be the worlde, eyther lyfe, eyther deathe, whether they be present thinges or thinges to come: al are yours: and ye are Christes, and Christ is Gods. ✣

¶ The preachers are but ministers. Judgement belongeth only vnto God.

CAPI. IIII.

LET men in this wyse esteme vs, euē as the ministers of Christ, and disposers of the secretes of God. Furthermore it is required of the disposers that they be founde faythfull. With me is it but a very smal thing that I shuld be iuged of you, eyther of (mās daye) No I iuge not myne owne self. I know nought by my selfe: yet am I not thereby iustified. It is the Lorde that iugeth me. Therfore iudge nothinge before the tyme, tyll the Lorde come, which will lighten thinges that are hyd in darckenesse, and open the counsels of the hertes. And then shall euery man haue prayse of god. ✣

These thinges (brethren) I haue described in myne owne person and Apollos, for youre sakes, that ye myght lerne by vs, that no mā thinke of him selfe beyonde that whiche is abouc written: that one swell not against an other, for any mās cause. For who preferreth the? What haste thou, that thou hast not re-ceyued? Yf thou haue receyued, why reioycest thou, as thoughe thou haddest not receyued
it? Now ye are full: now ye are made ryche:
ye raygne as kynges without vs: and I wold
to god ye dyd raigne, that we mighte raygne with you.

Me thinketh that god hathe set forthe vs, whiche are Apostles, for the lowest of all, as it were men appointed to death. For we are a gasynge stocke vnto the worlde, and to the Aungels, and to men. We are foles for Christes sake, and ye are wyse thorow Christ. We are weake, and ye are stronge. Ye are honorable, & we are despised. Euen vnto this daye we honger and thirst, and are naked, and are bofferted with fystes, & haue no certayn dwellynge place, and labour, worckynge with our owne handes. We are reuyled, and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it. We are cuyll spoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the fylthynes of the worlde,
the of scowringe of al thinges, euen vnto this tyme.

I wryte not these thynges to shame you:
but as my beloued sonnes I warne you. For thoughe ye haue ten thousand instructours in Christe: yet haue ye not manye fathers. In Christ Jesu, I haue begotten you thorow the gospell. Wherfore I desire you to folow me.

whiche is my dere sonne and faythfull in the teache euery where in al cōgregacions. Some swel as though I wolde come no more at you.

But I wyll come to you shortly, yf God wyll:
and wyll knowe, not the wordes of them whi che swel, but the power: for the kyngdome of God is not in wordes, but in power. What wyl ye? Shal I come vnto you with a rod, or els in loue, and in the spirite of meknes?

¶ After what manner Paul curseth the man, that had cōmitted fornication with his mother in lawe.

CAPI. V.

THere goeth a commen saying that there is fornicacion amonge you, and such fornication, as is not ones named amonge
the Gentiles: that one shold haue his fathers wyfe. And ye swell, and haue not rather sorwed, that he which haue done this dede might be put forth of youre company. For I verily as absent in body, euen so present in spirete, haue determined alredy (as though I were present)
of him that hathe done this dede, in the name of our Lord Jesu Christ, when ye are gathered togither, and my spirite, with the power of the Lorde Jesus Christe, to deliuer hym vnto Sathan, for the destruction of the flesshe, that the spirite maye be saued in the daye of the Lorde Jesu.

Your reioycyng is not good: knowe ye not that a lytle leuen, sowreth the hole lompe of dowe. ✣ Pourge ye therfore the olde leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete breed. For Christ our Esterlambe is offered vp for vs. Therfore let vs kepe holy daye, not w olde lenen, neither with the leuen of malyce and wyckednes: but with the swete breed of purenes and trouthe. ✣

I wrote vnto you in an Epistle, ỹ ye sholde not accōpany w fornicatours. And I ment not at all of the fornicatours of this worlde, either of the couetous, or of extortioners, either of the ydolaters: for then muste ye nedes haue gone out of the worlde. But now I wryte vnto you that ye company not togither, if any ỹ is called a brother, be a fornicatour, or couetous, or a worshypper of Images, eyther a rayler, ey-ther a dronckeard, or an extortioner: with him that is suche, se ye eat not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them which are without? Do ye not iudge them that are within? Them that are without, God shal iudge. Put a way from you that cuyll person.

¶ Her rebuketh them for goynge to lawe togyther before the Heythen, and reproueth vncleannesse.

CAPI. VI.

HOw dare one of you, hauynge busynes
with an other go to lawe vnder the wic ked, and not rather vnder the sayntes?
Do ye not knowe that the sayntes shall iudge the worlde? If the worlde shall be iudged by you: are ye vnworthye to iudge small tryfles:
knowe ye not that we shal iudge the aungels?
How moche more may we iudge thinges that pertayne to the lyfe? Yf ye haue iudgementes of worldly maters, take them which are despi
sed in the congregation, & make them iudges.
This I saye to your shame. Is there no wyse man amonge you? What, not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother & brother, but one brother goeth to law with an other: and that vnder the vnbeleuers?

Now therfore there is vtterly a faute amonge you, because ye go to lawe one with an other. Why rather suffre ye not wronge? why rather suffre ye not youre selues to be robbed?
naye, ye your selues do wronge, and rob: and that the brethren. Do ye not remembre that the vnrighteous shall not inherite the kyngdome of God? Be not deceyued. For neither fornicatours, neither worshyppers of ymages neyther whoremongers, neither tenderlynges neither abusers of them selues with the malekynde, neither theues, neither couetous, neyther dronkerdes, neither cursed speakers, nether pyllers, shall inherite the kyngdome of God. And such were ye verily: but ye are washed: ye are ỹsanctified: ye are iustifyed by the
the name of the Lorde Jesu, and by the spirite of our God.

All thynges are lawfull vnto me: but all thinges are not profitable. I may do all thin-ges, but I wyl be brought vnder no mans power. Meates are ordeined for the bely, and the bely for meates: but God shall destroye both it & the. Let not the body be applied vnto fornication, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vn to the body. God hathe rayled vp the Lorde, and shall rayse vs vp by his power. ✣ Either remembre ye not, that your bodies are the ỹ mē-bres of Christ? Shall I now take the membres of Christe and make the membres of an harlot? God forbyd. Do ye not understande, that he which coupleth him selfe with an harlot, is become one body? For two (sayethe he) shall be one flesshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde, is one spirete.

Fle fornication. Al synnes that a man doth, are without the bodye. But he that is a fornicatour, synneth agaynste his owne bodye. Ey-ther knowe ye not that your bodyes are the tē ple of the holy ghost, whiche is in you, whom ye haue of God, and howe ye are not youre owne? For ye are derely boughte. Therfore glorifye ye God in youre bodyes, and in your spirites, for they are Gods. ✣

CAPI. VII.

A ✣ CONCERNYNG the thinges wherof ye wrote vnto me: it is good for a mā not to touche a woman. Neuertheles to auoyde fornicacion, lette euery man haue his wife, and let euery woman haue her husband.
Lette the man gyue vnto the wyfe due beni-uolence. Lykewyse also the wyfe vnto the man. The wife hath not power ouer her owne bodye: but the husbande. And lyke wyse the husbande hath not power ouer his owne bodye, but the wyfe. Withdrawe not your selues one from an other, onlesse it be with consent for a tyme, to gyue your selues to fasting and prayer. And afterwarde come agayne to the same thynge, lest Sathan tempte you for your incontinencie. ✠

B This I saye of fauoure, and not of commaundement. For I wolde that al men were as I my selfe am: but euery man hathe his proper gyft of God, one after this maner, an other after that. I saye vnto the vnmaryed me and wydowes: it is good for them if they abyde euen as I do. But yf they can not abstayne, let them mary. For it is better to mary then to burne.

Unto the maryed cõmaunde not I, but the Lorde: that the wife seperate not her selfe frõ the man. Yf she seperate her selfe, let her remayne vnmaryed, or be reconcyled vnto her husbande agayne. And let not the husbande put awaye his wyfe from him.

To the remnaunt speke I & not the Lorde. C Yf any brother haue a wyfe that byleueth not, yf she be content to dwell with him, let him not put her awaye. And the woman whiche hathe to her husbande an infydell, yf he consent to dwell with her, let her not put him awaye. For the vnbyleuynge husbande is sanctifyed by the wyfe, and the vnbyleuyng wife is sanctified by the husbande. Or elles were your children vnclene, but now are they pure. But yf the vnbyleuynge departe, let him departe. A brother or a syster is not in subiection to suche. God hathe called vs in peax. For how knowest thou (o woman) whether thou shalt saue that man or no? Eyther how knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalte saue that woman or no? but euen as God hath distributed to euery man.

As the Lorde hathe called euery person, so let him walke/and so ordeyn I in al congregations. Yf any man be called being circumcised D let him adde nothyng therto. Yf any be called vncircumcised, let him not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothynge/ vncircumcision is nothynge, but the keppynge of the commaundementes of God is all togyther.

✠ Let euery man abyde in the same state wherin he was called. Arte thou called a seruaunt? care not for it. Neuertheles yf thou maist be free, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde beinge a seruaunt, is the Lordes freman. Lykewise he that is called being free, E is Christes seruaunt. Ye are derely bought, be not mens seruantes. Brethren, let euery man wherin he is called, therin abyde w̃ God. ✠ As concernyng virgyns, I haue no cõmaundement of the Lorde, yet gyue I counsel, as one that hath obteyned mercy of the Lorde, to be faithful. I suppose that it is good for the present necessitie. For it is good for a mã so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Arte thou loosed from a wyfe? seke not a wyfe. But yf thou take a wyfe, thou synnest not. Lykewise yf a virgyn marye, she synneth not. Neuertheles, suche shall haue trouble in theyr flesche, but I fauoure you.

This saye I brethren, the tyme is shorte. It remayneth that they whiche haue wyues, be as though they had none/and they that wepe be as thoughe they wepte not/ and they that reioyce, be as thoughe they reioysed not: and they that bye, be as though they possessed not: and they that vse this worlde, be as thoughe they vsed it not. For the fassion of this worlde goeth awaye. I wolde haue you without care. The syngle man careth for the thynges F of the Lorde, howe he may please the Lorde. But he that hath maried, careth for the thinges of the worlde, howe he maye please his wyfe. There is difference betwene a virgin and a wife. The syngle woman careth for the thynges of the Lorde, that she maye be pure bothe in body, and also in spirite. But she that is maryed, careth for ye thinges of the worlde, how she may please her husbande. This speke I for your profite, not to entãgle you in a snare but for that whiche is honest and comly vnto you, and that ye maye quyetly cleue vnto the Lorde without seperation.

Yf any man thynke it vncomly for his virgyn, yf she passe the tyme of maryage, and yf so nede requyre, let him do what he lyketh, he synneth not: let them be coupled in mariage. Neuertheless he that purposeth surely in his herte, hauynge none nede: but hath power ouer his owne wyll: and hath so decreed in his hert, that he wyll kepe his virgyn, doth wel. So then he that ioyneth his virgyn in maryage, dothe well. But he that ioyneth not his virgyn in maryage, doth better. The wyfe is bounde to the lawe, as longe as her husband lyueth. Yf her husband slepe, she is at libertie to marye with whome she wyll, onely in the Lorde, but she is happier yf she so abyde in my iudgement. And I thynke verely that I haue the spirite of God.

The rebuketh them that vse theyr libertye to the sclaunder of other, and sheweth how men oughte to behaue them towarde suche as be weake.

CAPI. VIII.

TO speake of thynges dedicate vnto A ydols, we are sure that we al haue knowlege. Knowlege maketh a mã swell, but loue edifyeth. yf any man thinke that he knoweth any thynge, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to know. But if any man loue god, the same is knowen of him.

To speke of meat dedicate vnto ydols, we are sure there is none ydoll in the worlde, and that there is none other God but one. And though there be that are called goddes, whether in heuen, or in earthe (as there be Goddes manye, and Lordes manye) yet vnto vs B is there but one God, whiche is the father, of whom are all thynges, & we in him/ and one Lorde Jesus Christe, by whom are all thynges, and we by him. But euery man hath not knowlege, for some suppose that there is an ydole tyll this houre, and eate as a thynge offered vnto the ydole, and so theyr cõsciences beynge beynge yet weyke, are defyled. L Meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Neither yf we eate are we the better, neyther yf we eate not are we the worse.

But take hede that your libertie cause not the weyke to fall. For if some men se the, which hast knowlege syt at meat in the ydolles temple, shal not the conscience of him whiche is weyke, be boldened to eate those thynges which are offered to the ydol? And so through thy knowlege, shall the weake brother perish for whom Christe dyed. When ye synne so agaynst the brethren, and wounde theyr weyke consciences/ye synne agaynst Christe. Wherfore yf meat hurte my brother, I wyll eate no flesche whyle the worlde standeth, bycause I wyll not hurte my brother.

M. in both.

The loueth forbeareth the thinge that she maye do by the law. He exhorteth them to runne forth in ẏ course that they haue begon.

CAPI. IX.

A AM I not an Apostle? am I not free? haue I not sene Jesus Christ our lorde? Are ye not my worke in the Lorde? Yf I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne apostleshyp are ye in the Lorde. Myne answer to them that aske me, is this. Haue we not power to eate and to drynke? Eyther haue we not power to lede aboute a syster to wyfe, as well as other apostles, and as the brethren of the Lorde & Cephas? Eyther onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to do? Who goeth a warfare any tyme at his owne coste? Who planteth a vyneyarde, and eateth not of the frute? Who fedeth a flocke, and eateth not of the mylke?

Saye I these thynges after the maner of men? Or saythe not the lawe the same also? For it is written in the lawe of Moses. Thou shalte not mosell the mouthe of the oxe that treadeth out ẏ corne. Doth God take thought for oxen? Eyther sayth he it not all togyther for our sakes? For our sakes vndoubtedly this is wrytten that he whiche eareth shulde eare in hope: and that he which thresheth in hope shulde be partaker of this hope. Yf we sowe vnto you spirituall thinges: is it a great thing yf we repe your carnall thynges? Yf other be partakers of this power ouer you, wherfore are not we rather?

Neuertheles we haue not vsed this power, but suffre al thynges, lest we shold hynder the Gospell of Christe. Do ye not vnderstande, that they which minister in the temple haue theyr lyndynge of the temple? And they which wayt at the aulter, are partakers with the aulter. Euen so also did the Lorde ordeyn, that they whiche preache the gospell, shulde lyue of the gospell. But I haue vsed none of these thynges.

Neyther wrote I these thynges that it L shoulde be so done vnto me, for it were better for me to dye, then that any man shulde take this reioycyng from me. In that I preache the gospell, I haue nothynge to reioyce of. For necessitie is put vnto me. Wo is it vnto me yf I preache not the gospell. Yf I do it with a good wyll, I haue rewarde. But yf I do it agaynste my wyll, an office is committed vnto me. What is my rewarde then? Verely that when I preache the gospell, I make the gospell of Christ fre, that I mysuse not myne auctorite in the gospell.

He that worketh of loue to his neyghbour hath his rewarde.

For though I be fre from all men, yet haue I made my selfe seruaunte vnto all men, that I myght wynne the moo. Unto the Jewes, I became as a Jewe, to wynne the Jewes. To them that were vnder the lawe, was I made as though I had ben vnder the lawe, to wyn them that were vnder the law. To them that were without lawe, became I as though I hadde bene without lawe (when I was not without lawe, as pertaynynge to God, but vnder a lawe as concernynge Christ) to wyn them that were without law. To the weyke became I as weyke, to wynne the weyke. In all thynges I fassyoned my selfe to all men, to saue at the leestwaye, some. And this I doo for the gospels sake, that I mygbte haue my parte therof.

✠ Perceyue ye not that they which runne in a course, runne all, yet but one receyueth the rewarde. So renne, that ye maye obtaine. Euery man that proueth maisteryes, abstayneth frome all thynges. And they do it to obtayne a corruptible crowne: but we to obtein an vncorruptible crown. I therfore runne, not as at an vncertayne thynge. So fyghte I, not as one that beateth the ayer: but I tame my body, and bynge it in to subiection, lest after that I haue preached to other, I my selfe shuld be a caste awaye. ✠

The feareth them with the exemples of the olde testament, and exhorteth them to a godly conuersacion.

CAPI. X.

BRethren I wolde not ye shulde be ignoraunte of this, howe oure fathers were A all vnder a cloude, and all passed thorow the see, and were all baptised vnder Moses, in the cloude and in the see: and dyd all eate of one spyrituall meate, and dyd ✶ all drynke of one maner of spirituall drynke. And they drancke of that spirituall rocke that folowed them, which rocke was Christ. ✠ But in many of them had God no delyte. For they were ouerthrowen in the wyldernes.

These are exemples to vs ✠ that we shulde not luste after cupill thynges, as they lusted. Neyther be ye worshyppers of ymages as were some of them accordynge as it is wrytten: ✶ The people sate downe to eate and drynke, and rose vp agayn to playe. Neither let vs commyte fornycacion ✶ as some of them commyted fornication, and were destroyed in one day, xxiij. thousande. Neither let vs tempte Christe, as some of them tempted, and were distroied of serpentes. Neither murmure ye as some of them murmured and were destroyed of the destroyer.

Is not the ✣ Bred whiche we breake, partetakynge of the body of Chriſt? becauſe that we (thoughe we be many) yet are one bred and one body, in aſmoche as we all are partetakers of one bred. ✝ And I wolde not that ye ſhulde haue felowſhyp with the deuyls. Ye can not drynke of the Cuppe of the Lorde, and of the Cuppe of druelles. Ye can not be partetakers of the Lordes table, and of the table of druelles

But yf any man ſaye vnto you: this is dedicate vnto ydoles, eate not of it for his ſake that ſhewed it, and for hurtynge of conſcience. The earthe is the Lordes, and all that therin is. Conſcience I ſaye, not thyne: but the conſcience of that other. For why ſhulde my lyberte be iudged of an other mannes conſcience. The rebuketh the for the abuſe and miſorder that they had aboute the Sacramente of the bodye and bloude of Chryſt, and dyſpuyteth them agayne to the fyrſte inſtitucion.

CAPI. XI.

B Be ye folowers of me, as I am the folower of Chriſt. I prayſe you brethren that ye remember me in al thinges, and kepe the ordinaunces euen as I delyuered them to you. I wolde ye knewe that Chriſte is ✝ heed of euerye man. And the man is the womans heed. And God is Chriſtes heed. Euerye man prayenge or prophelyenge hauing any thinge on his heed, shameth his heed. Euery woman that prayeth or prophelyeth bare hedded, diſhoneſteth her heed. For it is all one, and the ſame thinge, as thoughe ſhe were ſhauen. Yf the woman be not couered, let her alſo be ſhorn. Yf it be ſhame for a woman to be ſhorn or ſhauen, let her couer her heed.

A man ought not to couer his heed, foraſmoche as he is the ymage and glory of God. The woman is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man. Neyther was the man created for ✝ womans ſake: but the woman for the mans ſake. For this cauſe ought the womā to haue power on her heed, for the aungels ſakes. Neuertheleſſe neyther is the man, without the woman, neyther the woman without the mā in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the mā, euen ſo is the man by the woman: but all is of God.

Iudge in your ſelues, whether it be comly that a woman prayе vnto God bare heeded. Or doeth not nature teache you, that it is a ſhame for a man, yf he haue longe heere: and a prayſe to a woman, yf ſhe haue longe heere? For her heere is gyuen her to couer her with. Yf there be anye man amonges you, that luſteth to ſtryue, let him knowe that we haue no ſuche cuſtome, neyther the congregations of God.

This I warne you of, & commēde not that ye come togyther: not after a better maner, but after a worſſe. ✝ Firſt of all whē ye come togither in the congregacion, I heare there is diſſencion amonges you: & I partly beleue it. For there muſte be ſectes amonge you, ✝ they which are perfect amonge you, might be knowen. When ye come togither, a man can not eate the Lordes ſupper. For euery man begynneth afore to eate his own ſupper. And one is hongry, & an other is dronken. Haue ye not houſes to eate & to drincke in? Or els deſpyſe ye the congregacion of God, & ſhame them ✝ haue not? What ſhall I ſaye vnto you? ſhall I prayſe you? In this, prayſe I you not. ✝

✝ That which I delyuered vnto you I receyued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Jeſus the ſame nyght in whiche he was betrayed, toke bread: and thanked & brake, and ſayde. Take ye, and eate ye: this is my body which is broken for you. ✣ This doo ye in remembraunce of me. After the ſame maner he toke the cup, when ſupper was done, ſaying: This cup is the newe teſtament in my bloud: This do as oft as ye drynke it, in the remembraunce of me.

For

F For as often as ye ſhall eate this bread, and drinke this cup, ye ſhal ſhew the Lordes deth, tyll he come. Wherfore who ſo euer ſhal eate of this bred, or drinke of the cup vnworthely, ſhall be gylte of the body and bloude of the Lorde. Let a man therfore examen him ſelfe, and ſo let him eate of the bread, and drinke of the cup. For he that eateth or drinketh vnworthely, eateth and drynketh his owne damnacion, becauſe he maketh no difference of the Lordes bodye. ✝ For this cauſe, many are

B weake and ſycke amonges you, & many ſlepe. For yf we had iudged our ſelues, we ſhulde not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lorde, we are chaſtened, becauſe we ſhulde not be damned with the worlde. Wherfore my brethren, when ye come togyther to eate, tarye one an other. Yf any man hōger, let him eate at home, that ye come not togither vnto condemnacion. Other thinges will I ſet in order when I come.

The diuerſite of the gyftes of the holy ghoſt, gyuen to the confort and edyfyenge of one another, as the members of a mans body ſeruе one an other.

CAPI. XII.

A In ſpirituall thinges (brethren) I wolde not haue you ignoraunt. ✝ Ye know that ye were Gentyles, and went youre wayes vnto dumme ydoles, euen as ye were ledde. Wherfore I declare vnto you, that no man ſpeakinge in the ſpyrite of God, defyeth Jeſus. Alſo no man can ſaye that Jeſus is the Lorde: but the holy ghoſt. There are dyuerſites of gyftes, & yet but one ſpirite. And there are differences of adminyſtracions, and yet but ◦ one Lorde. And there are dyuers maners of operacions, and yet but ✝ one God, which worketh al thinges that are wrought, in all creatures. The gyftes of the ſpirite are gyuen to euery man, to profyte the congregacion. To one is gyuen thorow the ſpirite, the vtteraunce of wyſdome. To an other is gyue the vtteraunce of knowledge, by the ſame ſpirite. To an other faith, by the ſame ſpirite.

B To an other the gyftes of healynge, by the ſame ſpirite. To an other power to do myracles. To an other prophely. To an other iudgement of ſpirites. To an other dyuers tongues. To an other the interpretation of tongues. And theſe all worketh the ſelfe ſame ſpirite, deuydinge to euerye man ſeuerall gyftes, euen as he will. ✝

For as the body is one, and hath many membres, and al the membres of one body though they be many, yet are but one body: ſo is Chriſte. For in one ſpirite are we all baptyſed to make one body, whether we be Iewes or gētyle, whether we be bonde or free, and haue all dronke of one ſpirite. For the body is not one membre, but many. Yf the foote ſaye: I am not the hande, therfore I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? And yf the eare ſay, I am not the eye: therfore I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? Yf all the body were an eye, where were then the eare? Yf all were hearynge: where were the ſmellynge? But now hath God diſpoſed the membres euery one of them in the body, at his owne pleaſure. Yf they were all one member: where were the body? Now are there many membres, yet but one bodye. And the eye can not ſay vnto the hande, I haue no nede of the: nor the heed alſo to the feete, I haue no nede of you. Yea rather thoſe membres of the body, which ſeme to be moſt feble, are moſte necellary. And vpon thoſe membres of the body, which we repute leaſt honeſt, put we moſte honeſtye. And our vngoodly partyes, haue moſte beautye. For our honeſt membres nede it not. But God hathe ſo diſpoſed the body, and hath gyuen moore honoure to that parte which lacked, leaſt there ſhulde be any ſtryfe in the body: but that the membres ſhulde indifferently care one for an other. And yf one member ſuffer, all ſuffer with him: yf one member be hadde in honour, all membres be glad alſo.

Ye are the bodye of Chriſte, and membres one of an other. And God hath alſo ordeyned in the congregacion, firſte the Apoſtles, ſecondarely Prophetes, thirdely Teachers, Then them that do myracles: after that, the gyftes of healynge, helpers, gouernors, diuerſite of tongues.

Are all Apoſtles? Are all Prophetes? Are all Teachers? Are all doars of Myracles? Haue all ✝ gyftes of healyng? Do all ſpeake with tongues? Do all interprete? Couet the beſt gyftes. And yet ſhew I vnto you a more excellent waye.

The nature and condycions of charitye or loue.

CAPI. XIII.

A ✝ Though I ſpake with the tongues of men and aungels, and yet had no Charitie, I were euen a ſoundynge braſſe: or as a tynklynge Cymball. And thoughe I coulde prophecy, and vnderſtande all ſecretes & all knowledge: yea, yf I had all faith, ſo ✝ I coulde moue mountaynes out of their places, and yet had no loue, I were nothynge. And though I beſtowed al my goodes to fede the poore, and thoughe I gaue my body euen that I burned, and yet had no loue, it profyteth me nothynge.

B Loue ſuffereth longe, is curteous. Loue enuyeth not. Loue doeth not frowardely, ſwelleth not, vaunteth not diſhoneſtly, ſeketh not her owne, is not prouoked to anger, thinketh not euyll, reioyſeth not in wyckednelle: but reioyſeth in the trouthe, ſuffereth all thinges, beleueth all thinges, hopeth all thinges, endureth in all thinges. Though that prophe- C ſyenge fayle, other tongues ſhall ceaſe, or knowledge vanyſhe awaye, yet loue fayleth neuer away.

For our knowledge is vnperfecte and our prophelyenge is vnperfecte. But when that whiche is perfect, is come, then that which is vnperfect, ſhall be done awaye. When I was a chylde, I ſpake as a chylde, I vnderſtode as a chylde, I ymagyned as a chylde.

D But assone as I was a man, I put away chil-dishnesse. Nowe we se in a glasse, euen in a darcke speakinge: but then shall we se face to face. Now I knowe vnperfectly: but thẽ shal
I knowe, euen as I am knowen. Now aby-deth faithe, hope, and loue, euen these thre:
but the chiefe of these is loue. ⊢

¶ Paule sheweth that the gifte of prophesye, interpretyng or preachyng, excelleth the gyfte of tongues and howe they both ought to be vsed.

CAPI. XIIII.

A Labour for loue and couet spirituall gyf-tes: and chiefly for to prophesye. For he that speaketh with tongues, speaketh not vnto men, but vnto God. For no man heareth him. How be it in the sprete he speaketh mysteries. But he that prophesyeth, spea keth vnto men, to edifienge, to exhortation & to comfort. He that speaketh with tongues, profiteth him selfe: he that prophesyeth, edifieth the congregacion. I wolde ye all spake with tongues: but rather that ye prophesied.
For greater is he that prophesieth, then he ye speaketh with tongues, onlesse he expoune it also: that the congregacion maye haue edify-B enge. Now brethren, yf I come vnto you spea kynge with tongues: What shall I profyte
you, except I speake to you, eyther by reuela-cion, or knowledge, or prophesyenge, or doctrine.
Moreouer whẽ thinges without lyfe: gyue sounde: whether it be a pype or an harpe: on-les they make a distinctiõ in the soundes: how shall it be knowen what is pyped or harped?
And also yf the trompe gyue an vncertayne
voyce, who shall prepare hym selfe to batell?
Euen so lykewyse when ye speake with tongues, excepte ye speake wordes, that haue signyfycation, howe shall it be vnderstande what is spoken? For ye shall but speake in the ayer.
C Many kyndes of voyces are in the worlde,
and none of them are without signification.
Yf I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shalbe vnto him that speaketh, an alien, and he that speaketh shall be an alien vnto me.
Euen so ye (for asmoche as ye couet spirituall gyftes) seke that ye may haue plentie vnto ye edifienge of the congregacion.
Wherfore let him that speaketh with tongues, praye that he maye interprete also. Yf
I praye with tongues, my sprete prayeth: but my mynde is without frute. What is it then?
I will praye with the ɸ sprete, and will praye with the mynde also. I wyll synge with the sprete, and will singe with the mynde also.
For els when thou blessest with the sprete,
how shal he that occupieth the rowme of the vnlerned, saye Amen, at thy gyuynge of thã-kes, sythe he vnderstandeth not what thou sayst. Thou verely gyuest thankes well, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God, I D speake with tongues, more then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congregaciõ, to speake fyue wordes with my mynde to the information of other, rather then ten thousand wordes with the tongue.

Brethren, be not children in wytte, but in malice, be children, and in wytte be perfecte.
In the lawe it is written, ✱ with other tongues, and with other lyppes, wyll I speake vnto this people, and yet not so, wil they not heare me, sayeth the Lorde. Wherfore, tongues are for a sygne, not to them that beleue:
but to them that beleue not. Contrarywyse, prophesyeng serueth not for them that beleue
not: but for them which beleue.

Esay.xxviii.

Yf therfore when all the congregacion is come togither, and all speake with tongues, there come in they that are vnlerned, or they which beleue not: will they not saye that ye are out of your wyttes? But yf all prophesy, and there come in one that beleueth not, or C one vnlerned, he is rebuked of al men, and is iudged of euery man: and so are the secretes of his hert opened, and so falleth he downe on his face, and worshyppeth God, and sayeth ye
God is with you in dede.
Howe is it then brethren? When ye come togyther, euery man hath his songe, hath his doctrine, hath his tongue, hath his reuelaciõ, hathe his interpretation. Let all thinges be done vnto edyfyenge. Yf any man speake with tongues, let it be two attonce, or at the most thre attonce, and that by course, and let an o- F ther interprete it. But yf there be no interpre- ☞ ter, let him kepe sylence in the congregacion,
and let him speake to him selfe and to God.
Let the prophetes speake two attonce, or thre attonce, and let the other iudge. Yf any reuelacion be made to an other that sitteth by let the first kepe sylence. For ye maye all prophesye one by one, that all maye lerne, and all maye haue comforte. For the sprites of ye Prophetes, are in the power of the Prophetes. For God is not causer of stryfe: but of peax, as he is in all other congregacions of ye sayncte s.
Let your wyues kepe sylence in the congre gacians. For it is not permitted vnto them to speake: but let them be vnder obedience, as sayth the lawe. Yf they wyl lerne any thing, let them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for wemen to speake in the congregation. Sprong the worde of God from you?
Eyther came it vnto you onely? Yf any man thynke hym selfe a Prophet, eyther spiritual:
let him vnderstande, what thinges I write vnto you. For they are the commaundementes of the Lorde. But yf any man be ignoraunte, let him be ignoraunt. Wherfore (brethren) couet to prophesye, and forbyd not to speake with tongues. Let al thinges be done honestly and in order.

¶ The resurrection of the deed.

CAPI. XV.

A B ✠ Rethren as touchinge the gospel whiche I preached vnto you, whiche ye haue
also accepted, and in which ye continue,
by which also ye are saued: I do you to vnder-stand, after what maner I preached vnto you
yf ye kepe it, onles ye haue beleued in vayne.
For

For fyrst of al I delivered vnto you ye which I receyued, how that Christ dyed for our syn-nes, agreing to the scriptures: & that he was buryed, & that he arose agayne the thyrde day accordinge to the scriptures, and that he was sene of Cephas, then of the.xii. After that he was sene of mo then.v.C. brethren attonce, of whiche many remayne vnto this day, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to B James, then to all thapostles.
Last of al he was sene of me, as of one that was borne out of due tyme. For I am the lest of all the apostles, whiche am not worthy to be called an apostle, bicause I persecuted the con gregacion of god. But by the grace of god I am that I am. And his grace whiche is in me, was not in vaine: ⊢ but I laboured more abũ dantly then they all/ yet not I, but the grace of god which is with me. Whether it were I or they, so we preache, and so haue ye byleued.
✠ Yf Chryst be preached that he rose from the deed: how say some that are amõges you, that there is no resurrection of the deed? Yf there be no rysynge agayne of the deed, then is C Christ not risen. Yf Christ be not rysen, then is our preachynge vayne, and your faythe is also in vayne. Yea, and we are founde false witnesses of God. For we haue testifyed of God, how that he raysed vp Christ, whom he raised not vp, if it be so that the deed ryse not agayn.
For yf the deed ryse not agayne, then is Christ not rysen agayne. Yf it be so that Chryste rose not, then is your fayth in vayne, and yet are ye in your synnes. And therto they which are fallen a slepe in Chryste, are perysshed. yf in this lyfe onely we byleue on Chryste, then are we
of all men the moost miserable.
But now is Chryst rysen from the deed, and is become the fyrst frutes of them that slept.
For by a man came dethe, and by a man came the resurrection of the deed. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Chryst, shall all be made a-lyue, & euery man in his owne order. ⊢ The first is Chryst, then they that are Chrystes, at his commyng. Then commeth the ende, when he hathe delyuered vp the kyngdome to God
the father, when he hath put downe all rule, auctoritie and power. For he must reygne tyll
D he haue put all his ennemyes vnder his fete.
The last ennemy that shal be destroyed, is deth
✱ For he hath put all thynges vnder his fete.
But when he sayth, all thynges are put vnder
him, it is manifest that he is excepted, whiche did put all thinges vnder him. When al thin-ges are subdued vnto him, then shall the sonne
also him selfe be subiect vnto him that put thin
ges vnder him, that God may be in al things.
Either els what do they whiche are baptised ouer the deed, yf the deed ryse not at all? Why are they then ɸ baptised ouer the deed? ye, and E why stande we in ieoperdye euery houre? By our reioysynge, whiche I haue in Chryst Iesu our Lorde, I dye dayly. That I haue fought with beestes at Ephesus, after the maner of men, what auauntageth it me, yf the deed ryse not agayne? Let vs eate and drynke, to mo-row we shal dye. Be not disceyued: euyl speakynges corrupte good maners. Awake truly out of slepe, & syn not. For some haue not the knowlege of god. I speke this to your rebuke.

But some men wyll saye: howe aryse the deed? with what bodyes come they in? Thou fole, that which thou sowest is not quyckened excepte it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that bodye that shall be: but bare corne (I meane eyther of whete, or of some other) and God gyueth it a bodye at his pleasure, to euery seed a seuerall bodye.

the same deed men shulde rise agayne.

✠ All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe, but there is one maner flesh of men, an other maner fleshe of beestes, an other maner fleshe of fysshes, and an other of byrdes. There are heuenly bodyes, and ther are erthly bodyes. But the glory of the heuenly is one, and the glorye F
of the erthly is an other. There is one maner glory of the sonne, and an other glorye of the moone, and an other glorye of the sterres. For one sterre differeth from an other in glory. So is the resurrection of the deed. It is sowen in corrupcion, and ryseth in incorrupcion. It is sowen in dishonour, and ryseth in honour. It is sowen in weyknes, and ryseth in power. It is sowen a naturall bodye, and ryseth a spirituall bodye. There is a naturall bodye, and Gene.ii.b
there is a spirituall body, as it is wrytten: the first man Adam was made a lyuyng soule, and the last Adam was made a quickenyng spirite.
How be it, that is not fyrst which is spiritual:
but that whiche is naturall, and then that whiche is spirituall. ⊢ The fyrste man is of the erth, erthly: the seconde man is ye Lorde frome heuen. As is the erthly, suche are they G that are heuenly. And as we haue borne the ymage of the erthly, so shall we beare the ymage of the heuenly.
This saye I brethren, that fleshe & bloude can not inheryte the kyngdome of God. Neyther dothe corrupcion inheryte vncorruption.
Beholde, I shewe you a mistery. We shall not ☞ all slepe, but we shall all be chaunged, & that in a moment, and in the twynckling of an eye, at the sound of the last trompe. For the tromp shall blowe, and the deed shall ryse incorruptible, and we shall be chaunged. For this cor-ruptible must put on incorruptibilite: and this mortall must put on immortalitie.
Whẽ this corruptible hath put on incorruptibilitie, and this mortal, hath put on immor-talite: then shal be brought to passe the saying that is writtẽ: deth is consumed in to victory.
Deth where is thy stynge? Hell where is thy victory? The stynge of deth is synne: and the Oze.xiii.b strength of synne is the lawe. But thankes be vnto God whiche hath giuen vs victory tho-row our Lorde Iesu Christ. Therfore (my dere brethren) be ye stedfast & vnmouable, alwayes ryche in the workes of the Lorde/ for asmoche as ye knowe howe that youre labour is not in vayne in the Lorde.

¶ He putteth them in remembraunce of the gatherynge for the poore Christen at Ierusalem, and concludeth his Epystle with the salutacions of certayne louynge brethren.

CAPI, XVI.

Of the

A OF the gatherynge for the sayntes as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so do ye. Upon some sondaye let euery one of you put aside at home & laye up what so euer he thynketh mete, that there be no gatherynges when I come. When I am come, who so euer ye shal allow by youre letters, them wyl I sende to bringe your liberalite vnto Ierusalem. And yf it be mete that
B I go, they shall go with me. I wyll come vnto you after I haue gone ouer Macedonia. For I wyll go thorow out Macedonia. With you perauenture I wil abyde, or also kepe my winter, that ye may bringe me on my waye whyther so euer I go.

I wyll not se you nowe in my passage: but I trust to abyde a whyle with you, if God shal suffre me. I wyll tary at Ephesus tyll whitsontyde. For a great dore and frutefull is opened vnto me: and there are many aduersaryes. Yf
C Timothe come, se he be without feare with you. For he worketh the worke of the Lorde as I do. Let no man despyse him, but conuey him forth in peax, that he may come vnto me. For I loke for him with the brethren.

To speake of brother Apollo, I greatly desired him to come vnto you with the brethren, but his mynde was not all to come at this tyme, howbe it he wyll come when he shall haue conuenient time. Watche ye, stand fast in the fayth, quite you lyke men, and be stronge.
D Let all your busynes be done in charite.

Brethren, ye know the house of Stephana, howe they are the fyrst frutes of Achaia, and that they haue appoynted them selues to minister vnto the sayntes: I beseche you that ye be obedient vnto such, and to al that helpe and labour. I am glad of the commynge of Stephana, Fortunatus, and Achaicus: for that whiche was lackynge on youre behalfe, they haue supplyed. They haue comforted my spirite and yours. Loke therfore that ye knowe them that are suche.

The congregacions of Asia salute you. Aquila, and Priscilla salute you moche in the Lorde, and so doth the congregacion that is in theyr house. All the brethren greete you. Greete ye ons an other with an holye kysse. The salutacion of me Paul with myne owne hande. Yf any man loue not the Lorde Iesus
c Chryste, ye the same be Anathema maranatha. The same be accursed at the Lordes comynge. Or as some wyll he same be excōmunicate and accursed to death. The grace of the Lorde Iesu Chryst be with you all. My loue be with you all in Chryste Iesu. AMEN.

¶ The consolacion of God in trouble. The loue of Paul towarde the Corynthians, and his excuse that he came not vnto them.

CAPI. I.

PAule Apostle of Iesu A Chryste by the wyll of God, and brother Timotheus.

Unto the congregacion of God, whiche is at Corynthen with all the sayntes whiche are in all Achaia. Grace with you, and peax frome God our father, and frome the Lorde Iesu Chryste.

Blessed be God the father of our Lorde Iesu Chryst, the father of mercy, and the God of all comforte, whiche comforteth vs in all our tribulacion, in so moche that we are able to comforte them whiche are troubled, in what so euer trouble it be, with the same comforte wherwith we oure selues are comforted of God. For as the ϕ afflictions of Chryste are plenteous in vs, euen so is oure consolacyon plenteous by Chryst.

ϕ Afflictions or passions of Chryste are suche sufferynges as Chryst suffred.

Whether we be troubled for youre consolacion, and saluacion, whiche saluacion sheweth her power, in that ye suffre the same afflictions, whiche we also suffre: or whether we be comforted for youre consolacion and saluacion: yet our hope is stedfast for you, in asmoche as we knowe that as ye haue youre parte in afflictions, so shall ye be partakers of consolacion. B

Brethren, I wolde not haue you ignorant of our trouble, which happened vnto vs in Asia. For we were greued out of measure, passing strength, so greatly, that we dispayred eue of lyfe. Yea, we receyued an answere of deth in oure selues, and that because we sholde not put our trust in our selues, but in God, which rayseth the deed to lyfe agayne, and which deliuered vs from so great a deth, and doth deliuer. On whome we trust, that yet hereafter he wyl deliuer, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the meanes of many occasions, thākes may be gyuen of many on our behalfe, for the grace gyuen vnto vs.

Our reioysynge is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in synglenes and godly pureness, and not in fleshly wysdome, but by the grace of God, we haue had our conuersacion in the worlde, and moost of all towardes you. we wryte none other thynges vnto you, then that ye rede, and also knowe. Yea and I trust ye shall fynde vs vnto thende, euen as ye haue found vs in parte: for we are youre reioysing, euen as ye are ours, in the daye of the Lorde Iesus. C Conscience.

And in this confydence was I mynded the other tyme to haue come vnto you, ϸ ye might haue hadde yet one pleasure more, and to haue passed by you in to Macedonia, and to haue come agayne oute of Macedonia vnto you, and to haue ben led forth to Iury warde of you. When I thus wyse was mynded: dyd I vse lyghtnes? Or thynke I earnally those thinges whith I thynke? that with me sholde be ϕ ye ye, and naye naye. God is faythful, for our preachynge to you, was not ye and naye. For Gods sonne Iesus Chryste whiche was preached amonge you by vs (that is to saye, by me and Syluanus and Timotheus) was not ye and naye: but in him it was ye. For all the promyses of God, in him are ye, & are in hym, Amen, vnto the laude of God thorow vs. For it is God whiche stablysheth vs and you in Chryst, and hathe anoynted vs, whiche hathe also sealed vs, and hathe gyuen the erneste of the spirite in to our hertes. I call God for a recorde vnto my soule, that for to fauour you withall I came not any more vnto Corynthe. Not that we be lordes ouer your fayth: but helpers of your ioye. For by fayth ye stande. D

¶ She weth the cause of his absence and exhorteth them to forgyue the man that was taken, and to receyue him agayne with loue.

CAPI. II.

BUt I determined this in my selfe, that A
I wolde not come agayne to you in heuynes. For yf I make you sorye, who is it that sholde make me gladde, but the same whiche is made sorye by me? And I wrote this same epystle vnto you, lest yf I came, I sholde take heuynesse of them, of whome I oughte to reioyce. Certaynly this confydence haue I in you all, that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For in greate affliction and anguyshe of herte I wrote vnto you with many teares: not to make you sorye, but that ye myght perceyue the loue whiche I haue moost specially vnto you.

If any man hathe caused sorowe, the same B
hathe not made me sorye, but in parte: lest I sholde greue you all. It is sufficient vnto the same man, that he was rebuked of many. So that nowe contrarye wyse, ye oughte to forgiue him, and comforte him, lest that same person sholde be swalowed vp with ouer moche heuynes. Wherfore I exhorte you that loue maye haue strengthe ouer him. For this cause verily dyd I wryte, that I myght knowe the proofe of you, whether ye sholde be obedient in al thinges. To whom ye forgyue any thing I forgyue also. For also yf I forgaue any thynge, to whom I forgaue it, for your sakes forgaue I it, in the syght of Christ, lest Satan sholde preuent vs. For his thoughtes are not C vnknowen vnto vs.

When I was come to Troada for Christes gospels sake (and a greate doore was opened vnto me of the Lorde) I hadde no reste in my spirite, because I founde not Titus my brother: but toke my leaue of them, and went awaye in to Macedonia. Thankes be vnto God, whiche alwayes gyueth vs the victorye
D in Christ, and openeth the sauer of his knowlege by vs in euery place. For we are vnto god the swete sauour of Christ, bothe among them that are saued, and also amonge them whiche perysshe. To the one parte are we the sauour of dethe vnto dethe. And vnto the other parte are we the sauour of lyfe vnto lyfe. And who is mete vnto these thynges? For we are not as many are, whiche chop and chaunge with the worde of God, but euen oute of purenes and by the power of God, and in the syght of God, so speake we in Chryst.

¶ She prayseth the preachynge of the Gospell aboue the preachynge of the lawe.

CAPI. III.

WE begyn to prayse oure selues agayne, A
Nede we as some other Epystles of recommendacion vnto you? or letters of recommendacion from you? Ye are our Epistle wryten in our hertes, whiche is vnderstande and red of all men, in that ye are knowen that ye are the Epistle of Chryst, ministred by vs & wryttен, not with ynke, but with the spirite of the lyuynge God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshly tables of the herte.

✠ Suche trust haue we thorowe Chryst to B
Godwarde, not that we are sufficient of oure selues to thynke any thynge as it were of our selues, but oure hablenes commeth of God, whiche hathe made vs hable to minister the newe testament, not of the letter, but of the spirite. For the letter kylleth, but the spirite gyueth lyfe.

Yf the ministracion of deathe thorowe the letters fygured in stones was glorious, so that the chyldren of Israel coulde not beholde the face of Moses for the glorye of his countenaunce (whiche glorye neuertheleelle is done awaye) why shall not the ministracion of the spirite be moche more glorious? For yf the mynistrynge of condemnacion be glorious: moche more dothe the mynistracion of eyghtousnes excede in glorye. ✠ For no doubt C that whiche was there glorifyed, is not at all glorifyed in respecte of this excedynge glorye. Then yf that whiche is destroyed was glorious, moche more shall that whiche remayneth be glorious.

Seynge then we haue suche truste, we vse greate boldenes, and doo not as Moses, whiche put a vayle ouer his face, that the Exodi. xxxiiii.
chyldren of Israel shoulde not se for what purpose that serued whiche is put awaye. But theyr myndes were blynded. For vnto this daye remayneth the same couerynge vntaken awaye in the olde testament, when they rede it, whiche in Chryste is put awaye. But euen vnto this daye when Moses is redde, the vayle hangeth before theyr hertes. D Neuertheleelle when they shall returne to the Lorde, the vayle shall be taken awaye. The Lorde no doubte is a spirite. And where the spirite of the Lorde is, there is libertie. But we all beholde the glory of ϸ Lorde, with vs face open, and are chaunged vnto the same similitude, frome glorye to glorye euen of the spirite of the Lorde.

Therfore

¶ A true preacher is diligent, he corrupteth not the worde of God, he preacheth not him selfe, but seketh the honoure of Chryste yea though it be with the perell of his lyfe.

CAPI. IIII.

A Therfore sythe we haue suche an offyce, euen as mercye is come on vs, we faynt not, but haue caste frome vs the clokes of vnhonestie, and walke not in craftynes, nether corrupt we the worde of god, but in open trouth, reaporte our selues to euery mans conscience in the sight of God. Yf our gospell be yet hyd, it is hydde amonge them that are lost, in whom the God of this worlde hath blinded the myndes of them which byleue not, lest the lyght of the gloryous gospell of Chryst which is the ymage of God, shold shyne vnto them.
B ✠ For we preache not our selues, but Christ Jesu to be the Lorde, and our selues your seruantes for Jesus sake. For it is God that commaunded the lyght to shyne out of darknes, whiche hath shyned in our hertes, for to giue the light of the knowlege of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Chryst.

But we haue this treasure in erthen vessels, that the excellent power of it myght appere to be of God, and not of vs. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not withoute shyfte. We are in pouertie: but not vtterly
C without somwhat. We are persecuted, but are not forsaken. We are cast downe, neuerthelesse we perishe not. And we always beare in our bodyes the dyinge of the Lorde Jesus, that the lyfe of Jesu myghte appeare in oure bodyes. ✠

For we whiche lyue alwayes are delyuered vnto deathe for Jesus sake, that the lyfe also of Jesu, myghte appere in our mortall fleshe. So then deth worketh in vs, and lyfe in you. ✠ Seynge then we haue the same spiryte of faythe, accordynge as it is wrytten: I byleued, and therfore haue I spoken. We also by-
Psal. cxv. a D leue, and therfore speake. For we knowe that he whiche raysed vp the Lorde Jesus, shall rayse vp vs also by the meanes of Jesus, and shall set vs with you. For all thinges do I for your sakes, that the plenteous grace by thankes gyuen of many, may redounde to the prayse of God.

Wherfore we are not weryed, but thoughe our outwarde man perysshe, yet the inwarde man is renewed daye by daye. For our excedynge tribulacion, whiche is momentany and lyght, prepareth an excedenge and an eternall waight of glory vnto vs, whyle we loke not on the thynges which are sene, but on the thynges whiche are not sene. For thynges whiche are sene, are temporall: but thynges whiche are not sene, are euerlastynge. ✠

¶ The rewarde for suffrynge trouble.

CAPI. V.

A We knowe surely yf our erthly mancyon wherein we nowe dwell were destroyed that we haue a buyldynge ordeyned of God, an habitacion not made with hãdes, but eternall in heuen. And therfore sygh we, desyrynge to be clothed with our mansion, which is frome heuen: so yet yf we be founde clothed, and not naked. For as longe as we are in this tabernacle we sigh and are greued, for we wolde not be vnclothed, but wolde be clothed vpon, that mortalite myght be swalowed vp of lyfe. He that hathe ordeyned vs for this thing, is God: whiche very same hath gyuen vnto vs the ernest of the spiryte.

Therfore we are alwaye of good chere, and knowe well that as longe as we are at home in the body, we are absent from God. For we walke in faythe and se not. Neuerthelesse we are of good comforte, and had leuer be absent from the bodye, and presente with the Lorde.
Wherfore, whether we be at home, or frome B home, we endeuour our selues to please hym. For we must all appere before the iudgement seate of Chryste, that euery man maye receyue the workes of his body accordynge to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

✠ Seynge then that we knowe, howe the Lorde is to be feared, ‡ we fare fayre with men. For we are knowen well ynoughe vnto God. I trust also that we are knowen in your conciences.

‡ We fare fayre wt men. That is, we playe not the tyrauntes & cursinges and excommunicacions.

We prayse not our selues agayne vnto you, but gyue you an occasion to reioyse of vs, that ye maye haue somwhat agaynst them, whiche reioyce in the face, and not in the hert. For yf C
we be to feruent, to God are we to feruent. Yf we kepe measure, for your cause kepe we measure. For the loue of Chryste constrayneth vs, bycause we thus iudge, yf one be deed for all, that then are all deed/and that he dyed for al, that they whiche lyue, sholde not hence forthe lyue vnto them selues, but vnto him, whiche dyed for them, and rose agayne.

Wherfore henceforth know we no man after the fleshe. In so moche thoughe we haue knowen Chryste after the fleshe, nowe henceforth knowe we hym so no more. Therfore yf any man be in Chryste, he is a newe creature. Olde thynges are passed awaye, beholde all thynges are made new. Neuertheles, al thyn- D
ges are of God, which hath reconcyled vs vnto him selfe by Jesus Chryst, and hathe gyuen vnto vs the offyce to preache the attonement. For God was in Christe, and made agreement bitwene the worlde and hym selfe, and imputed not theyr synnes vnto them: and hath cõmitted to vs the preaching of the attonement. Nowe then are we messengers in the rowme of Christ, euen as though God did beseche you thorow vs. So praye we you in Chrystes stede, that ye be atone with God: for ‡ he hath made him to be synne for vs, which knewe no synne, that we by that meanes sholde be that ryghtousnes whiche before God is alowed.

A newe creature.

‡ To be synne for vs, that is to saye, to be the sacryfyce for our synnes for synne in ye scrypture is sometyme taken for ye sacrifice of sinne.

¶ An exhortacion to receyue the word of God with thankfulnesse and amendement of lyfe. The dilygence of Paule in the Gospell, and how he warneth them to eschue the company of the hethen.

CAPI. VI.

A We ✠ As helpers therfore exhorte you that ye receyue not the grace of god in vayne. For he sayth: I haue herde the in a tyme accepted, and in the daye of saluacion haue I succoured the. Beholde nowe is that well accepted tyme: beholde now is that daye of saluacion. Let vs gyue no man occasion of euyl, that in our offyce be founde no faute, but in al thynges let vs behaue our selues as the mynisters of God.
B In moche pacience, in afflictions, in necessitie, in anguysshe, in stryppes, in imprysonmẽt, in stryfe, in laboue, in watchynge, in fastynge, in purenes, in knowlege, in longe sufferynge, in kyndnes, in the holy ghoste, in loue vnfayned, in the wordes of trouthe, in the power of God, by the ‡ armour of ryghtousnes of the ryght hande and on the lefte, in honoure and dishonoue, in euyll reapporte and good reapporte, as disceyuers and yet true, as vnknowẽ and yet knowen: as dyinge, and beholde yet lyue: chastened, and not kylled: as sorowynge, and yet alwaye mery: as poore, and yet make many ryche: as hauynge nothynge, and yet possessynge all thynges. ✠
C O ye Corinthyans, our mouth is open vnto you. Our herte is made large: ye are in no straytes in vs, but are in a strayte in youre owne bowelles: I promyse you lyke rewarde with me, as to my chyldren. Set youre selues therfore at large, and ✠ beare not a straunges yoke with the vnbyleuers. For what felowshyp hath rightousnes with vnryghtousnes? What company hathe lyght with darknes? What concorde hath Chryste with Be-D liall? Eyther what parte hath he that byleueth with an infydell? How agreeth the temple of God with ymages? For ye are the temple of that lyuynge God, as sayde God. ✠ I wyll dwell amonge them, and walke among them, and wyll be theyr God. and they shall be my people. Wherfore come out frome the myddes of them, and seperate youre selues (sayth the Lorde) and touche none vncleane thynge: so wyll I receyue you, and wyll be a father vnto you, & ye shall be my sonnes and doughters sayth the Lorde almyghty.

¶ He exhorteth them to receyue the promyses of God thankfully. The Corinthians are commended for theyr obedience and loue toward Paule.

CAPI. VII.

A Forasmoche as we haue suche promyses (derely beloued) let vs clense oure selues from all fylthynes of the fleshe and spiryte, and growe vp to full holynesse in the feare of God. Understande vs, we haue hurt no man, we haue corrupte no man: we haue defrauded no man. I speake not this to condemne you: for I haue shewed you before, that ye are in our hertes to dye and liue with you. I am verye bolde ouer you, and reioyce greatly in you. I am filled with comforte and
B am excedynge ioyous in all our tribulacions. For when we were come in to Macedonia, our fleshe hadde no reste, but we were troubled on euery syde. Without was fyghtynge, within was feare. Neuerthelesse God ye comforteth the abiecte, comforted vs at the commynge of Titus.

And not with his comminge onely, but also with the consolacion wherwith he was cõforted of you. For he tolde vs your desyre, your mournyng, your feruent mynde towardes me: so that I nowe reioyse the more. Wherfore C thoughe I made you sory with a letter, I repent not, thoughe I dyd repente. For I perceyue that the same Epystle made you sorye, thoughe it were but for a ceason. But I now reioyce, not that ye were sorye, but that ye so so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed i. Petri. ii.
godly, so that in nothyng ye were hurt by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion not to be repented of: where as worldly sorowe causeth deth.

Beholde what diligence this godly sorowe that ye toke hath wrought in you: yea it caused you to cleare youre selues. It caused indignacion, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused a feruent mynde, it caused punishment. For in all thynges ye haue shewed youre selues that ye were clere in that matter. Wherfore though I wrote vnto you, I did it not for his cause that did hurt: neyther for his cause that was hurte: but that our good mynde whiche we haue towarde you in the syghte of God, myght appere vnto you.

Therfore we are comforted bycause ye are D comforted: ye, and excedyngly the more ioyed we for the ioye that Titus hadde: bycause his spiryte was refresshed in you all. I am therfore not now ashamed, thoughe I bosted my selfe to him of you. For as all thynges whiche I preached vnto you are true, euen so is our bostynge that I bosted my selfe to Titus withall, founde true. And now is his inwarde affection more aboundaunt towarde you, when he remembreth the obedience of euery one of you: how with feare & trembling ye receyued him. I reioyce that I may be bolde ouer you in all thynges.

¶ He putteth them in remembraunce to helpe the poore sayntes at Jerusalem, accordinge as the Macedonians dyd.

CAPI. VIII.

I Do you to wyt (brethren) of the grace of God which is gyuen in the concregacions A of Macedonia, how that the aboundance of theyr reioysyng is, that they are tryed with moche tribulacion. And therto thoughe they were excedyng poore, yet haue they gyuen excedyng rychely, and that in synglenes. For to theyr powers (I beare recorde) ye, and beyonde their power, they were willing of their owne mocion, and prayed vs with greate instaunce, that we wolde receyue their benefyte, & suffre them to be partakers wt other in ministring to the sayntes. And this they dyd, not as we lo- B ked for: but gaue theyr owne selues fyrste to the Lorde, and after vnto vs by the wyll of God: so that we coulde not but desyre Titus to

to accomplyshe the same benuolence among you also, euen as he had begon.

Now therfore as ye are ryche in all parties in fayth, in wozde, in knowlege, in all feruẽtnes, and in loue, which ye haue to vs: so se ye be plenteous in this benuolence. This saye I not as commaundynge, but bycause other are so feruent, therfore proue I your charite, whe ther it be perfect oz no. Ye know the liberalite of our Lozde Jesus Christ, whiche though he were ryche, yet foz your sakes he became poze, that ye thozowe his powertie myght be made ryche.

And I gyue counsell here to. Foz this is expedient foz you, which began not to w onely:
but also to wyl a yere ago. Now therfore perfozme the dede: that as there was in you a re-dynesse to wyll, euen so ye maye perfozme the dede, of that whiche ye haue. Foz yf there be fyrst a wylling mynde, it is accepted accozding to that a man hath, and not accozding to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other be set at ease and ye brought in to combraunce, but ẏ there be equalnes now at this tyme, that your abun dance succour theyr lacke, that their abundãce may supply your lacke: that there maye be equalite, agreynge to that whiche is wzytten.
Exodi.xvi. ✻ He that gathered mothe, had neuer ẏ moze abundance, & he that gathered lytell, had neuertheleße. Thankes be vnto god, which put in the hert of Titus, the same good mynde to-warde you. Foz he accepted the requeſt, yea rather he was so well wyllynge, ẏ of his owne accozde came vnto you.

D We haue sent with him that brother, whose prayse is in the gospel thozow out all the cõgregacions/and not so onely, but is also chose of the congregacions to be a felowe with vs
in our iourney concernynge this benuolence that is minister bp vs vnto the prayse of the Lozde, and to fyrze vp your prompt mynde.

Foz this we eschewe, that any man sholde rebuke vs in this plenteous distribucion that is minister bp vs, and therfoze make prouiſion foz honest thinges, not in the sight of God
onely, but also in the syght of men.

We haue sent with them a brother of ours whom we haue oft tymes proued diligent in many thinges, but now moche moze diligent.
The great confydence whiche I haue in you,
hathe caused me this to do: partly foz Titus sake, which is my felow and helper as concernyng you, partly bycause of other whiche are our brethren and ẏ messengers of the cõgregacions, and the glozy of Christ. Wherfore shew vnto them a profe of your loue, and of the reioysyng that we haue of you, that the congre-gacions may se it.

¶ In this Chapter dothe he the same that he dyd in the Chapter goynge before, that is, moueth them to helpe the pooze brethren at Jerusalem.

CAPI. IX.

A Of the ministrynge to the sayntes, it is but superfluous foz me to wryte vnto you/
foz I knowe youre redynes of mynde, wherof I bost my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, and say that Achaia, was prepared a yere ago, and your feruentnes hath prouoked many. Neuertheles, yet haue I sent these brethre lest our reioysyng ouer you sholde be in vayne
in this behalfe, and that ye (as I haue sayde) prepare youre selues, lest happely yf they of Macedonia come with me, and fynde you vn-prepared: the boost that I made in this mater sholde be a shame to vs, I saye not vnto you. B

Wherfore I thought it necessary to exhorte
the brethren to come before hande vnto you foz to prepare your good blessyng promised afoze, that it might be redy: so that it be a bles-syng, and not a defraudyng. ✢ This yet remẽbze, how that he which soweth litel, shal repe lytell, and he that soweth plenteously, shall repe plenteously. And let euery man do accozdynge as he hathe purposed in his herte, not Eccle.xxxv.b
grudgyngly, oz of necessitie. Foz God loueth a cheresull gyuer. C

vnder kynge Aretas layde watche in the citye of the Damascens, and wold haue caught me, and at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket thorow the wall, & so escaped his handes.

It is not expedient for me truly to reioyce. Neuertheles I wyll come to visions and reuelacions of the Lorde. I know a man in Christ aboue .xiiij. yeres agone (whether he were in the body I can not tel, or whether he were out of the bodye, I can not tell (God knoweth) whiche was taken vp in to the thyrde heuen. And I know the same man (whether in the body or out of the body, I can not tel, God knoweth) how that he was taken vp in to Paradise, and herde wordes not to be spoken, which no man can vtter. Of this man wyl I reioyce, of my selfe I wyll not reioyce, onlesse it be of myne infyrmities. And yet thoughe I wolde reioyce, I sholde not be a fole: for I shall say the trouth. Neuertheles I spare, lest any man shold thynke of me, aboue that he seeth me to be, or heareth of me.

And lest I sholde be exalted out of measure thorowe the abundance of reuelacions, there was gyuen me ꝑa rodde to the flesshe, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, because I sholde not be exalted out of measure. For this thyng besought I the Lorde thrise that it might departe from me. And he sayd vnto me, my grace is sufficient for the. For my strengthe is made pfect thorowe weykenes. Very gladly therfore wyl I reioyce of my weykenes, that the strength of Christ may dwell in me. Therfore haue I delectacion in infirmities, in rebukes, in nede, in persecutions, in anguisshe for Christes sake. For when I am weyke, then am I stronge.

I am become a fole in bostyng my selfe. Ye haue compelled me: I ought to haue ben commended of you. For in nothyng was I inferiour vnto the chiefe Apostles, though I be nothyng, yet ꝑ tokens of an apostle were wrought among you with al patience, with tygnes and wonders, & mighty dedes. For what is it wherin ye were inferiours vnto other congregacions, excepte it be therin, that I was not greuous vnto you. Forgyue me this wronge vnto you. Beholde now the thyrde tyme I am redy to come vnto you, and yet wyll I not be greuous vnto you. For I seke not yours, but you. For the children ought not to laye vp for the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the children.

I wyll very gladly bestow, and wyll be bestowed for your soules: thoughe the more I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayne. But be it that I greued you not: neuertheles I was crafty, and take you with gyle. Did I ppl you by any of them whiche I sent vnto you? I desyred Titus, and with him I sente a brother. Dyd Titus defraude you of any thyng? walked we not in one spirite? walked we not in lyke steppes? Agayne thynke ye that we excuse oure selues? We speake in Christe in the syght of God.

But we do all thynges (derely beloued) for your edifying. For I feare lest it come to passe that when I come, I shall not fynde you suche as I wolde, and I shal be founde vnto you suche as I wolde not: I feare lest there be founde amonge you, debate, enuyenge, wrathe, stryfe backbytinges, whysperynges, swellynges and discorde. I feare lest when I come agayn, God bryng me lowe among you, and I be constrayned to bewaile many of them which haue synned alredy, and haue not repented for the vnclennes, fornicacion, wantonnes, whiche they haue commytted.

The ꝓmyseth to come vnto them and exhorteth them so to order them selues, that he may fynde them perfecte, and of one mynde.

CAPI. XIII.

NOw come I the thyrde tyme vnto you

I tolde you afore, and tell you afore: and as I sayd when I was present ꝟ you the seconde tyme, so wryte I now beinge absent to them whiche in tyme past haue synned, and to all other: that yf I come agayne, I wyll not spare, seynge that ye seke experience of Christe, whiche speaketh in me, whiche amonge you is not weyke, but is myghty in you. For verily thoughe it came of weykenes that he was crucifyed, yet liueth he thorow the power of God. And we no doubt are weyke in him, but we shall lyue with him by the myght of God amonge you.

Proue youre selues whether ye are in the fayth or not. Examin your own selues: know ye not your selues how Jesus Christ is in you onlesse ye be castawayes? I trust that ye shal knowe that we are not castawayes. I desyre before God that ye do none euyl, not that we sholde seme commendable, but that ye sholde do that is honest: and let vs be accompted for leude persons. We can do nothynge agaynste the truth, but for the truth. We are glad whē we are weyke, and ye stronge. This also we wysshe for, euen that ye were perfect. Therfore wryte I these thinges beyng absent, lest when I am present, I sholde vse sharpnes, according to the power which the Lorde hath gyuen me to edifie, and not to destroye. Finally brethren fare ye well, be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mynde, lyue in peax, & the God of loue and peax shall be with you. Greete one an other in an holy kysse. Paul rebuketh them, because they were fallen awaye frome the Gospell, sheweth his awne conuersion, magnifieth his office and Apostleshyppe and declareth him selfe to be egall with the hygh Apostles

CAPI. I.

PAul Apostle, not of men, nepether by man, but by Jesus Christe, and by God the father whiche rayled hym from deathe: and all the brethren whiche are with me.

Vnto the congregacions of Galacia.

Grace with you, and peax frome God the father, and from our Lorde Jesu Christ, whiche gaue hym selfe for our synnes, to delyuer vs from this present euyll worlde, thorowe the wyll of God our father, to whome be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

I mervayle that ye are so sone turned from him, that called you in the grace of Christ, vnto an other gospell, which is nothyng els, but that there be some which trouble you, and intende to peruert the gospell of Christ. Neuerlesse, though we our selues, or an aungel, from heuē, preache any other gospel vnto you, then that which we haue preached vnto you, holde him as a cursed. As I said before, so say I now agayne: yf any man preache any other thyng vnto you, then that ye haue receyued, holde him accursed. Do I now preache mās doctrine or Gods? Eyther go I about do please men? Yf I studyed to please men, I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

✣ Certifye you brethren, that the gospell whiche was preached of me, was not after the manner of men, neither receyued I it of man, neyther was I taughte it, but receyued it by the reuelacion of Jesus Christe. For ye haue herde of my conuersacion in tyme passe, in the Jewes wayes, howe that beyonde measure, I persecuted the congregacion of God, and spoyled it: and profyted in the Jewes layeabove many of my companyons, whiche were of myne owne nation, and was a moche more feruent mayntayner of the traditions of the elders.

But when it pleased God, whiche seperated from my mothers wombe, and called me by his grace, to declare his sonne by me, that I sholde preache him amonge the hethen: immediatly I cōmoned not of the matter ẅ ꝓ flesshe and bloude, neither returned to Jerusalem to them whiche were Apostles before me: but went my wayes in to Arabia, and came agayn vnto Damasco. Then after thre yere, I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode with him .xv. dayes, none other of the apostles saw I, saue James the Lordes brother. The thinges whiche I wryte, beholde, God knoweth I lye not.

After that I went in to the coostes of Syria and Cilicia: and was vnknowen as touchynge my person vnto the congregacions of Jewrye, which were in Christe. But they herde onely, that he which persecuted vs in tyme past, nowe preacheth the fayth whiche before he destroyed. And they glorifyed God on my behalfe.

The withstandeth Peter in the face, and proueth that the lawe and circumcision are not necessarye to saluacion.

CAPI. II.

THen .xiiij. yeres after, I went vp agayne to Jerusalem Barnabas, and toke with me Titus also. I went vp by reuelacion and commoned with them of the gospell whiche I preache amonges the Gentyles: but bytwene our selues, with them which were counted chefe, lest it sholde haue ben thought that I shold runne, or had runne in vayne. Also Titus whiche was with me, thoughe he were a Gezite, yet was not compelled to be circumcised, because of incommers being false brethrē, which came in amonge other to espye out our libertie whiche we haue in Christ Jesus, that they might bring vs in to bondage. To whom we gaue no rowme, no not for the space of an houre, as concernynge to be brought in to subiection: and that because that the trueth of the gospell myght continue with you.

Of them whiche semed to be greate (what they were in tyme past it maketh no mater to me: god loketh on no mans person) neuertheles they whiche semed great, added nothyng to me. But contrary wise when they saw that the gospell ouer the vncircumcision was committed vnto me, as the gospell ouer the ꝓ circumcision was vnto Peter: for he that was myghtye in Peter in the Apostleshyp ouer the circumcision, the same was myghtye in me amonge the Gentiles: and therfore when they perceyued the grace that was gyuen vnto me, then James, Cephas and John, which semed to be pyllers, gaue to me and Barnabas the ryghte handes, and agreed with vs, that we sholde preache amonge the hethen, and they amonge the Jewes: warnynge onely that we sholde remembre the poore. Which thing also I was diligent to do.

And when Peter was come to Antioche, I withstode him in the face. For he was worthye to be blamed. For er that certayne came from James, he ate with the Gentyles. But when they were come, he withdrue and separated him selfe, fearyng them whiche were of the circumcision. And the other Jewes dissembled likewise, in so moch that Barnabas was broughte in to their simulacion also. But when I sawe that they wente not the ryghte waye after the trouthe of the gospell, I sayde vnto Peter before all men, yf thou beynge a Jewe, lyuest after the maner of the Gentyles and not as the Jewes, why causest thou the Gentiles to lyue as do the Jewes? We which are Jewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyles, knowe that a man is not iustifyed

The rodde or speare to ꝟ flesshe signifieth after the mynde of S. Ambrose the persecutiō of euyll me whiche alwayes lo sate on his shyntes that he coulde not intend to be prowde and hygh minded.

Paule defendeth the libertie of ꝟ gospell

Paul is of as hygh auctorite as Peter, James or John.

Circumcision are the Iewes and vncircūcion the Gentyles.

Paule rebuketh Peter in the face.

Dedes of the lawe iustifie not, but faith iustifyeth.

by the * dedes of the lawe: but by the fayth of Jesus Christ. And therfore we haue byleued on Jesus Chryste, that we myghte be iustifyed by the fayth of Christ, and not by the dedes of the lawe, bicause that by the dedes of the law no fleshe can be iustifyed.

D Yf then whyle we seke to be made ryghtous by Chryste, we oure selues are founde synners, is not then Chryste the minister of synne? God forbyd. For yf I bylde agayne that whiche I destroyed, then make I my self a trespaser. But I thorow the lawe, am deed to the lawe, that I myghte lyue vnto God. I am crucifyed with Chryste. I lyue verely: yet nowe not I, but Chryste lyueth in me. For the lyfe whiche I now lyue in the fleshe, I lyue by the faythe of the sonne of God, whiche loued me, and gaue him selfe for me. I despyse not the grace of God. For yf ryghtousnes come of the lawe, then Chryste dyed in vayne.

¶He rebuketh the vnstedfastnes of the Galathians shewyng the vnparfectnes of the law, and declareth neuertheles that it was not gyuen for noughte.

CAPI. III.

A O Folyshe Galathians, who hath bewitched you, that ye sholde not bileue the truthe? To whome Jesus Chryste was descrybed before the eyes and among you crucifyed. This onely wolde I lerne of you: receyued ye the spirite by the dedes of the lawe, or els by preachynge of faythe? Are ye so vnwyse, that after ye haue begon in the spirite, ye wolde nowe ende in the fleshe? So many thynges ye haue suffred in vayne, yf that be vayne. Which ministred to you the spirite, and worketh myracles amonge you, dothe he it thorowe the dedes of the lawe, or by preachynge of faythe? * Euen as Abraham byleued God, and it was accompted vnto him for ryghtousnes. Understande therfore that they whiche are of fayth, the same are the chyldren of Abraham.

Gen.xv.b Roma.iiii.a. Jacobi.ii.d.

For the scripture sawe afore hande, that god wolde iustifye the hethen thorowe faythe, and therfore shewed before hande glad tydinges vnto Abraham: In the shall all nacyons be blessed. So then they whiche be of fayth, are B blessed with faythfull Abraham. For as many as are vnder the dedes of the lawe, are vnder malediction. For it is wrytten, cursed is euery man that continueth not in all thynges which are wrytten in the boke of the lawe, to fulfyl them. That no man is iustifyed by the lawe in the syght of God, is euydent. For the iust shal lyue by fayth. The lawe is not of faythe: but the man that fulfylleth the thynges contayned in the law, shal lyue in them. C But Christ hath delyuered vs from the curse of the lawe, and was made φ accursed for vs. For it is wrytten: cursed is euery one that hangeth on tree, that the blessyng of Abraham myght come on the Gentyles thorow Jesus Christ, and that we myghte receyue the promyse of the spiryte thorowe fayth.

Gen.xv.b Gene.xxii.d. Gene.xliiii.d. Abac.ii.a

φ Christ was accursed for oure sakes, y is: he was punyshed and slayne for our synnes. Deut.xxi.

Brethren, I wyll speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mannes testament, yet no man despyseth it, or addeth any thynge therto, when it is ones allowed. ✠ To Abraham and his seed, were the promyses made. He sayth not in the seedes, as many: but in thy seed, as in one, which is Christ. This I saye, that the lawe whiche began afterwarde, beyonde foure hundred and thyrtye yeres, dothe not disannull the testament that was confermed afore of God vnto Chrysteward, to make the promyse of none effect. For yf the inheritaunce come of the lawe, it commeth not of promesse. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promesse.

Wherfore then serueth the lawe? The lawe was added bycause of transgression (tyl the seed came, to whom y promesse was made) and it was ordeyned by aungels in the hande of a mediatour. A mediatour is not a mediatour of one. But God is one. Is the law then agaynste the promyse of God? God forbyd. How beit yf there had ben a law giuen, which coulde haue gyuen φ lyfe, then no doubte ryghtousnes, shold haue come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promesse by the fayth of Jesus Christ shold be gyuen vnto them that byleue. ⊢ D Before that faythe came, we were kepte and shut vp vnder the law, vnto the fayth which sholde afterwarde be declared.

φ The lawe geueth no lyfe but threateneth death.

Wherfore the lawe was oure scholemaster vnto Chryste, that we myghte be made ryghtous by faythe. But after that faythe is come, nowe are we no longer vnder a scholemaster. For ye are all the sonnes of God by the fayth whiche is in Christ Jesus. For all ye that are baptysed, haue put on Christ. Nowe is there no Jewe, neyther Gentyle: there is neither bonde, ne fre: there is neyther man ne woman: but ye are all one thynge in Chryste Jesu. Yf ye be Christes, then are ye Abrahams seed, and heyres by promes.

¶Paule sheweth that thorow Chryste we be delyuered frome the law, and rebuketh the vnthankfulnes of the Galathians

CAPI. IIII.

I ✠ Saye, the heyre as longe as he is a childe A differeth not frome a seruaunte, where as he is Lorde of all, but is vnder tuters and gouernours, vntyll the tyme appoynted of the father. Euen so we, as longe as we were chyldren, were in bondage vnder the ordynaunces of the worlde. But when the tyme was full come, God sente his sonne borne of a woman, and made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeme them whiche were vnder the lawe: that we thorowe election, myghte receyue the inheritaunce that belongeth vnto the naturall sonnes. Bycause ye are sonnes, God hath sent the spirite of his sonne in to oure hertes, whiche cryeth Abba father. Wherfore nowe thou arte not a seruaunt, but a sonne. Yf thou be a sonne, thou art also the heyre of God thorowe Chryste. ⊢ B

For mounte Syna is called Agar in Arabia, and bordreth vpon the citye, whiche is nowe Jerusalem, and is in bondage with her chyldren.

...xvi.d.

But Jerusalem, whiche is aboue, is free: whiche is the mother of vs all. For it is wrytten: * reioyce thou barayne that bearest no chyldren, breake forth and crye thou that trauaylest not. For the desolate hathe many moo chyldren, then she whiche hath the husbande. Brethren, we are after the maner of Isaac, childre of promes. But as then he was borne carnally, persecuted him that was borne spiritually: Euen so is it nowe. Neuerthelesse what sayth the scripture: put away the bonde woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman, shall not be heyre with the sonne of the free woman. So then (brethren) we are not chyldren of the bonde woman, but of the free woman. ⊢

¶He laboureth to draw them away frome circumcision, sheweth them the bataile betwyxte the sprete and the fleshe, and the frutes of them both.

CAPI. V.

A Stande faste therfore in the libertie wherwith Chryste hathe made vs free, and wrappe not youre selues agayne in the yoke of bondage. Beholde, I Paule saye vnto you, that yf ye be circumcised, Chryste shall profyte you nothynge. I testifye agayne to euery man whiche is circumcised, that he is bounde to kepe the hole lawe. Ye are gone quyte frome Chryste as many as are iustifyed by the lawe, and are fallen frome grace. For we loke in spirite to be iustified thorow fayth. For in Jesu Chryste, neyther is circumcision any thynge worthe, neyther vncircumcisyon, but φ faythe, whiche by loue is myghty in operacion. Ye dyd runne well, who was a lette vnto you, that ye sholde not obey the truthe? Euen that counsell that is not of hym that called you. A lytell leuen dothe leuen the hole lompe of dowe.

φ Fayth whiche worketh thorowe loue is y true faith and all that God requyreth of vs.

B ✠ I haue truste towarde you in the Lorde, that ye wyll be none otherwyse mynded. He that troubleth you, shall beare his iudgement, what so euer he be. Brethren, yf I yet preache circumcision: why do I then yet suffer persecucyon? For then hadde the offence whiche the crosse gyueth, ceased. Wolde God they were seperated frome you, whiche trouble you. Brethren, ye were called in to libertye onely, let not youre libertye be an occasion vnto the fleshe, but in charitie serue one an other. C * For all the lawe is fulfylled in one worde, whiche is this: thou shalte loue thyne neyghbour as thy selfe. Yf ye byte and deuour one an other, take hede lest, ye be consumed one of an other. ⊢

* Roma.xiii. Jacobi.ii.b i.Petri.ii.c

✠ I saye, walke in the spiryte, and fulfyll not the lustes of the fleshe. For the fleshe lusteth contrarye to the spirite, and the spiryte contrary to the fleshe. These are contrary one to the other, so that ye can not do that which ye wolde. D But yf ye be led of the spiryte, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of the fleshe are manifest, whiche are these: aduoutrye, fornicacion, vnclennes, wantonnes, ydolatrye, wytchecrafte, hatred, varyaunce, zele, wrathe, stryfe, sedicion, sectes, enuyenge, murther, dronkennesse, glotony, and suche lyke: of whiche I tell you before, as I haue tolde you in tyme paste, that they whiche commyt suche thynges, shall not inheryte the kyngdome of god. But the frute of the spirite is loue, ioye, peax, longe sufferynge, gentlenes, goodnesse, faythfulnes, mekenes, temperancye. Agaynste suche there is no lawe. They that are Christes haue crucifyed the fleshe with the appetytes and lustes. ⊢

✠ Yf we lyue in the spiryte, let vs walke in the spirite. Let vs not be vaynegloryous, prouokynge one an other, and enuyenge one an other.

¶He exhorteth them to brotherly loue and one to beare with another. In the ende he warneth them to beware of circumcision.

CAPI. VI.

A Brethren, yf any man be fallen by chaūce into any faute: ye whiche are spirituall helpe to amende hym in the spirite of mekenesse, considerynge thy selfe, leest thou also be tempted. Beare ye one an others burthen, and so fulfyll the lawe of Chryste. Yf any man seme to hym selfe that he is somwhat when in dede he is nothynge, the same disceyueth him selfe in his ymaginacion. Let euery man proue his owne worke, and then shall he haue reioysynge in hym selfe, and not in an other. For euery man shal beare his owne burthen.

B Let him that is taught in the worde, minister vnto him that teacheth hym, in all good thinges. Be not disceyued, God is not mocked. For what so euer a man soweth, that shall he repe. He that soweth in his flesshe, shall of the flesshe repe corrupcion. But he that soweth in the spirite, shall of the spirite C repe lyfe euerlastynge. Let vs not be wery of well doynge. For when the tyme is come, we shall repe without werynes. Whyle we haue therfore tyme, let vs doo good vnto all men, but chiefly vnto them whiche are of the housholde of fayth. ⊢

ii. Tessalo. iii.

Beholde how large a letter I haue wrytten vnto you with myne owne hande. As many as desyre with outwarde appearaunce to please carnally, they constrayne you to be circumcised, onely bicause they wolde not suffre persecucion with the crosse of Christ. For they them selues which are circumcised, kepe not the lawe: but desyre to haue you circumcised, that they D myght reioyce in your flesshe.

God forbyd that I sholde reioyce, but in the crosse of our Lorde Iesu Chryste, wherby the worlde is crucifyed vnto me, and vnto the worlde. For in Chryst Iesu, neyther circumcision auayleth, nor vncircumcision: but a new ♃ creature. And as many as walke accordynge to this rule, peax on them, and mercye / and vpon the Israel of God. From henceforth let no man put me to busynes. For I beare in my bodye, the markes of the Lorde Iesu. Brethren, the grace of oure Lorde Iesu Chryste be with youre spirete. Amen.

CAPI. I.

Paule Apostle of Iesu Christ, by the wyll of God. A

To the sayntes, which are at Ephesus, and to them whiche byleue on Iesu Christ.

Grace with you, and peax from God oure father, and from the Lorde Iesu Chryste. Blessed be God the father of oure Lorde Iesu Christ, which hath blessed vs with all maner of spirituall blessynges in heuenly thynges by Chryst, accordynge as he had chosen vs in hym, afore the foundacyon of the worlde was layde, that we sholde be sayntes, and without blame before him, thorowe loue. and ordeyned vs before thorow Iesus Christ, to be heyres vnto him selfe, accordynge to the pleasure of his wyll to the prayse of the glory of his grace wherwith he hath made vs accepted in the beloued. B

ii. Corint. i. a

Predestinacion.

By whome we haue redempcion, thorowe his bloude, euen the forgyuenes of synnes, accordynge to the ryches of his grace, whiche he shed in vs abundantly in al wysdom, and prudence. And hath opened vnto vs the ♃ mistery of his wyll, accordynge to his pleasure, & purposed the same in him self, to haue it declared when the tyme were full come, that all thinges, bothe which are in heuen, and also which are in earthe, sholde be gathered togyther, in Chryste: that is to saye, in hym in whome we are made heyres, and were therto predestinate accordynge to the purpose of him which worketh al thinges after the purpose of his owne wyll: that we whiche afore bileued in Christ sholde be vnto the prayse of his glory.

In whome also ye (after that ye herde the worde of truthe, I meane the gospell of your saluaciō, wherin ye byleued) were sealed with the holy spirite of promes, which is the ernest of oure inheritaunce, to redeme the purchased possession, and that vnto the prayse of his glorye. C

Wherfore I (after that I herde of the faith which ye haue in the Lorde Iesu, and loue vnto all the sayntes) cease not to gyue thankes for you, makynge mencion of you in my prayers, that the God of our Lorde Iesus Chryste and the father of glorye myghte gyue you the spirite of wysdome, and open to you the knowlege of him selfe, and lighten the eyes of your myndes, that ye might know what that hope is, whereunto he hath called you. & what the ryches of his glorious inheritaūce is vpon the sayntes. and what is the exceadynge greatnes of his power towardes vs which ♃ byleue accordinge to the workynge of that his myghty power, D which he wrought in Christ, when he raysed him frome the deed, and set him on his right hande in heuenly thinges, aboue al rule, power, and myght, and dominacion, & aboue all names that are named, not in this world onely, but also in the worlde to come: & hath put all thinges vnder his fete, and hath made him aboue all thinges, the heed of the congregacion which is his body & the fulnes of him that fylleth all in all thinges.

♃ Fayth is [illegible] of god only, [illegible]

Paule sheweth them what maner of people they were before theyr conuersion, and what they are nowe in Chryste.

CAPI. II.

A And you hathe he quyckened also that were deed in trespase and synne, wherin in tyme past ye walked, accordynge to the course of this worlde / and after the gouerner that ruleth in the ayer, the sprete that nowe worketh in the children of vnbelefe, amonge whome we also had our conuersacion in tyme past, in the lustes of oure flesshe and fulfylled the will of the flesshe & of the mynde and were ♃ naturally the children of wrathe, euen as well as other.

[illegible] the all [illegible]

But God which is ryche in mercy thorowe his greate loue wherwith he loued vs, euen when we were deed by synne, hath quyckened B vs togither in Christe (for by grace are ye saued) and hathe raysed vs vp togither & made vs syt togither in heauenly thinges thorowe Christe Iesus, for to shewe in tymes to come the exceading ryches of his grace, in his ☞ kyndnes towardes vs in Christ Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe thorowe faith, and that not of your selues. For it is the gyfte of God, and commeth not of workes, least any man shuld bost him selfe. For we are his workmanshyp created in Christ Iesu vnto good workes, vnto whiche God ordeyned vs before, that we C shulde walke in them.

Wherfore remember that ye beyng in tyme past Gentyles in the flesshe, and were called vncircumsion to them which are called circūcision in the flesh, which circumcision is made by handes: Remember I saye, that ye were at that tyme without Christ, and were reputed aliens frome the commen welth of Israel and were straungers frome the testamentes of promes, hauinge no hope, and beynge without God in this worlde. But nowe in Christ Iesu, ye which a whyle ago were farre of, are made nyghe by the bloude of Christ.

☞ For he is our peax, which hath made of both one, & hath broken downe the wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also put awaye thorow his flesshe, the cause of hatred, that is to saye, the lawe of commaundementes contayned in the lawe written, for to make of twayne, one new man in him selfe so making peax: and to reconcyle both vnto God in one body thorow his crosse, & slewe hatred therby: D & came and preached peax to you whiche were farre of, and to theym that were nyghe. For thorow him we both haue an open waye in, in one sprete vnto the father.

✠ Now therfore ye are no more straungers and foreners: but cytesens with the sainctes, and of the housholde of God: and are buylt vpon the ♃ foundacion of the Apostles and Prophetes, Iesus Christ beynge the heed corner stone, in whome euery buyldinge coupled togither groweth vnto an holy temple in the Lorde, in whome ye also are buylt togyther, and made an habytacyon for God, in the spirite. ⊢

♃ Foundaciō is the word of God.

He sheweth the cause of his empresonment, desyreth thē not faynte because of his trouble, and prayeth God to make them stedfaste in his sprete.

CAPI. III.

For this cause I Paule am in the bondes of Iesus Christ for your sakes which are hethen: A Yf ye haue herde of the ministration of the grace of God whiche is gyuen me vpon you. For by reuelacion shewed he this mysterye vnto me, as I wrote aboue in fewe wordes, wherby when ye rede, ye may knowe myne vnderstandinge in the mystery of Christ, whiche in tymes past was opened vnto ẏ sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto his holy Apostles and Prophetes by the sprete: that the Gentyles shulde be inheritours also, and of the same body, and partetakers of his promes that is in Christe, by the meanes of the Gospell, wherof I am made a minister, by the B gyfte of the grace of God gyuen me thorowe the workynge of his power.

Unto me the lest of al sayntes is this grace gyuen, that I shulde preache amonge the gentyles the vnsearchable ryches of Christe, and to make all men se, what the felowshyp of the mystery is, whiche frome the begynnynge of the worlde hath bene hyd in God, whiche made all thinges thorow Iesus Christ, to the intent, that now vnto the rulars and powers in heauen myght be knowen by the congregacyon, the manyfolde wysdome of God, accordynge to the euerlastynge purpose, whiche he purposed in Christ Iesu our Lorde, by whom we are bolde to drawe nyghe in the truste, whiche we haue by faith on him.

For this cause I bowe my knees vnto the father of our Lorde Iesu Christ, which is father ouer all that is called father in heauen & in earthe, that he wolde graunte you, accordynge to the ryches of his glory, that ye may be strengthed with myght by his sprete in the inner man that Christ may dwell in your hertes by faith, that ye beynge roted and grounded in loue, myghte be hable to comprehende with all sayntes, what is the bredth & lēgth deepth and heygth: and knowe the loue of Christe, whiche passeth knowledge: that ye D myght be fulfylled with all maner of fulnes of God.

Unto hym that is hable to do aboundantly aboue all that we aske or thinke accordinge to the power that worketh in vs, be prayse in the congregacion by Iesus Christe, thorowe one oute all generacions frome tyme to tyme. Amen. ☩

¶ He exhorteth them vnto mekenes longe suffring, vnto loue and peax, euery one to serue and edyfye another with the gyfte that God hath gyuen him, to beware of straunge doctryne, to laye asyde the olde conuersacion of gredy lustes, and to walke in a new lyfe.

CAPI. IIII

A I ☩ Therfore whiche am in bondes for the Lordes sake, exhorte you, that ye walke worthye of the callynge wherwith ye are called, in all humblenes of mynde, and me-kenes, and longe sufferinge, forbearynge one an other thorowe charitie, and that ye be diligent to kepe the vnitie of the sprete in the bõd
of peax, beynge one body, and one sprete, euen
as ye are called in one hope of youre callynge.
⸿ One Lorde, one faith, one baptysme: One God and father of all, which is aboue al tho-row all, and in you all. ☩ ☩ Unto euery one of vs is gyuen grace ac-
B cordinge to the measure of the gyfte of Christ.
Wherfore he sayth: He is gone vp on hyghe
and hath ledde captiuitie captiue, and hathe gyuen gyftes vnto men. That he ascended:
what meaneth it, but that he also descended first into the lowest partyes of the earth? He that descended, is the same also that ascended vp, aboue all heauens, to fulfyll all thinges.
C And the very same made some Apostles,
some Prophetes, some Euangelistes, some Shepeherdes, and some Teachers: that the saynctes myght haue all thinges necessarye to worke and minister with, to the edifyenge of the body of Christ, tyll we euery one (in the vnitie of faithe, and knowledge of the sonne of God) growe vp vnto a perfect man, after the measure of age of the fulnes of Christ. ☩
That we hence forthe be no more chyldren, wauerynge and caryed with euery wynde of doctrine, by the wylynes of men and craftynes, wherby they lay awayt for vs to deceyue
vs. But folowynge the truthe in loue let vs in al thinges growe in him which is the heed
D that is to saye Christ, in whome all the body is coupled and knyt togither in euery ioynte wherwith one ministreth to an other (accordinge to the operacion as euery parte hathe his measure) and increaseth the body, vnto yͤ
edifyenge of it selfe in loue.
☩ This I saye therfore, and testifye in the Lorde, that ye henceforth walke not as other Gentyles walke, in vanitie of their mynde, blynded in their vnderstandinge, beynge straũgers frome the lyfe which is in God thorowe ⸿ the ignorance that is in them, because of the blyndnes of their hertes, whiche beynge past repentaunce, haue gyuen theym selues vnto
C wantonnes, to worke all maner of vnclennes with gredynes. But ye haue not so learned Christ, yf so be ye haue herde of him, and are taught in him, euen as the truthe is in Jesu.
☞ So then as concernynge the conuersacion in tyme past, laye from you that olde man, whiche is corrupte thorow the deceyuable lustes, ☩ ☩ and be ye renued in the sprete of youre
myndes, and put on that newe man, whiche after the ymage of God is shapen in ryght-wysnes and true holynes.
Wherfore put away lyenge, and speake e-uery man trouth vnto his neyghboure, for as moche as we are members one of an other.
✠ Be angrye but synne not: let not the sonne go downe vpon youre wrathe, neyther gyue place vnto the backbyter. Let him that stele, steale no more, but let hym rather laboure wͭ
his handes some good thinge, that he maye
haue to gyue vnto him that nedeth. ☩
Let no fylthy communicacion procede oute of your mouthes: but that which is good to edifye, when nede is: that it maye haue fa-uour with the hearers. And greue not the holy sprete of God, by whome ye are sealed vnto the daye of redemption. Let all bitternes, fearsnesse and wrathe, rorynge and cursed speakynge, be put awaye frome you, with all maliciousnes. Be ye courteouse one to an other and mercyfull, forgyuynge one an other euen as God for Christes sake forgaue you.

¶ He exhorteth vnto loue, warneth to beware of vnclennes, couetyse, folysh talkynge, and false doctryne: to be circumspecte, to auoyde dronkennesse, to submyt them selues one to another. He teacheth how wemen shulde obeye their husbandes, and how men ought to intreate theyr wyues.

CAPI. V.

A B ☩ E ye folowers of God as dere childrẽ and walke in loue euen as Christe loued vs, and gaue him self for vs, an offering and a sacrifice of a swete sauer to God. So yͭ fornication and all vnclennes or couetousnes be not ones named amonge you as it becommeth sayntes: neyther fylthynes, neyther folysshe talkynge, neyther gestynge whiche are not comly: but rather gyuynge of thankes.
B For this ye knowe that no whoremonger, ey-ther vnclene personne, or couetous personne,
which is an ydolatour, hath any inheritaunce
in the kyngdome of Christ and of God.
Let no man deceyue you with vayne wor-des. For thorowe suche thinges commeth the wrath of God vpon the children of vnbelefe.
Be not therfore companyons with them. Ye were ones derckenes, but are now lyght in yͤ Lorde.
C Walke as children of lyght. For the frute of the sprete is in all goodnes, ryghtwysnesse,
and trouth. ☩
Accepte that which is pleasynge to yͤ Lorde
and haue no felowshyp with the vnfrutefull
workes of derckenes: but rather rebuke thẽ.
For it is shame euen to name those thynges whiche are done of theym in secrete: but all thinges, when they are rebuked of the light, are manifeste. For what so euer is manifeste, that same is light. Wherfore he sayth: awake thou that slepest, and stonde vp frome death,
and Christ shall gyue the lyght.
☩ Take hede therfore that ye walke circũspectly: not as foles: but as wyse personnes, purchasynge opportunitie to the same: for yͤ
dayes
☞ dayes are euyll. Wherfore, be ye not vnwyse but vnderstande what the will of the Lorde is, and be not dronken with wyne wherin is excesse: but be fulfilled with the sprete, speakyng vnto youre selues in Psalmes and hym-nes, and spirituall songes, syngynge and ma-kinge melody to the Lorde in your hertes, gi-uinge thankes alwayes for all thinges vnto God the father, in the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ: submittinge your selues one to an other in the feare of God. ☩
Wemen be ye subiect vnto your owne hus☞ bandes, as vnto the Lorde. For the husbande is the wyues heed euen as Christ is the heed of the congregacion, and the same is the sa-ueoure of the body. Therfore as the congregacion is in subiection to Christ, lykewyse let the wyues be in subiection to their husbandes
in all thinges. Husbandes loue your wyues, euen as Christe loued the congregacion, and F gaue him selfe for it, to sanctifye it, and clen-sed it in the fountayne of water thorowe the worde, to make it vnto him self, a glorious cõ-gregacion withoute spot or wrynckle, or any suche thinge: but that it shoulde be holy and without blame. So ought men to loue their wyues, as their owne bodyes. He that lo-ueth his wyfe, loueth him selfe. For no man euer yet hated his owne fleshe: but norissheth and cherissheth it, euen as the Lorde doth the congregacion. For we are members of his bo-G dy, of his fleshe, and of his bones. ✠ For this cause shall man leaue father and mother, and shall sticke to his wyfe, and two shalbe made one fleshe. This is a great secret, but I speke betwene Christ and the congregaciõ. Neuer-theles do ye so that euery one of you loue his wyfe truely euen as him selfe. And let the wyfe se that she feare her husbande.

CAPI. VI.

A C Hildren, obeye youre fathers and mothers in the Lorde: for so is it ryght.
Honoure thy father and mother, (whiche is the first commaundement that hath any promes) that thou mayst be in good estate, & lyue longe on the earth. And ye fathers moue not your children to wrathe: but brynge thẽ vp with the norture and information of the Lorde. Seruauntes be obediẽt vnto your car-nall masters, with feare and tremblynge in singlenes of youre herte, as vnto Christ: not with seruice in the eye sight, as men pleasers:
but as the seruantes of Christ, doynge the wil
of God frome the herte with good will, ser-uinge the Lorde, and not men. And remember that what so euer good thinge any man doth,
that shall he receyue agayne of the Lorde,
B whether he be bonde or free. And ye masters,
do euen the same thinges vnto them, puttinge
awaye threateninges: and remember that euen your master also is in heauen, neyther is there any respect of person with him.
☩ Finally my brethren, be stronge in the Lorde and in the power of his myght. Put on the armoure of God, that ye may stande sted-fast against the crafty assaultes of the deuyll.
For we wrestle not against fleshe and bloude
but against rule, againste power, and against worldly rulers of the derckenes of this world againste spirituall wyckednes, for heauenly thinges.
For this cause take vnto you the armoure C of God, that ye maye be hable to resiste in the
euyll daye, and stande perfect in all thynges.
Stande therfore, your loynes gyrd aboute with veritie, hauing on the brestplate of rightwysnes, and shood with showes prepared vnto the Gospell of peax. Aboue al, take to you the shylde of faith, wherwith ye maye quẽche all the fyrie dartes of the wycked. And take the helmet of saluacion, and the swerde of the sprete, whiche is the worde of God. ☩ And praye alwayes with all maner prayer and supplication: and that in the spirite: and watche therevnto with all instaunce and supplication
for all sayncites and for me, that vtteraunce maye be gyuen vnto me, that I maye opẽ my mouthe boldely, to vtter the mysteries of the Gospell, wherof I am messenger in bondes, that therin I maye speake frely, as it becommeth me to speake.
But that ye may also knowe in what state D
I am and what I do, Tichicus my deare brother and faithfull minister in the Lorde, shall shewe you of all thinges, whome I sent vnto you for the same purpose, that ye myghte knowe in what case I stande, & that ye might comfort your hertes.
Peax with the brethren and loue with faith
frome God the father, and frome the Lorde Jesu Christe. Grace be with all theym whiche loue our Lorde Jesus Christ in purenesse.
AMEN.

¶ He exhorteth thē to increase in loue, in knowlege, and experience, of Godly thynges: maketh mencion of his prysonment at Rome, is glad to heare Chryst preached, is content eyther to dye or lyue, and prayeth them to lede a Godly conuersacion, to be of one mynde, and to feare no persecution.

CAPI. I.

A PAul and Timothe seruauntes of Iesu Christ: To all the sayntes in Christe Iesu, which are at Philippos with the Bysshoppes and Deacons.

B Grace be with you and peax frome God our father and frome the Lorde Iesu Christ.

C ✠ I thanke my God with all remembraūce of you, alwayes in all my prayers for you, & prayē with gladnes, because of the felawshyp which ye haue in the Gospell frome the fyrste daye vnto now: & am surely certified of this, that he which begā a good worke in you, shal go forth with it vntyl the daye of Iesu Christ as it becommeth me so to iudge of you al, because I haue you in my herte, and haue you also euery one companions of grace with me, euen in my bondes, as I defende and stablysh the Gospell.

D For God beareth me recorde howe greatly I longe after you all, frome the very hert rote in Iesu Christe. And this I praye, that youre loue maye increace more and more in knowledge, and in all fealynge, that ye might accepte thinges most excellent, that ye might be pure and suche as shulde hurte no mans conscience, vntyll the daye of Christ, fylled with the frutes of rightwysnes, which frutes come by Iesus Christe vnto the glory and laude of God. ✠

E I wolde ye vnderstode brethren that my busynes is happened vnto the great furtheringe of the Gospell. So that my bandes in Christ are manifest thorow out all the iugement hal and in all other places: In so moch that many of the brethren in the Lorde are boldened thorowe my bandes and dare more largely speake the worde without feare. Some there are which preache Christ of enuie and stryfe, and some of good will. The one parte preacheth Christe of stryfe, and not purely, supposynge to adde more aduersitie to my bandes. The other parte of loue, because they se that I am set to defende the Gospell.

F What then? So that Christe be preached, all maner wayes, whether it be by occasion, or of true meanynge, I therin ioye: yea and will ioye. For I knowe that this shall chaūce to my saluation, thorow your prayer and ministringe of the spryte of Iesu Christ as I hertely loke for, & hope that in nothinge I shall be ashamed: but that with all confidence, as alwayes in tymes passe, euen so now Christe shall be magnified in my body, whether it be thorow lyfe, or els death. For Christ is to me lyfe, and death is to me auauntage. G

H If it chaunce me to lyue in the flesshe, that is to me frutefull for to worke, and what to chose I wote not, ✠ I am constrayned of two thinges: I desyre to be lowsed and to be with Christ, whiche thinge is best of all. Neuertheles to abyde in the flesshe, is more nedefull for you. And this am I sure of, that I shal abyde, and with you all, continue, for your furtheraunce and ioye of your faith, that ye may more aboundantly reioyce in Iesu Christ thorow me, by my comminge to you agayne. i. Reg. xxiiii. & i. Paral. xxi. & Daniel. xviii.

I Onely let your conuersacion be, as it becōmeth the Gospell of Christe: that whether I come and se you, or be absent, I maye heare of you, that ye continue in one spryte, and in one soule, labouryng as we to, to mayntayne the faith of the Gospell and in nothinge featinge your aduersaries: which is to them a token of perdicion, and to you of saluacion and that of God. For vnto you it is gyuen that not only ye shuld beleue on Christ: but also ✠ suffre for his sake, and haue euen the same fight which ye sawe me haue and now heare of me. ✠ Tribulacion is a token of saluacion to the true beleuers.

¶ He exhorteth them to vnite and brotherly loue, and to beware of stryfe and vayne glorye: And for a sure exemple he layeth Christe before them.

CAPI. II.

K IF there be amonge you any consolacion in Christ, yf there be any comfortable loue, yf there be any felowshyppe of the spryte, yf there be any compassion of mercy: fulfill my ioye, that ye drawe one waye, hauinge one loue, beynge of one accorde, and of one mynd that nothinge be done thorow stryfe or vayne glory, but that in mekenes of mynde euery man esteme other, better then him selfe, and loke not euery man on his owne thinges, but euery man on the thinges of other men.

L ✠ Let the same mynde be in you that was in Christ Iesu: whiche beinge in the shape of God, thought it not robbery to be equall wt God: but he made him selfe of no reputacō, and toke on him the shape of a seruaunt, and became lyke vnto men, and was found in his apparell as a man. He humbled him selfe, & became obedient vnto the deth, euen the deth of the crosse. ✠ Wherfore God hathe exalted him, and gyuen him a name aboue al names: Hebr. xii. b

M ✠ that in the name of Iesus shuld euery knee bowe, both of thinges in heauen and thinges in earth, and thinges vnder the earthe, & that all tongues shulde confesse that Iesus Christ is the Lorde vnto ✠ prayse of God ✠ father. ✠ Roma. xiiii. c. Esaye. xlv. b.

N Wherfore my dearly beloued, as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not when I was present only, but now moche more in myne absence, euen so worke out youre owne saluacion with feare and tremblynge. For it is God whiche worketh in you, both the wil and also ✠ dede euen of good will.

O Do all thinge without murmuringe & disputinge, that ye maye be fautelesse and pure, and the sonnes of God, without rebuke in the myddes of a croked and peruerse nacyon: amonge which, se ye shyne as lyghtes in the worlde, holdinge faste the worde of lyfe, vnto my reioysinge in the daye of Christe, that I haue not runne in vayne, neyther haue labored in vayne. Yea thoughe I be offred vp vpō the offeringe and sacrifice of your faith: I reioyce, and reioyce with you all. For the same cause also reioyce ye, and reioyce ye with me.

P I trust in the Lord Iesu to sende Timothe shortly vnto you, that I also maye be of good comforte, when I know in what case ye stād. For I haue no man that is so lyke mynded to me, whiche with so pure affection careth for your matters. For all other seke their owne, & not that which is Iesus Christes. Ye know the proffe of him, howe that as a sonne with the father, so with me bestowed he his labour vpon the Gospel. Him I hope to sende assone as I knowe how it will go with me. I truste in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shall come shortly.

Q I supposed it necessary to sende vnto you brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in laboure, and felowe souldier, your Apostel and my mynister at my nedes. For he longed after you, and was full of heuynes, because ye had herde saye ✠ he shulde be sycke. And no doubte he was sicke, and that nyghe vnto death. But God had mercy on him: not on him only, but on me also, leest I shulde haue sorowe vpon sorowe. I sent him therfore the dyligentlier, that when ye shulde se him, ye might reioyce agayne, and I might be the lesse sorowfull. Receyue him therfore in the Lorde with all gladnes, and make moche of suche: because ✠ for the worke of Christ he went so farre, that he was nyghe vnto deathe, and regarded not his lyfe, to fulfyll that seruice whiche was lackynge on your part towarde me.

¶ He warneth them to beware of false teachers, whom he calleth dogges and enemyes of Christ, and reproueth mans owne ryghtousnes.

CAPI. III.

R FInally, my brethren reioyce in the Lord. It greeueth me not to wryte one thing often to you. For to you it is a sure thinge. Beware of dogges, beware of cupll workers. Beware of dissencion. For we are circumcisiō which worshyp God in the spryte, and reioyce in Christ Iesu, and haue no confidence in the flesshe: thoughe I haue wherof I myghte reioyce in the flesshe. If any other man thinketh that he hathe wherof he myghte trust in the flesshe: moche more I: circumcised the eyght daye, of the kynred of Israel, of the tribe of Ben Jamin, an Ebrue borne of the Ebrues: as concernynge the lawe, a Pharisaye, and as concernynge feruentnes, I persecuted the cōgregacion, and as touchinge the ryghtwysnes of the lawe, I was vnrebukable.

S But the thinges that were for my welles vnto me, I accounted hynderaunce for Christes sake. Yea I thinke all thinges but losse for ✠ excellent knowledges sake of Christe Iesu my Lorde. For whome I haue counted all thynge losse, and doo iudge them but donge, that I myght wynne Christ, and myght be founde in him, not hauinge myne owne ryghtwysnesse which is of the lawe: but that whiche spryngeth of the faith which is in Christ. I meane the ryghtwysnesse whiche commeth of God, thorow faith in knowinge him and the vertu of the resurrection, and the felowshyp of his passions, that I might be conformable vnto his deathe, yf by any meanes I myght attayne vnto the resurrection of the dead.

T Not as thoughe I had alredy attayned to it, eyther were alredy perfect: but I folowe, yf that I maye comprehende that, wherein I am comprehended of Christ Iesu. Brethren I counte not my selfe that I haue gotten it: but one thinge I saye: I ✠ forget that whiche is behynde and stretche my selfe vnto that which is before and preache vnto that marke appointed, to obtayne the rewarde of the hyghe callynge of God in Christ Iesu. Let vs therfore as many as be perfect, be in this wyse mynded and yf ye be otherwyse mynded, I praye God open euen this vnto you. Neuertheles in that wherevnto we are come, let vs procede by one rule, that we maye be of one accorde. ✠ I loke not on the worke or is that I haue done, but what I lacke of the perfectnes of Christ

V ✠ Brethren be followers of me, and loke on them which walke so, as ye haue vs for an exemple. For many walke (of whome I haue tolde you often, and now tell you wepinge) that they are the ennemyes of the crosse of Christ, whose ende is damnacion, whose God is their bely, & whose glory is to their shame, which are worldly mynded. ✠ But our conuersacion is in heauen, from whence we loke for a sauioure, euen the Lorde Iesus Christ, whiche shall chaunge our vyle bodyes, that they maye be fashioned lyke vnto his glorious body, accordinge to the worckynge, whereby he is hable to subdue all thynges vnto hym selfe. ✠ ✠ If we be like Christ in conuersacion: we shalbe like him in glorye.

¶ He saluteth certayne of them, exhorteth them to be of honest conuersacion, and thanketh them for the prouision they made for him beinge in prysion.

CAPI. IIII.

X THerfore (my brethren) dearly beloued and longed for, my ioye and crowne, so continue in the Lorde, ye beloued. I praye Euodias, and beseche Syntiches that they be of one accorde in the Lorde. Yea and I beseche the faithfull yokefelowe, helpe the wemen whiche labored with me in the Gospell, and with Clement also, and with other my labour felowes, whose names are in the boke of lyfe.

Y ✠ Reioyce in the Lorde alwaye, & agayne I saye reioyce. Let your softenes be knowen vnto al men. The Lorde is at hande. Be not carefull: but in all thinges shewe your petition vnto God in prayer and supplication wt gyuing of thankes. And the peax of God whiche passeth all vnderstandinge, kepe your hertes and myndes in Christ Iesu. ✠

Z Finally brethren, what so euer thinges are true, what so euer thinges are honeste, what so euer thinges are iuste, what so euer thynges

are

are pure, what so euer thinges pertayne to loue, what so euer thinges are of honest reaport: yf there be any vertuous thyng, yf there be any laudable thinge, those same haue ye in your mynde, which ye haue both learned and receyued, herde and also sene in me: those thinges do, and the God of peax shalbe with you.

E I reioyce in the Lorde greatly, that nowe at the last ye are revyued agayne to care for me, in that wherin ye were also carefull, but ye lacked opportunite. I speake not because of necessite. For I haue learned in what so euer estate I am, therwith to be content. I can both cast downe my selfe, I can also excede. Euery where and in al thinges I am instructed, both to be full and to be hongry, to haue plentye & to suffre nede. I can do all thinges thorowe ỹ helpe of Christ which strengtheneth me. Notwithstandinge ye haue well done, that ye bare part with me in my tribulation.

Ye of Philippos knowe that in the begynninge of the Gospell, when I departed from Macedonia, no congregacion bare parte with me, as concerninge gyuinge and receyuynge, D but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent ones and afterwarde agayne vnto my nedes: not that I desyre gyftes: but I desyre aboundant frute on your part. I receyued all, and haue plentie. CAPI. I

PAule, Apostle of Jesu Christ, by the wil of God, and brother Timothe. A

To the sayntes whiche are at Colossa, and brethre that beleue in Christ.

Grace be with you and peax from God our father and frome the Lorde Jesu Christ.

We gyue thākes to God the father of our Lorde Jesu Christ, alwayes prayeng for you sythes we herde of your faith whiche ye haue in Christ Jesu. and of the loue which ye beare to all sayntes for the hopes sake whiche is layde vp in store for you in heauen, of whiche ye haue herde before by the true worde of the Gospell, which is come vnto you, euen as it is into all the worlde, and is fruteful, as it is amonge you, frome the fiefte daye in whiche ye herde of it, and had experience in the grace of God in the truth, as ye learned of Epaphra our deare felowe seruaunt, whiche is for you a faithfull minister of Christ which also declared vnto vs your loue, whiche ye haue in the spyrite. B

✣ For this cause we also, sythens the daye we herde of it, haue not ceased prayenge for you, and desyringe that ye might be fulfilled with the knowledge of his will, in all wysedome and spirituall vnderstandinge, that ye myght walke worthy of the Lorde in all thinges that please, beynge frutefull in all good workes, and encreasynge in the knowlege of God, strengthed with all might, thorow his glorious power, vnto all patience and longe sufferinge with ioyfulnes & gyuinge thankes vnto the father whiche hath made vs mete to be partakers of the inheritaunce of sayntes in lyght.

Which hath delyuered vs frome the power of drekenes, and hath translated vs into the kyngdome of his deare sonne, in whome we haue redemption thorow his bloude, that is to saye, the forgyuenes of synnes which is ỹ ymage of the invisible God, first begotten of all creatures. For by him were all thinges created, thinges that are in heauen, and thinges that are in earth: thinges visible & thinges invisible, whether they be maieste or lordshyp, eyther rule or power. Al thinges are created by him, & in him, and he is before al thinges. and in him all thinges haue their beyng.

And he is the hed of the bodye, that is to wit of the congregacion: he is the begynning and ỹ firste begotten of the deed, that in all thinges he might haue the preeminence. For it pleased the father that in him shuld al fulnes nesse dwel, and by hym to reconcile al thinge vnto him selfe, and to set at peax by him thorow the bloude of his crosse, bothe thinges in heauen and thinges in earthe.

And you (whiche were in tymes past straūgers and enemyes, because your myndes were set in euyll workes) hath he now reconcyled in the body of his flesh thorow deth, to make you holy, vnblameable and without faute in his owne sighte, yf ye continue grounded and stablyshed in the faith, and be not moued awaye frome the hope of the Gospell, whereof ye haue herde, how it is preached amonge all creatures whiche are vnder heauen, whereof I Paule am made a minister.

D Nowe lope I in my ỹ sufferinges whiche I suffre for you, and fulfyll that whiche is behynde of the passions of Christe in my flesche for his bodyes sake, whiche is the congregacion, wherof I am made a minister accordinge to the ordinaunce of God, which was gyuen me towardes you, to fulfill ỹ worde of God, the mysterye hyd sence the worlde began, and sence the begynnynge of generacios: but now is opened to his sayntes, to whō God wolde make knowen the glorious ryches of this mistery amonge the Gentyles, whiche is Christ in you, the hope of glory, whome we preache, warnynge all men, and teachinge all men in all wysdome, to make al men perfect in Christ Jesu. Wherin I also laboure and stryue, euē as farforth as his workinge worketh in me myghtely.

¶ What greate care Paule tooke for all congregacions. He exhorteth them to be stedfaste in Christ, to beware of false teachers and worldly wisdome and descryeth the false Prophetes.

CAPI. II.

A I Wolde ye knewe what fightynge I haue for your sakes, and for them of Laodicia, & for as many as haue not sene my person in the flesche, that their hertes myght be confort ted and knyt together in loue, and in all ryches of full vnderstandinge, for to knowe the mystery of God the father and of Christe, in whome are hyd all the treasures of wysdome and knowledge. This I saye, least any man shulde begyle you with entysynge words.

m.b.b. * For thoughe I be absent in the flesche, yet am I present with you in the spirite, ioyenge and beholdinge the order that ye kepe, & your stedfast faith in Christ. As ye haue therfore receyued Christ Jesu the Lorde, euen so walke, B rooted and buylt in him and stedfast in ỹ faith, as ye haue learned: and therin be plenteous in gyuinge thankes.

✣ Beware least any man come and spoyle you thorow philosophy and disceptfull vanitie, thorow the traditions of men, and ordynaunces after the worlde, and not after Christ. For ỹ in him dwelleth all the fulnes of the Godhed bodyly, and ye are complete in him whiche is the hed of all rule and power, in whome also ye are circumcysed with circumcision made without handes, by puttinge of ỹ synfull body of the flesshe thorow the circumcision of Christ, in that ye are buryed with him thorow baptysme, in whome ye are also rysen agayne thorow faith, ỹ is wrought by the operacion of God, whiche rayseth him frome deathe.

And ye whiche were ded in synne thorowe the vncircumcision of youre flesshe, hathe he quyckened with him and hath forgyuen vs all our trespaces F and hath put out the handewrytinge that was against vs, contayned in the lawe wrytten: and that hath he taken out of the waye, and hath fastened it to his crosse, and hath spoyled rule and power, and hathe made a shewe of them openly, and hath triumphed ouer them in his owne person.

Let no man therfore trouble your consciences about meate and drynke or for a pece of an holy daye, as the holy daye of the newe mone, or of the Sabboth dayes, whiche are nothinge but shadowes of thinges to come: but the bodye is in Christe. Let no man make you shote at a wronge marke which after his D owne ymagination walketh in the humblenes and holynes of aungels, thinges whiche he neuer sawe: causelesse puffe vp with his fleshely mynde, and holdeth not the heed, wherof all the body by ioyntes and couples, receyuinge norysshement, and knyt together, encreaseth with the encreasynge of God.

Wherfore yf ye be ded with Christ frome ordinaunces of the worlde, why as though ye yet lyued in the worlde, are ye led with traditions of them that saye? Touche not, taste not, handell not: which all perysshe with the vsynge of them, and are after the commaundmentes and doctrines of men: which thinges haue the similitude of wysdome in chosen holynes and humblenes, and in that they spare not the body, and to the flesshe no worshyppe vnto his nede.

not in shadowes: so ỹ when ye haue him ye ought not to folowe the shadowes of Moses lawe, inuentiones and Juglinges of mans wysdome. E

¶ She putteth them in remembraunce of the spirituall resurrection, to laye aside all maner of corrupte lyuinge, to be fruteful in all godlynesse and vertue, and sheweth all degrees their duty.

CAPI. III.

A Yf ỹ be then rysen agayn with Christ seke those thinges whiche are aboue, where Christ sitteth on the righthande of God. Set youre affection on thinges that are aboue, & not on thinges which are on the earthe. For ye are ded, and youre lyfe is hyd with Christ in God. When Christ whiche is our lyfe, shall shewe him selfe, then shall ye also appeare with hym in glory. F

Mortifye therfore youre membres whiche are on the earthe, fornication, vnclennes, vnnaturall lust, euyll concupiscence, and couetousnesse which is worshyppynge of ydoles: for which thinges the wrathe of God commeth on the chyldren of vnbeleue. In whiche ye walked ones, when ye lyued in them. These membres muste be slayne.

B But nowe put ye also awaye frome you all thinges: wrathe, fearsnesse, malicyousnesse, cursed speakynge, filthy speakyng out of youre mouthes. Lye not one to an other * after ỹ ye haue put of the olde man with his workes

The fyrste Epistle of Saynt Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The thanketh God for them, that they are so stedfast in faith and good workes, and receyue the Gospell with suche earnestnes.

CAPI. I.

A

PAule Syluanus and Timothe. Vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonians, in God the father, and in the Lorde Iesus Christ.
Grace with you, and peace frome God our father and frome the Lorde Iesu Christ.
We gyue God thankes alwaye, for you all, makynge mencion of you in oure prayers without ceasynge, and call to remembraunce
B youre worke in the fayth, and labour in loue and perseueraunce in the hope of oure Lorde Iesu Christe, in the syghte of God oure father: because we knowe (brethren beloued of God) that ye are elect. For our Gospell came not vnto you in worde onely, but also in power, and also in the holy ghoste, and in moche certaynte, as ye know after what maner we behaued oure selues amonge you, for youre sakes.
C And ye became folowers of vs, and of the Lorde, and receyued the worde in moche affliction, with ioye of the holy ghoste: so that ye were an exemple to all that beleue in Macedonia and Achaia. For frome you sounded out the worde of the Lorde, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but youre fayth also whiche ye haue vnto God, spred abrode in all quarters, so greately that it needeth not vs to D speake any thinge at all. For they theym selues shewe of you, what maner of entringe in we had vnto you, and how ye turned to God frome mawes, to serue the lyuinge and true God, and to loke for his sonne frome heauen whome he raysed frome deathe: I meane Iesus whiche delyuereth vs frome the wrath to come.

The putteth them in minde, of the godly conuersacion, that he lyue amonge them, when he preached the Gospell vnto them, thanketh God that they receyue his worde so fruitfully, and excuseth his absence.

CAPI. II.

A FOr ye youre selues knowe (brethren) of our entraunce in vnto you, howe that it was not in vayne: but euen after that we
B had suffered before, and were shamfully entreated at Philippos. (as ye well knowe) then were we bolde in oure God to speake vnto you the Gospell of God, with moche stryuinge. Oure exhortation was not to bringe you to erroure, nor yet to vnclennes, neyther was it with gyle: but as we were allowed of God, that the Gospell shoulde be committed vnto vs: euen so we spake, not as though we entended to please men, but God, which tryeth our hertes.
B Neyther was oure conuersacion at anye tyme with flatteringe wordes, as ye well knowe, neyther in cloked couetousnesse, God is recorde: neyther sought we prayse of men, neyther of you, nor yet of any other, when we might haue bene chargeable, as the Apostles of Christe, but we were tender amonge you, euen as a norsse cherysheth her chyldren, so was oure affection towarde you: oure good wyll was to haue dealte vnto you, not the Gospelle of God onely: but also oure owne soules, because ye were deare vnto vs.
✣ Ye remember (brethren) oure labour, and trauayle. ✣ For we laboured daye and nyght, because we wolde not be greuous vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Gospell of God. Ye are witnesses, and so is God, how holyly, and iustly, and vnblameably, we behaued our selues, amonge you that beleue:

i.Thes.iii.a
as ye knowe how that we exhorted and comforted and besought euery one of you, as a father his children, that ye wolde walke worthy of God, whiche hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glory.
For this cause thanke we God with oute ceasynge, because that when ye receyued of vs the worde wherwith God was preached, ye receyued it not as the worde of man: but euē as it was in dede, the worde of God, whiche worketh in you that beleue. ✣
For ye brethren became folowers of the D congregacions of God, whiche in Iewry are in Christe Iesu: for ye haue suffered lyke thinges of youre kynsmen, as we our selues haue suffered of the Iewes. Whiche as they killed the Lorde Iesus and their owne prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs: and God they please not, and are contrarye to all men and forbyd vs to preache vnto the Gentyles, that they myght be saued, to fulfill their synnes alwaye. For the wrathe of God is come on them, euen to the extreme ende.
For as moche brethren as we are kept frō you, for a season, as concernynge the bodyly presence, but not in the herte, we enforced the more to se you personnally with great desyre. And therfore we wolde haue come vnto you, I Paule ones and agayne: but Satan withstode vs. For what is oure hope, or ioye, or crowne of reioysynge? Are not ye it in the presence of oure Lorde Iesus Christe at his commynge? Yes ye are oure glorye and ioye.

She sheweth how greatly he was reioysed, when Timothe tolde him of theyr fayth and loue.

CAPI. III.

Act.xvi. a Wherfore fythens we coulde no lenger forbeare, it pleased vs to remayne at Athens alone, and sent Timothe our brother and minister of God, and our labourer felowe in the Gospell of Christe, to stablysshe you and to comforte you ouer your faith, that no man shoulde be moued in these afflictions. For ye youre selues knowe that we are euen appoynted there vnto. For verely when I was with you, I tolde you before that we shoulde suffre tribulation, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. For this cause b when I coulde no lenger forbeare, I sent, that I myghte haue knowledge of youre faith, least happely the tempter hadde tempted you, and that our labour hadde bene bestowed in vayne.

But nowe lately when Timothy came frome you vnto vs, and declared to vs youre fayth and your loue, and howe ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyringe to se vs, as we desyre to se you: Therfore brethren we hadde consolacion in you, in all our aduersytie and necessitie, through your faith. For nowe are we alyue, yf ye stande stedfaste in the Lorde. For what thankes can we render to God agayne for you, ouer all the ioye c that we ioye for youre sakes before our God: whyle we, nyghte and daye praye exceadyngly that we myghte se youre personne, and myghte fulfyll that whyche is lackynge in your faith.

God him selfe our father, and our Lorde Jesus Christe guyde oure iourneye vnto you: d and the Lorde increace you, and make you flowe ouer in loue one towarde an other, and towarde all men, euen as we toward you, to make youre hertes stable and vnblameable in holynes before God our father, at the comynge of our Lorde Jesu Christ with all his sayntes.

The exhorteth them to stedfastnesse, to kepe them selues frome synne, and vnclenly conuersacion, to loue eth other: rebuketh idelnesse, and speaketh of the resurrection.

CAPI. IIII.

Romā.xii Ephe.v.a a Furthermore we beseche you (brethre) and exhorte you in the Lorde Jesu, that ye encreace more and more, euen as ye haue receyued of vs, how ye ought to walke and to please God. Ye remember what commaundementes we gaue you in oure Lorde Jesu Christe. For this is the wyll of God, euen that ye shulde be holy, and that ye shulde abstayne frome fornication, that euery one of you shoulde knowe howe to kepe his vessell in holynesse and honoure, and not in the lust of concupiscence, as doo the heythen / whyche knowe not God, that no manne go to farre / b and defraude his brother in bargaynynge: because the Lorde is a wreker of all suche thynges, as we tolde you before tyme and testifyed. CAPI. I.

PAule, Syluanus and Timothy. a

Vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonyās whiche are in God our father, and in the Lorde Jesus Christ.

Grace with you / and peax frome God oure father, and frome the Lorde Jesu Christ.

We are bounde to thanke God alwayes, for you brethren, as it is mete, because that youre fayth groweth exceadyngly, and euery one of you swymmeth in loue towarde an other betwene your selues, so that we our selues reioyce of you in the congregacions of god b ouer your pacience and faith in all youre persecucions and tribulatiōs that ye suffre, whiche is a token * of the rightwyse iudgemente of God, that ye are counted worthye of the kyngdome of God, for whiche ye also suffre. It is verely a ryghtwyse thinge with God to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you: and to you which are troubled, rest with vs when the Lorde Jesus shall shew him selfe frome heauen with his myghty Aungels, in flamynge fyre, rendrynge vengeaunce vnto them that knowe not God, and to them that obeye not vnto the Gospell of our Lorde Jesus Christ, which shalbe punyshed with euerlastinge damnation, frome the presence of the Lorde, and frome the glory of his power, whe he shall come to be glorified in his sayntes, & to be made meruelous in al them that beleue: because our testimony that we hadde to you, was beleued euen the same day that we preached it. * Wherfore we praye alwayes for you that oure God make you worthye of the callinge, and fulfill all delectacion of goodnes and the worke of faith, with power: that the name of our Lorde Jesu Christ may be glorifyed in you, and ye in hym, thorow the grace of our God, and of the Lorde Jesu Christ. * Tribulacion is a token of saluacion. c Col.i.a d

The sheweth them that the daye of the Lorde shall not come, tyll the departynge frome the fayth come fyrste: and therfore he exhorteth them not to be deceyued, but to stande stedfast in the thynges that he hath taughte them.

CAPI. II.

WE beseche you (brethren) by the commynge of our Lorde Jesu Christ, and in that we shall assemble vnto hym, that a ye be not sodeynly moued frome your mynde and be not troubled, nether by spyrite, nether by wordes, nor yet by letters, whiche

Yf any man obeye not oure sayenges, sende vs worde of him by a letter: and haue no company with him, that he may be ashamed, how be it count him not as an ennemy: but warne hym as a brother.

The very Lorde of peax, gyue you peax alwayes, by all meanes. The Lorde be with you all. The salutation of me Paul, with myne owne hande. This is the token in all Epistles So I wryte.

CAPI. I.

A Paul apostle of Jesu Christ, by the commaundement of God our sauiour & Lorde Jesus Christ whiche is our hope.

Unto Timothe his ryghte sonne in the faythe.

Grace, mercye, and peax, from God oure father, and Lorde Jesus Christ our Lorde.

As I besought the to abyde styll in Ephesus when I departed in to Macedony, euen so do, that thou cōmaunde some that they teache none otherwyse: neither gyue hede to fables and genealogyes which are endles, and brede doubtes rather then godly edifyinge, whiche is by faythe: for the ende of the commaundement is ɸloue that commeth of a pure herte, and of a good conscience, and of fayth vnfayned: frome whiche thynges some haue erred, and haue turned vnto vayne iangling, bicause they wolde be doctours in the scripture, and yet vnderstande not what they speke, neither wherof they affyrme.

C And I thanke Chryste Jesu oure Lorde, whiche hathe made me stronge: for he counted me true, and put me in offyce, when before I was a blasphemer, and a persecutour, and a tyraunt, but I obteyned mercye, bicause I dyd it ignorauntly thorowe vnbylefe. Neuerthelesse the grace of oure Lorde was more abundaunt with fayth and loue whiche is in Chryst Jesu. ⊢

✠ This is a true sayinge, and by all meanes worthye to be receyued, that Chryste Jesus came in to the worlde to saue synners, of whome I am chiefe. Notwithstandynge for this cause was mercye gyuen vnto me, that Jesus Chryste sholde fyrste shewe on me all longe pacyence, vnto the exemple of them whiche shall in tyme to come byleue on hym D vnto euerlastynge lyfe. So then vnto God kynge euerlastynge, immortall, inuysible, and wyse onely, be honoure and prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

This commaundement commyt I vnto the (sonne Timothe) accordynge to the prophesyes, whiche in tyme past were prophesied of the, that thou in them shouldest fyghte a good fyghte, hauynge faythe and good conscience whiche some haue put awaye from them, and as concernynge faythe, haue made shypwracke. Of whose nombre is Hymeneus, and Alexander, whiche I haue delyuered vnto Sathan, that they myghte be taughte not to blaspheme.

¶He exhorteth to pray for all men. He wyl not haue wemen to be ouer costly arayed nor to teache in the congregacion, but to be in silence, and obey their husbandes.

A I Exhorte therfore that aboue all thynges, prayers, supplicacions, intercessions, and gyuynge of thankes be hadde for all men: for kynges, and for all that are in auctoritie, that we maye lyue a quyet and a peasable lyfe, in all godlynes, and honestie. For that is good and accepted in the syght of God our B sauyour, whiche wyll haue all men saued, and to come vnto the knowlege of the trouthe. For there is one God, and one mediatour betwene God and man, which is the man Christ Jesus, whiche gaue hym selfe a raunsome for all men, that it sholde be testifyed at his tyme wherbvnto I am ordeyned a preacher and an Apostle: I tell the truthe in Chryste and lye not, beinge the teacher of the Gentyles in fayth and verite. ⊢

I wyll therfore that the men praye euerye where, lyftynge vp pure handes without C wrathe, or doubtinge. Lykewyse also the women, that they araye them selues in comlye apparell, with shamfastnes and discrete behauiour: not with broyded heere, either gold, or pearles, or costly araye: but with suche as becommeth women that professe the worshippynge of God thorowe good workes. *Let the woman learne in sylence with all subiection. I suffre not a woman to teache, neyther to haue auctoritie ouer the man: but for D to be in sylence. For Adam was fyrst formed, & then Eue. A This is a true sayinge: Yf a man couet the offyce of a Byshop, he desyreth a good worke: Wherfore a Byshoppe muste be fautlesse, the husbande of one wyfe, sober, sober, discrete, honestly appparayled, harberous, apte to teache, not dronken, no fyghter, not gyuen to fylthy lucre, but gentle, abhorrynge fyghtynge, abhorrynge couetousnesse, and one that ruleth his owne house ho-

B nestly, hauynge chyldren vnder obedience, with all honestie. For yf a man can not rule his owne house, howe shall he care for the congregacion of God. He may not be a yonge scoler, leest he swell and fall in to the iudgement of the euyll speaker. He muste also be reapported amonge them which are without forthe, leest he fall in to rebuke, and snare of the euyll speaker.

o A yong scoler, so calleth Paule him that was lately christened or newly conuerted to the fayth.

Lykewyse muste Deacons be honest, not
C double tonged, not gyuen vnto moche drynking, neyther to fylthy lucre, but hauynge the mistery of the fayth in pure conscience. And let them fyrst be proued, and then let them ministre, yf they be founde fautles.

Euen so muste theyr wyues be honest, not euyll speakers: but sober and faythfull in all thynges. Let the Deacons be the husbandes of one wyfe, and suche as rule theyr chyldren well, and theyr owne housholdes. For they D that ministre well, get them selues good degre and great libertie in the faythe, whiche is in Chryst Jesu.

These thynges wryte I vnto the, trustynge to come shortly vnto the: but yf I tarye longe that then thou mayst yet haue knowlege how thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in the house of God, whiche is the congregacion of the lyuynge God, the pyller and grounde of truthe. And doubtles greate is that misterye of godlynes: God was shewed in the fleshe, was iustifyed in the φ spirite, was sene of aungelles, was preached vnto the Gentyles, was byleued on in earthe, and receyued vp in glorye.

The yonger wydowes refuse. For when they haue begon to were wantone, to the dishonour of Christ, then wyll they mary, hauinge damnacion, bicause they haue broken their first faith. And also they lerne to go from house to house ydle: and not ydle onely, but also tryflyng, and besy bodyes, speakyng thinges which are not comly.

¶ The dutye of seruauntes towarde theyr masters. Agaynst suche as are not satisfied with the worde of God. Agaynst couetousnes. A good lesson for ryche men.

CAPI. VI.

A Let as many seruauntes as are vnder the yoke, count theyr masters, worthy of all honoure, that the name of God and his doctryne be not euyll spoken of. Se that they whiche haue byleuynge masters, despyse them not bycause they are brethren: but so moche the rather do seruyce, for as moche as they are byleuynge and beloued, and pertakers of the benefyte.

B These thynges teache and exhorte. Yf any man teache otherwyse, and is not contente with the holsome wordes of oure Lorde Jesu Chryste, and with the doctryne of godlynesse, he is pufte vp, and knoweth nothynge: but wasteth his braynes aboute questyons and stryfe of wordes, wherof sprynge enuye, stryfe, raylynges, euyll surmysynges, & vayne disputacions of men, with corrupte myndes, and destitute of the truthe, which thinke that lucre is godlynes. Frome suche seperate thy selfe. Godlynes is great ryches, yf a man be content with that he hath. ✱ For we brought nothynge in to the worlde, and it is a playne case, that we can carye nothynge out.

☞ When we haue fode and rayment, let vs therwith be content. They that wyl be ryche fall in to temptacion and snares, and in to many folyshe and noysome lustes, whiche do drowne men in perdicion and destruction. For couetousnes is the roote of all euyll, whiche whyle some lusted after, they erred frome the faythe, and tangled them selfe with many sorowes. But thou whiche art the man of god, flee suche thynges. Folowe ryghtousnes, godlynes, loue, pacience, and mekenes. Fyghte the good fyght of fayth. Laye hande on eternall lyfe, wherunto thou art called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses.

C Couetousnes

I gyue the charge in the syght of God, whiche quyckneth all thynges, and before Jesu Chryste, whiche vnder Poncius Pylate wytnessed a good wytnessynge, that thou kepe the commaundement, and be without spotte, and vnrebukeable, vntyll the appearynge of oure Lorde Jesus Chryst, ✱ which (when the tyme is come) he shall shewe that is blessed & myghtye onely, kynges of kynges, and lordes of lordes: whiche onely hath immortalitie, and dwelleth in the light that no man can atteyn, whome neuer man sawe, neither can se, vnto ✱ whome be honoure and rule euerlastynge. Charge them that are ryche in this worlde, that they be not excedinge wise, and that they truste not in the vncertayne ryches, but in the lyuynge God, whiche gyueth vs abundantly all thynges to enioye them, and that they do good, and be ryche in good workes, and redye to gyue and distribute, layinge vp in store for them selues a good foundacyon agaynste the tyme to come, that they maye haue eternall lyfe.

O Timothe, saue that which is gyuen the to kepe, and auoyde vngostly vanities of voyces, and opposicions of science falsly so called, whiche whyle some professed, they haue erred concernynge the faythe.

¶The Epystle of S. Paule vnto Philemon

¶He reioyseth to heare of the faythe and loue of Philemon, whome he desyreth to forgyue his seruaunte Onesimus, and louyngly to receyue him agayne.

A Paule the prysoner of Jesu Chryst, and brother Timotheus. Unto Philemon the beloued, and our helper, and to the beloued Appia, & to Archippus our felowe souldiour, & to the congregacion of thy house.

Grace be with you and peax, from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesu Christ.

I thanke my God, making mencion alwayes of the in my prayers, when I heare of thy loue and fayth whiche thou hast towarde the Lorde B Jesu, and towarde all sayntes: so that the felawshyp that thou hast in the fayth is frutful thorow knowlege of all good thinges which are in you by Jesu Christ. And we haue greate ioye and consolacion ouer thy loue: For by the (brother) the sayntes hertes are comforted.

Wherfore thoughe I be bolde in Chryste to enioyne the that whiche becommeth the, yet for loues sake I rather beseche the, though I be as I am euen Paule aged, and now in bondes for Jesu Chrystes sake. I beseche the for my sonne Onesimus whome I begat in my bondes, which in tyme past was to the vnprofitable, but now profitable bothe to the, and also to me, whome I haue sent home agayne. Thou therfore receyue hym, that is to saye myne owne bowels, whome I wolde fayne haue retayned with me, that in thy stede he myghte haue mynistred vnto me in the bondes of the gospell. Neuerthelesse, without thy mynde C wolde I do nothynge, that the good whiche spryngeth of the, sholde not be as it were of necessitie, but wyllyngly.

Haply he therfore departed for a seasō, that thou sholdest receyue him for euer, not now as a seruaunt, but aboue a seruaunt / I meane a brother beloued, specially to me: how moche more vnto the, bothe in the fleshe and also in the Lorde? Yf thou count me a felow, receyue him as my selfe. Yf he hath hurt the, or oweth D the oughte, that laye to my charge. I Paule haue wrytten with myne owne hande. I wyl recompence it. So that I do not saye to the, how thou owest vnto me euen thyn owne self. Euen so brother, let me enioye the ī the Lorde. Comforte my bowels in the Lorde. Trustyng in thyne obedience, I wrote vnto the, knowynge that thou wylt do more then I saye for. Moreouer prepare me lodgynge: For I trust thorow the helpe of youre prayers, I shall be gyuē vnto you. Here salute the, Epaphras my felow prysoner in Chryste Jesu, Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of our Lorde Jesu Chryste be with your spirytes. Amen.

CAPI. I.

A Here Peter (as other true Apostles do) fyrste setteth forth the treasure of mercy whiche God hath bounde hym selfe to gyue vs for Christes sake and then our dutye what we be bounde to do agayne yf we wylbe partakers of the mercye. B

Peter Apostle of Jesu Chryst, to them that dwell here and there as straungers thorowout Pontus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia, & Bethinia, elect by the fore knowlege of God the father thorow the sanctifyinge of the spirite, vnto obedience and sprynckling of the bloude of Jesu Chryste.

Grace be with you, and peace be increased.

Prayсed be God, father of our Lorde Jesu Christ, which thorow his abundant mercy begat vs agayn vnto a lyuely hope by the resurreccion of Jesu Christ from deth, to enioye an inheritaunce immortall and vndefyled, & that perysheth not, reserued in heuen for you, which are kept by the power of God, thorowe fayth vnto saluacion, which is prepared alredy to be shewed in the laste tyme, in whiche ye reioyce, though now for a season (yf nede requyre) ye are in heuynes, thorow manifolde temtacions that youre faythe ones tryed, beynge moche more precyous then golde that peryssheth, (though it be tryed with fyre) might be found vnto prayse, glorye and honour, at the appearyng of Jesu Chryst: whom ye haue not sene, and yet loue him in whom euen now though ye se him not, yet do you byleue: and reioyce with ioye vnspeakable and glorious: receyuyng the ende of your fayth, the saluacion of your soules,

Of whiche saluacion haue the Prophetes enquyred and serched, whiche prophesyed of the grace that sholde come vnto you, serching when or at what tyme the spiryte of Chryste whiche was in them sholde signifye, whiche spirite testifyed before the passions that sholde come vnto Chryst, and the glorye that sholde folowe after: vnto which Prophetes it was (C) declared, that not vnto them selues, but vnto vs, they sholde minister the thinges which are nowe shewed vnto you of them which by the holy ghost sent downe from heuen, haue preached vnto you the thynges which the aungels desyre to beholde.

Wherfore gyrde vp the loynes of your myndes, be sobre, and truste perfectly on the grace that is brought vnto you, by the declarynge of Jesu Chryst, as obedient chyldren, not facionynge your selues vnto your olde lustes of ignoraunce: but as he which called you is holy, euen so be ye holy in all conuersacion, bicause it is written: Be ye holy, for I am holy. (Leuit.xi.b Deute.x.d)

D And yf ye call on the father, whiche without respecte of person iudgeth accordynge to euery mannes workes, se ye passe the tyme of your soiournyng in feare. ✠ For as moche as ye knowe ye were not redemed with corruptible syluer and golde frome youre vayne conuersacion, which ye receyued by the tradicions of the fathers: but with the precious bloude of Christ, as of a lambe vndefyled, and without spot, whiche was ordeyned before the worlde was made: but was declared in the last tymes for your sakes, whiche by his meanes haue byleued on God that raysed him from deth, and glorifyed him, that your faythe and hope myght be in God.

(By our workes shall be iudged as the mu- sible fayth suche are workes by whiche the faith his se-)

And for as moche as ye haue purifyed your soules thorowe the spiryte, in obeyinge the trouthe, for to loue brotherly without faynynge, se ye loue one an other with a pure herte feruently: for ye are borne anewe, not of mortall seed, but of immortal, by the worde of God, whiche lyueth and lasteth for euer. *For all fleshe is as grasse, and all the glory of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse wydereth, and the floure falleth awaye, but the worde of the Lorde endureth euer. ✠ And this is the worde whiche by the gospell was preached amonge you. (*Esaye.xl. Eccl.xiiii.c Jacobi.i.d)

¶ He exhorteth to laye asyde all vyce, sheweth that Chryst is the foundacion wher vpon they buylt, and to obey worldly rulers. How seruauntes shulde behaue them selues towarde theyr maisters. He exhorteth to suffre after the exemple of Chryst.

¶ He exhorteth men to ceasse frome synne, to spende no more tyme in vyce, to be sober and apte to prayer to loue eche other, to be pacient in trouble, and to beware that no man suffre as an euyll doer, but as a Chrysten man and not to be ashamed.

CAPI. IIII.

A For as moche as Chryste hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme your selues lykewyse with the same mynde: for he which suffereth in the fleshe, ceaseth frome synne, That he henceforwarde sholde lyue as moche tyme as remayneth in the fleshe: not after lustes of men, but after the wyll of God.

For it is sufficient for vs that we haue spente
the tyme that is past of the lyfe, after the wil
of the Gentyles, walkynge in wantonnesse, lustes, dronkennesse, in eatynge, drynkynge,
and in abhominable ydolatrye.
B And it semeth to them a straunge thynge that ye runne not also with them vnto the same excesse of ryot, and therfore speake they euyll of you, whiche shall geue accomptes to hym that is redye to iudge quycke and deed.
*For vnto this purpose was the gospel preached vnto the deed, that they sholde be iudged
lyke other men in the flesshe, but sholde lyue before god in the spirite. The ende of all thin-ges is at hande.
✠ Be ye therfore discrete and sober, that ye maye be apte to prayers. But aboue all thyn-ges haue feruent charitie amonge you. For charitie couereth the multitude of synnes. Be ye harberous one to an other, and that without grudgynge. As euery man hathe receyued
the gyfte mynistre the same one to an other,
as good ministers of the manifolde grace of C God. Yf any man speake, let hym talke as ☞ thoughe he spake the wordes of God. Yf any man ministre, let hym doo it as of the habi-litie whiche God ministreth vnto hym: So that God in all thynges may be glorified tho-rowe Jesus Chryste, ⊦ to whome be prayse and dominion, for euer, and whyle the worlde standeth. Amen.
Derely beloued, be not troubled in this heate, whiche nowe is come amonge you to trye you, as though some straunge thynge had happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as moche as ye are partakers of Chrystes passyons, that when his glorye appeareth, ye maye be merye and gladde. Yf ye be rayled vpon for the name of Chryst happy are ye. For the spirite of glorye, and the spirite of God resteth vpon you.
On theyr parte he is euyll spoken of: but on your parte he is gloryfyed.
D Se that none of you suffre as a murtherer,
or as a thefe, or an euyll doer, or as a busy bo-dye in other mens maters. Yf any man suffre as a chrysten man, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorifye God in this behalfe. For the tyme is come that iudgement muste begyn at the house of God. Yf it fyrste begyn at vs, what shal the ende be of them whiche byleue Prouer. xi. b. not the gospell of God? And yf the ryghtous scarcely be saued: where shal the vngodly and the synner appeare? Wherfore let them that suffre accordynge to the wyll of God, commit theyr soules vnto him with well doynge, as vnto faythfull maker.

¶ A speciall exhortacion for all byshoppes or prestes to fede the flocke of Chryste. He exhorteth younge persone to submit thē selues to the elder, euery one to loue an other, to be sobre and to watche, that they may resiste the enemye.

CAPI. V.

A The preestes which are among you I ex-horte, whiche am also a preest & a wyt-nes of the affliccions of Chryst, and also a partaker of the glorye that shall be opened:
se that ye fede Christes flocke which is among you, takynge the ouersyghte of them not as thoughe ye were compelled therto, but wyllyngly: not for the desyre of fylthy lucre, but of a good mynde, not as though ye were lor-des ouer the ○ paryshes: but that ye be an exemple to the flocke. And whē the chefe shepeherde shall appeare, ye shall receyue an incorruptible crowne of glorye. Lykewyse ye yon-ger, submyt your selues vnto the elder. Submyt you selues euery man, one to an other, knytte youre selues togyther in lowlynes of mynde. For God resysteth the proude, and giueth grace to the humble. Submyt youre sel-ues therfore vnder the mighty hande of God, that he maye exalte you, when the tyme is come. Caste all youre care on hym: for he ca-reth for you.
Be sober and watche, for your aduersarye
the deuyll as a rorynge lyon walketh about sekynge whome he maye deuoure: whome resyste stedfast in the faythe, remembrynge that ye doo fulfyll but the same afflictions whiche are appoynted to youre brethren that are in the worlde. The God of grace whiche called you vnto his eternall glorye by Chryst Jesu, shall his owne selfe after ye haue suffered a lytell affliction make you perfecte: shall settle, strengthe, and stablysshe you. To hym be glorye and dominion for euer, and whyle D

¶ The seconde Epistle of Saynt Peter.

¶ He exhorteth thē to flee the corrupcion of worldly lust, and make theyr callynge sure with good workes, and frutes of fayth.

CAPI. I.

A Simon Peter seruaunte
and Apostle of Jesu Chryst, to them whiche haue obteyned lyke precious faith with vs in the ryghtousnes that commeth of our God and sa-uiour Jesu Christ.
Grace with you, and peax be multiplyed in the knowlege of God, & of Jesus our Lorde.
So as his godly power hathe gyuen vs all thynges that pertayne to lyfe and godlynes, thorow the knowlege of him that hath called vs by vertue and glory, by the meanes wherof are gyuen to vs excellent and moost great promyses, that by the helpe of them, ye sholde be partakers of the godly nature, in that ye flee
the corruption of worldly lust.
Yea, and herevnto gyue all diligence: in B your fayth ⌽ ministre vertue, in youre vertue knowlege, and in knowlege temperance, and in temperance pacience, and in pacience godly-nes, in godlynes brotherly kyndnes, in brotherly kyndnes loue. For yf these thynges be amonge you & are plenteous, they wyll make you, that ye neither shall be ydle, nor vnfrute☞ ful in the knowlege of our Lorde Jesu Christ.
But he that lacketh these thynges is blynde, and gropeth for the way with his hande, and hath forgotten that he was pourged from his olde synnes.
C Wherfore brethren, gyue the more diligēce to make your callynge and election sure. For yf ye do suche thynges, ye shal neuer erre. Yea by this meanes an enterynge in shall be ministred vnto you habundantly in to the euerlastynge kyngdome our Lorde and sauyour Jesu Chryste.
Wherfore I wyll not be negligent to put you alwayes in remembraunce of suche thyn-ges, thoughe ye knowe them your selues, and be also stablysshed in the present trouthe. Not withstandynge, I thynke it mete (as longe as I am in this ⌽ tabernacle) to stere you vp by puttynge you in remembraunce, for as moche as I am sure the tyme is at hande that I must put of my tabernacle, euen as our Lorde Jesu Chryste hathe shewed me. I wyll doo my deuour therfore, that on euery syde ye myghte haue wherwith to styre vp the remembraunce of these thynges after my departure. ✠ For we folowed not disceyuable fables, when we opened vnto you the power and commynge of oure Lorde Jesu Chryste, but with oure eyes we sawe his maiestie: euen then verely
D when he receyued of God the father honoure and glory, and when there came suche a voyce to hym frome the excellent glorye. * This is my dere beloued sonne, in whome I haue delyte. This voyce we herde when it came frome heauen, beynge with hym in the holy mounte.
We haue also a ryghte sure worde of prophecye, wherunto yf ye take hede, as vnto a lyght that shyneth in a darke place, ye do wel, vntyll the daye dawne, and the daye sterre aryse in your hertes. ⊦ So that ye fyrst knowe
this: that no prophecie in the scripture hathe any pryuate interpretacion. For the scryp- ☞ ture came neuer by the wyll of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moued by
the holy ghost.

iudgement is not farre of, and theyr damnacyon slepeth not.
For if god spared not the aungels that syn-

red them in to chaynes of darknes to be kepte
vnto iudgemēt, neither spared the old worlde,
but saued Noe the eight preacher of rightous-

Lorde knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temptaciō, & how to reserue the vniust vnto
the day of iudgemēt for to be punisshed: namely them that walke after the flesshe in the lust

a MY deare chyldren, these thynges wryte I vnto you, that ye synne not: yf anye man synne, yet we haue a spokesman with the father, Jesus Christ, which is right
b tous: and he is a mercyseate for our synnes: not for oure synnes onely: but also for the syn nes of all the worlde. And hereby we are sure that we knowe hym, yf we kepe his ỹ com

d Brethren, I wryte no newe commaunde
ment vnto you: but that olde commaunde
B ment whiche ye herde frome the begynnynge. The olde commaundement is the worde, whi che ye herde frome the begynnynge. Agayne, a newe commaundement I wryte vnto you, a thynge that is true in hym, and also in you: for the derckenesse is passe, and the true light nowe shyneth. He that sayth he is in the lyght, and yet hateth his brother, is in derck nesse euen tyll this tyme. He that loueth his brother, abydeth in the lyght & there is none occasyon of euyll in hym. He that hateth his brother, is in derckenesse, and walketh in derckenesse: and canne not tell whyther he goeth, because derckenesse hathe blynded his eyes.

Deare chyldren I wryte vnto you that c youre synnes are forgyuen you for his name. I wryte vnto you fathers, that ye knowe him that was frome the begynnynge. I wryte vn to you younge men, that ye haue ouercome the wycked. I wryte vnto you lytell chyl dren, that ye knowe the father. I wryte vnto you fathers, that ye knowe hym that was frome the begynnynge. I wryte vnto you younge men, that ye be stronge and the word of God abyde in you, and ye haue ouercome that wycked.

φ Se ye loue not the worlde, neyther the thynges in the worlde. Yf any man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in him. For all that is in the worlde, as the luste of the flesshe, the lust of the eyes, and the pryde of gooddes, is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde vanysheth awaye, and the lust therof: but he that fulfylleth the will of God, abydeth euer.

φ He that ueth ỹ worlde loueth not God.

Lytell chyldren it is the laste tyme, and as ye haue herde howe φ Antichryst shall come, e uen nowe are there many Antichristes come alredy. Wherby we knowe that it is the last tyme. They went out from vs, but they were not of vs. For yf they hadde bene of vs, they wolde no doubte, haue continued with vs. But that fortuned that it myght apeare they were not of vs.

Antychryste.

But ye haue an oyntemente of the holy ghoste, and ye knowe all thynges. ✣ I wrote not vnto you, as thoughe ye knewe not the trouthe: but as thoughe ye knewe it, and knowe also that no lye commeth of trouthe. Who is a lyar, but he that denyeth that Je sus is Christ? the same is the Antichryst that denyeth the father and the sonne. Who so e d uer denyeth the sonne, the same hath not the father. Let therfore abyde in you that same whiche ye herde frome the begynnynge. Yf that whiche ye herde frome the begynninge, shall remayne in you, ye also shall continue in the sonne, and in the father. And this is ỹ promes that he hath promysed vs, euen euer lastinge lyfe.

Psal.xliiij.b.

This haue I wrytten vnto you, concerning them that disceyue you. And the anoyntinge whiche

which ye receyued of him, dwelleth in you. And ye nede not that anye man teache you: but as the annoyntynge teacheth you all thinges, and is true, and is no lye, and as it taughte you, euen so abyde therin. And now babes abyde in hym, that when he shall appeare, we maye be bolde, and not be made ashamed of hym at his commynge: Yf ye know that he is ryghteouse, knowe also that he whyche foloweth ryghtewysenesse, is borne of hym.

¶ The syngulere loue of God towarde vs: and how we agayne oughte to loue one an other.

CAPI. III.

A BEholde what loue the father hathe shewed on vs that we shoulde be called the sonnes of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Derely beloued, nowe are we the sonnes of God, and yet it doeth not appeare what we shall be. But we knowe that when it shall appeare, we shall be lyke him. For we shall se hym as he is. And euerye manne that hathe this hope in hym, puryfyeth hym selfe, euen as he is pure. Who so euer commytteth synne, committeth vnryghteousnesse

B also, for synne is ¶ vnryghteousnesse. And ye knowe he appeared to take awaye oure synnes, and in hym is no synne. As many as abyde in hym, synne not: who so euer synneth, hathe not sene hym, neyther hath knowen hym.

¶ He that worketh rightousnes, is born of god & taught of his spirite.

Babes, let no man deceyue you. He that doeth ryghteousnesse, is ryghteous, euen as he is ryghteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuyll: for the deuyll synneth frome the begynnynge. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to lowse the workes of the deuyll. ☞ Who so euer is borne of God, synneth not: for his seed remayneth in hym, and he can not synne, because he is borne of God. In this are the chyldren of God knowen, and the chyldren of the deuyll.

Who so euer doeth not ryght wysnesse, is not of God, neyther he that loueth not his brother.

C ¶ For this is the tydynges, that ye herde frome the begynnynge, that ye shoulde loue one an other: not as * Cayn whyche was of the wycked / and slewe his brother. And wherfore slewe he hym? Because his owne workes were euyll, and his brothers good. ✠ Merueyle not my brethren, thoughe the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated frome death vnto lyfe, because we loue the brethren. He that loueth not his brother, abydeth in death. ¶ Who so euer hateth his brother, is a murtherer. And ye knowe that no murtherer, hathe eternall lyfe abydynge in hym.

¶ Loue is the fyrst precepte and cause of all other

* Gene.iiii.b

¶ An hater of his brother is a murtherer.

¶ Hereby perceyue we the charitie of God: that he gaue his lyfe for vs: and therfore oughte we also to gyue our lyues for the brethren. Who so euer hath this worldes good, and seeth his brother haue nede: and shutteth vp his compassion frome hym: howe dwelleth the loue of God in hym? My babes, let vs not loue in worde, ne in tongue: but with the dede, and in veritie: ✝ for therby we knowe that we are of the veritie, and before hym shall appease oure hertes. But yf oure hertes condempne vs, God is greatter then oure hertes, and knoweth all thynges. D ☞ Beloued, yf oure hertes condempne vs not, then haue we truste vpon God: and what so euer we aske, we shall receyue of hym: because we kepe his commaundementes, and do those thynges / whiche are pleasynge in his syghte.

He that hath no compassiō, loueth not God.

And this is his commaundemente, that we beleue on the name of his sonne Jesu Christe, and loue one an other, as he gaue commaundemente. And he that kepeth his commaundementes, dwelleth in hym, and he in hym: and thereby we knowe that there abydethe in vs, of the spyryte, whyche he gaue vs.

¶ Difference of spyrytes, and howe the spyryte of God maye be knowen frome the spyrite of errour. Of the loue of God, and of our neyghboures.

CAP. IIII.

YE beloued, beleue not euery spyrite, but proue the spyrites, whether they are of God, or no: for many false Prophetes are gone out into the worlde. A ☞ Hereby shall ye knowe the spirite of God. Euery spirite that confesseth that Jesus Christe is come in the fleshe, is of God. And euerye spirite whiche confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in ye fleshe, is not of God. And this is that spyryte of Antichrist, of whome ye haue herde, howe he shoulde come: and euen nowe alredy is he in the worlde.

Lytell children, ye are of God and haue ouercome theym: for greatter is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde, and therfore speake they of the worlde, and the worlde heareth them. B We are of God. He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe we the spirite of veritie, and the spirite of errour.

Beloued, let vs loue one an other: for loue commeth of God. And euery one that loueth, is borne of God, and knoweth God. He that loueth not, knoweth not God, ✠ for God is loue. In this appeared the loue of God towardes vs, because that God sent his onely begotten sonne into the worlde, that we myght lyue thorowe hym. Herein is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his sonne / to be a sacrifyce for oure synnes.

C Beloued, yf God so loued vs, we oughte also to loue one an other. No man hathe sene God at anye tyme. Yf we loue one an other, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfecte in vs. Hereby knowe we: that we dwell in hym, hym, and he in vs: because he hathe gyuen vs of his spyrite. And we haue sene and do testyfye that the father sente the sonne, whiche is the sauioure of the worlde. Who so euer confesseth that Jesus is the sonne of God, in him dwelleth God, and he in God. And we haue knowen and beleued the loue that God hath to vs.

D God is loue / and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in hym. ¶ Herein is the loue perfecte in vs, that we shoulde haue truste in the daye of iudgement: For as he is, euen so are we in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfecte loue casteth oute all feare, for feare hathe vexacion. He that feareth, is not perfecte in loue.

We loue hym, for he loued vs fyrste. Yf a man saye, I loue God, and yet ¶ hate his brother, he is a lyar. For howe can he that loueth not his brother, whome he hath sene, loue God whome he hathe not sene? And this commaundemente haue we of hym: that he whyche loueth God, shoulde loue his brother also. ✝

CAP. V.

A WHo soeuer beleueth that Jesus is Christ is borne of God. And euerye one that loueth hym whyche begat, loueth hym also whiche was begotten of hym. In this we knowe that we loue the children of God, when we loue God and kepe his commaundementes. This is the loue of God that we kepe his commaundementes, and his commaundementes are not greuous.

✠ For all that is borne of God, ouercommeth the worlde. And this is the victory that ouercommeth the worlde, euen ¶ oure faith. Who is he that ouercommeth the worlde: but he whiche beleueth that Jesus is the son

This Jesus Christ is he that came by water and bloude. not by water onely: but by water and bloude. And it is the spyryte that beareth wytnesse, because the spryte is the very truthe. (For there are thre which beare recorde in heauen, the father, the worde, and the holy ghost. And these thre are one). For there are three whiche beare recorde (in earth) the spryte, and water, and bloude: and these thre are one. Yf we receyue the wytnesse of men, the wytnesse of God is greatter. For this is the wytnesse of God, which he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on the sonne of God, hath the wytnes in him selfe. ✝

C He that beleueth not God, hath made him a lyar, because he beleued not the recorde that God gaue of his sonne. And this is that recorde, that God hath gyuen vs eternall lyfe, and this lyfe is in his sonne. He that hathe the sonne, hath lyfe: and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not lyfe.

These thynges haue I wrytten vnto you, that beleue on the name of the sonne of God that ye maye knowe ye haue eternall lyfe, & that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And this is the trust we haue in him: that yf we aske any thynge accordinge to his wyll, he heareth vs. And yf we knowe that he heare vs what so euer we aske, we knowe we shall haue the petitions that we desyre of hym.

Yf any man se his brother synne a synne that is not vnto deathe, he shall aske, and he shall gyue hym lyfe for suche as synne not vnto deathe. There is a synne vnto deathe, for whiche saye I not that a man shoulde praye. D ☞ All vnright wysnesse is synne, & there is synne not vnto deathe.

Synne vnto death.

We knowe that who so euer is borne of God, synneth not: but he that is begotten of God kepeth him selfe, and that wycked toucheth him not. We know that we are of God and that the worlde is all togither set on wickednes. We knowe that the sonne of God is come, and hathe gyuen vs a mynde to knowe him whiche is true: and we are in hym that is true, throughe his sonne Jesu Christ. This same is very God, and euerlastinge lyfe.

¶ The seconde Epystle of Saynt John.

¶ She wryteth vnto a certayne lady, reioyseth that her chyldren walke in the truth, exhorteth them vnto loue, warneth them to beware of such deceyuers as denye that Jesus Chryste came in the flesshe, prayeth them to continue in the doctrine of Chryste, and to haue nothynge to do with them that bryngе not this learnynge.

THe elder to the elect lady and her chyldren whiche I loue in the trouthe: and not I onely, but also all they knowe the truthe, for the truthes sake whiche dwelleth in vs, and shalbe in vs for euer.

With you be grace, mercy and peax frome God the father and frome the Lorde Jesus Christ the sonne of the father, in trouthe and loue.

I reioysed greately, that I founde of thy children walkynge in trouthe, as we haue receyued a commaundement of the father. And now beseche I the, (lady,) not as thoughe I wrote a newe commaundement vnto the, but that same which we had from the begynnyng, that we shulde ✠ Loue one an other. And this is the loue, that we shoulde walke after his commaundrmentes.

✠ Loue is the hyghe cōmaūdement.

This commaundement is (that as ye haue herde frome the begynnynge) ye shulde walke in it. For many deceyuers are entred into the worlde, which confesse not, that Jesu Chryst, is come in the flesshe. This is a deceyuer and an Antichryst. Loke on youre selues, that we lose not that we haue wrought: but that we maye haue a full rewarde. Who so euer transgresseth, and abydeth not in the doctryne of Chryste, hathe not God. He that endureth in the doctrine of Chryst, hathe bothe the father and the sonne.

If there come any vnto you and bringe not this learnynge, him receyue not to house: neither byd hym God spede. For he that byddeth him God spede, is partaker of his euyll dedes I had many thinges to wryte vnto you, neuertheles I wolde not wryte with paper and ynke: but I truste to come vnto you, and speake with you mouth to mouth, that our ioye may be full. ¶ The thyrde Epystle of Saynt Johā.

¶ He is glade. of Gayus, that he walketh in the trueth: exhorteth them to be louyng vnto the poore Chrysten in theyr persecution, theweth the vnkynde dealynge of Diotrephes, and the good reaporte of Demetrius.

THe elder vnto the beloued Gayus, whome I loue in the trouthe. Beloued I wysshe in all thynges that thou prospere and fare well euen as thy soule prospereth. I reioysed greatly, when the brethren came, and testyfied of the truth that is in the, how thou walkest in trouth. I haue no greatter ioye then to heare that my sonnes walke in veritie.

Beloued, thou dest faithfully what so euer thou dest to the brethren, and to straungers, whiche bare wytnesse of thy loue before all the congregacion. Which brethren when thou bringest forwardes of their iourney (as it becometh God) thou shalt do well: because that for his names sake they went forth, and toke nothinge of the Gentyles. We therfore ought to receyue suche, that we also myghte be helpers to the truthe.

I wrote vnto the congregacion: but Diotrephes which loueth to haue the preemynence amonge them, receyueth vs not. Wherfore yf I come, I will declare his dedes which he weth, iesynge on vs with malicious wordes, neither is therewith content, not only he him selfe receyueth not the brethren: but also he forbyddeth theym that wolde, and thrusteth them out of the congregacyon.

Beloued, folowe not the euyll, but the good. He that weth well, is of God: but he that weth euyll seeth not God. Demetrius hath good reaporte of all men & of the truth: yea and we our selues also beare recorde, and ye knowe that our recorde is true. ¶ The Epystle vnto the Hebreues.

¶ How God dealte louyngly with them of the olde tyme in sendynge them his Prophetes, but moche more mercye hath shewed vs, in that he sent vs his owne sonne. Of the moste excellent glorye of Jesus Chryste, whiche in all thynges is lyke to his father.

CAP. I.

GOd in tyme paste dyuersly and many wayes, spake vnto the fathers by the Prophetes but in ✠ these last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his sonne, whome he hath made heyre of all thinges: by whom also he made the worlde, ✶ Whiche beynge the bryghtnes of his glory, and expresse ymage of his substance, bearynge vp all thinges with the worde of his power, hath to his owne person ✠ purged oure synnes, and is sytten on the ryght hand of the maiestye on hygh, & is more excellent then the angels, for as moche as he hath by inheritaunce obteyned a more excellent name then they.

For vnto whiche of the angels sayd he at any tyme: ✶ Thou arte my sonne, this daye begate I the? And agayne: ✶ I wyll be his father, and he shalbe my sonne: ‡ And agayn when he bryngeth in the fyrst begotten sonne in to the worlde, he sayth: ✶ And all the angels of God shall worshyppe hym. And of the angels he sayth: ✶ He maketh his angels spirites, and his mynysters flammes of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth: ✶ God, thy seate shall be for euer and euer. The scepter of thy kyngdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghtousenes and hated wyckednes. Wherfore God, whyche is thy God, hathe anoynted the with the ✠ Oyle of gladnes above thy felowes.

And thou Lorde in the begynnynge hast layde the foundacion of the erth. And the heuens are the workes of thy hādes. They shal perysshe, but thou shalte endure. They all shall were olde as doth a garmente: and as a vesture shalte thou chaunge them, and they shall be chaunged. But thou arte all wayes, and thy yeres shall not fayle. ‖ Unto whiche of thy aungels sayde he at any tyme: Sit on my ryghte hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy fote stole: Are they not all mynystrynge spyrytes, sente to mynyster, for their sakes whiche shall be heyres of saluation?

¶ He exhorteth vs to be obedyent vnto the new lawe, whiche Chryste hathe gyuen vs, and not to be offended at the infyrmyte and lowe degree of Chryste, because it was necessarye, that for oure sakes, he shulde take suche an humble state vpon hym, that he myghte be lyke vnto his brethren.

CAP. II.

WHerfore we oughte to gyue the more herde to the thynges we haue herde least we perysshe. For yf the worde whiche was spoken by aungels, was stedfast: so that euery transgression and disobedience receyued a iust recompence to rewarde, howe shall we escape, yf we despyse so greate saluacion, whiche at the fyrste began to be preached of the Lorde hym selfe, and afterwarde was confermed vpon vs, by theym that herde it, God bearynge witnesse therto, bothe with sygnes and wonders also, and with dyuers myracles and gyftes of the holy ghoste, accordynge to to his owne wyll.

He hathe not vnto the Aungels put in subiection the worlde to come, whereof we speake. But one in a certayne place wytnesseth, sayenge. What is man, that thou arte mynderfull of hym? or the sonne of man that thou west vyset hym? Thou madeste hym lower for a season then the aungels: thou crounedst hym with honour and glorye, and haste set hym aboue the workes of thy handes.

Thou hast put all thinges in subiection vnder his feete. In that he put all thynges vnder him, he lefte nothynge that is not put vnder hym. Neuertheles we yet se not all thynges subdued, but hym that was made lesse then the Aungels, we se that it was Jesus/ whyche is crowned with glorye and honoure for the sufferynge of deathe: that he by the grace of God, shoulde taste of deathe for all men.

For it became hym, for whome are all thynges, and by whome are all thynges, after that he hadde broughte many sonnes vnto glory, that he shoulde make the Lorde of their saluacion perfecte thorowe sufferynge. For he that sanctifieth, and they whiche are sanctified, are all of one. For whiche cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying: ✶ I will declare thy name vnto my brethren, and in the myddes of the congregacion wyll I prayse the. And agayn: I will put my trust in hym. And agayne: ✶ beholde here am I, & the children whiche God hath gyuen me.

For as moche then as the children were partakers of flesshe and bloude, he also hym selfe lykewyse toke parte with theym, to put wwne thorowe deathe, hym that hadde rule ouer deathe, that is to saye the deuyll, & that he myghte delyuer theym, whiche thorowe feare of deathe were durynge their hole lyfe in daunger of bondage. For he in no place taketh on him the aungels: but the seed of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherfore in all thinges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, that he myght be mercyfull, and a faythfull byshoppe in thynges concernynge God, to pourge the peoples synnes. For in that he him selfe suffered and was temted, he is hable to soucour them that are tempted.

¶ He requyreth vs to be obedyent vnto the wordes of Chryste, whiche is more worthye then Moses. The punyshment of suche as wyll nedes harden theyr hartes.

A blessed hym: to whome also Abraham gaue Genes.xiiii.d. tythes of all thynges) fyrſte is by interpretacion kynge of ryghtwysnesse: after that he is kynge of Salem, that is to saye, kynge of peace: without father without mother, without kynne, and hathe neyther begynnynge of his dayes, neyther yet ende of his lyfe: but is lykened vnto the sonne of God, and contynueth a preeſte for euer. Consyder what a mā this was vnto whome the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyles. And verely those
B childrē of Leui, whiche receyue the office of the preeſtes, haue a commaundement to take accordynge to the lawe, tythes of the people that is to saye, of their brethren, yea thoughe they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kynred is not counted amonge them receyued tythes of Abraham, and bleſsed hym that hadde the promyſes. And with-
B out all gaynsayenge, he which is leſſe, receyueth bleſsynge of him which is greatter. And here men that dye, receyue tythes. But there he receyueth tythes of whome it is witnessed, that he lyueth. And to saye the truthe, Leui hym selfe also whiche receyueth tythes, payed tythes in Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of his father Abraham, when Melchiſedech met him.

For he of whome these thynges are spoken, pertayneth vnto an other trybe, of whiche neuer man serued at the auſter. For it is euidente that our Lorde spronge of the trybe of Juda, of whiche trybe, Moſes spake nothinge concernynge preſthode. And it is yet a more cuydent thynge, yf after the lykenes of Melchisedech there aryse an other preest, whiche is not made after the lawe of the carnall commaundement: but after the power of the endelesse lyfe. (For he testifyeth: * Thou arte a preest for euer, after the order of Melchisedech). Then the commaundement that wet afore, is disanulled, because of her weakenes, and vnprofytablenes. For the lawe made nothinge perfecte: but was an inducement of a better hope, by whiche, we drawe nyghe vnto God.
C Melchiſe-

*Psal.cix.c

And for this cause it is a better hope, that it was not promysed without an othe. For those preestes were made without othe, but this preest with an othe, by him that sayde vnto hym. The Lorde sware, and will not repent: Thou arte a preest for euer after the order of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Jesus a stablyshar of a better testament.

And amonge theym many were made preestes, because they were not suffred to endure by the reason of death. But this man, because he endureth euer, hath an euerlastynge preesthode. Wherfore he is hable also euer to saue theym that come vnto God by him, for as moche as he euer lyueth, to make intercession for vs.

For suche an hyghe Preest it became vs to haue whiche is holy, harmelesse, vndefyled, seuered frome synners, and made hygher then heauen. Which needeth not dayely (as ponder hyghe preestes) to offer vp sacrifices firste for his owne synnes, & then for the peoples synnes. For that dyd he ones for all, when he offred vp hym selfe. For the lawe maketh men Preestes, whiche haue weaknes: but the worde of the othe that came sythens the lawe maketh the sonne preest, which is perfect for euermore.

Christe ones sacrificed, purged all sinnes

¶ The office of Christe is more worthye then the preestes office of the olde lawe, whiche was vnperfecte, and therfore abrogate.

CAPI. VIII.

A Of the thinges whiche we haue spoken this is the ypth: that we haue suche a bysshop that is sitten on the righthand of the seate of maiestie in heauen, and is a minister of holy thinges, and of the very tabernacle whiche God pyght, and not manne. For euery bysshop is ordeyned to offer gyftes and sacrifices: wherfore it is of necessitie that this man haue somewhat also to offer. For he were not a Preeste, yf he were on the earthe where preestes are that accordynge to the lawe offer gyftes, who serue vnto the exemple and shadowe of heauenly thinges: euen as the answer of God was gyuen vnto Moses when he was about to fynysshe the tabernacle. Take hede (sayde he) that thou make all thynges accordynge to the patrone shewed to the in the mount.

Exodi. xv. d.

B But nowe hath he obtayned a more excellent office, in as moche as he is mediator of a better testament, which was made for better promyses. For yf that firste testament had bene fautelesse: then shoulde no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukinge them he sayth: * Beholde the dayes will come, (sayth the Lorde) and I will fynysshe vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Juda, a newe testament: not lyke the testament that I made with their fathers at that tyme, when I toke theym by the handes, to leade theym oute of the lande of Egypte, for they contynued not in my testament, and I regarded them not, sayth the Lorde.

Hiere.xxxi.

C For this is the testament that I will make with the house of Israel: After those dayes, sayth the Lorde, I wil put my lawes in their myndes, and in their hertes I will write the, and I wyll be their God, and they shall be my people. And they shall not teache, euerye man his neyghboure, and euery man his brother, sayenge: Knowe the Lorde: for they shall knowe me, frome the least to the moste of them: For I will be mercyfull ouer their vnrighteousnesse, and on their synnes and on their iniquities. In that he sayth a new testament, he hathe disanulled the olde. Nowe yᵗ which is disanulled and waxed olde, is redye to vanysshe awaye.

¶ The profyte and worthynes of the olde Testament and how farre the newe excelleth it.

CAPI. IX.

G That firste tabernacle therfore hadde ordynaunces, and seruynges of God, and worldelye holynesse. ✣ * For there was a fore tabernacle made, wherin was the candelsticke and the table, and the shewbred which is called holy. But with in the seconde vayle was there a tabernacle, whiche is called the holy of holyes, whiche hadde the golden senser and the arcke of the testament ouerlayde roundeaboute with golde, wherin was the golden pot with Manna, and Aarons rodde that spronge, and the tables of the testament. Ouer the arcke were the Cherubins of glory, shadowynge the seate of grace. Of whiche thinges we will not now speake partycularly.

*Exo.xxvi.a and.xxvii.a

When these thinges were thus ordeyned, the preestes went alwayes into the firste tabernacle and executed the seruice of God. But into the seconde went the hyghe preest alone, ones a yere: and not without bloude, whiche he offered for him selfe, and for the ignorance of the people. Wherby the holy ghost this signified that the waye of holy thinges, was not yet opened, whyle as yet the firste tabernacle was standynge. Whiche was a similitude for the tyme then present, and in whiche were offered gyftes and sacrifices that coulde not make the minister perfect, as pertaynyng to the conscience with only meates & drynkes, and dyuers washynges and institutions of the flesshe, which were ordeyned tyll the tyme of reformacion.

H ✣ But Christ beynge Bysshoppe of good thynges to come, came by a greatter & a more perfecte tabernacle, not made with handes: that is to saye, not of this maner buyldinge, neyther by the bloude of gootes and calues: but

D but by his owne bloude he entred in, ones for all into the holy place, and founde eternall redemption. For yf the bloude of oxen and of gotes, and the asshes of an heyfer, when it was sprynkled, purifyed the vncleane, as touchynge the purifyenge of the flesshe: how moche more shall the bloude of Christ (whiche thorowe the eternall spirite, offered hym selfe without spot to God) pourge your consciences frome ded workes, to serue the lyuynge God?

E And for this cause is he mediator of the newe testament, that thorowe death whiche chaunced for the redemption of those transgressions that were in the firste Testament, they whiche were called, myghte receyue the promyse of eternall inheritaunce. For where so euer is a testament, there must also be the death of him that maketh the testament. For the testament taketh auctoritie when men are ded: for it is of no value as longe as he that made it, is a lyue. For whiche cause also neyther the firste testament was ordeyned without bloude. For when all the commaundementes were redde of Moses to all the people, he toke the bloude of calues and of gotes, with water and purple, woolle and yssope, & sprinkled bothe the boke, and all the people, sayenge: * This is the bloude of the testamente which God hath appointed vnto you. Moreouer, he sprenkled the tabernacle with bloud also, and all the ministringe vessels. And also almoste all thinges, are by the lawe purged with bloude, and without sheadynge of bloude is no remission.

Heb.xxiiii.c

F Exodi.xxiiii.c

It is then nede that the resemblaunces of heauenlye thynges, be purifyed with suche thinges: but the heauenly thynges them selues are purifyed with better sacrifyces then are those. For Christe is not entred into the holy places that are made with handes, whiche are but figures of true thynges: but is entred into very heauen, to appeare now in the sight of God for vs: not to offer hym self often, as the hyghe preest entreth into the holy place euery yere with straunge bloude, for then must he haue often suffred frome the begynnynge of the worlde. But nowe in the ende of the worlde, hathe he appeared ones, to put synne to flyghte, by the offeringe vp of hym selfe: And as it is appoynted vnto men that they shall ones dye, and then commeth the iudgement, * euen so Christe was ones offered to take awaye the synnes of many, and vnto theym that looke for hym, he shall appeare agayne without synne vnto saluacion.

G

Hebr.ix.b. viii.d.

¶ The olde lawe hadde no power to clense awaye synne: but Christe dyd it with offeringe of his bodye ones for all. An exhortacion to receiue this goodnesse of God, thankfullye, with pacyence, and stedfaste fayth.

the sacrifices whiche they offer yere by yere continually, make the commers therunto perfect. For wolde not then those sacrifices haue ceased to haue bene offered, because that the offerers beynge ones pourged shulde haue had no more conscience of synnes. Neuertheles in those sacrifices is there mencyon made of synnes euery yere. * For it is impossible that the bloude of oxen and of gotes shuld take away synnes.

*Leuit.xvi.c

Wherfore when he commeth into the worlde, he sayth. * Sacrifice and offeringe thou wouldest not haue: but a body hast thou ordeyned me. In sacrifices and synneofferynges thou hast no lust, Then I sayde: Loo I come, in the chiefest of the boke it is wryten of me, that I shulde do thy wyll, O God. Aboue, when he had sayde sacrifice and offeringe, and burnt sacrifices, and synneofferynges thou woldest not haue, neyther hast allowed (whiche yet are offered by the lawe) and then sayde: Loo I come to do thy wyll, O God: he taketh awaye the firste to stablysshe the latter. By whiche will, we are sanctifyed: by the offeringe of the body of Jesu Christ ones for all.

H

Psal.xxxix.b.

Christes body is but once offred.

And euery preest is redy dayly ministringe, and ofte tymes offreth one maner of offringe whiche canne neuer take awaye synnes. But this Christ after he hadde offred one sacrifice for synnes, sate hym downe for euer on the righthande of God, and frome henceforthe tarieth tyll his ennemyes be made his foote stoole. For with one offeringe hathe he made perfect for euer them that are sanctifyed. And the holy ghost also beareth vs recorde of this, euen when he tolde before: * This is the testament that I will make vnto theym: after those dayes, sayth the Lorde. I will put my lawes in their hertes and in their myndes I will wryte them, and their synnes and wyckednesses will I remember no more. And where remission of these thinges is, there is no more offringe for synne.

Seynge brethren that by the meanes of the bloude of Jesu, we may be bolde to enter into that holy place, by the newe and lyuynge waye which he hath prepared for vs, through the vayle, that is to saye, by his flesshe, And seynge also we haue an hyghe preeste whyche is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs drawe nyghe with a true herte in a full faith, sprinkled in oure hertes frome an euyll conscience, and washed in our bodyes with pure water: and let vs kepe the profession of oure hope / withoute wauerynge (for he is faythfull that promysed) and let vs consyder one an other, to prouoke vnto charitie, and to good workes: and let vs not forsake the felawesshyppe that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhorte one an other, and that so moche the more, because ye se that the daye drawyth nyghe.

And vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Thiatira wryte. This sayth the sonne of God, whiche hathe his eyes lyke vnto a flambe of fyre, whose fete are lyke brasse: I F knowe thy workes, and thy loue, seruyce, and faythe, and thy pacience, and thy dedes, whiche are moo at the laste then at the fyrst. Notwithstandyng I haue a fewe thynges against the, *that thou sufferest that woman Jesabel which called her selfe a prophetesse, to teache and to disceyue my seruauntes, to make them commyt fornicacion, and to eate meates offered vp vnto ydolles. (iii. Reg. xvi. g iiii. Regũ. ix. d) And I gaue her space to repent of her fornicacion, and she repented not. Beholde, I wyll caste her in to a bedde and them that commyt fornicacion with her, in to greate aduersitie, excepte they tourne frome theyr dedes. And I wyll kyll her chyl-
G dren with deathe. And all the congregacions shall knowe that * I am he, whiche sercheth the reynes and hertes. (*Iere. xvii. b) And I wyll gyue vnto euery one of you accordynge vnto youre workes.

Vnto you I saye, and vnto other of them of Thiatira, as manye as haue not this lernynge, and whiche haue not knowen the depenesse of Sathan (as they saye) I wyll put vpon you none other burthen, but that whiche ye haue alredye. Holde faste tyll I come, and who so euer ouercommeth and kepeth my workes vnto the ende: to hym wyll I gyue power ouer nacions, and he shall rule them with a rodde of yron: and as the vessels of a potter, shall he breake them to sheuers: (Psal. ii. c) Euen as I receyued of my father, so wyll I gyue hym the mornynge sterre. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayth to the congregacions.

He instructeth and enformeth the Aungels of the congregacions, declarynge also the rewarde of him that ouercommeth.

And wryte vnto the messengar of the congregacion of Sardis: this sayth he that hath the spirite of god and the .vij. sterres. I know thy workes: thou hast a name that thou lyuest, and thou arte deed. Be awake, and strength ye thinges which remayne that are redye to dye. For I haue not founde thy workes perfecte before God. Remembre therfore how thou hast receyued an heerd, and holde fast and repent. * Yf thou shalte not watche, I will come on the as a theefe, and thou shalte not knowe what houre I will come apon the. Thou hast a fewe names in Sardis, whiche haue not defyled theyr garmentes: and they shall walke with me in white, for they are worthy. He that ouercommeth shall be clothed in whyte araye, and I wyl not put his name out of the boke of lyfe, and I wyl confesse his name before my father, and before his aungelles. Let hym that hath eares, heare/ what the spirite sayth vnto the congregations.

The congregacion of Laodicia.

And vnto the messenger of the congregacion whiche in Laodicia, wryte: This sayth (Amen) the faithfull and true witnes, the begynning of the creatures of God. I know thy workes that thou art neyther colde nor hote. I wolde thou were colde or hote. So then because thou art betwene both, and neither colde ne hote. I wyl spue the out of my mouth: because thou sayest thou art ryche and increased with goodes, and hast nede of nothynge, and knowest not how thou art wretched and miserable, poore, blynde, and naked. I counsell the to bye of me golde tryed in the fyre, that thou mayst be riche: and whyte rayment that thou mayst be clothed, that thy fylthy nakednes do not appeare: and anoynt thyne eyes with eye salue, that thou mayste se.

After this I loked, and beholde a doore was open in heuen, and the fyrst voyce whiche I herde, was as it were of a trompet talkyng with me, which sayd: come vp hyther, and I wyl shewe the thinges whiche must be fulfilled hereafter. And forthwith I was in the spirite: and beholde a seate was put in heuen, and one sate on the seate. And he that sate, was to loke vpon like vnto a iasper stone, and a sardyne stone. And there was a raynebowe aboute the seate, in syghte lyke to an emeralde. And about the seat were .xxiiii. seates. And vpon the seates .xxiiii. elders sytynge, clothed in whyte rayment, and had on theyr heedes crownes of golde.

And out of the seate proceded lyghtenynges, and thundrynges, and voyces, and there were seuen lampes of fyre, burnynge before the seate, whiche are the seuen spirytes of God. And before the seate there was a see of glasse lyke vnto a crystall, and in the myddes of the seate, and rounde about the seate were foure beestes full of eyes before and behynde. And the fyrste beest was lyke a lyon, the seconde beest lyke a calfe, and the thyrde beest had a face as a man, and the fourth beest was lyke a flesynge egle. And the foure beestes had eche one of them syxe wynges about him, and they were full of eyes within. And they haue no reste day ne nyght, sayinge: * Holy, holy, holy, Lorde God almyghty, whiche was, and is, and is to come.

boke sealed with .vii. seales.

And I sawe in the ryght hande of hym that sate in the trone a boke wrytten within and on the backesyde, sealed with seuen seales. And I sawe a stronge aungell whiche cryed with a loude voyce: Who is worthye to open the boke, and to loose the seales therof. And no man in heuen ne in erth neyther vnder the earthe, was able to open the boke, neyther to loke theron. And I wept moche, because no man was founde worthye to open and to rede the boke, neyther to loke theron.

no obtayned to open

And one of the elders sayd vnto me: wepe not: Beholde a lyon of the tribe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hathe obteyned to open the boke, and to loose the seuen seales therof. And I beheldе, and lo in the myddes of the seate, and of the foure beestes, and in the myddes of the elders stode a lambe as thoughe he hadde ben kylled, whiche had seuen hornes, and seuen eyes, whiche are the spirites of God, sent in to all the worlde. And he came and toke the boke out of the ryghte hande of him that sate vpon the seate.

And when he had taken the boke, the foure beestes and .xxiiii. elders fell downe before the lambe, hauynge harpes, and golden vyals full of odours, whiche are the prayers of sayntes, and they songe a new songe, saying: thou art worthy to take the boke, and to open the seales therof: for thou wast kylled, and hast redemed vs by thy bloude out of all kynredes, and tonges, and people, and nations, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges and preestes, and we shall raygne on the erth.

* And I beheldе, and I herde the voyce of many aungels aboute the trone, and aboute the beestes, and the elders. and I herde thousande thousandes, sayinge with a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was kylled to receyue power, and ryches, and wysdome, and strengthe, and honour and glory, and blessing. And all the creatures which are in heuen, and on the erth, and vnder the erth, and in the see, and all that are in them I herd, sayinge: blessynge, honoure, glorye, and power be vnto him that sytteth vpon the seate, and vnto the lambe for euermore. Soules vnder the aulter

And when he opened the fyfte seale, I sawe vnder the aulter, the soules of them that were kylled for the worde of God, and for the testimony which they had, and they cryed with a loude voyce sayinge: Howe longe tarriest thou Lorde, holy and true, to iudge, and to auenge our bloude on them that dwell on the erth? And long whyte garmētes were giuē vn to euery one of them. And it was sayd vnto thē that they sholde rest for a lytle season, tyl the nombre of their felowes and brethren, and of them that sholde be kylled as they were, were fulfylled.

And I beheld when he opened the fyrst seale, and lo there was a greate erthquake, and the sunne was as blacke as sacke clothe made of heere. And the mone wered euen as bloude, & the sterres of heuen fell vnto the erth euen as a fygge tree casteth from her her fygges, when she is shaken of a myghty wynde. And heuen vanished awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled togyther. And all mountayns and yles, were moued out of theyr places. And the kynges of the erth, and the great men, and the ryche me, and the chefe captaynes, and the mighty men, and euery bondman, and euery free man, hyd them selues in dennes, and in rockes of the hilles: * and sayd to the hylles and rockes: fall on vs, and hyde vs frome the presence of hym that sytteth on the seate, and from the wrathe of the lambe: for the great daye of his wrath is come, and who can endure it.

voyce to the foure aungels (to whom power was giuen to hurt the erth and the see) saying hurt not the erth, neyther the see, neither the trees, tyll we haue sealed the seruauntes of our God in their foreheedes.

B And I herd the nombre of them which were sealed, and there were sealed an hundred and xliiij. thousande, of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the tryb of Juda were sealed. xij. thousande. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed twelue thousand. Of the tryb of Gad were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Aser were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Neptalim were sealed twelue. M. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Symeon were sealed twelue thousand. Of the tryb of Leuy were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Issacar were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Zabulon were sealed twelue thousande. Of the tryb of Joseph were sealed twelue. M. Of the tryb of Beniamin were C sealed twelue thousande.

After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude (whiche no man could nombre) of all nations and people, and tonges, stode before the seate, and before the lambe clothed with longe white garmentes, and palmes in their handes, and cryed with a loude voyce, saying: Helth to hym that sytteth vpon the seat of our God, and vnto the lambe. And all the aungels stode in the compace of the seate, and of the elders, and of the foure beestes, and fell before the seate on their faces, and worshypped God, saynge: Amen. Blessynge and glory, wysdome and thankes, and honour, and power, and myght be vnto our God for euermore. Amen.

D And one of the elders answered, saying vnto me: what are these which are arayed in long white garmentes, & whence came they? And I sayd vnto him: Lorde thou wotest. And he sayd to me: these are they whiche came out of great tribulacion, and made their garmentes large, and made them white in the bloude of the lambe: therfore are they in the presence of the seat of God, and serue him day and night in his temple, and he that sytteth in the seate wyll dwell amonge them. They shall honger no more, neither thurst, neither shall the sunne lyght on them, neither any heate. For the lambe Esaye. xlix.a. whiche is in the myddes of the seate, shal fede them, and shall leade them vnto fountaynes Esaye. xxv.c. of lyuynge water, and God shall wype away all teares from their eyes.

¶ The seuenth seale is opened, there sylence in heauen, the foure aungels blowe their trompettes, and greate plages folowe vpon the earth.

CAPI. VIII.

a AND when he hadde opened the seuenth seale, there was sylence in heuen about the space of halfe an houre. And I saw aungels standynge before God, and to them were giuen seuen trompettes. And an other aungell came and stode before the aulter hauynge a golden senser, and moche of odoures was giuen vnto him, that he shulde offre of the prayers of al sayntes vpon the golden aul- B ter, which was before the seate. And the smoke of the odours which came of the prayers of al sayntes, ascended vp before god out of the aungels hande. And the aungell toke the senser, & fylled it with fyre of the aulter, and caste it vnto the erth, and voyces were made, and thonderynges and lyghtnynges, and erthquake.

And the seuen aungels which had the seuen trompettes prepared them selues to blowe. The fyrst aungell blewe, and there was made hayle and fyre, whiche were myngled with bloude, and they were cast in to the erth: and the thyrde parte of trees was burnt, and all C greene grasse was brent. And the seconde aungell blew: and as it were a great mountayne burnynge with fyre was cast in to the see, and the third part of the see was turned to bloud, and the thyrde parte of the creatures whiche had lyfe, dyed, and the thyrde part of shyppes were destroyed.

And the thyrde Aungell blewe, and there fell a great sterre from heuen burnynge as it were a lampe, and it fell in to the thyrde parte of the ryuers, and in to fountaynes of waters, and the name of the sterre is called wormewod. And the thyrde parte was tourned to wormewod. And many men dyed of the waters, because they were made bytter. And the D fourth aungell blewe, and the thyrde parte of the sunne was smytten, and the thyrde parte of the mone, and the thyrde parte of sterres: so that the thyrde part of them was darkned. And the daye was smytten, that the thyrde parte of it shulde not shyne, and lykewyse the nyght. And I beheld and herde an aungell flesynge thorowe the myddes of heuen, saynge with a loude voyce: Wo, wo to the inhabyters of the erth, because of the voyces to come of the trompe of the thre aungels which were yet to blowe.

¶ The fyfth and syxth Aungell blowe, their trompettes: the starre falleth from heauen: the locustes come out of the smoke: The fyrste wo is paste: the foure aungels that were bounde are lowsed, and the thyrde parte of men is kylled.

CAPI. IX.

a AND the fyfte Aungell blewe, and I sawe a sterre fall from heuen vnto the erthe. And to hym was giuen the keye of the bottomlesse pit. And he opened the bottomlesse pyt, and there arose the smoke of a great fornace. And the sunne and the ayre were darkned by the reason of the smoke of the pit. And there came oute of the smoke locustes Locustes. vpon the erth: and vnto them was giuen power as the scorpyons of the erth haue power. And it was comaunded them that they shulde not hurte the gralle of the erth: ne any grene thyng: neither any tree: but onely those men whiche haue not the seale in their foreheedes. And to them was comaunded that they shuld not kyll them, but that they shulde be vexed fyue monethes, and their payne was as the payne that commeth of a scorpion, when he hath stonge a man. * And in those dayes shall men seke deathe, and shall not fynde it, and shal wysshe to dye, and deth shal flee from them.

* And the symilitude of the locustes was lyke vnto horses prepared vnto batayle, and on their heedes were as it were crownes, like vnto golde: and their faces were as it hadde ben the faces of men. And they hadde heere as the heere of women. And their tethe were as the tethe of lyons. And they hadde habergyons, as it were habbergyons of yron. And the sounde of their wynges, was as the sounde of charettes when many horses runne togyther to batayle. And they had tayles lyke vnto scorpyons: and there were stynges in their tayles. And their power was to hurte men fyue monethes. And they hadde a kynge ouer them, whiche is the aungell of the bottomlelle pytte, whole name in the Hebrue tonge is Abadon, and in the Greke tong, Apollyon. One wo is past, & behold two woes come after this.

And the syxte aungell blewe, and I herde a voyce from the foure corners of the golden aultre whiche is before God, sayinge to the syxte aungell, whiche had the trompe: Lose the foure aungelles, whiche are bounde in the great ryuer Euphrates. And the foure aungelles were loosed whiche were prepared for an houre, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yere, to slee the thyrde parte of men. And the nombre of horsemen of warre, were twentye tymes ten thousande. And I herde the nombre of them: and thus I sawe the horses in a vysion, and them that sate on them, hauynge fyrye habbergyons of a Jacinct colour, and brymstone, and the heades of the horses were as the heedes of lyons. And oute of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke, and brymstone. And of these thre was the thirde parte of men kylled: that is to saye, of fyre, of smoke, and brymstone, which proceded out of the mouthes of them: For their power was in their mouthes and in their tayles: for their tayles were lyke vnto serpentes, and hadde heedes, and with them they dyd hurte: And the residue of the men whiche were not kylled by these plages, repented not of the dedes of their handes, that they shulde not worshyp deuyles, and ymages of golde, and syluer, and braste, and stone, and of wode, whiche neyther can se, neyther heare, neyther go. Also they repented not of their murther, and of their sorcery, neither of their fornication, neither of their theft.

¶ The Aungell hathe the boke open: he sweareth there shalbe no more tyme: he gyueth the boke vnto Johñ, whiche eateth it vp.

CAPI. X.

A AND I sawe an other myghtye aungell come downe from heuen clothed with a cloude, and the rayne bowe vpon his heed. And his face as it were the sunne, and his fete as it were pylers of fyre, and he had in his hande a lytle boke open: and he put his ryght fote vpon the see, and his lefte fote on the erth. And cryed with a loude voyce, as when a lyon roreth. And when he had cryed, seuen thondres spake their voyces. And when the seuen thondres had spoken their voyces, I was aboute to wryte. And I herde a voyce from heuen sayinge vnto me: seale vp those thynges whiche the seuen thondres spake, and wryte them not.

* And the aungell whiche I sawe stande E vpon the see, and vpon the earthe lyfte vp *. d. xlii. c. his hande to heauen, and sware by hym that lyueth for euermore, whiche created heuen, and the thynges that therin are, and the see, and the thynges which therin are: that there C shulde be no longer tyme, but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth aungell, whe he shal begyn to blowe, euen the mysterye of God shall be fynyshed as he preached by his seruauntes the prophetes.

And the voyce whiche I herde from heuen, spake vnto me agayne, and sayd: * go and, take the lytle boke whiche is open in the hande of the aungell whiche standeth vpon the see and vpon the earthe. And I went vnto the aungell, and sayde to him: Gyue me the lytle boke, and he sayde vnto me: take it, and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belye bytter, but it shall be in thy mouth as swete as hony. D * And I toke the lytle boke out of his hande * Ezech. iii. c. and eate it vp, and it was in my mouthe as swete as honye: and as soone as I hadde eaten it, my belye was bytter. And he sayd vnto me: thou must prophelye agayne amonge the people and nations, and tonges, and to many kynges.

¶ The Temple is measured. The seconde woo is paste.

CAPI. XI.

A AND then was giuen me a rede, lyke vnto a roode, and it was sayde vnto me: Arise and mete the temple of god, and the aulter, and them that worshyp therin. and the quere whiche is with in the temple, caste out and mete it not: for it is giuen vnto the Gentyles, and the holy cytie shal they treade vnder fote. xlij. monethes. And I will gyue power vnto my two wytnesses, and they shall prophelye a thousande, two hundrede and threscore dayes, clothed in sacke clothe. These are two olyue trees, and two candelstykes, standynge before the God of the erthe.

And yf any man wyl hurte them, fyre shall B proceede oute of their mouthes, and consume their enemyes. And yf any man wyll hurte them this wyse muste he be kylled. These haue power to shut heauen, that it rayne not in the dayes of their prophesynge: and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, and to smyte the erth, with all maner plages as often as they wyll.

And when they haue fynyshed their testimony, the beest that came out of the bottomlesse pyt, shall make warre agaynst them, and shall ouercome them and kyll them. And their bodyes shall lye in the stretes of the greate cite, whiche spiritually is called Zodom and Egypte, where our Lorde was crucifyed. And they of the people and kynredes, and tonges, and they of the nacions, shall se theyr bodyes thre dayes and an halfe, and shall not suffre theyr bodyes to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the erthe, shall reioyce ouer them and be glad, and shall sende gyftes one C to an other, for these two Prophetes vexed them that dwelt on the erth.

And after thre dayes and an halfe the spiryte of lyfe from God, entred in to them. And they stode vp on theyr fete: and greate feare came on them whiche sawe them. And they herde a great voyce from heuen, sayinge vnto them. Come vp hyther. And they ascended vp in to heuen in a cloude, and theyr ennemyes sawe them. And the same houre was there a great erthquake, and the tenth parte of the cytye fell, and in the erthquake were slayne names of men seuen thousande, and the resydue were feared, and gaue glory to God of heuen The seconde wo is past, and beholde the third wo wyll come anone.

D And the seuenth aungell blewe, and there were made greate voyces in heuen, sayinge: the kyngdomes of this worlde are our Lordes and his Chrystes, and he shall raygne for euer more. And the .xxiiij. elders whiche syt before God on theyr seates, fel vpon theyr faces, and worshypped God, sayinge: we gyue the thankes Lorde God almighty: whiche arte, and wast, and art to come, for thou hast receyued thy greate myghte, and hast reygned. And the nacions were angry, and thy wrathe is come, and the tyme of the deed, that they sholde be iudged, and that thou sholdest gyue rewarde vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and saintes and to them that feare thy name small and great, and sholdest destroy them which destroy the erth. And the temple of God was opened in heuen, and ther was sene in his temple, the Arke of his Testament: and there folowed lyghtnynges, and voyces, and thondrynges, and erthquake, and moche hayle.

¶ The seuenth Angell bloweth his trompet. There apeareth in heuen a woman clothed with the sonne: Michael fyghteth with the dragon, whiche persecuteth the woman.

CAPI. XII.

A And there appered a gret wonder in heuen: A woman clothed with the sunne and the mone vnder her fete, and vpon her heed, a crowne of twelue sterres. And she was with chylde, and cryed trauaylynge in byrth, and payned redy to be delyuered. And there appered an other wonder in heuen, for beholde a great red dragon hauyng .vii. heedes and ten hornes and crownes vpon his heedes: and his tayle drue the thyrde parte of the sterres, and cast them to the erth.

B And the dragon stode before the woman, whiche was redye to be delyuered: for to deuoure her chylde as sone as it were borne. And she brought forth a manchylde, which sholde rule all nacions with a rodde of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto god, and to his seate. And the woman fledde into wyldernes where she had a place prepared of God, that they sholde fede her there a thousande .ij. hundred and forty dayes.

And there was a great batayle in heuē, Michael and his angels fought with the dragon and the dragon fought and his aungels, and preuayled not: neither was their place found C any more in heuen. And the great dragon that olde serpent called the deuyll, and Sathanas was cast out, which disceyueth all the worlde. And he was caste in to the erthe, and his aungels were cast out also.

And I herde a loude voyce, sayinge: in heuen is nowe made saluacion, and strengthe and the kyngdom of our God, and the power of his annoynted. For he is cast downe which accused them before God daye and night. And they ouercame him by the bloud of the lambe and by the worde of their witnes, and they loued not theyr lyues vnto the dethe. Therfore D reioyce heuens, and ye that dwell in them. Woo to the inhabitauntes of the erth, and of the see: for the deuyl is come downe vnto you whith hath great wrath, bicause he knoweth he hath but a short tyme.

And when the dragon sawe, that he was caste vnto the erthe, he pursued the woman, whiche brought forthe the man chylde. And to the woman were gyuen two wynges of a great egle, that she myght flee in to the wyldernes, in to her place, where she is nourysshed for a tyme, tymes, and halfe a tyme, from the presence of the serpent. And the dragon caste out of his mouthe water after the woman as it had ben a ryuer, bycause she sholde haue ben caught of the floode. And the erthe holpe the woman, and the erth opened her mouthe and swalowed vp the ryuer, which the dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was wroth with the woman: and went and made warre with the remnaunt of her seed, whiche kepe the commaundementes of God, and haue the testimonye of Jesu Chryst. And I stode on the see sande.

¶ A beaste ryseth oute of the see with seuen heades and ten hornes. An other beaste commeth out of the earth with two hornes.

CAPI. XIII.

And I saw a beest ryse out of the see, hauynge seuen heedes, and tenne hornes, and vpon his hornes tene crownes, A and vpon his heed, the name of blasphemye. And the beest which I sawe, was lyke a cat of the mountayne, and his fete was as the fete of a beare, and his mouth as the mouthe of a lyon. And the dragon gaue hym his power & his seate, and greate auctoritie: and I sawe one of his heedes as it were wounded to deth and his deedly wounde was healed. And all the worlde wondred at the beest, & they worshypped the dragon whiche gaue power vnto B the beest, and they worshypped the beest, sayinge who is lyke vnto the beest? who is hable to warre with him?

☞ And there was gyuen vnto him a mouthe, that spake great thynges and blasphemyes, and power was gyuen vnto him to doo .xlij. monethes. And he opened his mouthe vnto blasphemye agaynste God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle, and them that dwel in heuen. And it was giuen vnto him to make warre with the saynctes, & to ouercome them. C And power was gyuen hym ouer all kynredes tonge and nacion, and all that dwel vpon the erth worshipt him, whose names are not written in the boke of lyfe of the lambe, which was kylled from the begynnynge of the worlde. Yf Philip. iiii. any mā haue an eare, let him heare. * He that leadeth in to captiuite, shal go in to captiuitie: * he that kylleth with the swerde, must be kylled with a swerde. Here is the pacience and the fayth of the payntes. Mat. xxvi. e Gen. ix. a. Apo. xvi. c

And I behelde an other beest commyng vp out of the erth, and he had two hornes lyke a lambe, and he spake as did the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyrst beest coulde do in his presence, and he caused the erth, and them which dwell therin, to worshyp the first beest, whose deedly wounde was healed. And he dyd great wonders, so that he made fyre come downe from heuen in the syght of men. And disceyued them that dwelte on the erthe by the meanes of those signes whiche he had power to do in the syghte of the beest, sayinge to them that dwelte on the erth: that they sholde make an ymage vnto the beest, whiche had the wounde of a swerde, and dyd lyue.

D And he had power to gyue a spirite vnto the ymage of the beest, and that the ymage of the beest sholde speake, and sholde cause that as many as wolde not worship the ymage of the beest sholde be kylled. And he made all bothe small and greate, ryche and poore, free and bonde, to receyue a marke in theyr ryght handes, or in theyr forheedes. And that no man might bye or sell, saue he that had the marke or the name of the beest, either the nombre of his name. Here is wysdom. Let him that hath wytte count the nombre of beest. For it is the nombre of a man, and his nombre is syxe hondred, thre score and sixe.

¶ The lambe standeth vpon the mounte Sion, and the vndefyled congregacion with him: The aungell exhorteth to the feare of God and telleth of the fall of Babylon.

CAPI. XIIII. ✠

A And I loked, and lo a lambe stode on the mount Sion, and with him an. C. and xliiij. thousande hauynge his fathers name wrytten in theyr forheedes. And I herde a voyce frome heuen as the sounde of manye waters, and as the voyce of a great thonder. And I herde the voyce of harpers harpynge with theyr harpes. And they songe as it were a newe songe, before the seate, and before the four beestes, and the elders, and no man coulde lerne that songe, but the hondred and foure and fortye thousande, whiche were redemed frome the erthe. These are they whiche were ☞ not defyled with women, for they are virgyns. B These folowe the lambe whyther so euer he goeth. These were redemed from men, beinge the fyrst fruites vnto God, and to the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are without spotte before the trone of God. ✠

And I sawe an aungell flee in the myddes of heuen, hauynge an euerlastyng Gospell, to preache vnto them that syt and dwell on the earthe, and to all nacions, kynredes, and tonges and people, sayinge with a loude voyce: Feare God, and gyue honour to hym, for the houre of his iudgement is come: and worshyp Psal. cxlv. him, that made heuen and earthe, and the see, Actu. xiiii. c and fountaynes of water. C And there folowed an other aungell, sayinge: * Babylon is fallen * Esaye. xx is fallen that greate citye, * for she made * Hiere. li. a all nacions drynke of the wyne of her fornicacion.

And the thyrd aungel folowed them saying with a loude voyce: Yf any man worshyp the beest and his ymage, and receyue his marke in his forheed, or on his hande, the same shall drynke the wyne of the wrath of God, which is poured in the cup of his wrath. And he shall be punysshed in fyre and brymstone, before the holy aungels, and befor the lambe.

And the smoke of their torment ascended vp euermore. And they haue no rest day nor night whiche worshyp the beest and his ymage and and who so euer receyueth the prynte of his name. Here is the pacience of payntes. Here are they that kepe the commaūdementes and the fayth of Jesu.

And I herd a voyce from heuen, saying vnto me: wryte. Blessed are the ded, which here after dye in the Lorde, euen so sayth the spirite that they maye rest from theyr laboures, but theyr workes shall folowe them.

And I loked, and beholde a whyte cloude, and vpon the cloude one syttynge lyke vnto the sonne of man, hauynge on his heed a golden crowne, and in his hande a sharpe syckle. And an other aungell came out of the temple cryinge with a loude voyce to him that sate on the cloude. * Thruste in thy syckle and * Joel. iii. a repe, for the tyme is come to repe, for the corne D of the earthe is rype. And he that sate on the cloude, thrust in his sycke on the erth, and the erth was reped.

And an other aungell came out of the temple, whiche is in heuen, hauynge also a sharpe syckle. And an other aungell came out frome the aulter, whiche had power ouer fyre, and cryed with a loude crye to him that hadde the sharpe syckle, and sayd: thruste in thy sharpe sickle, and gather the clusters of the erth, for her grapes are rype. And the aungell thrust in his sickle on the erth, and cut downe the grapes of the vyneyarde of erth, & cast in to them in to the great wynefat of the wrath of God, and the wynefat was troden without the cytye, and bloude came out of the fat, euen vnto the horse bridles by the space of a thousande and syxe hundred furlonges.

¶ The .xvi. seuen Angels, hauynge seuen vyals full of wrath.

CAPI. XV.

A And I sawe an other signe in heauen, great and meruaylous, seuen aungels hauynge the seuen laste plages, for in them is fulfylled the wrathe of God. And I sawe as it were a glassye see, myngled with fyre, and them that had gotten victory of the beest, and of his ymage, and of his marke, and of the nombre of his name, stande on the glassy see, hauyng the harpes of God, and they song the songe of Moses the seruaunt of God, and the songe of the lambe: sayinge: Great and meruaylous are thy workes: *Lorde God almyghty, iust and true are thy wayes kynge of *Exaye.liii.c. Hiere.x.b
B sayntes. Who shall not feare (o Lorde) and glorify thy name? For thou only art holy, and all gentiles shal come and worship before the, for thy iudgementes are made manifest.

C And after that I loked, and beholde the temple of the tabernacle of testimonye was open in heuen, and the seuen aungelles came out of the temple, whiche had the seuen plages, clothed in pure and bright lynnen, and hauynge theyr breestes gyrded with golden gyrdels. And one of the foure beestes gaue vn-
D to the seuen aungelles seuen golden vyalles full of the wrathe of God, whiche liueth for euer more. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God, and of his power, and no man was hable to entre in to the temple, tyll the seuen plages of the seuen aungels were fulfylled.

¶ The aungelles poure oute theyr vyalles full of wrath.

CAPI. XVI.

A And I herde a great voyce out of the temple sayinge to the seuen aungels: Go your wayes, poure out your vyalles of wrathe vpon the erth. And the fyrst went and poured out his vyall vpon the erth, and there fel a noysome and a sore botche vpon the men whiche had the marke of the beest, and vpon them whiche worshypped his ymage. And the seconde aungell shed out his vyall vpon the see, and it turned as it were in to the bloud of a dead man: and euery lyuynge thyng dyed in the see. And the thyrde aungell shed oute his vyall vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, and they turned to bloude. And I herde an aungel saye: Lorde whiche art and wast,
B thou art ryghtous and holy, because thou hast gyuen such iudgementes, for they shed out the bloud of sayntes and prophetes, and therfore hast thou giuen them bloud to drinke, for they are worthye. And I herde an other out of the aultre saye: euen so Lorde God almighty true and ryghtous are thy iudgementes.

And the fourth aungel poured out his viall on the sunne, and power was giuen vnto him to vexe men with heate of fyre. And the men raged in great heat, & spake euyll of the name of god, whiche hath power ouer thole plages, and they repented not, to giue him glory. And the fyfte aungell poured oute his vyall vpon the seat of the beest, and his kyngdome wexed darke, and they gnewe theyr tonges for sorow and blaspemed the God of heuen for sorow and payne of theyr sores, and repented not of theyr dedes.

And the syxte aungell poured out his vyall vpon the great ryuer Euphrates, and the wa-
E ter dryed vp, that the wayes of the kynges of the East sholde be prepared. And I sawe thre vnclene spirites, lyke frogges come out of the mouthe of the dragon, and out of the mouthe of the beest, and out of the mouth of the false Prophete. For they are the spirites of deuyls worckynge myracles, to go out vnto the kynges of the erth, and of the hole worlde, to gather them to the batayle of that great daye of God almighty. *Beholde I come as a theefe. Mat.xxiiii. ii.petri.iii. i.Thessa.
Happe is he that watcheth and kepeth his garmentes, leest he be founde naked, and men se his fylthynes. And he gathered them togy-
D ther in to a place called in the Hebrue tonge Armagedon.

And the seuenth aungell poured out his vyall in to the ayre. And there came a voyce oute of heuen frome the seate, sayinge: it is done. And there folowed voyces, thondrynges, and lyghtenynges, and there was a greate erthquake, suche as was not sythens men were vpon the erthe, so mighty an erthquake and so greate. And the greate cytye was deuyded in to thre partyes, and the cityes of all nacions fell. And greate Babylon came in remembraunce before God, to gyue vnto her the cup of the wyne of the fearcenes of his wrathe. Euery yle fled awaye, and the mountaynes were not founde. And there fell a great hayle as it had ben talentes out of heuen vpon the men, and the men blaspemed God: bycause of the plage of the hayle, for it was great and the plage of it sore.

¶ He describeth the woman sytting vpon the beast with ten hornes.

CAPI. XVII.

A And there came one of the seuen aun- A gelles, whiche had the seuen vyalles: and talked with me, sayinge vnto me: come, I wyll shewe the the iudgement of the great hoore that sytteth vpon many waters, with whom haue committed fornication, the kynges of the erthe, so that the inhabiters of the earthe are dronken with the wyne of her fornication. And he caried me awaye in to the wyldernes in the spirete. And I sawe a woma sytt vpon a rose colourd beest, full of names of blaspemye, whiche had ten hornes. And the woman was arayd in purple and rose colour and decked with golde, precyous stone, and pearles, and had cup of golde in her hande ful of abominations and fylthynesse of her fornication. And in her forhed was a name wryten B a mysterye, greate Babylon the mother of hoordome

hordome and abhominacions of the erth. And I sawe the woman dronken with the blonde of sayntes, and with the blonde of the wytnesses of Iesu. And when I sawe her, I wondred with great meruayle.

And the Aungell sayd vnto me: Wherfore maruayleste thou? I wyll shewe the, the mysterye of the woman, and of the beest that beareth her, whiche hath seuen heedes, and tenne hornes. The beest that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende oute of the botomlesse pyt, and shal go in to perdicion, and they that dwell on the erth shal wonder (whose names are not wrytten in the boke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the worlde) when they beholde the beest, that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hathe wysdome.

C The seuen heedes are seuen mountaynes, on whiche the woman sytteth: they are also seuen kynges. Fyue are fallen, and one is, and an other is not yet come. When he commeth he muste continue a space. And the beest that was and is not, is euen the eyght, and is one of the seuen, and shal go in to destruction. And the ten hornes whiche thou seest, are ten kynges, whiche haue receyued no kyngdome, but shall receyue power as kynges at one houre with the beest. These haue one mynde, and shall gyue theyr power and strength vnto the beest. These shall fyght with the lambe, and Apo.vi.c the lambe shall ouercome them: * For he is Lorde of Lordes, and Kynge of Kynges, & they that are on his syde, are called, and chosen, and faythfull.

D And he sayd vnto me: the waters whiche thou sawest where the hoore sytteth, are people, and folke, and nations, and tonges. And the ten hornes, whiche thou sawest vpon the beest, are they that shall hate the hoore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eate her flesshe, and burne her with fyre. For God hathe put in theyr hertes to fulfyll his wyll, and to do with one consent, for to gyue her kyngdome vnto the beest, tyll the wordes of God be fulfylled. And the woman whiche thou sawest, is that great city, which reigneth ouer the kynges of the erth.

¶ The louers of the worlde are sory for the fall of Babylon, but they that be of God haue cause to reioyce for her destruction.

CAPI. XVIII.

A And after that, I sawe an other aun- A gell come from heuen, hauynge greate power, and the erthe, was lyghtned with his bryghtnes. And he cryed myghtily with a strange voyce, sayinge: * Great Babylon is fallen, is fallen: and is become the Apo.xviii.c habitation of deuyls, and the hold of al foule spirites, and a cage of all vnclene and hatefull bydes, for all nations haue dronken of the wyne of the wrathe of her fornicacyon. And the kynges of the earthe haue committed fornication with her, and her merchauntes are wexed ryche, of the abundaunce of her pleasures.

And I herde an other voyce frome heuen, B saye: come awaye from her (my people) that ye be not partakers in her synnes, that ye receyue not of her plages. For her synnes are gone vp to heuen, and God hath not remembred her wyckednes. Rewarde her euen as she rewarded you, and gyue her double accordynge to her workes. And poure in double to her in the same cuppe whiche she fylled vnto you. And as moche as she glorifyed her selfe, and lyued wantonly, so moche poure ye in for her of punyshement and sorowe, for she sayde in her selfe: * I sytte beynge a quene, *Esa.xlvii.a and am no wydowe, and shall se no sorowe. C
Therfore shall her plages come at one daye, deth, and sorowe, and honger, and she shall be brent with fyre: for stronge is the Lorde God whiche iudgeth her.

And the kynges of the earthe shall bewepe her and waple ouer her, whiche haue committed fornicacion with her, and haue lyued wantonly with her, when they shall se the smoke of her burnynge, and shall stande afarre of for feare of her punyshement, sayinge: *Alas, Alas that greate cityе Babylon, that *Jerem. li.a myghty cityе: for at one houre is her iudgement come. And the merchauntes of the erth shall wepe and waple in them selues, for no man wyll bye theyr ware any moze, the ware of golde and syluer, and precious stones, neither of pearle, and raynes, and purple, and scarlet, and all thynne wodde, and all maner vesselles of yuerye, and all maner vesselles of mooste precyous wodde, and of brasse, and yron, and synamon, and owrs, and oyntmentes and frankensence, and wyne, and oyle and fyne floure, and whete, beestes, and shepe, and horses, and charettes, and bodyes and soules of men.

And the apples that thy soule lusted after are departed from the. And all thynges which were deyntie, and hadde in pryce are departed frome the, and thou shalte fynde them no moze. The marchauntes of these thynges which were wexed ryche, shall stande afarre of frome her, for feare of the punyshement of her, wepynge and waplynge, and sayinge: *Jerem.li.ij
* Alas, alas, that greate cityе, that was clo- E
thed in raynes and purple, and scarlet, and decked with golde, and precious stones, and pearles: for at one houre so greate rythes is come to nought.

And euery shyppe gouernour, and all they that occupyed shyppes, and shyppmen whiche worke in the see, stode afarre of, & cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burnynge, sayinge: what cityе is lyke vnto this great cityе? And they caste dust on theyr heedes, and cryed wepynge, and waplynge, and sayde: * Alas, a- F
las, that great cityе, wherin were made ryche *Jerem.li.ij all that had shyppes in the see, by the reason of her costlynes, for at one houre is she made desolate.

Reioyce ouer her thou heuen, and ye holy Apostles and prophetes: for God hath giuen your iudgement on her. And a mighty aungel toke vp a stone like a great mylstone, and cast it in to the see, sayinge: with suche vyolence shall that greate cite Babylon be caste, and shal be founde no more. And the voyce of harpers, and musicions, and of pypers, and trum-petters shall be herde no more in the: and no crafties man of what craft euer he be, shall be founde any more in the. And the sounde of of a mylle shal be herde no more in the, and the voyce of the bredgrome and of the bryde shall be herde no more in the, for thy marchaun-tes were the greate men of the erth. And with thyne enchauntment were disceyued all nacions: and in her was found the bloude of the prophetes, and of the sayntes, and of all that were slayne vpon the erth.

¶ Prayse or thankes are geuen vnto God for iudgynge the whore, and for auengynge the bloude of his seruauntes. The Angell will not be worshipped.
The foules and brydes are called to the slaughter.

CAPI. XIX.

AND after that I herd the voyce of moche
people in heauen, sayinge: Alleluya.
Helthe and glory and honour and power vnto the Lorde our God, for true and righteous are his iudgementes, for he hath iudged
the great hoore whiche dyd corrupt the erthe with her fornication. and hathe auenged the bloude of his seruauntes of her hande. And a-gayn they sayd: Alleluya. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And the xxiiij elders, and the foure beestes fell downe, and worshipped God that sate on the seate, sayinge: Amen, Alleluya. And a voyce came forth of the seate, sayinge: prayse oure Lorde God all ye that are his seruauntes, and ye that feare hym bothe
small and great.

And I herd the voyce of moche people, euen
as the voyce of many waters, & as the voyce of strong thondrynges, saying: Alleluya, for God omnipotent raygneth. Let vs be glad & reioyce and gyue honour to him: for the maryage of the lambe is come, and his wife made her selfe redye. And to her was graunted, that she shoulde be arayed with pure and goodly rayment. For the rayment is the ryghtoulnes of sayntes. And he sayde vnto me, * happy are they whiche are called to the lambes supper.
And he said vnto me: these are the true sayin-ges of God. And I fell at his fete, to worship him. And he sayde vnto me, se thou do it not.
For I am thy felowe seruaunt, and one of thy brethren, and of them that haue the testimo-nye of Jesu. Worshyp God. For the testimony of Jesu is the spirite of the prophetye.

And I sawe heuen open, and beholde a white horse, and he that sate vpon him was faythfull and true, and in ryghteoulnes dyd iudge and make batayle. His eyes were as a flame of fyre: and on his heed were manye crownes,
and he hadde a name written, that no man
knewe but he hym selfe. * And was clothed with a vesture dypte in bloude, and his name is called the worde of God. And the soudiours whyche were in heuen, folowed hym vpon whyte horses, clothed with whyte and pure rayment: & out of his mouth went out a sharp swerde, that with it ye shoulde smyte the hethen. * And he shall rule them with a rod of yron, and he treadeth the wynefat of fearfulnes and wrath of almyghty God. And hath on his ve-sture and on his thygh a name written: kyng of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes.

And I sawe an aungell stande in the sunne,
and he cryed with a loude voyce, sayinge to all the foules that flee by the myddes of heauen, come and gather youre selues togyther vnto the supper of the greate God, that ye maye eate the flesshe of kynges and of myghe captaynes, and the flesshe of myghty men, and the flesshe of horses, and of them that sytte on them, and the flesshe of all free men and bond men, and of small and great. And I sawe the beest and the kynges of the earthe, and theyr warryours gathered togyther to make batayl agaynste hym that sate on the horse, and a-gaynst his souldyours.

And the beest was taken & with him that false prophete that wrought myracles before him, with which he disceyued them that recey-ued the beestes marke, and them that worshipped his ymage. These bothe were caste in to a poode of fyre burnynge with brymstone: and the rest were slayne with the sweorde of hym that sate vpon the horse, whiche proceded out of his mouthe, and all the foules were fylled
with theyr flesshe.

¶ The dragon is bounde for a thousande yeres
The deed aryse, and receyue iudgement.

CAPI. XX.

AND I sawe an aungel come downe frō
heuen, hauynge the keye of the botom-lesse pytte, and a greate chayne in his hande. And he toke the dragon that olde serpent which is the deuyl and Satanas, and he bounde him a thousande yeres, and caste hym in to ꝓ botomlesse pyt, and he bound him, and set a seale on hym, that he sholde disceyue the people no more, tyll the thousande yeres were fulfylled. And after that he muste be loosed for a lytell season.

And I saw seates and they sate vpon them,
and iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe the soules of them that were beheeded for the wytnes of Jesu, and for the worde of God, which had not worshipped the beest, neither his ymage, neyther had taken his marke vpon theyr foreheedes, or on theyr handes, and they lyued and reygned with Christe a thousande yeres: but the other of the deed men ly-ued not agayne, tyll the thousand yeres were fulfylled. This is that fyrst resurrection. Blessed and holy is he that hath parte in the fyrst resurrection. For on suche shall the second deth haue no power, for they shall be the preestes of God and of Christ, and shall raygne with him a thousande yeres.

And when the thousande yeres are expyred, Sathan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to disceyue the people, which are in the four quarters of the erth, Gog and Ma-gog, to gather them togyther to battayle, whose

whose noumbre is as the sande of the see: and they went vp in the playne of the earthe: and compased the tentes of the sayntes about, & the beloued cytie. And fyre came downe from God, out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuyll that deceyued them, was cast into a lake of fyre and brymstone, where the beast and the false Prophete were, and shalbe tormented daye and nyght for euermore.

And I sawe a great whyte seate, and hym that sate on it, from whose face fled awaye bothe the earthe and heauen, and their place was no more founde. And I sawe the deed, both great and small stonde before God: And the bokes were opened. And an other booke was opened, which is the boke of lyfe, and ꝓ deed were iuged of those thinges which were wrytten in the bookes accordinge to their de-des: and the see gaue vp her deed, which were in her, and deathe and hell delyuered vp the deed, whiche were in theym: and they were iudged euery man accordynge to his dedes.
And deathe and hell were cast into the lake of fyre. This is the seconde deathe. And who so euer was not founde wrytten in the boke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

¶ In this Chapter is discrybed the newe and spirituall Jerusalem.

CAPI. XXI.

AND I sawe a newe heauen, and a newe earthe. For the firste heauen, and the first earthe were vanyshed awaye, and there was no more see. * And I John sawe that holy cytie newe Jerusalem come downe
from God out of heauen prepared as a bryde garnyshed for her husbande. And I herde a great voyce out of heauen, sayenge: beholde
the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them. And they shall be his people, and God him selfe shalbe with them and be their God. * And God shall wype awaye all teares from their eyes. And there shalbe no more death, neyther sorowe, neither crynge, neyther shall there be any more payne, for the olde thinges, are gone. And he that sate vpon the seate, sayde. * Beholde I make all thinges newe. & And he sayde vnto me: wryte, for these wordes are faithful and true.

And he sayde vnto me: it is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the beggynnynge and ende.
I will geue to him that is a thirst of the well of the water of lyfe, freely. He that ouercommeth, shall inherite all thinges, and I will be his God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearefull and vnbeleuinge, and the abhominable, and murtherers, and horemongers, & sorcerers, and idolaters, and all lyars shall haue their parte in the lake whiche burneth with fyre and brymstone, which is the second death.

And there came vnto me one of the. vij. Angels whiche hadde the. vij. vyals full of the.
vij. last plages: and talked with me, sayeng:
come hyther, I will shewe the the bryde, the lambes wyfe. And he carved me away in the spirite to a great and hyghe mountayne, and he shewed me the great cytie, holy Jerusalem descendynge oute of heauen from God, ha-uyng the brightnes of God. And her shyning was lyke vnto a stone moste precious, euen a Jaspar cleare as Cristall: and hadde walles great and hyghe, and had. xij. gates, and at the gates. xij. Aungels: and names written, which are the. xij. trybes of Israel: on ꝓ east
parte. iij. gates: and on the Northsyde. iij.
gates and towardes the South. iij. gates, &
from the west. iij. gates: and the wall of ꝓ cytie had. xij. foundacions, and in theym the names of the lambes. xij. Apostles.

And he that talked with me, had a golden rede to measure the cytie with, and the gates therof and the wall. And the citie was buylt
iij. square and the length was as large as ꝓ bredth of it, and he measured the cytie with the rede. xij. M. furlonges: and the lenght &
the bredth, and the heygth of it, were equal.
And he measured the wall therof, an. cxliiij.
cubytes: the measure that the aungell hadde was after the measure that man vseth. And the buyldinge of the wall of it was of Jas-par. And the cytie was pure golde lyke vnto cleare glasse, and the foundacions of the wal of the cytie were garnyshed with all maner of precious stones. The first foundation was Jaspar, the seconde Saphyre, the third a Cal cedony, the fourth an Emeralde: the fyft Sar donix: the sixte Sardeos: the. vij. Crysolyte:
the eyght Berall: the. ix. a Topas: the. x. a Erysoprasos: the. xi. a Jacynete: the. xij. an Amatist.

The. xij. gates, were. xij. pearles, euery gate was of one pearle, and the strete of the cytie was pure golde, as thorowe shyninge glasse. And there was no temple therin. For the Lorde God almyghtye and the lambe are the temple of it. * And the cytie hath no nede
of the sonne neyther of the mone to lyghten
it. For the bryghtnes of God dyd lyght it: & the lambe was the lyght of it. And the people which are saued shal walke in the lyght of it:
and the kynges of the earth shall bryng their glorye vnto it. * And the gates of it are not shut by day. For there shalbe no nyght there.
And there shall entre into it none vnclene
thynge: neyther what so euer worketh abho-mination or maketh lyes: but they only whiche are wrytten in the lambes boke of lyfe.

¶ The ryuer of the water of lyfe, the fruitefulnes and lyght of the cytye of God. The Lorde gyueth e-uer his seruauntes warnynge of thynges to come, the angell will not be worshypped. To the worde of God maye nothyng be added nor taken therefrom.

CAPI. XXII.

AND he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe clere as Cristall: proceedyng out of the seate of God & of the lambe.
In the myddes of the strete of it, and of ey-ther syde of the ryuer was there wode of lyfe:
which bare. xij. maner of frutes: and gaue frute euery moneth: and the leues of the wod serued

serued to heale the people with. And there shalbe no more curse, but the seate of God and the lambe shalbe in it: and his seruaun-
B tes shall serue him. And they shall se his face
*Esaye.lx.d. and his name shalbe in their foreheddes. *
And there shall be no nyght there, and they nede no candell, neyther lyght of the sunne:
for the Lorde gyueth them lyght, & they shall raygne for euermore.

And he sayde vnto me: these sayenges are faithfull and true. And the Lorde God of Sayntes and Prophetes sent his aungell to shewe vnto his seruauntes, the thynges whiche must shortly be fulfylled. Behold I come shortly. *Happy is he y kepeth the sayeng of *Apoca.i.a the prophesy of this boke. I am John which sawe these thinges and herde them. And whe
I had herde and sene, * I fell downe, to wor-
C shyp before the fete of the Aungel which she-
*Apo.xix.a wed me these thinges. And he sayde vnto me, se thou do it not, for I am thy felow seruaut,
and the felow seruaunte of thy brethren the Prophetes and of them whiche kepe the say-enges of this boke. But worshyp God.

And he sayde vnto me: seale not the sayen-ges of the prophesy of this boke. For y tyme is at hande. He that wyll be euyll, let him be euyll styll: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy styll: and he that is righteous, let him be more righteous: and he that is holye, let him be more holy. And behold I come shortely, and my rewarde with me, to gyue euerye Esaye.xli.b man accordinge as his dedes shall be. I am Al and.xli.ii.a pha and Omega, the begynnyng and the ende
the first and the last. Blessed are they that do his commaundementes, that their power may be in the tree of lyfe, and maye entre thorow
the gates into the cyttie. * For without shall *Esa.x
be dogges, and inchaunters, and horemongers Apo.i.b and murtherers, and ydolaters, and who so euer loueth or maketh leasynges.

D I Jesus sent myne aungell, to testifye vnto you these thinges in the congregations. I am the roote and the generacion of Dauid, and the bright morninge starre. And the spyryte &
*Esay the bryde sayde, come. And let him that hea- * Johñ.b reth, saye also, come. * And let him that is a thyrst, come. And let who so euer wil, take of the water of lyfe freely.

I testifye vnto euery man that heareth the *Deut wordes of the prophesy of this boke: * yf any and.xii. man shall adde vnto these thinges, God shall Proue. adde vnto hym the plages that are written in this boke. And yf any man shall mynysshe of the wordes of the boke of this prophesy, God shall take awaye his parte out of the boke of lyfe, and out of the holy cytie, and from the thinges whiche are written in this boke. He whiche testifyeth these thinges sayth:
Be it, I come quyckely, AMEN.
Euen so come Lorde Jesu.
The grace of oure
Lorde Jesu
Christ be with you all.
AMEN.
